§ 1341.401 Classes of persons included as sellers. (a) The term "seller" shall include only the canner, packer or processor, as the case may be, and as defined by this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233.

§ 1341.402 Prohibition against dealing in certain apple products above maximum prices. (a) On and after December 24, 1942, regardless of any contract or other obligation, no seller shall sell or deliver any of the apple products for which maximum prices are established by this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 at a price higher than the maximum price established herein for such apple product.

(b) No person in the course of trade or business shall buy or receive any such apple product from any seller at a price higher than the maximum price established herein for such product; and

(c) No seller or other person shall agree, offer, solicit or attempt to do any of the foregoing.

[NOTE Supplementary Order No. 7 (7 F.R. 2176) provides that the prohibition contained in any price regulation against buying or receiving any commodity or service at a price higher than the maximum price permitted by such regulation shall not apply to any war procurement agency, or government whose defense is vital to the defense of the United States.]

§ 1341.403 Base periods for apple products. (a) The base period for each kind, grade and container size of canned apples, canned applesauce, and canned or bottled apple juice or sweet apple cider, made from whole apples, shall be the first sixty days after the beginning of the 1941 pack of such item.

(b) The base period for each kind, grade and container size of dried apples shall be the month of October, 1941.

§ 1341.404 Computation of base prices. (a) The base price for each kind, grade and container size of any apple product for which a maximum price is established by this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 shall be the total gross dollars charged by the seller for each item during the base period for such item, divided by the number of units sold during the base period.

§ 1341.405 The seller's maximum prices for canned apples and canned applesauce. (a) The seller's maximum price per unit, f. o. b. factory, for each kind, grade and container size of canned apples and canned applesauce packed after the 1941 pack shall be:

(1) The seller's base price for such kind, grade and container size; plus

(2) Eighteen and one-fourth percent of such base price.

§ 1341.405a The seller's maximum price for vinegar stock. The seller's maximum price, f. o. b. factory, for vinegar stock, shall be ten cents per gallon.

§ 1341.406 The seller's maximum prices for canned or bottled apple juice or sweet apple cider, made from whole apples. (a) The seller's maximum price per unit, f. o. b. factory, for each grade of canned or bottled apple juice or sweet apple cider, made from whole apples, in container sizes of less than one gallon, shall be:

(1) The base price per unit for the same grade and container size; plus

(2) Ten per cent of such base price per unit; plus

(3) The amount of six cents per gallon, apportioned to each unit in the same proportion which the contents of such unit bears to one gallon.

(b) The seller's maximum price per unit, f. o. b. factory, for each grade of canned or bottled apple juice or sweet apple cider, made from whole apples, in container sizes of one gallon or more, shall be:

(1) The base price per unit for the same grade and container size; plus

(2) Eight per cent of such base price; plus

(3) The amount of six cents per gallon, apportioned to each unit in the same proportion which the contents of such unit bears to one gallon.

§ 1341.407 Maximum prices established by proportionate relationships. (a) In the event, and only in the event, that the maximum price for any item, except No. 10 container size, of any canned apples, canned applesauce, and canned or bottled apple juice or sweet apple cider, made from whole apples, cannot be determined under the foregoing sections, but the seller has been able to determine his maximum price under the foregoing sections for the dominant item of such product, the maximum prices of the remaining items of such product, except No. 10 container size, shall be those prices which bear the same proportionate relationship to the maximum price for the dominant item of that product as the price for each such item bore to the price of the dominant item of such product in the seller's first price list applying to the 1941 pack.

(b) In computing maximum prices under paragraph (a) of this section, the dominant item of any product shall be the one of which the seller packed the largest quantity in 1941.

(c) In the event, and only in the event, that the maximum price of one or more grades of such items in a No. 10 container size cannot be determined under the foregoing sections, but the seller has been able to determine the maximum price for one or more other grades of the same product in a No. 10 container size, the maximum prices for the grades not so determined shall be established in the manner provided in paragraph (a) of this section, using as the dominant grade the grade for which the price has been determined, or, if the price of more than one grade has been so determined, using as the dominant grade the one of those for which a maximum price has been so determined, of which the seller packed the largest quantity in 1941.

§ 1341.408 The seller's maximum price for dried apples. (a) The seller's maximum price for dried apples, packed in wood boxes containing 25 to 50 pounds, for all states except California, Oregon, Idaho and Washington, shall be as follows:

Grade	Kind	Maximum price in cents per pound
U. S. Grade A	Rings, quarters or slices	21
U. S. Grade B	Rings, quarters or slices	21
U. S. Grade C	Rings, quarters or slices	19½
Cored and peeled, lower than U. S. Grade C.	Rings, quarters or slices	16¼
Chops		7½

(b) The seller's maximum price for dried apples, packed in wood boxes containing 25 to 50 pounds, for the states of California, Oregon, Idaho and Washington, shall be as follows:

Grade	Kind	Maximum price in cents per pound
U. S. Grade A	Rings, quarters or slices	19
U. S. Grade B	Rings, quarters or slices	19
U. S. Grade C	Rings, quarters or slices	17½

(c) Maximum prices for other kinds or grades of dried apples, such as chops and screenings, when no price has been established therefor by the foregoing provisions of this section, and maximum prices for other container sizes, shall be computed as follows:

(1) Compute the base price for U. S. Grade C dried apples and the base price for each other item for which a maximum price is to be computed.

(2) Compute the percentage relationship of the maximum price for U. S. Grade C dried apples, as established by paragraph (a) or (b) of this section, to the base price for U. S. Grade C dried apples.

(3) For each item for which a maximum price is being computed, multiply the base price of that item by the same percentage as computed for U. S. Grade C dried apples pursuant to paragraph (c) (2) of this section.

§ 1341.409 The seller's maximum prices for boiled cider, concentrated cider, filtered concentrated apple juice and depectinized concentrated apple juice. (a) The seller's maximum prices, f. o. b. plant for boiled cider, concentrated cider, filtered concentrated apple juice and depectinized concentrated apple juice, all as defined in this section, shall be as follows:

Product	Baumé test	Maximum price
Boiled cider	32 degrees	90 cents per gallon.
Concentrated cider	32 degrees	$1.00 per gallon.
Filtered concentrated apple juice	32 degrees	$1.07 per gallon.
Depectinized concentrated apple juice	32 degrees	$1.17 per gallon.

(b) To compute maximum prices, f. o. b. plant, for boiled cider, concentrated cider, filtered concentrated apple juice or depectinized concentrated apple juice for Baumé test other than 32 degrees, the seller shall add to the maximum price set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, the sum of five cents per gallon for each degree over 32 degrees and the seller must deduct from the maximum price set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, the sum of five cents per gallon for each degree under 32 degrees. For fractions of degrees over or under 32 degrees, the seller shall add or subtract, as the case may be, the similar fraction of five cents.

(c) When used in this section the term:

(1) "Boiled cider" means the product obtained by boiling pure cider in an open receptacle to the extent that at least six gallons of pure cider are used to obtain one gallon of boiled cider.

(2) "Concentrated cider" means the product obtained by concentrating pure cider by heating under vacuum pressure.

(3) "Filtered concentrated apple juice" means the product obtained by filtering pure apple juice and concentrating the same by heating under vacuum pressure.

(4) "Depectinized concentrated apple juice" means the product obtained by filtering pure apple juice, concentrating it by heating under vacuum pressure and depectinizing it to a sufficient extent to result in a liquid concentrate.

(5) [Revoked by Amendment 3, issued April 7, effective April 13, 1943]

§ 1341.410 Separate maximum prices for apple products in tin and glass containers. Any seller who packed the same item in both glass and tin during the 1941 pack shall compute base prices and maximum prices separately for such item packed in tin and the same item packed in glass.

§ 1341.411 Maximum prices for apple products in new container types and sizes. (a) The maximum price per dozen, f. o. b. factory, for a kind and grade of any of the apple products covered by this regulation packed in any container type or size of which the seller made no sales during the first 60 days after the beginning of the 1941 pack shall be calculated as follows. He shall:

(1) Determine the base container. If the seller sold the same kind and grade of the apple product during the first 60 days following the beginning of the 1941 pack, but only in other container types or sizes, he shall first determine the most similar container type in which he is able to calculate a maximum price for that kind and grade of apple product (even though he no longer sells that container type). From that container type he shall choose the nearest size which is 50% or less larger, or if there is no such size, 50% or less smaller (even though he no longer sells these sizes). This will be the "base container." If there is no such smaller size, he shall go to the next most similar type and proceed in the same manner to find the base container.

NOTE: In most cases "the most similar container type" will be merely the container type which the seller is adding to or replacing, such as tin which he may be replacing with glass. Where there has been only a size change, "the most similar container type" will be the same container type. This is also true in the reverse situation; where there has been a change only in container type, the "nearest size" will be the same size.

(2) Find the base price. The seller shall take as the "base price" his maximum price per dozen, f. o. b. factory, for the kind and grade of apple product when packed in the base container. However, if this maximum price is a price delivered to the purchaser or to any point other than the seller's factory, the seller shall first convert it to a base price f. o. b. factory by subtracting whatever transportation charges were included in it.

(3) Deduct the container cost. Taking his base price, f. o. b. factory, the seller shall then subtract the direct cost of the base container. "Direct cost of the container" means the net cost, at the seller's factory, of the container, caps, label and proportionate part of the outgoing shipping carton, but it does not include costs of filling, closing, labeling or packing.

(4) Adjust for any difference in contents. The figure obtained by this deduction shall then be adjusted, in the case of a size change, by dividing it by the number of ounces or other units in the base container and multiplying the result by the number of the same units in the new container.

(5) Add the new container cost to get the price f. o. b. factory. Next, the seller shall add to the adjusted figure the "direct cost of the container" in the new type and size. If his maximum price for the commodity in the base container is an f. o. b. factory price, the resulting figure is the seller's maximum price, f. o. b. factory.

(6) Convert to a maximum delivered price, if the maximum price for the base container is on a delivered basis. If the seller's maximum price for the apple product in the base container is a delivered price, he shall figure transportation charges to be added, as follows. The seller shall take the transportation charges which he first deducted to get his base price and adjust them in exact proportion to the difference in shipping weight. If for any reason the apple product in the new container will move under a different freight tariff classification, the seller shall figure his transportation charges (by the same means of transportation and to the same destination) on the basis of the new shipping weight, but at the rate in effect for that freight tariff classification during March 1942. Increases in tariff rates or transportation taxes made since March 31, 1942, shall not be taken into account. (Similar principles shall apply where shipping volume is the measure of transportation charge.) The seller shall then add these transportation charges to his f. o. b. factory price for the commodity in the new container. The resulting figure is the seller's maximum delivered price.

(b) If the seller has established prior to January 25, 1943, a maximum price under the provisions of this regulation for a kind, grade, and container size of apple products, of which he made no sales during the first 60 days following the beginning of the 1941 pack, he may retain that maximum price, or, at his option, may establish a maximum price under this section.

[§ 1341.411 as amended by Amendment 1, 8 F.R. 1135]

[NOTE: Supplementary Order No. 31 (7 F.R. 9894) provides that: "Notwithstanding the provisions of any price regulation, the tax on transportation of all property (excepting coal) imposed by section 620 of the Revenue Act of 1942 shall, for purposes of determining the applicable maximum price of any commodity or service, be treated as though it were an increase of 3% in the amount charged by every person engaged in the business of transporting property for hire. It shall not be treated, under any provision of any price regulation or any interpretation thereof, as a tax for which a charge may be made in addition to the maximum price"]

[NOTE: Supplementary Order No. 34 (7 F.R. 10779) permits special packing expenses to be added to maximum prices on sales to procurement agencies of the United States.]

§ 1341.412 Maximum prices of competitor. If the maximum price of the seller for any item for which maximum prices are established by this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 cannot be computed under the foregoing sections of this regulation, the seller's maximum price for such item shall be the maximum price of the most closely competitive seller for the same item.

§ 1341.413 Authorization of maximum prices. If the seller's maximum price cannot be determined under any of the foregoing sections of this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233, the maximum price shall be a price determined by the seller after specific authorization from the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C., on application setting forth (a) a description in detail of the item for which a maximum price is sought; and (b) a statement of the facts which differentiate such item from the most similar item for which he has determined a maximum price, stating such most similar item and the maximum price determined therefor. When such authorization is given, it will be accompanied by instructions as to the method for determining the maximum price. Within ten days after such price has been determined, the seller shall report such maximum price to the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C., under oath or affirmation. The price so reported shall be subject to adjustment at any time by the Office of Price Administration.

§ 1341.414 Maximum prices for a seller who has more than one factory. The maximum price for each item for a seller who owns more than one factory shall be determined separately for each factory, except that if any group of two or more factories had the same f. o. b. factory prices in 1941, the maximum prices shall be determined uniformly for the entire group by using the combined figures for all of the factories in the group in computing the base price and maximum price hereunder, or, if that cannot be determined, by using the maximum price of the most closely competitive seller as the maximum price of the entire group. In applying for the specific authorization of a price, the application may be made for a uniform price for all of the factories in such group.

§ 1341.415 Maximum delivered prices. Any seller who sold and delivered a particular brand of canned apples, canned applesauce, or canned or bottled apple juice or sweet apple cider packed by him during the calendar year 1941 on an established uniform delivered price basis by zone or area, shall add to the maximum price per dozen f. o. b. factory computed under the foregoing sections for each grade and container size of such brand the freight charge he added to his f. o. b. factory price during the calendar year 1941, for such grade and container size of such brand in the same zone or area. The resulting price is the seller's maximum delivered price for such grade and container size of such brand for the zone or area in which the same freight charge was used in 1941.

§ 1341.416 Maintenance of customary discounts and allowances. Each seller shall maintain his customary cash discounts and his quantity discounts to different classes of purchasers.

§ 1341.417 Less than maximum prices. Lower prices than those established by this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 may be charged, demanded, paid or offered.

§ 1341.418 Transfer of business or stock in trade. If the business, assets or stock in trade of a seller are sold or otherwise transferred on or after the effective date of this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 and the transferee carries on the business, the maximum prices of the transferee shall be the same as those to which his transferor would have been subject if no such transfer had taken place and his obligation to keep records sufficient to verify such prices shall be the same. The transferor shall preserve and make available, or turn over to the transferee, all records of transactions prior to the transfer which are necessary to enable the transferee to comply with the record provisions contained in this regulation.

§ 1341.419 Evasion. The price limitations set forth in this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 shall not be evaded, whether by direct or indirect methods, in connection with an offer, solicitation, agreement, sale, delivery, purchase or receipt of or relating to any of the items covered by this regulation, alone or in conjunction with any other commodity or by way of any commission, service, transportation or other charge or discount, premium or other privilege, or by tying-agreement or other trade understanding, or otherwise.

§ 1341.420 Records and reports. (a) Every packer who makes sales of dried apples after the effective date of this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 shall preserve, for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942 remains in effect, all his existing records which were the basis of computing maximum prices by relationship to other kinds, grades and sizes of dried apples and make and preserve for the same period, all records of the same kind as he has customarily kept, relating to the prices which he charged for dried apples sold after the effective date of this regulation.

(b) Every seller who makes sales of canned apples, canned applesauce, or canned or bottled apple juice or sweet apple cider, made from whole apples, and vinegar stock, packed after the 1941 pack, shall (1) preserve for examination by the Office of Price Administration for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942 remains in effect, all his existing records which were the basis for the computation of maximum prices under this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 and (2) preserve for the same period all records of the same kind as he has customarily kept, relating to the prices which he charged for such products sold on and after the effective date of this regulation and (3) file with the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C., within ten days after determining his maximum price for each item, a statement certified under oath or affirmation showing his base price and his maximum price for each item, together with his customary cash discounts and customary quantity discounts to different classes of purchasers and (4) in those cases in which the maximum price of any item was determined by the maximum price of the most closely competitive seller, showing the maximum price of such item and the name and address of the seller whose maximum price was so adopted and (5) in those cases in which a seller made sales and deliveries of a particular brand of any of such products packed by him in 1941 on an established uniform delivered price basis by zone or area, showing his maximum price per dozen f. o. b. factory for each such item, the freight charge which he added to his f. o. b. factory price during the calendar year 1941 for each zone or area and the maximum delivered price for each such item packed after the 1941 pack, delivered in each zone or area, and (6) preserve for the same period a true copy of each such statement for examination by any person during ordinary business hours. Any seller who claims that substantial injury would result to him from making such statement available to any other person, may file such copy of such statement with the appropriate field office of the Office of Price Administration. The information contained in such statement will not be published or disclosed unless it is determined that the withholding of such information is contrary to the purposes of this regulation.

[NOTE: Supplementary Order No. 23, (7 F. R. 8478) provides that on and after October 24, 1942, no report filed with the Office of Price Administration pursuant to any price regulation need be notarized.]

(c) Every seller who makes sales of boiled cider, concentrated cider, filtered concentrated apple juice or depectinized concentrated apple juice after the effective date of this regulation, shall make and preserve for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act, as amended, remains in effect, all records of the same kind as he has customarily kept, relating to the prices charged by him for such products.

§ 1341.421 Information to purchasers from canners. (a) Except as hereinafter provided, any canner selling any canned apples, canned applesauce, or canned or bottled apple juice or sweet apple cider made from whole apples, packed after the 1941 pack, to any wholesaler, retailer, or any other purchaser for resale, shall, before making such sale or on his invoice disclose in writing to such purchaser, for each item, his base price, his maximum price, and the amount of the difference between the base price and the maximum price, which amount shall be designated as the "permitted increase."

(b) Any such canner may disclose such information by stating it on his invoice on the first occasion that he sells any item to such purchaser; or he may prepare and supply to the purchaser one or more lists or statements containing such information, at or before the first sale to such purchaser. Any such statement may contain the required information for any number of items.

(c) When a maximum price has been established pursuant to § 1341.411 for any item for which the container type or size has been changed, the canner shall not report any base price or permitted increase.

(d) For the purposes of this section:

(1) When a maximum price has been established for any item by the use of proportionate relationship, the base price for such item shall bear the same ratio to the maximum price as the base price of the item from which such maximum price was determined bears to the maximum price of such item.

(2) When a canner has established a maximum price by using the maximum price of his competitor for the same item, his base price and permitted increase for that item shall be the same as the base price and permitted increase of his competitor for the same item.

(3) When any canner makes application to determine a maximum price after specific authorization by the Office of Price Administration, such authorization, when given, will be accompanied by instructions as to the method for determining the price to be deemed the base price.

§ 1341.422 Enforcement. Persons violating any provisions of this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233, are subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions and suits for treble damages provided for by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942.

§ 1341.423 Petitions for amendment. Any person seeking an amendment of any provision of this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 may file a petition for amendment in accordance with the provisions of Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1.[1]

[NOTE: Procedural Regulation No. 6 (7 F.R. 5087, 5665) provides for the filing of applications for adjustment of maximum prices for commodities or services under Government contracts or subcontracts. Supplementary Order No. 9 (7 F.R. 5444) makes the provisions of Procedural Regulation No. 6 applicable to all price regulations, with the exception of those on scrap waste, and salvage materials.]

[NOTE: Supplementary Order No. 28 (7 F.R. 9619) provides for the filing of applications for adjustment or petitions for amendment based on a pending wage or salary increase requiring the approval of the National War Labor Board.]

§ 1341.424 Sales for export. The maximum price at which a person may export any of the products covered by this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of the Revised Maximum Export Price Regulation[2] issued by the Office of Price Administration.

§ 1341.425 Applicability of the General Maximum Price Regulation.[3] This Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 supersedes the provisions of the General Maximum Price Regulation with respect to sales or deliveries by sellers subject to this regulation of all products for which maximum prices are established by this regulation.

§ 1341.426 Applicability. The provisions of this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 shall be applicable only in the United States and the District of Columbia

§ 1341.427 Definitions. (a) When used in this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 233 the term:

(5) "Canned" means sealed or enclosed in containers of metal or glass, whether or not hermetically sealed, and also refers to apple juice or sweet apple cider in wood containers.

PART 1347—PAPER, PAPER PRODUCTS AND RAW MATERIALS FOR PAPER AND PAPER PRODUCTS, PRINTING AND PUBLISHING

[MPR 359]

CERTAIN CONVERTED PAPER PRODUCTS

Certain converted paper products, including plates, dishes, spoons and forks and liquid-tight cylindrical containers.

In the judgment of the Price Administrator, it is necessary and proper to establish maximum prices for sales of certain converted paper products by a separate price regulation.

So far as practicable, the Price Administrator has advised and consulted with members of the industry which will be affected by this regulation.

Therefore, under the authority vested in the Price Administrator by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and Executive Order No. 9250, and in accordance with Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1, issued by the Office of Price Administration, Maximum Price Regulation No. 359 is hereby issued.

[MPR 364]

FROZEN FISH AND SEAFOOD

In the judgment of the Price Administrator, it is necessary in order to effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and Executive Order No. 9250, that maximum prices be established for the sale by processors and wholesalers of frozen fish and seafood.

So far as practicable, the Price Administrator has consulted and advised with representative members of the industry which will be affected by the regulation. In the judgment of the Price Administrator, the prices established are generally fair and equitable and will effectuate the purposes of the Act. The prices established are not below the average price of frozen fish and seafood in the year 1941.

A statement of considerations involved in the issuance of the regulation has been issued herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.*

AUTHORITY: § 1364.1151 issued under Pub. Laws 421 and 729, 77th Cong.; E.O. 9250, 7 F.R. 7871.

ARTICLE I—PURPOSE AND SCOPE OF REGULATION

SECTION 1 What this regulation does. This regulation fixes the maximum prices at which processors and wholesalers may sell frozen fish and seafood. On and after April 13, 1943, the date this regulation takes effect, no processor or wholesaler may sell any frozen fish or seafood, and no person in the course of trade or business may buy any frozen fish or seafood from a processor or wholesaler, at prices higher than the prices fixed by this regulation. But prices lower than those fixed may be charged or paid.

SEC. 2 How processors' maximum prices are fixed. Section 14 lists alphabetically the various species of salt water fish and of shellfish and molluska for which maximum prices are fixed by this regulation. The base price per pound, in cents, is listed for each species according to the style of processing, and the size. The listed base prices in section 14 are base prices per pound for frozen fish and seafood as packed in the container size and kind customary for the species and for the industry. Section 13 sets out the amount which may be added to, or which must be subtracted from, the listed base price to fix the maximum price when the frozen fish or seafood is packed in other kinds or sizes of containers. The listed base price, with any adjustment for kind of package, is the maximum price f. o. b. the port of entry. If the processor freezes the product at any other place, his maximum price, f. o. b. the point at which the product is frozen, is: the price listed in section 14 for the species, style of processing and size; plus or minus the differential for special packaging provided in section 13; plus the carload rail freight rate, per pound, for fresh fish from the port of entry to the freezing point.

SEC. 3 How wholesalers' maximum prices are fixed—(a) General instruction. Each wholesaler's maximum price for the kind of frozen fish or seafood listed is found by adding to his "net cost" defined in the following paragraph (b), the mark-up defined in the following paragraph (c) for the class of wholesaler and for the kind of service he performs as specified in the following paragraph (d).

(b) Net cost. The wholesaler's "net cost" is the amount he paid for the particular item of frozen fish or seafood delivered at his customary receiving point, less all discounts allowed him except the discount for prompt payment, and excluding any charge for local trucking and unloading.

(c) Wholesaler's mark-up for different classes of sales. Mark-up is the percentage over net cost set forth hereinafter for each class of wholesaler or the type of sale involved. To obtain the selling price, multiply the net cost by the percentage mark-up figure—the result added to the net cost is the selling price. The mark-up which applies in any particular sale depends on the class in which the wholesaler is and the kind of service performed in the particular sale. The classes, types of service, and mark-ups are set forth in the following paragraph (d).

(d) Classes of sales at wholesale for the purpose of this regulation. Depending upon the type sale to be made, a wholesaler will fall within one of the following classes. After the proper class is determined, the wholesaler will apply the mark-up provided for that class of sale:

(1) Primary wholesalers. Primary wholesalers are wholesalers who buy frozen fish or seafood from processors and distribute it for resale from cold storage warehouses to other wholesalers, to retailer-owned cooperative and chain store warehouses; who do not sell to individual retail stores or purveyors of meals and who do not customarily deliver. In the sale of frozen fish or seafood which has been unloaded, stored and warehoused in the regular course of his business, the primary wholesaler's mark-up is 12%. In the case of sales of goods which have not been stored and warehoused, the primary wholesaler's mark-up is 7%. In the case of sales involving delivery from the processor's cold storage warehouse to the primary wholesaler's customer, there is no mark-up.

(2) Retailer-owned cooperative wholesalers. This class includes wholesalers which are either non-profit organizations or corporations of which 51% or more of the stock is owned by its retailer customers and which generally sell and deliver from a cold storage warehouse to affiliated retail stores. The mark-up for this class of wholesaler is 10% to affiliated retail stores.

(3) Cash and carry wholesalers. This class includes wholesalers who distribute frozen fish and seafood to retail stores and purveyors of meals; who normally do not extend credit; and whose sales are made ex-freezer or platform. The mark-up for this class of wholesaler is 15%.

(4) Service and delivery wholesalers. This class includes wholesalers who distribute frozen fish and seafood to retail stores and purveyors of meals and whose sales are made on a delivered basis to the customer's usual receiving point. The mark-up for this class of wholesaler is 25%.

(5) Broken lots. Sales of broken lots of frozen fish and seafood are permitted except on sales to other wholesalers. "Broken lots" are defined as partial lots of frozen fish and seafood that have been broken or separated from the original content of the immediate container in which the product had been packed by the processor, and which broken lots are sold, made ready for delivery, and shipped out to a customer apart from the remainder of the original content of the immediate container. On sales of broken lots of frozen fish and seafood, a wholesaler will be permitted to add 10% to the normal mark-up as specified under the various classes of wholesalers as outlined in this regulation.

(6) Country trade shipments. Wholesalers who ship to retailers and purveyors of meals to country and outlying points may add to their permitted mark-ups the actual cost of any special shipping cases and the cost of any extra refrigerant used for the shipment. Such wholesalers must denote separately on invoices to customers the actual cost of the cases and the refrigerant.

(e) Imported frozen fish and seafood. The maximum price at which a wholesaler may sell any frozen fish or seafood listed in section 14 shall be the base price listed in section 14 for the species and style of dressing plus or minus the differential for packaging provided for in section 13, plus the actual freight to the wholesaler's warehouse. To this amount may be added the mark-up provided for the class of sale in paragraph (c) of section 3.

SEC. 4 Where the regulation applies. The provisions of this regulation shall apply to the United States, its territories and possessions.

SEC. 5 Sales to which this regulation does not apply. (a) The provisions of this regulation shall not be applicable to sales or deliveries of frozen fish and seafood to a purchaser, if prior to April 13, 1943, such frozen fish and seafood have been received by a carrier, other than a carrier owned or controlled by the seller, for shipment to such purchaser.

(b) The provisions of this regulation shall not apply to any sales at retail. A sale at retail is a sale to an ultimate consumer other than an industrial or commercial user.

SEC. 6 Relation to other regulations. (a) The provisions of this regulation repeal the provisions of the General Maximum Price Regulation [1] with respect to sales and deliveries for which maximum prices are established by this regulation.

(b) The maximum price at which a person may export frozen fish and seafood shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of the Revised Maximum Export Price Regulation [2] issued by the Office of Price Administration.

ARTICLE II—RECORD KEEPING AND ENFORCEMENT

SEC. 7 Records and reports. (a) Every processor making a sale and every person making a purchase of frozen fish or seafood in the course of trade or business or otherwise dealing therein, other than a purchaser at retail, after March 1943, shall keep for inspection by the Office of Price Administration for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, remains in effect, accurate records of each such purchase or sale, showing the date thereof, the name and address of the buyer and of the seller, the price contracted for or received, the quantity, species, grade, style of pack, and the container size of frozen fish or seafood.

(b) Such person shall, subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942, submit such reports to the Office of Price Administration and keep such other records in addition to or in place of the records required in paragraph (a) of this section as the Office of Price Administration may from time to time require.

SEC. 8 Indirect price increases. No person shall evade any of the provisions of this regulation by any scheme or device and no person shall indirectly charge or receive for frozen fish or seafood a price higher than the maximum price permitted by this regulation. No person shall as a condition of selling any frozen fish or seafood require a purchaser to buy any other frozen fish or seafood or any other product.

SEC. 9 Enforcement. On and after April 13, 1943, any person violating any provision of this regulation is subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, suits for treble damages and proceedings for revocation of licenses provided by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

ARTICLE III—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 10 Petitions for amendment. Any person seeking an amendment of any provision of this regulation may file a petition for amendment in accordance with the provisions of Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1 issued by the Office of Price Administration.

SEC. 11 Adjustable pricing. Any person may offer or agree to adjust or fix prices to or at prices not in excess of the maximum prices in effect at the time of delivery. In an appropriate situation, where a petition for amendment or for adjustment or exception requires extended consideration, the Price Administrator may, upon application, grant permission to agree to adjust prices upon deliveries made during the pendency of the petition in accordance with the disposition of the petition.

Chapter IX—War Production Board

Subchapter B—Executive Vice Chairman

AUTHORITY: Regulations in this subchapter issued under P.D. Reg. 1, as amended, 6 F.R. 6680; W.P.B. Reg. 1, 7 F.R. 561; E.O. 9024, 7 F.R. 329; E.O. 9040, 7 F.R. 527; E.O. 9125, 7 F.R. 2719; sec. 2 (a), Pub. Law 671, 76th Cong., as amended by Pub. Laws 89 and 507, 77th Cong.

PART 1010—SUSPENSION ORDERS

[Suspension Order No. S–273]

CONSOLIDATED METALS, INC.

Consolidated Metals, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio, is engaged in the business of melting, processing, and selling non-ferrous metals. From January 7 through September 1, 1942, the Company melted approximately 65,000 pounds of aluminum scrap without authority from the War Production Board in violation of Supplementary Order M–1–d and delivered approximately 55,000 pounds of secondary aluminum without authority from the War Production Board, also in violation of the aluminum orders.

During this same period the Company remelted zinc scrap and shipped approximately 36,000 pounds of remelt zinc to persons who did not present allocation certificates issued by the War Production Board. This constituted a violation of General Preference Order M–11.

Subsequent to April 1, 1942, the Company manufactured and sold approximately 28,200 pounds of automobile body solder, containing both tin and lead. The use of these metals in the manufacture of automobile body solder constituted violations of Conservation Orders M–38–c and M–43–a.

These violations of War Production Board orders were caused by the Company's inexcusable failure to acquaint itself with the requirements of the orders governing the distribution and use of these critical materials and have made it appropriate that the Company's use of critical materials be restricted. In view of the foregoing, It is hereby ordered, That:

§ 1010.273 Suspension Order No. S–273. (a) Consolidated Metals, Inc., its successor and assigns, shall not melt, process, or in any other way use aluminum, copper, tin, lead, zinc, including scrap, or any alloy containing any of these metals, except as specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

PART 1016—SHEET STEEL

[General Preference Order M-45 as Amended April 8, 1943]

Whereas, it is found that demands for steel drums for the shipment of gasoline, oil, and other products overseas, are recurringly creating temporary and local shortages of such drums and of the sheet steel necessary for the manufacture of such drums; and

Whereas, it is further found that the best interests of the national defense require the reservation of a stock of sheet steel to be immediately available for the manufacture of steel drums required for such shipment; Now, therefore, it is hereby ordered:

§ 1016.1 General Preference Order M–45.—(a) Definitions. For the purposes of this order:

(1) A "steel drum" means a drum made of hot rolled or cold rolled sheet steel of any gauge.

(2) "Producer" means any fabricator of steel drums.

(b) Reservation of sheet steel for specific allocation. The War Production Board will, from time to time, by specific order to each producer, direct the reservation of a designated quantity of hot rolled and cold rolled sheet steel of any gauge in the producer's possession or ownership. Thereafter the War Production Board will, from time to time, specifically authorize the sale, delivery, or processing of quantities of sheet steel so reserved. Except pursuant to such an authorization, no producers shall sell, deliver or process any such reserved sheet steel.

(c) Records. Each producer shall keep and preserve for a period of not less than two years, accurate and complete records concerning inventories and stocks on hand of and deliveries to such producer, and by such producer, of hot rolled and cold rolled sheet steel of all gauges, and steel drums.

(d) False statements and penalties. Any person who willfully violates any of the terms and provisions of this order, or willfully falsifies records required to be kept or information to be furnished pursuant to this order, or who obtains a delivery of material by means of a material and willful misstatement may be prohibited from obtaining further deliveries of material under allocation and be deprived of any other priorities assistance. The War Production Board may also take any other action deemed appropriate, including the making of a recommendation for prosecution under section 35 (A) of the Criminal Code (18 U.S.C. 80).

Issued this 8th day of April 1943.

PART 1123—SHELLAC

[Allocation Order M-106 as Amended April 8, 1943]

§ 1123.1 Allocation Order M–106.—(a) Definitions. For the purposes of this order:

(1) "Shellac" means lac of all grades, including seedlac, produced from the secretion of Laccifer Lacca Kerr (Tachardia Lacca), including dry, bleached, cut or otherwise processed lac. The term "shellac" shall include lac processed no further than bleaching with chlorine or cutting with alcohol or other solvents, but shall not include lac after it has been mixed with a substantial quantity of other materials, or after it has been incorporated into molding compounds, or after it has been made an integral part of some article, such as electrical equipment or parts.

Certain stocks of shellac are exempted by the provisions of paragraph (c).

(2) "Allocation month" means the calendar month during which the use, processing, delivery or acceptance of delivery of a particular quantity of shellac is specifically authorized.

(3) "Person" means any individual, partnership, association, business trust, corporation, governmental corporation or agency or any organized group of persons whether incorporated or not, including but not limited to consumers and suppliers as hereinafter defined.

(4) "Consumer" means, for the purpose of paragraph (e), any person who so uses shellac as defined above that it ceases to be shellac as so defined; for example, any person who incorporates shellac into a molding compound, or who applies cut shellac to a surface as a protective coating, is a consumer, but a person who merely cuts or bleaches shellac, or who uses a molding compound containing shellac, is not a consumer.

(5) "Supplier" means, for the purpose of paragraphs (d) (5) and (e), any person, including any importer, engaged in the business of selling shellac to other persons.

(6) "Inventory" of a person includes all shellac to or in which such person has any title or equity of redemption, as well as the inventory as so defined of affiliates and subsidiaries of such person, but excluding shellac ordered for future delivery for which payment has not been made.

(b) Restrictions on use, processing and delivery. (1) No person shall use, process, deliver or accept delivery of shellac except as specifically authorized by the War Production Board upon application pursuant to paragraph (e).

(2) Each person authorized to accept delivery of shellac shall use such material only for the purpose authorized except as otherwise specifically directed by the War Production Board.

(3) Shellac allocated for inventory shall be reserved intact and shall not be used, processed or delivered except as further specifically directed by the War Production Board. Likewise, shellac which is not used for the purpose for which it was allocated shall revert to inventory as though allocated for inventory.

(4) Authorizations for a particular allocation month shall not terminate at the end of such month, except with respect to delivery to and acceptance of delivery by any consumer who

(i) Requires the supplier to postpone any authorized delivery beyond ten days after the close of the allocation month; or

(ii) Fails to place an order with the supplier for the authorized shellac before the end of the allocation month.

(5) In addition to regular allocations of shellac by the War Production Board for each allocation month, the War Production Board at its discretion, notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (c) or (d) hereof, may issue special directions to any person with respect to use, processing, delivery or acceptance of delivery of shellac by such person.

(c) Existing stocks exemptions. (1) The provisions of paragraph (b) (1) shall not apply to cut or bleached shellac (including seedlac) in the possession of a person other than a bleacher or importer on February 25, 1943.

(2) Cut or bleached shellac in the hands of a bleacher or importer on February 25, 1943, shall be subject to the provisions of paragraph (b) (1), except:

(i) Shellac cut or bleached prior to July 31, 1942; or

(ii) Seedlac cut or bleached prior to February 25, 1943: Provided, however, That the exemption provided in this paragraph (c) (2) (ii) shall not alter or modify special directions of the Director General for Operations issued to any bleacher or importer prior to February 25, 1943, with respect to any particular seedlac.

(d) General exceptions. The provisions of paragraph (b) (1) shall not apply to:

(1) The use or processing for testing purposes by any person in any one calendar month of not more than 20 lbs. of shellac; or the delivery of samples of shellac of not more than 20 lbs. each by any person to any other person and the use of such samples of shellac by the deliveree for testing purposes, provided that no person during any one calendar month shall accept delivery of more than 20 lbs. of shellac for testing purposes, or deliver more than 50 lbs. of shellac for testing purposes.

(2) Delivery of shellac by (but not to), and the use or processing of shellac by, the United States Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Maritime Commission or War Shipping Administration.

(3) Delivery of shellac by any person to Defense Supplies Corporation, Commodity Credit Corporation, or any other Government agency which may from time to time be specified by the Director General for Operations.

(4) The importation of shellac into the United States or its territories and possessions, the acceptance of delivery of such shellac by the consignee thereof and the delivery by such consignee to any person who purchased or contracted to purchase such shellac prior to its importation; provided, that nothing contained in this paragraph (d) (4) shall alter the requirements of General Imports Order M–63, as now or hereafter amended.

(5) Delivery of shellac by any person to a supplier; provided, however, that no supplier shall deliver shellac to another supplier pursuant to this paragraph (d) (5), unless the aggregate amount of shellac held in inventory by the supplier making delivery is less than ten thousand (10,000) pounds immediately prior to the delivery.

(e) Applications. (1) Each consumer as defined in paragraph (a) (4) above seeking authorization to use, process or accept delivery of shellac shall file application for such authorization on or before the 15th day of the month preceding the requested allocation month, on Form PD–617 (revised), in the manner prescribed therein. Such consumer shall state, among other things, the technical reasons necessitating the use of shellac instead of other materials, the grade of shellac requested, alternate acceptable grades, or technical reasons why alternate grades cannot be used, and whether he proposes to process the shellac requested himself or how he wishes to have it processed before delivery to him. He shall forward five certified copies of his application to his supplier if seeking authorization for delivery as well as use; if seeking authorization for use of shellac from his own inventory only, he shall forward three certified copies of his application to the War Production Board, Chemicals Division, Washington, D. C., Ref: M–106.

(2) Each supplier receiving a set of PD–617 forms from a consumer shall, if he wishes to acquire a like amount of shellac from another supplier, execute Part II of the PD–617 set of forms and shall forward all these forms to the second supplier. The second supplier may repeat this process by executing Part III of the set of PD–617 forms and forwarding them to a third supplier. The third supplier and any subsequent suppliers to whom the set of PD–617 forms are forwarded, shall add similar additional parts in the same form and at the same time add one copy of all parts of the complete set before forwarding the set to another supplier.

(3) Each supplier receiving a set of PD–617 forms from a consumer or from another supplier and not needing to apply for delivery of shellac from another supplier, shall forward such forms, without making any entry therein or adding any additional copies, to the War Production Board, Chemicals Division, Washington, D. C., Ref: M–106.

(4) Each supplier seeking authorization to process shellac in inventory in anticipation of future orders shall apply for authorization on Form PD–617 in the manner prescribed therein on or before the 15th day of the month preceding the requested allocation month. Three certified copies of such PD–617 application shall be forwarded to the War Production Board, Chemicals Division, Washington, D. C. Ref: M–106.

(5) Each supplier seeking authorization to accept delivery of shellac for inventory shall apply for authorization on Form PD–617, in the manner prescribed therein, specifying as end use "to hold intact pending further authori-any stainless steel to make such item, or Maritime orders shall not apply to any or the War Shipping Administration apzation". He shall forward four certified copies of his application to the supplier from whom he seeks delivery, and such supplier shall complete Part II and forward such forms to the War Production Board, Chemicals Division, Washington, D. C., Ref: M–106.

(f) Reports. (1) On or before March 15, 1943, and on or before the 15th day of each calendar month thereafter, each person who on the first day of the previous calendar month had 5,000 pounds or more of shellac shall file with the War Production Board, Chemicals Division, Washington, D. C., Ref: M–106, an inventory report on Form PD–334 (revised) in the manner prescribed therein. Each person having a lesser quantity of shellac who shall receive a set of PD–334 forms from the War Production Board shall so certify in such forms as indicated and shall return such forms to the War Production Board.

(2) Each person who shall accept delivery of shellac pursuant to paragraph (d) (5) shall, within twenty-four hours after acceptance of such delivery, report by letter addressed to the War Production Board, Chemicals Division, Washington, D. C., Ref.: M–106, the amount and grade of shellac delivered and the names of the persons making and accepting such delivery.

(3) Each person affected by this order shall file such other reports as may from time to time be required by the War Production Board.

(g) Notification of customers. Each supplier shall notify his regular customers as soon as possible of the requirements of this order as amended, but failure to receive such notice shall not excuse any person from complying with the terms hereof.

(h) Miscellaneous provisions—(1) Applicability of regulations. This order and all transactions affected hereby are subject to all applicable provisions of War Production Board Regulations, as amended from time to time, except Priorities Regulation No. 13, which shall be subject to this order to the extent it is inconsistent herewith.

(2) Records. Each person who shall use or participate in any transaction with respect to shellac shall keep and preserve for a period of not less than two years accurate and complete records of all such transactions and of his use and inventory of shellac.

(3) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order, or who, in connection with this order, wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, material under priority control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(4) Communications. All reports required to be filed hereunder, and all communications concerning this order, shall, unless otherwise directed, be addressed to: War Production Board, Chemicals Division, Washington, D. C., Ref.: M–106.

Issued this 8th day of April 1943.

PART 1176—IRON AND STEEL CONSERVATION

[Conservation Order M–126 as Amended April 8, 1943]

The fulfillment of requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply of iron and steel for defense, for private account and for export; and the following order is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense:

§ 1176.1 General Conservation Order M–126—(a) Definitions. For the purpose of this order:

(1) "Governing date", with respect to any item on List A or List S, or part thereof, means the date set forth opposite such item.

(2) "Army - Navy - Maritime order" means an order for material to be purchased (or physically incorporated into material to be purchased) by or for the account of the Army or Navy of the United States, the United States Maritime Commission, or the War Shipping Administration, where with respect to any item on List A, or part thereof, the use of iron or steel, or with respect to any item on List S, or part thereof, the use of stainless steel, is required by the specifications (including performance specifications) of the Army or Navy of the United States, the United States Maritime Commission, or the War Shipping Administration, applicable to the contract, subcontract or purchase order.

(3) The terms "iron" and "steel" shall not be deemed to include "tin plate" and "terne plate" as defined by Supplementary Order M–21–e, as amended, nor to include screws, nails, rivets, bolts, wire, strapping or small hardware for joining or other similar essential purposes.

(4) The term "stainless steel" means corrosion or heat resistant alloy iron or alloy steel containing 10 per cent or more of chromium with or without nickel and/or other alloying elements.

(5) "Process" means cut, draw, machine, stamp, melt, cast, forge, roll, turn, spin or otherwise shape.

(6) "Put into process" means the first change by a manufacturer in the form of material from that form in which it is received by him.

(7) The term "assemble" shall not be deemed to include the putting together of an article after delivery to a sales outlet or consumer in knockdown form pursuant to an established custom. The term "assemble" shall also not be deemed to include adding finished parts to an otherwise finished article when the placing of one or more finished parts or the size or type of one or more finished parts is determined by the use to which the ultimate consumer is to put the article.

(8) The term "Bessemer processed steel" means steel made by a process in which air is blown through molten cast iron contained in a converter.

(9) The term "top cut" means that portion of a steel ingot rejected because it is not of sufficiently high quality for use on the order for which the ingot was melted, but which is normally used for some other purpose.

(b) Restrictions with respect to List A products. Except as provided in paragraph (d):

(1) Raw material deliveries. From and after the applicable governing date of any item on List A, no person shall deliver or accept delivery of any iron or steel which he knows or has reason to know will be used to make such item, or any part thereof.

(2) Fabrication—(i) Limitation. During the 30 days next following the applicable governing date of any item on List A, no person shall put into process any iron or steel in the making of any such item or part, unless processing thereof will be completed within such 30 day period.

(ii) Prohibition. From and after the date 30 days after the applicable governing date of any item on List A, no person shall process any iron or steel to make such item, or any part thereof.

(3) Assembly. From and after the date 60 days after the applicable governing date of any item on List A, no person shall assemble such item, or any part thereof, containing any iron or steel.

(4) List A products without governing dates. With respect to any item on List A without a governing date, (i) no person shall deliver or accept delivery of any iron or steel which he knows or has reason to know will be used to make such item, or any part thereof, (ii) no person shall put into process or process any iron or steel to make such item, or any part thereof, and (iii) no person shall assemble such item, or any part thereof, containing any iron or steel.

(5) Finished item deliveries. No person shall deliver or accept delivery of any item on List A, or part thereof, which he knows or has reason to know was fabricated, assembled or delivered in violation of any applicable provision of this order as amended from time to time.

(c) Restrictions with respect to List S products. Except as provided in paragraph (d):

(1) Raw material deliveries. From and after the applicable governing date of any item on List S, no person shall deliver or accept delivery of any stainless steel which he knows or has reason to know will be used to make such item, or any part thereof.

(2) Fabrication—(i) Limitation. During the 30 days next following the applicable governing date of any item on List S, no person shall put into process any stainless steel in the making of any such item or part, unless processing thereof will be completed within such 30 day period.

(ii) Prohibition. From and after the date 30 days after the applicable governing date of any item on List S, no person shall process any stainless steel to make such item, or any part thereof.

(3) Assembly. From and after the date 45 days after the applicable governing date of any item on List S, no person shall assemble such item, or any part thereof, containing any stainless steel.

(4) Finished item deliveries. No person shall deliver or accept delivery of any item on List S or part thereof, which he knows or has reason to know was fabricated, assembled, or delivered in violation of any applicable provision of this order as amended from time to time.

(d) Exemption for Army-Navy-Maritime orders. (1) The provisions of paragraph (b) with respect to items on List A with governing dates shall not apply to Army-Navy-Maritime orders for such items, or any parts thereof, for a period of 60 days after the applicable governing date. From and after the expiration of the applicable exemption period, no person shall deliver, accept delivery of, put into process, process or assemble any iron or steel for the making of any item on List A, or part thereof, unless such item or part is on List C. The provisions of paragraph (b) shall not apply to Army-Navy-Maritime orders for any item on List C, or part thereof, except that stainless steel shall not be used to make such item and parts, unless permitted by paragraph (d) (3).

(2) The provisions of paragraph (c) shall not apply to Army-Navy-Maritime orders for any item on List S, or part thereof, for a period of 60 days after its governing date. Except as provided in paragraph (d) (4), from and after the expiration of the applicable exemption period, no person shall deliver, accept delivery of, put into process, process or assemble any stainless steel for the making of any item on List S, or part thereof, unless such item or part is on List C.

(3) Except as otherwise specified on List C as to any item, or part thereof, stainless steel may be used to make any item on List C, or part thereof, for Army-Navy-Maritime orders until January 5, 1943. Except as provided in paragraph (d) (4), on and after January 5, 1943, no person shall use any stainless steel to make any item on List C, or part thereof, unless, and then only to the extent that, the use of stainless steel is expressly permitted for such item.

(4) The provisions of this order prohibiting the delivery, processing or assembling of stainless steel or a type of stainless steel for the making of any item, or part thereof, for Army-Navy-Maritime orders shall not apply to any order which has been approved on form PD–391 for melting during the fourth quarter of 1942 or for delivery during such quarter; or to any order which can not be filled by the manufacturer because of his inability to secure permitted materials, except that this exemption shall be only for the minimum period of time necessary to obtain such permitted materials and in no event later than April 30, 1943.

(e) Restrictions with respect to other products—(1) Roofing and siding. No person shall manufacture any iron or steel into roofing and siding except from Bessemer processed steel and only:

(i) For delivery to or for the account of the Army or Navy of the United States, the United States Maritime Commission, The War Shipping Administration, the Panama Canal, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Coast Guard, the Civil Aeronautics Authority, the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, the Office of Scientific Research and Development; or

(ii) For delivery on a preference rating of AA–5 or higher assigned by a PD–3A preference rating certificate or by a preference rating order in the P–19 series; or

(iii) For defense housing, to the extent specified in the Defense Housing Critical List; or

(iv) For the manufacture, maintenance and repair of railroad freight cars, street cars, or busses; or

(v) For deliveries on preference ratings assigned by the Board of Economic Warfare or for deliveries on Lend-Lease orders; or

(vi) For delivery to an ultimate purchaser for maintenance and repair purposes regardless of rating. With respect to this paragraph (e) (1) (vi), no person shall manufacture in the calendar year 1943, or any subsequent calendar year, more than 133⅓ percent of the roofing and siding made by him from iron or steel for maintenance and repair purposes during the calendar year 1942.

Any person manufacturing or selling any such roofing or siding may rely on the certificate of his customer that such roofing or siding will only be sold or used as permitted by this paragraph (e) (1).

(2) Other products. No person shall use any iron or steel to make any article not prohibited on List A, or any part thereof, where and to the extent that the use of other material (excluding material on List D) is practicable. Alloy steel shall not be used when the use of carbon steel is practicable, and no more iron or steel shall be used in connection with the manufacture of any such article than is essential. The provisions of this paragraph (e) (2) shall not apply in the case of articles or parts to be purchased by or for the account of the Army or Navy of the United States, the United States Maritime Commission or the War Shipping Administration or to be physically incorporated into products to be so purchased to the extent that the use of iron or steel is required by the specifications (including performance specifications) of the Army or Navy of the United States, the United States Maritime Commission or the War Shipping Administration applicable to the contract, subcontract or purchase order.

(f) Restrictions with respect to other scarce materials. No person whose use of iron or steel is restricted by paragraphs (b), (d) or (e) shall use as a substitute therefor any material on List D.

(g) Disposition of frozen and excessive inventories. The disposition of frozen and excessive inventories containing iron or steel shall be subject to the applicable provisions of Priorities Regulation No. 13 (§ 944.34).

(h) Miscellaneous provisions—(1) Applicability of priorities regulations. This order and all transactions affected thereby are subject to all applicable provisions of the Priorities Regulations of the War Production Board, as amended from time to time.

(2) Appeal. Any appeal from the provisions of this order must be made on Form PD–500 and must be filed with the field office of the War Production Board for the district in which is located the plant to which the appeal relates.

(3) Applicability of order. The prohibitions and restrictions contained in this order shall apply whether the items are ordered or manufactured pursuant to a contract made prior to, on, or subsequent to May 5, 1942, or pursuant to a contract supported by a preference rating. Insofar as any other order of the War Production Board may have the effect of limiting or curtailing to a greater extent than herein provided the use of any material in the production of any item, the limitations of such order shall be observed.

(4) Intra-company deliveries. The restrictions of this order with respect to deliveries prohibit or restrict deliveries not only to other persons, including affiliates or subsidiaries, but also from one branch, division, or section of a single enterprise to another branch, division or section of the same or any other enterprise under common ownership or control.

(5) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order, or who, in connection with this order, wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, material under priority control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(6) Installation. The restrictions of this order with respect to putting into process, processing, and assembling shall not apply to the installation of an item or part for the ultimate consumer on his premises when any putting into process, processing or assembling of such item or part is incidental to such installation and is done on such premises.

(7) Repair. The restrictions of this order (other than those contained in paragraph (e) (2)) shall not apply to a person repairing a used article on or off the premises of the owner, if the person making the repair does not use iron or communications concerning this order, shall, unless otherwise directed, be ad- | size or type of one or more finished parts | List S, no person shall put into process | item, or part thereof, for Army-Navy- | the United States Maritime Commission | making the repair does not use iron or steel weighing in the aggregate more than 25 pounds and if any putting into process, processing or assembling done by such person is for the purpose of making the specific repair. The limitations in this paragraph (h) (7) on repairing a used article shall not apply to any item on List A or List S, or part thereof, to the extent that maintenance and repair of such item is specifically excepted on List A or List S.

(8) Restrictions on manufacturing in certain labor areas. In addition to the other prohibitions and restrictions contained in this order, no person shall put into process, process, or assemble any iron or steel, to make any item on List A, or part thereof, unless such processing or assembling is to take place in a manufacturing establishment located in groups 3 or 4 of the labor market areas as may be from time to time designated by the War Manpower Commission. The provisions of this paragraph (h) (8) shall not apply to Army-Navy-Maritime orders for any item on List C, or part thereof, nor to any of the exceptions set forth opposite any item on List A, unless such exceptions are specifically made subject to the provisions of this paragraph (h) (8).

TITLE 30—MINERAL RESOURCES

Chapter III—Bituminous Coal Division

[Docket No. A-1519]

PART 333—MINIMUM PRICE SCHEDULE, DISTRICT NO. 13

MODIFICATION OF RELIEF ORDER

Memorandum opinion and order modifying order granting relief in the matter of the petition of District Board 13 for the establishment of minimum prices for coal sold for domestic stoker use by certain mines in District No. 13.

This proceeding was instituted upon a petition filed with the Bituminous Coal Division by the Bituminous Coal Producers Board for District No. 13 ("District Board 13"), pursuant to section 4 II (d) of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937. Petitioner requested the establishment of price classifications and minimum prices for coals produced and shipped for domestic stoker use from Mine Index Nos. 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 13, 14, 17, 18 19, 21, 22, 23, 29, 77, 78, and 1306, all located in Subdistrict 1 of District 13.

On March 3, 1943, after hearing, the waiver of the preparation and filing of the Examiner's report by all parties, and the submission of the record to the Director for consideration, an order was issued, 8 F.R. 2773, effective March 18, 1943, providing that the Schedule of Effective Minimum Prices for District No. 13 for all shipments except truck be amended by the addition of the following price exception:

When mines in Subdistrict 1 listed herein specially prepare coals included in Size Group 18, and such coals are sold and applied for stoker use, the prices listed herein for Size Group 18 coals into the respective market areas shall be increased 35 cents per net ton: Provided, Such stoker coals shall have a top size not larger than 1½" and a bottom size with a maximum of ½" and a minimum of ⅛"; and Provided further, The actual size of the stoker coal is specified in all notices, lists, reports or other documents.

Thereafter, on March 17, 1943, District Board 13 filed a petition for modification of the aforesaid order, requesting that the price exception be modified to apply only to coal sold and applied for domestic stoker use and having a top size of 1½" and a bottom size not larger than ½". The district board alleged that there are no producers in District 13 presently producing stoker coal with a bottom size of ⅛"; that in order to comply with the order of the Director, it would be necessary for these producers to install special screens to produce stoker coal within this size limitation and to make certain changes in the loading facilities; and that such installation and changes cannot be made within the time limit set in the order. The petitioner further alleged that there is no benefit to be gained by the removal of fines under ⅛" in coals moving for domestic stoker use, that "some of the free burning coals are better for this use with all the fines left in; other coals with various degrees of coking tendency may be improved by the removal of some part of the fines; it is a matter of individual determination and judgment by producers."

I am mindful of the difficulties existing at the present time in procuring and installing special screening facilities and in making alterations in loading facilities at mines. In view of that difficulty; and in light of petitioner's allegation, which appears to be borne out by the record in this proceeding, that at least some producers in District No. 13 marketing the stoker sizes are not presently equipped to produce a coal with a bottom size of ⅛"; and in recognition of petitioner's contention that relief in this matter is urgent, I am prepared at this time to modify the Order of March 3, 1943, in accordance with petitioner's request.

I do this hesitantly, however. The definition of the special stoker size which petitioner urges and which I am here establishing is little if any different from the definition of the chestnut size groups designated as Size Groups 10 and 11 in the minimum price schedule. Moreover, there is some indication that some producers in District No. 13 consider this special stoker size as falling within the washed screening size group designated as Size Group 18 in the minimum price schedule. The establishment of identical size groups differentiated only by the requirement that the coals in some of the size groups must be "specially prepared" is not in my opinion conducive to a sound minimum price pattern and permits of ready evasion by producers who, because of exigencies of competition or their unwillingness to cooperate in the maintenance of a sound price structure, may be unscrupulous enough to take advantage of such vague limitations in the size group definitions. Moreover, it is not clear whether the term "domestic stoker" is intended as a reference to Price Instructions 9 and 10 of the minimum price schedule, thus requiring the sale of the specially prepared stoker size at the higher minimum price to all consumers other than those referred to in Price Instruction 9.

Because these several matters are unclear, I am only temporarily modifying the order of March 3, 1943, as petitioner requests. I contemplate further modification in the future to define more exactly the special stoker size. Toward this end, the District Board's aid is essential. Accordingly, the present modification of the order of March 3, 1943, in accordance with the District Board's request, is made only on condition that on or before June 30, 1943, petitioner submits a statement setting forth a more exact definition of the special stoker size group, and a clarification of the definitions of Size Groups 10, 11, 18, and 23 as compared with that for the special stoker size group, and of the term "domestic stoker" as read in connection with Price Instructions 9 and 10 of the schedule.

Now, therefore, it is ordered, That, effective immediately, the price exception provided in the order of the Director issued March 3, 1943, § 333.1 (b) (Price instructions and exceptions), 8 F.R. 2773, be and the same hereby is modified to read as follows:

When mines in Subdistrict 1 listed herein specially prepare coals included in Size Group 18, and such coals are sold for domestic stoker use, the prices listed herein for Size Group 18 coals into the respective market areas shall be increased 35 cents per net ton; Provided, however, That such stoker coals have a top size not larger than 1½" and a bottom size not larger than ½"; and Provided further, That the actual size of the domestic stoker coal and the designation "domestic stoker" is specified in all notices, lists, reports or other documents.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction over this proceeding is hereby reserved to the Director to revoke the price exception hereinabove established in the event the Bituminous Coal Producers Board for District No. 13 on or before June 30, 1943, shall not have submitted to the Division a statement in accordance with the opinion rendered above; and for any other purposes he may deem appropriate.

Dated: April 3, 1943.

lic Law 768, 77th Congress, 2d Session, an Act which provides for adjusting royalties for the use of inventions for the benefit of the United States, in aid of the prosecution of the war, and for other purposes, approved October 31, 1942, the following rules and regulations are hereby prescribed.

Section 8.2404 Special investigation and price fixing is amended by adding subparagraph (7-1) to paragraph (b) immediately following subparagraph (7):

(7-1) Adjustment of royalties for use of patents and inventions—(i) Basic statute. The Act of October 31, 1942 (Public Law 768, 77th Congress, 2d Session), makes provisions for adjusting royalties for the use of inventions for the benefit of the United States in aid of the prosecution of the war and for other purposes. The succeeding subdivisions contain a summary of the provisions of the Act as applied to the Navy Department, together with rules and regulations governing the administration thereof.

(ii) Applicability and notice. Whenever an invention, whether patented or unpatented, is manufactured, used, sold, or otherwise disposed of for the United States (for this purpose, the Navy Department) under the conditions set forth in the Act, and the license under which this is done includes provisions for the payment of royalties, the rates or amounts of which are believed to be unreasonable or excessive by the Secretary of the Navy, the latter shall give written notice of such facts to the licensor and the licensee. By definition, the manufacture, use, sale, or other disposition of an invention, whether patented or unpatented, by a contractor, subcontractor, or any person, firm, or corporation for the Government and with the authorization or consent of the Government is construed as manufacture, use, sale, or other disposition for the United States.

(iii) Fixing of rates and order. The Act further provides that within a reasonable time after the effective date of the notice, in no event less than ten days, the Secretary of the Navy by order shall fix and specify such rates or amounts of royalties, if any, as he shall determine are fair and just, taking into account the conditions of wartime production, and shall authorize the payment thereof by the licensee to the licensor on account of such manufacture, use, sale, or other disposition. Either the licensor or the licensee is privileged, if he so requests within ten days from the effective date of the notice, to present within thirty days from the date of his request, in writing or in person, any facts or circumstances which may in his opinion have a bearing upon the rates or amounts of royalties, if any, to be determined, fixed, and specified as aforesaid, and the order fixing such rates and amounts of royalties shall be issued within a reasonable time after such presentation. The written notice shall be mailed to the last known address of the licensor and the licensee and shall be effective upon receipt or five days after the mailing thereof, whichever date is the earlier.

(iv) Prohibition against payment of excessive royalties. The licensee is forbidden after the effective date of the notice to pay to the licensor, or to charge directly or indirectly to the United States, a royalty in excess of that specified in the order. It is provided, That, whenever a reduction in the rates or amounts of royalties is effected by order, the reduction shall inure to the benefit of the Government by way of a corresponding reduction in the contract price to be paid directly or indirectly for such manufacture, use, sale, or other disposition of such inventions, or by way of refund, if already paid to the licensee.

(v) Remedies of licensor. The Act contains certain provisions as to the remedies of the licensor, which, in general, limit him to a claim against the United States in a suit in the Court of Claims, or in certain instances, to a suit brought in a District Court of the United States.

(vi) Settlement of claims. The Secretary of the Navy is authorized, before suit has been instituted against the United States, to enter into an agreement with the owner or licensor of an invention in full settlement and compromise of any claim accruing under the provisions of the Act, and for compensation to be paid such owner or licensor based upon future manufacture, use, sale, or other disposition of said invention.

(vii) Authority of Secretary of Navy to delegate powers and issue regulations under Act. The Secretary of the Navy is authorized in his discretion and under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, to delegate any powers conferred by the Act to such qualified and responsible officers, boards, agents, or persons as he may designate or appoint. He is also authorized to issue such rules and regulations and to require such information as may be necessary and proper to carry out the provisions of the Act. In accordance with such provisions of the Act, the Secretary of the Navy herewith issues delegations of authority, the terms of which are set forth in the succeeding subdivisions. Likewise, he has issued the ensuing regulations which shall govern the administration of the Act.

(viii) Delegation of authority to the Patent Royalty Revision Board. There is hereby established in the Navy Department a Patent Royalty Revision Board, which shall be composed of a Chairman and seven members selected and appointed by the Secretary of the Navy to serve for such terms as the Secretary shall designate. Any three members designated by the Chairman may act in any matter as and for the entire Board. The following powers are hereby conferred upon and delegated to the Patent Royalty Revision Board to be exercised in connection with matters referred to the Board in accordance with the provisions of subdivision (ix) of this subparagraph:

(a) To receive and hear such facts or circumstances as may be presented in writing or in person as specified in subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph.

(b) To fix and specify by the order referred to in subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph fair and just rates or amounts of royalties and to authorize the payment thereof by the licensee to the licensor, subject, however, to the approval of such order by the Secretary of the Navy.

(c) To enter into agreements with the owners or licensors of inventions or with contractors and subcontractors by the terms of which unreasonable or excessive rates or amounts are reduced to reasonable or unexcessive rates or amounts, subject, however, to the approval of such agreements by the Secretary of the Navy. Such agreements may be executed on behalf of the Board by the Chairman, or a member of the Board designated by the Chairman.

(d) To enter into an agreement before suit against the United States has been instituted with the owner or licensor of an invention in full settlement and compromise of any claim against the United States accruing to such owner or licensor by reason of the manufacture, use, sale, or other disposition referred to in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph and for compensation to be paid such owner or licensor based upon future manufacture, use, sale, or other disposition of such invention, subject, however, to the approval of such agreement by the Secretary of the Navy. Such agreements may be executed on behalf of the Board by the Chairman, or by a member designated by the Chairman.

(e) To exercise the powers conferred by section 8 of the Act.

(ix) Factors to be considered. In determining what are fair and just rates and amounts of royalties payable for an invention, such factors as the following should be taken into account:

(a) The conditions of wartime production.

(b) The production and use of the invention prior to any increase due to wartime procurement, including:

(1) Any established royalty rate;

(2) The volume on which royalty was paid;

(3) The yearly aggregate royalty paid; and

(4) The circumstances under which the licensing and the establishment of the royalty rate occurred.

(c) The character of the invention and any patent protection therefor, the value of its contribution to the art in which it is used, and the character and expense of research and development that have been devoted to the invention.

(d) The extent of use and proposed use of the invention by other departments or agencies of the Government and the amounts of royalties involved in the aggregate in such use.

(e) All other considerations which are ordinarily and properly taken into account in determining fair and just royalties or which appear to be appropriate to the particular case.

(x) Counsel. The Patent Section of the Procurement Legal Division shall serve as counsel for the Patent Royalty Revision Board in matters arising under the Act, and its services in this connection shall include the preparation of the written notice referred to in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, and the submission of such notice for signature to the Secretary of the Navy and the reference to the Board for appropriate action of all instances in which such a notice has been issued.

(xi) Assistance of Bureaus. (a) The Chief of each Bureau and the Commandants of the Marine Corps and Coast Guard shall cause such action to be taken in connection with existing and future contracts as may be appropriate in order to ascertain whether unreasonable or excessive royalties are being paid by the Navy Department. Such action shall be taken pursuant to such instructions as may be issued by the Chief of the Bureau or the Commandant concerned: Provided, That nothing in this subdivision shall apply to contracts the royalty provisions of which have been reduced in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

(b) If it is determined, in accordance with subdivision (xi) (a), that excessive rates or amounts of royalties are being paid by the contractors or subcontractors of any Bureau or of the Marine Corps or Coast Guard, the Chief of such Bureau or the Commandant of the Marine Corps or Coast Guard may conduct voluntary negotiations with the owners and licensors of inventions and with contractors and subcontractors for the purpose of reducing all such unreasonable or excessive royalties to reasonable royalties, and may enter into and sign agreements of settlement and compromise embodying the terms of such negotiations, subject, however, to the approval of such agreements by the Secretary of the Navy: And provided, however, That if such negotiations are not successfully concluded within a reasonable time with the approval of the Secretary of the Navy, or in the event that the Chief of the Bureau concerned or the Commandant of the Marine Corps or Coast Guard does not, in his discretion, desire to conduct such negotiations, he shall transmit promptly to the Patent Section of the Procurement Legal Division written reports reciting the facts and circumstances of such instances, together with a statement to the effect that such royalties are believed to be, or on investigation may prove to be, unreasonable or excessive.

(c) The assistance of the cost analysis sections and engineering and technical branches of the several Bureaus and Offices of the Navy Department and the Patent Division of the Office of the Judge Advocate General will be available to the Patent Royalty Revision Board to assist the latter in administering the provisions of the Act.

(xii) Price Adjustment Board. Questions of unreasonable or excessive royalties coming before the Price Adjustment Board shall be referred to the Patent Royalty Revision Board for determination and all findings of the latter Board as to the reasonableness of royalties shall be binding on the Price Adjustment Board.

(xiii) Form of notice. The following form of notice is approved for use subject to such deviations as may be appropriate in any given case:

Bituminous Coal Division.

[Docket Nos. A-1874, A-1885]

STEEL TIPPLE COAL CO. AND O. B. C. COAL CO.

ORDER WITHDRAWING PETITIONS, TERMINATING TEMPORARY RELIEF AND CANCELLING HEARING

In the matter of the petition of Steel Tipple Coal Company for a change in shipping point. In the matter of the petition of O. B. C. Coal Company for a change in loading point.

An original petition, pursuant to section 4 II (d) of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, having been duly filed with this Division in Docket No. A-1874 by Chester Wasson, a code member, owner and operator of Steel Tipple Coal Company, requesting a change in shipping point for the coals produced at the Steel Tipple Mine, Mine Index No. 1222, in District No. 10; and in Docket No. A-1885 by Homer Choate, a code member, owner and operator of O. B. C. Coal Company, requesting a change in loading point for the coals in Size Groups 1-16, inclusive, and 26 and 27 produced at the O. B. C. Coal Company Mine, Mine Index No. 1367, located in District No. 10; and Petitions of intervention having been filed in both of these matters by District Board No. 10 and in Docket No. A-1885 by McLaren Fuel Company, in each of which petitions of intervention it is alleged that the original petitions in these matters should be denied because they will prejudice the parties affected by the order, dated February 17, 1942, in Docket No. A-1079; Homer Choate having filed a reply to the petitions of intervention filed in Docket No. A-1885; and

An order, dated March 23, 1943, having been issued consolidating these matters, granting temporary relief and providing for hearing; and

Motions having been filed by Chester Wasson to withdraw the original petition in Docket No. A-1874 and by Homer Choate to withdraw the original petition and reply to petitions of intervention in Docket No. A-1885, requesting reinstatement of the order, dated February 17, 1942, in Docket No. A-1079 in so far as it concerns his O. B. C. Coal Company Mine, Mine Index No. 1367, and also requesting cancellation of the hearing heretofore scheduled to be held on April 8, 1943, in, among other matters, Docket No. A-1885; and

Good cause having been shown in support of the said motion:

Now therefore it is ordered, That the original petitions in Docket No. A-1874 and Docket No. A-1885 be, and they hereby are, withdrawn.

It is further ordered, That the temporary relief heretofore granted in Docket No. A-1874 and in Docket No. A-1885 be, and it hereby is, terminated.

It is further ordered, That the price classifications and minimum prices, shipping point and originating railroads established for the coals produced for all shipments except truck at the Steel Tipple Mine, Mine Index No. 1222 and at the O. B. C. Coal Company Mine, Mine Index No. 1367, both located in District No. 10, be those established for such coals by the order dated February 17, 1942, in Docket No. A-1079.

It is further ordered, That the consolidated hearing in Dockets No. A-1874 and A-1885 heretofore scheduled to be held on April 8, 1943, be, and it hereby is, cancelled.

Dated: April 6, 1943.

FEDERAL REGISTER

VOLUME 8 NUMBER 71

Washington, Saturday, April 10, 1943

The President

[STABILIZATION OF WAGES, PRICES, AND SALARIES]

By virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and the statutes, and particularly by the First War Powers Act, 1941, and the Act of October 2, 1942, entitled "An Act to Amend the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, to Aid in Preventing Inflation, and for Other Purposes," as President of the United States and Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, and in order to safeguard the stabilization of prices, wages and salaries, affecting the cost of living on the basis of levels existing on September 15, 1942, as authorized and directed by said Act of Congress of October 2, 1942, and Executive Order No. 9250 of October 3, 1942,[1] and to prevent increases in wages, salaries, prices and profits, which, however justifiable if viewed apart from their effect upon the economy, tend to undermine the basis of stabilization, and to provide such regulations with respect to the control of price, wage and salary increases as are necessary to maintain stabilization, it is hereby ordered as follows:

1. In the case of agricultural commodities the Price Administrator and the Administrator of Food Production and Distribution (hereinafter referred to as the Food Administrator) are directed, and in the case of other commodities the Price Administrator is directed to take immediate steps to place ceiling prices on all commodities affecting the cost of living. Each of them is directed to authorize no further increases in ceiling prices except to the minimum extent required by law. Each of them is further directed immediately to use all discretionary powers vested in them by law to prevent further price increases direct or indirect, to prevent profiteering and to reduce prices which are excessively high, unfair or inequitable. Nothing herein, however, shall be construed to prevent the Food Administrator and the Price Administrator, subject to the general policy directives of the Economic Stabilization Director, from making such readjustments in price relationships appropriate for various commodities, or classes, qualities or grades thereof or for seasonal variations or for various marketing areas, or from authorizing such support prices, subsidies or other inducements as may be authorized by law and deemed necessary to maintain or increase production, provided that such action does not increase the cost of living. The power, functions and duties conferred on the Secretary of Agriculture under section 3 of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942 (Public Law 421, 77th Cong.) and under section 3 of the Act of October 2, 1942 (Public Law 729, 77th Cong.) are hereby transferred to, and shall be exercised by the Food Administrator.

2. The National War Labor Board, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and other agencies exercising authority conferred by Executive Order No. 9250 or Executive Order 9299[2] and the regulations issued pursuant thereto over wage or salary increases are directed to authorize no further increase in wages or salaries except such as are clearly necessary to correct substandards of living, provided that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent such agencies from making such wage or salary readjustments as may be deemed appropriate and may not have heretofore been made to compensate, in accordance with the Little Steel Formula as heretofore defined by the National War Labor Board, for the rise in the cost of living between January 1, 1941 and May 1, 1942. Nor shall anything herein be construed to prevent such agencies, subject to the general policies and directives of the Economic Stabilization Director, from authorizing reasonable adjustments of wages and salaries in case of promotions, reclassifications, merit increases, incentive wages or the like, provided that such adjustments do not increase the level of production costs appreciably or furnish the basis either to increase prices or to resist otherwise justifiable reductions in prices.

1. For the purposes of this order a Congested Production Area is an area which, by reason of a large increase in population and activity due to the war, is lacking in adequate services or facilities.

2. There is established a Committee for Congested Production Areas herein referred to as the Committee), consisting of the Director of the Bureau of the Budget, as Chairman, and one member designated by the President from each of the following departments and agencies. Department of War, Department of the Navy, War Production Board, Federal Works Agency, National Housing Agency, and War Manpower Commission. The Chairman and each member or his designated alternate shall have one vote.

3. In order to deal effectively with problems arising out of congestion in Congested Production Areas, it shall be the duty and responsibility of the Committee

(a) To designate those areas which are to be considered Congested Production Areas for the purposes of this order and to modify or terminate such designations as it may deem advisable;

(b) To cooperate with and supplement the efforts of State and local governments with respect to such problems in such areas;

(c) To coordinate the activities of all Federal agencies insofar as they affect problems arising out of congestion in such areas;

(d) To prescribe such policies and action as may be necessary to effectuate such coordination.

4. The Committee shall employ a suitable person as Director to carry out the decisions and policies of the Committee and administer its affairs. The Director may employ such personnel as the Committee may deem necessary.

5. The Director may designate, subject to the approval of the Committee, an Area Director for each Congested Production Area. Such Area Director shall be responsible to the Director and, under the general policies of the Committee, shall be responsible for securing coordination of all Federal agencies which deal with problems arising out of congestion within his area. He shall promptly report to the Director any problems or situations which he is unable to resolve, and the Director shall advise with the Federal agencies concerned to the end that coordination may be secured. The Area Director may recommend to the Director such policies and action as he deems advisable to further the purposes of this order and facilitate the prosecution of the war.

6. Each Area Director, after consultation with local, State, and Federal

Chapter IX—Food Distribution Administration

PART 935—MILK IN THE OMAHA-COUNCIL BLUFFS MARKETING AREA

Order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Omaha-Council Bluffs marketing area.

It is provided in Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress (May 12, 1933), as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (hereinafter referred to as the "act"), that the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States (hereinafter referred to as the "Secretary") shall, subject to the provisions of the act, issue and amend orders regulating such handling of certain agricultural commodities (including milk and its products) as is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, or which directly burdens, obstructs, or affects interstate or foreign commerce in such commodities.

Sec.
935.1 Findings and determinations.
935.2 Order relative to handling.
935.3 Definitions.
935.4 Market administrator.
935.5 Classification of milk.
935.6 Minimum prices.
935.7 Reports of handling.
935.8 Application of provisions.
935.9 Determination of uniform prices to producers.
935.10 Payments for milk.
935.11 Expenses of administration.
935.12 Effective time, suspension, and termination of order.
935.13 Liability of handlers.
935.14 Agents.

AUTHORITY: §§ 935.1 to 935.14, inclusive, issued under 48 Stat. 31, 670, 675; 49 Stat. 750; 50 Stat. 246, 7 U.S.C. 1940 ed. 601 et seq.

§ 935.1 Findings and determinations. (a) Findings. Pursuant to the act and rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR 900.1–900.17; 6 F.R. 6570, 7 F.R. 3350, 8 F.R. 2813), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentatively approved marketing agreement, as amended, and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Omaha-Council Bluffs marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is hereby found that:

(1) The aforesaid order, as amended and as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions of said order, as amended and as hereby amended, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The prices calculated to give milk produced for sale in the Omaha-Council Bluffs marketing area, a purchasing power equivalent to the purchasing power of such milk, as determined pursuant to sections 2 and 8 (e) of the act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supplies of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices set forth in the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in the aforesaid tentatively approved marketing agreement, as amended, upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Determinations. It is hereby determined that handlers of at least 50 percent of the volume of milk covered by this order, as amended, which is marketed within the Omaha-Council Bluffs marketing area refused or failed to sign the tentatively approved marketing agreement, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Omaha-Council Bluffs marketing area; and it is further determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of such handlers to sign said tentatively approved marketing agreement, as amended, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act;

(2) The issuance of this order, as amended, is the only practical means, pursuant to the declared policy of the act, of advancing the interest of producers of milk which is produced for sale in the Omaha-Council Bluffs marketing area; and

(3) The issuance of this order, as amended, is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum on the question of the approval of this order, as amended, and who, during the determined representative period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in said Omaha-Council Bluffs marketing area.

§ 935.2 Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered that, from and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Omaha-Council Bluffs marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of this order, as amended.

§ 935.3 Definitions. The following terms used herein shall have the following meanings:

(1) "Omaha-Council Bluffs marketing area," hereinafter called the "marketing area," means the territory within the corporate limits of the cities of Omaha, Nebraska, and Council Bluffs, Iowa; the territory within Kane, Lake, Garner, and Lewis townships in Pottawattamie County, Iowa; and the territory within East Omaha, Florence, Union, Benson, McHugh, Moorehead, McArdle, Loveland, Ralston, Ashland, and May precincts in Douglas County, Nebraska; and the territory within Gilmore, Highland, and Bellevue townships in Sarpy County, Nebraska.

(2) "Person" means any individual, partnership, corporation, association, or any other business unit.

(3) "Producer" means any person, irrespective of whether any such person is also a handler, who produces milk which is received at the plant of a handler which is approved by the proper health authorities and from which milk is disposed of in the marketing area. This definition shall be deemed to include any person who produces milk which a cooperative association causes to be diverted from the plant of a handler from which milk is disposed of in the marketing area, to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area.

(4) "Handler" means any person who, on his own behalf or on behalf of others, purchases or receives milk from sources other than his own production, all, or a portion of which milk is disposed of as milk in the marketing area, and who, on his own behalf or on behalf of others, engages in such handling of milk as is in the current of interstate commerce or which directly burdens, obstructs, or affects interstate commerce in milk and its products. This definition shall be deemed to include a cooperative association which causes milk to be delivered from a producer to a handler, or causes milk of a producer to be delivered to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area, for the account of such cooperative association and for which such cooperative association collects payment.

(5) "Market administrator" means the agency which is described in § 935.4, for the administration hereof.

(6) "Delivery period" means the current marketing period beginning with the first to, and including, the 15th day of each month, and from the 16th to, and including, the last day of each month.

(7) "Act" means Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress, as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937.

(8) "Secretary" means the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States or any officer or employee of the United States Department of Agriculture who is or who may be authorized to exercise the powers and to perform the duties of the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States.

(9) "Cooperative association" means any cooperative association of producers which the Secretary determines (i) to have its entire activities under the control of its members and (ii) to have and to be exercising full authority in the sale of milk of its members.

(10) "Emergency milk" means milk received by a handler from sources other than producers or other handlers under a temporary permit issued by the proper health authorities.

§ 935.4 Market administrator—(a) Designation. The agency for the administration hereof shall be a market administrator who shall be a person selected by the Secretary. Such person shall be entitled to such compensation as may be determined by, and shall be subject to removal at the discretion of, the Secretary.

(b) Powers. The market administrator shall:

(1) Administer the terms and provisions hereof; and

(2) Report to the Secretary complaints of violation of the provisions hereof.

(c) Duties. The market administrator shall:

(1) Within 45 days following the date upon which he enters upon his duties, execute and deliver to the Secretary a bond, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties, in an amount and with surety thereon satisfactory to the Secretary;

(2) Pay, out of the funds provided by § 935.11, the cost of his bond, his own compensation, and all other expenses necessarily incurred in the maintenance and functioning of his office;

(3) Keep such books and records as will clearly reflect the transactions provided for herein, and surrender the same to his successor or to such other person as the Secretary may designate;

(4) Unless otherwise directed by the Secretary, publicly disclose to handlers and producers the name of any person who, within 10 days after the date upon which he is required to perform such acts, has not (a) made reports pursuant to § 935.7 or (b) made payments pursuant to § 935.10; and

(5) Promptly verify the information contained in the reports submitted by handlers.

(b) Classes of utilization. The classes of utilization of milk shall be as follows:

(d) Sales of a cooperative association which is a handler. Milk caused to be delivered from a producer to a handler by a cooperative association, for the account of such cooperative association, and for which such cooperative association collects payment, shall be ratably apportioned among the receiving handler's total Class I, Class II, and Class III milk. Milk caused to be delivered by such cooperative association to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area, shall be classified as Class I milk; Provided, That if such cooperative association, on or before the 5th day after the end of the delivery period, furnishes to the market administrator a statement which is signed by the buyer and seller that such milk was disposed of as Class II milk or Class III milk, such milk shall be classified accordingly, subject to verification by the market administrator.

§ 935.6 Minimum prices. Each handler shall pay at the time and in the manner set forth in § 935.10 not less than the following prices for milk of 3.8 percent butterfat content:

(a) Class I milk. The price per hundredweight for Class I milk during each delivery period shall be as set forth in the table in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Class II milk. The price per hundredweight for Class II milk during each delivery period shall be as set forth in the following table:

When the Class III price computed pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section is—	The Class I price shall be—	The Class II price shall be—
Under $1.50	$2.00	$1.95
$1.50 or more but under $1.70	2.20	1.85

$3.10 or over	3.80	3.45

(c) Class III milk. The price per hundredweight for Class III milk during each delivery period shall be computed by the market administrator as follows: multiply by 3.8 the average price of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which such milk was received plus or minus 0.95 cent per hundredweight for each one cent that such average price of 93-score butter is above or below 20 cents, add 21 cents, and add a figure determined as follows: add 5 cents per hundredweight for each full one-half cent that the price of dry skim milk for human consumption is above 7 cents per pound. For purposes of determining this adjustment, the price per pound of dry skim milk to be used shall be the arithmetical average of the carlot prices for dry skim milk both spray and roller process for human consumption delivered at Chicago, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture during the delivery period including in such average the quotations for any part of the preceding delivery period which were not published and available for the price determination of such dry skim for the previous delivery period. In the event the United States Department of Agriculture does not publish carlot prices for dry skim milk for human consumption delivered at Chicago, the average of the carlot prices for dry skim milk for human consumption f. o. b. manufacturing plant, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the Chicago area shall be used. In the latter event such price shall be subject to the following adjustments: add or subtract 3 cents per hundredweight for each full one-half cent that the price of dry skim milk for human consumption f. o. b. manufacturing plant, is above or below 6 cents per pound.

§ 935.7 Reports of handlers—(a) Periodic reports. Each handler shall report to the market administrator, in the detail and on forms prescribed by the market administrator as follows:

(1) On or before the 5th day after the end of each delivery period, (i) the receipts at each plant of milk from producers, (ii) the receipts at each plant of milk and cream from other handlers, (iii) the receipts at each plant of milk produced by him, if any, (iv) the receipts at each plant of milk and cream from any other source with the source indicated, and (v) the utilization of all receipts of milk and cream for the delivery period.

(2) On or before the 5th day after the end of each delivery period, the receipts of emergency milk as follows: (i) the amount of such milk and the average butterfat test thereof, (ii) the date or dates upon which such milk was received during the delivery period, (iii) the plant from which such milk was shipped, (iv) the price per hundredweight paid or to be paid for such milk, and (v) such other information with respect thereto as the market administrator may request.

(c) Reports of payments to producers. Each handler shall submit to the market administrator on or before the 20th day after the end of each delivery period his producer pay roll for such delivery period which shall show for each producer (1) the net amount of the payment to such producer with the prices, deductions, and charges involved and (2) the total delivery of milk with the average butterfat test thereof.

(d) Reports of cooperative associations. On or before the 5th day after the end of each delivery period, each cooperative association which is a handler shall report to the market administrator the quantity of milk of any producer which it causes to be delivered to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area.

(e) Verification of reports. Each handler, including a cooperative association which is a handler, shall make available to the market administrator or his agent (1) those records which are necessary for the verification of the information contained in the reports submitted in accordance with this section and (2) those facilities which are necessary for the sampling, weighing, and testing of the milk of each producer.

§ 935.8 Application of provisions—(a) Handlers who are also producers. (1) In the case of a handler who is also a producer and who purchases or receives no milk from other producers, the market administrator shall exclude from the computations made pursuant to § 935.9 the quantity of milk disposed of by such handler.

(2) In the case of a handler who is also a producer and who purchases or receives milk from other producers, the market administrator shall, before making the computations pursuant to § 935.9, (i) exclude from the total pounds of milk in each class the total pounds of milk which were purchased or received in the respective classes from other handlers and (ii) exclude pro rata from the remaining pounds of milk in each class the total pounds of milk received from such handler's own farm production.

(b) Purchases of milk from a handler who is also a producer. In the case of a handler who purchases or receives milk in bulk from a handler who is also a producer, the market administrator, in making the computations pursuant to § 935.9 for such purchasing handler, shall add an amount equal to the difference between the value of such milk (1) at the price for the class in which such milk was classified and (2) at the price for Class III milk.

(c) Payment for excess butterfat. In the case of a handler who disposes of butterfat in excess of the butterfat which, on the basis of his records, has been received, the market administrator, in making the computations pursuant to § 935.9, shall add an amount equal to the value of such butterfat (or 3.8 percent milk equivalent) in accordance with its classifications.

(d) Purchases of emergency milk. The market administrator, before making the computations pursuant to § 935.9 shall deduct pro rata out of each class the total pounds of emergency milk received by each handler during the delivery period.

§ 935.9 Determination of uniform prices to producers—(a) Computation of the amount to be paid producers by each handler. For each delivery period the market administrator shall compute, subject to the provisions of § 935.8, the amount to be paid producers by each handler for milk received from them including the milk of producers which a cooperative association caused to be delivered to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area by (1) multiplying the hundredweight of such milk in each class by the price applicable pursuant to § 935.6, (2) adding together the resulting values of each class, and (3) adding any amounts pursuant to § 935.8 (b) and § 935.8 (c).

(b) Computation and announcement of the uniform price. For each delivery period the market administrator shall compute and announce the uniform price per hundredweight of milk as follows:

(1) Combine into one total the respective values of milk, computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section for each handler who made the reports prescribed by § 935.7 and who made the payments prescribed by paragraphs (c) and (d) of § 935.10;

(2) Add the amount of cash balance in the producer-settlement fund;

(3) Divide the result by the total quantity of milk represented in the sum obtained pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph;

(4) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents per hundredweight of milk for the purpose of retaining in the producer-settlement fund a cash balance to provide against errors in reports and payments, or delinquencies in payment by handlers. This result shall be known as the uniform price for such delivery period for milk of producers containing 3.8 percent butterfat; and

(5) On or before the 6th day after the end of each delivery period, notify all handlers, and make public announcement of these computations, of the uniform price per hundredweight of milk, and of the Class III price.

§ 935.10 Payments for milk—(a) Time and method of payment. On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period each handler shall pay each producer, for milk received during the delivery period which was not caused to be delivered by a cooperative association for the account of such cooperative association and for which such cooperative association receives payment, an amount of money representing not less than the total value of such milk, at the uniform price per hundredweight, computed pursuant to § 935.9 (b) and subject to the butterfat differential set forth in paragraph (f) of this section.

(b) Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as "the producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to paragraphs (c), (d), and (g) of this section and out of which he shall make all payments to handlers pursuant to paragraphs (e) and (g) of this section.

(c) Payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 8th day after the end of each delivery period each handler shall pay, subject to the provisions of paragraph (d) of this section, to the market administrator the amount by which the total value of the milk received by him from producers during the delivery period is greater than the amount obtained by multiplying the hundredweight of milk received from producers by such handler by the uniform price.

(d) Payments made through a cooperative association. On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period, each handler, with respect to milk which is caused to be delivered to him from producers by a cooperative association for the account of such cooperative association and for which such cooperative association collects payments, shall make payment to such cooperative association at not less than the class prices set forth in § 935.6, and subject to the provisions of § 935.5 (d) and to the butterfat differential set forth in paragraph (f) of this section, for the utilization value of such milk. On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period such cooperative association shall pay to the market administrator the amount by which the utilization value of such milk and of the milk of each producer which it causes to be delivered to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area, is greater than the amount obtained by multiplying the hundredweight of all such milk by the uniform price.

(e) Payment out of producer-settlement fund. On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period, the market administrator shall pay to each handler for payment to producers, with respect to milk which was not caused to be delivered to such handler by a cooperative association for the account of such cooperative association and for which such cooperative association collects payments, the amount, if any, by which the total value of such milk received from producers by such handler is less than the amount obtained by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk received from producers by such handler by the uniform price. On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period, the market administrator shall pay to a cooperative association which is a handler, for payment to producers, the amount, if any, by which the total value of milk of producers caused to be delivered to a handler and to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area by such cooperative association is less than the amount obtained by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk by the uniform price. If at such time the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to this paragraph, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds are available. No handler who, on the 10th day after the end of each delivery period, has not received the balance of such reduced payment from the market administrator shall be deemed to be in violation of paragraph (a) of this section if he reduces his payments to producers by not more than the amount of the reduction in payment from the producer-settlement fund.

(f) Butterfat differential. If any handler has received from any producer, during the delivery period, milk having an average butterfat content other than 3.8 percent, such handler shall add to the uniform price for such producer for each one-tenth of 1 percent of average butterfat content in milk above 3.8 percent not less than, or shall deduct from the uniform price for such producer for each one-tenth of 1 percent of average butterfat content in milk below 3.8 percent not more than, 3 cents per hundredweight if the average price of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which such milk was received, is less than 30 cents, $3\frac{1}{2}$ cents if such average price of butter is 30 cents or more but less than 35 cents, or 4 cents if such average price of butter is 35 cents or more but less than 40 cents, $4\frac{1}{2}$ cents if such average price of butter is 40 cents or more but less than 45 cents, 5 cents if such average price of butter is 45 cents or more but less than 50 cents, or $5\frac{1}{2}$ cents if such average price of butter is 50 cents or more.

(g) Adjustment of errors in payments. Whenever verification by the market administrator of reports or payments of any handler discloses errors made in payments to or out of the producer-settlement fund pursuant to paragraphs (c), (d), and (e) of this section, the market administrator shall promptly bill such handler for any unpaid amount and such handler shall, within 5 days, make payment to the market administrator of the amount so billed. Whenever verification discloses that payment is due from the market administrator to any handler, pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section, the market administrator shall, within 5 days, make such payment to such handler. Whenever verification by the market administrator of the payment by a handler to any producer for milk received by such handler discloses payment to such producer of less than is required by this section, the handler shall make up such payment to the producer not later than the time of making payment to producers next following such disclosure.

§ 935.11 Expense of administration—(a) Payments by handlers. As his prorata share of the expense of administration hereof, each handler, with respect to all milk received from producers during the delivery period, shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 10th day after the end of the delivery period that amount per hundredweight, and not to exceed 2 cents per hundredweight, which is announced on or before the 8th day after the end of the delivery period by the market administrator, subject to review by the Secretary. As its prorata share of the expense of administration hereof, a cooperative association, which is a handler, shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 10th day after the end of the delivery period, with respect to the milk of any producer which it causes to be delivered to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area, an amount per hundredweight equivalent to that required to be paid by other handlers pursuant to this paragraph.

(b) Suits by the market administrator. The market administrator may maintain a suit in his own name against any handler for the collection of such handler's prorata share of expense set forth in this section.

§ 935.12 Effective time, suspension, and termination of the order, as amended—(a) Effective time. The provisions hereof, or any amendment hereto, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Termination of the order, as amended. The Secretary may terminate or suspend this order, as amended, whenever he finds that this order, as amended, obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

This order, as amended, shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

(c) Continuing power and duty of the market administrator. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions hereof, there are any obligations arising hereunder, the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any handler, by the market administrator, or by any other person, the power and duty to perform such further acts shall continue notwithstanding such suspension or termination: Provided, That any such acts required to be performed by the market administrator shall, if the Secretary so directs, be performed by such other person, persons, or agency as the Secretary may designate.

(d) The market administrator, or such other person as the Secretary may designate, (i) shall continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary, (ii) from time to time account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all funds

(d) Liquidation after suspension or termination. Upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions hereof, the market administrator, or such person as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, and dispose of all funds and property then in his possession or under his control, together with claims for any funds which are unpaid or owing at the time of such suspension or termination. AUTHORITY: §§ 948.1 to 948.13, inclusive, issued under 48 Stat. 31, 670, 675; 49 Stat. 750; 50 Stat. 246; 7 U.S.C. 1940 ed. 601 et seq.

§ 948.1 Findings and determinations—(a) Findings. Pursuant to the act and the rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR 900.1–900.17; 6 F.R. 6570; 7 F.R. 3350; 8 F.R. 2813), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentatively approved marketing agreement, as amended, and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Sioux City, Iowa, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is hereby found that:

(1) The aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions of said order as amended and as hereby amended, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The prices calculated to give milk produced for sale in the Sioux City, Iowa, marketing area a purchasing power equivalent to the purchasing power of such milk, as determined pursuant to sections 2 and 8 (e) of the act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supplies of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices set forth in the aforesaid order, as amended and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The aforesaid order, as amended and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in the aforesaid tentatively approved marketing agreement, as amended, upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Determinations. It is hereby determined that handlers of at least 50 percent of the volume of milk covered by this order, as amended, which is marketed within the Sioux City, Iowa, marketing area refused or failed to sign the tentatively approved marketing agreement, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Sioux City, Iowa, marketing area; and it is further determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of such handlers to sign said tentatively approved marketing agreement, as amended, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act;

(2) The issuance of this order, as amended, is the only practical means, pursuant to the declared policy of the act, of advancing the interest of producers of milk which is produced for sale in the Sioux City, Iowa, marketing area; and

(3) The issuance of this order as amended, is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum on the question of the approval of this order, as amended, and who, during the determined representative period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the said Sioux City, Iowa, marketing area.

§ 948.2 Order relative to findings. It is therefore ordered that, from and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Sioux City, Iowa, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of this order, as amended.

$2.50 or more but under $2.70	3.05	2.75
$2.70 or more but under $2.90	3.25	2.95
$2.90 or more but under $3.10	3.45	3.15
$3.10 or over	3.65	3.35

(c) Class III milk. The price per hundredweight for Class III milk shall be the price resulting from the following computation by the market administrator: determine the average of the prices per hundredweight ascertained to have been paid for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received during the next preceding delivery period at the following plants:

Concern:	Location of plant
Carnation Milk Co.	Northfield, Minn.
Carnation Milk Co.	Waverly, Iowa.
Borden Milk Products Co.	Sterling, Ill.
Libby McNeill and Libby	Morrison, Ill.
Fort Dodge Creamery Co.	Fort Dodge Iowa.

(d) Basic price. The basic price to be used in determining the Class I and Class II prices shall be computed by the market administrator as follows: multiply by 3.8 the average price of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which such milk is received, plus or minus 0.95 cent per hundredweight for each 1 cent that such average price of 92-score butter is above or below 20 cents, add 21 cents, and add a figure determined as follows: add 3 cents per hundredweight for each full one-half cent that the price of dry skim milk for human consumption is above 7 cents per pound. For purposes of determining this adjustment, the price per pound of dry skim milk to be used shall be the arithmetical average of the carlot prices for dry skim, both spray and roller process, for human consumption delivered at Chicago, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, including in such average the quotations for any part of the preceding delivery period which were not published and available for the price determination of such dry skim milk for the previous delivery period. In the event the United States Department of Agriculture does not publish carlot prices for dry skim milk for human consumption delivered at Chicago, the average of the carlot prices for dry skim milk for human consumption f. o. b. manufacturing plant, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the Chicago area, shall be used. In the latter event such price shall be subject to the following adjustment; add or subtract 3 cents per hundredweight for each full one-half cent that the price of dry skim milk for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plant, is above or below 6 cents per pound.

§ 948.7 Reports of handlers—(a) Periodic reports. Each handler shall report to the market administrator, in the detail and on forms prescribed by the market administrator, as follows:

(1) On or before the 5th day after the end of each delivery period, (i) the receipts at each plant of milk from producers, (ii) the receipts at each plant of milk and cream from handlers, (iii) the receipts at each plant of milk produced by him, (iv) the receipts at each plant of milk and cream from any other source, with the source indicated, and (v) the utilization of all receipts of milk and cream for the delivery period.

(2) On or before the 5th day after the end of each delivery period, the receipts of emergency milk as follows: (i) the amount of such milk and the average butterfat test thereof, (ii) the date or dates upon which such milk was received during the delivery period, (iii) the plant from which such milk was shipped, (iv) the price per hundredweight paid or to be paid for such milk, and (v) such other information with respect thereto as the market administrator may request.

(b) Reports as to producers. Each handler shall furnish to the market administrator:

(1) On or before the 5th day after the end of each delivery period, a list showing the name and address of each person who produces milk from whom the handler received milk for the purpose of fulfilling his total Class I and Class II milk requirements during the delivery period: Provided, That such list shall contain only persons who produce milk which is (i) commingled with milk from which such handler fulfilled his Class I and Class II milk requirements or (ii) diverted by a cooperative association which is a handler to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area.

(2) Within 5 days after the market administrator's request, with respect to any producer for whom such information is not in the files of the market administrator, and with respect to a period or periods of time designated by the market administrator, (i) the name and address, (ii) the total pounds of milk received, (iii) the average butterfat test of milk received, and (iv) the number of days upon which milk was received.

(3) As soon as possible after first receiving milk from any producer, (i) the name and address of such producer, (ii) the date upon which such milk was first received, and (iii) the plant at which such producer's milk was received.

(c) Reports of payments. Each handler shall submit to the market administrator, on or before the 20th day after the end of each delivery period, his producer pay roll for such delivery period which shall show for each producer (1) the net amount of the payment made pursuant to § 948.10 with the prices, deductions, and charges involved, and (2) his total delivery of milk with average butterfat test thereof.

(d) Verification of records. Each handler shall (1) permit the market administrator or his agent, during the usual hours of business, to verify the information contained in reports submitted in accordance with this section, and (2) make available to the market administrator or his agent those facilities which are necessary for the sampling, check-weighing, and testing of the milk of each producer.

If, in the verification of the reports of any handler made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, it is necessary for the market administrator to examine the records of milk and cream handled in a plant of the handler from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area, such handler shall make such records available to the market administrator.

§ 948.8 Application of provisions—(a) Handlers who are also producers. (1) The provisions of §§ 948.6, 948.9, 948.10, and 948.11 shall not apply to a handler who purchases or receives no milk from producers other than milk of his own production.

(2) In the case of a handler who is also a producer and who purchases or receives milk from other producers, the market administrator before making the computations pursuant to § 948.9 shall (i) exclude from the total pounds of milk in each class the total pounds of milk which were purchased or received in the respective classes from other handlers and (ii) exclude pro rata from the remaining pounds of milk in each class the total pounds of milk received from such handler's own farm production.

(b) Purchases of milk from a handler who is also a producer. In the case of a handler who purchases or receives milk in bulk from a handler who is also a producer, the market administrator, in making the computations pursuant to § 948.9 for such purchasing handlers, shall add an amount equal to the difference between the value of such milk (1) at the price for the class in which such milk was classified and (2) at the price for Class III milk.

(c) Purchases of emergency milk. The market administrator, before making the computation pursuant to § 948.9, shall deduct pro rata out of each class the total pounds of emergency milk delivered by each handler during the delivery period.

(d) Payment for excess butterfat. In the case of a handler who disposes of butterfat in excess of the butterfat which, on the basis of his records, has been received, the market administrator, in making the computations pursuant to § 948.9, shall add an amount equal to the value of such butterfat (or 3.5 percent milk equivalent) in accordance with its classification.

§ 948.9 Determination of uniform prices to producers—(a) Computation of the amount to be paid producers by each handler. For each delivery period the market administrator shall compute, subject to the provisions of § 948.8, the amount to be paid producers by each handler for milk received from them, by (1) multiplying the hundredweight of such milk in each class by the price applicable pursuant to § 948.6, (2) adding together the resulting values of such class, and (3) adding any amounts pursuant to § 948.8 (b) and (d).

(b) Computation and announcement of uniform prices. For each delivery period the market administrator shall compute and announce the uniform price per hundredweight of milk as follows:

(1) Combine into one total the respective values of milk computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section for each handler who made the reports to the market administrator prescribed by § 948.7, and who has made the payments to the market administrator prescribed in § 948.10 ¶d);

(2) Add the amount of cash balance in the producer-settlement fund less any amount due handlers pursuant to § 948.10;

(3) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundred-weight of milk of producers;

(4) Subtract from the figure computed pursuant to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents per hundredweight for the purpose of retaining in the producer-settlement fund a cash balance to provide against errors in reports and payments or delinquencies in payments by handlers. This result shall be known as the uniform price for such delivery period for milk of producers containing 3.5 percent butterfat; and

(5) On or before the 7th day after the end of each delivery period, notify all handlers and publicly announce these computations, the uniform price per hundredweight of milk, and the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 948.10 (b).

§ 948.10 Payments for milk—(a) Time and method of payment. On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period, each handler shall make payment, subject to the butterfat differential set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, for milk received by such handler during such delivery period, as follows:

(1) To each producer, except as set forth in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, not less than the uniform price per hundredweight, computed pursuant to § 948.9 (b); and

(2) To a cooperative association for milk which it caused to be delivered to a handler from producers and for which such cooperative association collects payments, a total amount equal to not less than the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(b) Butterfat differential. If any handler has purchased or received from any producer milk having an average butterfat content other than 3.5 percent, such handler, in making the payments pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of paragraph (a) of this section, shall add for each one-tenth of 1 percent of average butterfat content in milk above 3.5 percent not less than, or shall deduct for each one-tenth of 1 percent of average butterfat content in milk below 3.5 percent not more than:

(1) Three cents per hundredweight when the average price per pound of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which such milk was received, is less than 30 cents;

(2) Three and one-half cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 30 cents or more but less than 35 cents;

(3) Four cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 35 cents or more, but less than 40 cents;

(4) Four and one-half cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 40 cents or more, but less than 45 cents;

(5) Five cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 45 cents or more, but less than 50 cents;

(6) Five and one-half cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 50 cents or more, but less than 55 cents; and

(7) Six cents per hundredweight when such average price of 92-score butter is 55 cents or more.

(c) Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund, known as the "producer-settlement fund," into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to paragraphs (d) and (f) of this section and out of which he shall make all payments to handlers pursuant to paragraphs (e) and (f) of this section.

(d) Payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 7th day after the end of each delivery period, each handler shall pay to the market administrator for payment to producers through the producer-settlement fund, the amount by which the total utilization value of the milk of producers received by such handler during the delivery period is greater than the sum obtained by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk by the appropriate prices required to be paid by handlers pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section.

(e) Payments out of producer-settlement fund. On or before the 9th day after the end of each delivery period, the market administrator shall pay to each handler, for payment to producers the amount if any, by which the total utilization value of such milk of producers received by such handler, during the delivery period, is less than the sum obtained by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk of producers by the appropriate price required to be paid by handlers pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section. On or before the 9th day after the end of each delivery period the market administrator shall pay to each cooperative association, with respect to milk of producers which it caused to be delivered to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area, for the account of such cooperative association and for which such cooperative association collects payment, for payment to producers, the amount, if any, by which the total utilization of such milk is less than the sum obtained by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk by the appropriate price required to be paid by handlers pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section. If at such time the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to this paragraph, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds are available. No handler who, on the 10th day after the end of the delivery period, has not received the balance of such reduced payment from the market administrator, shall be deemed to be in violation of paragraph (a) of this section if he reduces his payments to producers by not more than the amount of the reduction in payment from the producer-settlement fund.

(f) Adjustment of errors in payments. Whenever verification by the market administrator of reports or payments of any handler discloses errors in payments to the producer-settlement fund made pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section, the market administrator shall promptly bill such handler for any unpaid amount and such handler shall, within 5 days, make payment to the market administrator of the amount so billed. Whenever verification discloses that payment is due from the market administrator to any handler pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section, the market administrator shall, within 5 days, make such payment to such handler. Whenever verification by the market administrator of the payment by a handler to any producer discloses payment of less than is required by this section, the handler shall make up such payment not later than the time of making payment to producers next following such disclosure.

§ 948.11 Expense of administration—(a) Payment by handlers. As his pro rata share of the expense of the administration hereof, each handler, with respect to all milk received from producers and produced by such handler, during the delivery period, shall pay to the market administrator, on or before the 7th day after the end of such delivery period, an amount not to exceed 4 cents per hundredweight, the exact amount to be determined by the market administrator, subject to review by the Secretary. As its pro rata share of the expense of the administration hereof, a cooperative association which is a handler shall pay to the market administrator, on or before the 8th day after the end of the delivery period, with respect to the milk of each producer which it caused to be delivered to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area, an amount per hundredweight equal to that required to be paid by other handlers pursuant to this paragraph.

(b) Suits by the market administrator. The market administrator may maintain a suit in his own name against any handler for the collection of such handler's prorata share of expenses as required by paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 948.12 Effective time, suspension, and termination—(a) Effective time. The provisions hereof, or any amendment hereto, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated, pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Suspension and termination. Any or all provisions hereof, or any amendment hereto, shall be suspended or terminated as to any or all handlers after such reasonable notice as the Secretary may give, and shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

(c) Continuing power and duty. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions hereof, there are any obligations arising hereunder the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any handlers, by the market administrator, or by any other person, the power and duty to perform such further acts shall continue notwithstanding such suspension or termination: Provided, That any such acts required to be performed by the market administrator shall, if the Secretary so directs, be performed by such other person, persons, or agency as the Secretary may designate.

The market administrator, or such other person as the Secretary may designate, (1) shall continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary, (2) from time to time account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all funds or property on hand, together with the books and records of the market administrator, or such person, to such person as the Secretary shall direct, and (3) if so directed by the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title to all funds, property, and claims vested in the market administrator or such person pursuant hereto.

(d) Liquidation after suspension or termination. Upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions hereof, the market administrator, or such person as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office and dispose of all funds and property then in his possession or under his control, together with claims for any funds which are unpaid and owing at the time of such suspension or termination. Any funds collected pursuant to the provisions hereof, over and above the amounts necessary to meet outstanding obligations and the expenses necessarily incurred by the market administrator or such person in liquidating and distributing such funds, shall be distributed to the contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

§ 948.13 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States, or name any bureau or division in the United States Department of Agriculture, to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions hereof.

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 6th day of April 1943, to be effective on and after the 11th day of April 1943. Witness my hand and the official seal of the Department of Agriculture.

TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE

Chapter I—Bureau of Internal Revenue

[T. D. 5257]

PART 30—REGULATIONS UNDER THE EXCESS PROFITS TAX ACT OF 1940

RELIEF FOR INSTALLMENT BASIS TAXPAYERS AND TAXPAYERS WITH INCOME FROM LONG-TERM CONTRACTS

In order to conform Regulations 109 [Part 30, Title 26, Code of Federal Regulations, 1941 Sup.] to section 222 (d) and (e) (2) of the Revenue Act of 1942 (Public Law 753, 77th Congress), approved October 21, 1942, such regulations are amended by inserting immediately preceding the heading "Part II—Rules in Connection With Certain Exchanges. Supplement A—Excess Profits Credit Based on Income," which immediately precedes section 740, the following:

SEC. 222. RELIEF PROVISIONS. (Revenue Act of 1942, Title II.)

• • • • •

(d) Installment basis and other taxpayers. Subchapter E of Chapter 2 is amended by inserting after section 735 the following new section:

SEC. 736. RELIEF FOR INSTALLMENT BASIS TAXPAYERS AND TAXPAYERS WITH INCOME FROM LONG-TERM CONTRACTS.

(a) Election to accrue income.—In the case of any taxpayer computing income from installment sales under the method provided by section 44 (a), if such taxpayer establishes, in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, that the average volume of credit extended to purchasers on the installment plan in the four taxable years preceding the first taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, was more than 125 per centum of the volume of such credit extended to such purchasers in the taxable year, or the average outstanding installment accounts receivable at the end of each of the four taxable years preceding the first taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, was more than 125 per centum of the amount of such accounts receivable at the end of the taxable year, or if the taxpayer was not in existence for four previous taxable years, the taxable years during which the taxpayer was in existence, in either case including only such years for which the income was computed under the method provided in section 44 (a), it may elect, in its return for the taxable year, for the purposes of the tax imposed by this subchapter, to compute, in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, its income from installment sales on the basis of the taxable period for which such income is accrued, in lieu of the basis provided by section 44 (a). Except as hereinafter provided, such election shall be irrevocable when once made and shall apply also to all subsequent taxable years, and the income from installment sales for each taxable year before the first year with respect to which the election is made but beginning after December 31, 1939, shall be adjusted for the purposes of this subchapter to conform to such election. In making such adjustments, no amount shall be included in computing excess profits net income for any excess profits tax taxable year on account of installment sales made in taxable years beginning before January 1, 1940. If the taxpayer establishes, in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary that in a taxable year subsequent to the year with respect to which an election has been made under the preceding provisions of this subsection it would not be eligible to elect such accrual method, the taxpayer may in accordance with such regulations elect in its return for such year to abandon such accrual method. Such election shall be irrevocable when once made and shall preclude any further elections under this subsection. For the taxable year for which the latter election is made and subsequent taxable years, income shall be computed in accordance with section 44 (c).

• • • • •

SEC. 201. TAXABLE YEARS TO WHICH AMENDMENTS APPLICABLE. (Revenue Act of 1942, Title II.)

Except as otherwise expressly provided, the amendments made by this title shall be applicable only with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941.

§ 30.736 (a)-1 Taxpayers reporting income on installment basis; eligibility for relief—(a) In general. Section 736 (a) provides excess profits tax relief with respect to a taxpayer which computes its income for the taxable year from installment sales under the method provided by section 44 (a), if such taxpayer establishes that either:

(1) The average volume of credit extended to purchasers on the installment plan in the four taxable years preceding the first taxable year of the taxpayer beginning after December 31, 1941, was more than 125 percent of the volume of such credit extended to such purchasers in the taxable year, or

(2) The average outstanding installment accounts receivable at the end of each of the four taxable years preceding the first taxable year of the taxpayer beginning after December 31, 1941, was more than 125 percent of the amount of such accounts receivable at the end of the taxable year.

If the taxpayer was not in existence for the four taxable years preceding its first taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, the average volume of credit or the average outstanding installment accounts, as the case may be, for the years preceding such first taxable year shall be computed for such years as the taxpayer was in existence. The average volume of credit or the average outstanding installment accounts shall be computed only with respect to those years for which the income was computed pursuant to the method provided by section 44 (a), and shall not be computed with respect to any year for which the income was reported on the cash or the straight accrual basis. The years with respect to which such computations are made need not be consecutive taxable year.

The average volume of credit for the appropriate years preceding the taxpayer's first taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941 (hereinafter called the "installment base period"), shall be the aggregate of the volumes of credit extended during each of such years divided by the number of months in such years and multiplied by twelve. If the taxable year with respect to which the election is being made is a year of less than twelve months, the number of months in such year shall be used for the purposes of the preceding sentence instead of twelve. The average outstanding installment accounts receivable shall be the aggregate of the amounts of the installment accounts receivable at the end of each of the taxable years in the installment base period divided by the number of years in such period.

(b) Definitions and determinations. For the purposes of this section:

(1) An installment sale means any sale upon credit which the purchaser agrees to repay in two or more scheduled payments, regardless of the maturity of such credit or the amount of the down payment or of each payment, and which for the purposes of the income tax under Chapter I is reported on the installment basis. An installment sale shall not include any casual sale of personal property, and shall not include any sale of real property unless the initial payments received in cash or property (other than evidences of indebtedness of the purchaser) during the taxable period in which the sale is made do not exceed 30 percent of the selling price and unless the taxpayer is regularly engaged in the business of selling real property upon such basis.

(2) The volume of credit for a taxable year is the amount equal to the difference between the amount of net sales (gross sales minus sales returns and allowances) and the amount of the down payments in cash or in other property (other than evidence of indebtedness of the purchaser). The sales price of an article shall include the amount of any service or credit charge but shall not include the amount of any sales tax or other excise tax imposed upon the sale whether or not charged to the purchaser. The down payment shall be the payment made at the time of the sale and shall not include the amount of any sales tax or other excise tax charged to the purchaser and included in the down payment.

(3) The outstanding accounts receivable at the end of a taxable year shall be the aggregate of the net debit amounts in the installment accounts receivable of the taxpayer at the end of such taxable year. Installment accounts receivable shall be the accounts reflecting the amounts due the taxpayer from installment sales. In computing the net debit amount of such accounts for the installment base period, there shall be allowed as credits not only payments, trade-ins, and returns and allowances but also the amount of installment accounts receivable which have been ascertained to be worthless and have been charged off under section 23 (k) of the Revenue Act of 1938 and have been allowed as a deduction in computing the net income, or which have become worthless under section 23 (k) (1) of the Internal Revenue Code as amended by section 124 of the Revenue Act of 1942, and which have been allowed as a deduction. With respect to the taxable year for which eligibility for relief under section 736 (a) and this section is being determined, in addition to the credits for payments, trade-ins, and returns and allowances, there shall be allowed as a credit the amount of installment accounts receivable which have been determined to be worthless under section 23 (k) (1) of the Internal Revenue Code as amended by section 124 of the Revenue Act of 1942, and which have been allowed as a deduction in computing the net income for such year. In determining the amount of installment accounts receivable at the end of the taxable year for which eligibility for relief under section 736 (a) is being determined, no credit shall be allowed based upon the sale, hypothecation, or other disposition (other than by payment by the purchaser) of any installment account receivable unless it is the practice of the taxpayer to sell, hypothecate, or make other disposition of a portion of its installment accounts receivable, and unless such sales, hypothecations, or other dispositions have been made in the installment base period. If such sales, hypothecations, or other dispositions have been made in such period, credits may be allowed in computing the amount of installment accounts receivable at the close of the taxable year for which eligibility is being determined. Such credit, however, shall not exceed an amount which bears the same ratio to the installment accounts receivable at the close of the taxable year which the total credit attributable to sales, hypothecations, or other dispositions (other than by payment by the purchaser) during the taxable years in the installment base period bears to the aggregate of the installment accounts receivable at the end of each of the taxable years in such period.

§ 30.736 (a)-2 Election to compute excess profits income on straight accrual basis. If a taxpayer computing income from installment sales under the method provided by section 44 (a) establishes eligibility for relief under section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)-1 with respect to a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, it may elect in its excess profits tax return for such year to compute income attributable to installment sales on the basis of the taxable period for which such income is accrued, in lieu of the basis provided by section 44 (a), pursuant to which income for any taxable year is determined to be that proportion of the installment payments actually received during the year which the gross profit realized or to be realized when payment is completed, bears to the total contract price.

A taxpayer electing to compute income from installment sales on the basis of the taxable period for which such income is accrued, pursuant to section 736 (a) and this section, must file with its excess profits tax return for the year in which such election is made the following:

(a) A statement of the taxable years in the installment base period for which income from installment sales was reported for the purposes of the income tax under chapter 1 under the method provided by section 44 (a) and a statement that for the taxable year income from such sales is reported upon such basis for purposes of the income tax under Chapter 1.

(b) A schedule setting forth in columnar form the details of the computation of the volume of credit extended to purchasers on the installment plan in the taxable year and in each taxable year in the installment base period or of the amount of the outstanding installment accounts receivable at the end of the taxable year and at the end of each taxable year in the installment base period, or both, and the computation of the ratio between such volume of credit extended in the taxable year and in the installment base period, or between such outstanding accounts receivable at the end of the taxable year and the average of such outstanding accounts for the installment base period, or both.

(c) A schedule setting forth the installment accounts receivable which have been sold, hypothecated, or otherwise disposed of during the taxable year and during the installment base period, and the ratio that such sales, hypothecations or other dispositions bear to installment accounts receivable outstanding at the close of the taxable year and at the end of each taxable year of the installment base period.

(d) Amended income and excess profits tax returns for each taxable year beginning after December 31, 1939, and prior to the taxable year for which the election is made, to reflect the effects of the computation of income from installment sales for the purposes of the excess profits tax for such years on the basis of the taxable period for which such income is accrued. If the recomputation produces an overassessment for any of such years, the taxpayer should file a claim for refund on Form 843 with the amended returns for such years.

If the taxpayer elects in a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, and under the provisions of section 736 (a) and this section to compute its income from installment sales on the straight accrual basis, such election shall be irrevocable when once made and shall apply also to all subsequent taxable years and the income from installment sales for each taxable year before the first year with respect to which the election is made, but beginning after December 31, 1939, shall be adjusted for the purposes of the excess profits tax computation to conform to such election. Since no change in the computation of income from the installment basis to the straight accrual basis can be made for any year beginning prior to January 1, 1940, as a result of such election, no recomputation can be made for any year in the base period. If the taxpayer uses the excess profits credit based on income pursuant to section 713 or section 742, the average base period net income shall be the actual average base period net income with income from installment sales computed under the method pursuant to which such income was reported for the purposes of the income tax under Chapter 1 for the taxable years in such period. If the taxpayer uses the excess profits credit based on invested capital pursuant to section 714, the determination of accumulated earnings and profits shall be made without regard to any adjustment resulting from election made under section 736 (a) and this section, except as such election is reflected in the amount of income tax or excess profits tax payable for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1939. The election made pursuant to section 736 (a) and this section to compute income on the straight accrual basis in lieu of the basis provided in section 44 (a) shall apply only with respect to excess profits net income for purposes of the excess profits tax imposed by Subchapter E of Chapter 2. For purposes of the income tax under Chapter 1, or the surtax on personal holding companies or the declared value excess profits tax under Chapter 2, income shall be computed upon the basis provided in section 44 (a).

If the taxpayer does not satisfy the eligibility requirements of section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–1 for its first taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, it is not precluded from electing for any subsequent taxable year in which it satisfies such eligibility requirements to compute its income from installment sales upon the straight accrual basis. Moreover, the taxpayer need not elect under section 736 (a) and this section to compute its income from installment sales upon the straight accrual basis for the first taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, with respect to which such eligibility requirements are satisfied. Failure so to elect does not preclude an election for a subsequent taxable year with respect to which the eligibility requirements are met.

For a new election to return to the installment basis of reporting income for a taxable year in which the taxpayer would not be eligible to elect to compute income from installment sales on the straight accrual basis pursuant to section 736 (a) and this section subsequent to the year in which such election was made, see § 30.736 (a)–4.

§ 30.736 (a)–3 Computation of income on straight accrual basis. If the taxpayer has elected under section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–2 to compute for excess profits tax purposes its income from installment sales on the basis of the taxable year for which such income is accrued, in lieu of the basis provided by section 44 (a), the gross income of the taxpayer from installment sales shall be computed upon such accrual basis. Likewise all deductions under section 23 allowable in computing net income and attributable to such sales, shall be computed upon the straight accrual basis. However, no income or deductions (including deductions for bad debts) shall be included in the computation of excess profits net income for any excess profits tax taxable year on account of installment sales made in taxable years beginning before January 1, 1940.

Any deductions under section 23 which are limited to a percentage of net income (computed without regard to such deductions, as for example, the deduction for charitable contributions which is allowed by section 23 (q)) shall be determined on the basis of such net income with income from installment sales determined upon the straight accrual basis, and not on the basis of such net income for the purposes of the income tax under Chapter 1. The deduction for bad debts under section 23 (k) shall be allowed only with respect to debts which have become worthless within the taxable year. No reserve for bad debts arising from installment accounts receivable may be set up for excess profits tax purposes, and no bad debt deduction shall be allowed for any additions to such a reserve. Only those debts which have become worthless within the taxable year and which are allowed as a deduction in the computation of net income for the purposes of the income tax under Chapter 1 for the taxable year shall be allowed in the determination of the bad debt deduction for excess profits tax purposes under section 736 (a). If a debt reflected in installment accounts receivable was created in a prior excess profits tax taxable year for which the income for excess profits tax purposes was computed upon the straight accrual basis or was recomputed upon the straight accrual basis pursuant to an election made under section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–2, and the total amount of the profit represented by such installment accounts receivable was included in gross income for such year, the amount of the deduction for the bad debt shall be computed upon the straight accrual basis and shall not be limited to the unrecovered cost of the goods or article sold in consideration of such debt.

In computing the net operating loss deductible for the purposes of the excess profits tax for a taxable year pursuant to section 23 (s), section 122, and section 711 (a) (1) (J) or section 711 (a) (2) (L):

(a) The net operating loss under section 122 (a) for any prior or subsequent taxable year and the net income under section 122 (b) for any prior taxable year shall be determined by computing income from installment sales upon the straight accrual basis if for the purposes of the excess profits tax for such prior or subsequent years the income would be so computed upon the straight accrual basis pursuant to an election made under section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–2;

(b) The net operating loss under section 122 (a) for any subsequent taxable year shall be determined by computing income from installment sales upon the installment method provided by section 44 (a) if for the purposes of the excess profits tax for such year income from installment sales would be so computed under the method provided by section 44 (a) pursuant to an election made under section 736 (a) to abandon the straight accrual method (see § 30.736 (a)–4);

(c) The net operating loss for a taxable year beginning in 1939 shall be the net operating loss determined under the provisions of Chapter 1 applicable to such year, without regard to any election subsequently made under section 736 (a);

(d) The excess profits net income for the taxable year in which the net operating loss deduction is computed shall, for the purposes of the reduction provided by section 711 (a) (1) (J) (ii) or section 711 (a) (2) (L) (ii) be determined by computing income from installment sales under the straight accrual basis pursuant to the election made under section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–2.

In computing normal tax net income for the purposes of determining excess profits net income, the credit for dividends received shall be limited to 85 percent of the adjusted net income computed by placing income from installment sales on the straight accrual basis as provided in this section, instead of on the installment basis.

The unused excess profits credit under section 710 (c) (2) for any excess profits tax taxable year for which the excess profits net income is computed by determining income from installment sales on the straight accrual basis pursuant to the election exercised under section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–2 shall be computed with regard to the excess profits net income so computed. For any excess profits tax taxable year for which income from installment sales is computed under the method provided by section 44 (a), pursuant to an election under section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–4 to abandon the straight accrual basis, the unused excess profits credit shall be computed with regard to the excess profits net income so computed. The adjusted excess profits net income used in the computation of the unused excess profits credit carry-back and carry-over under section 710 (c) (3) shall be the adjusted excess profits net income computed by determining income from installment sales on the straight accrual basis as described in this section. The unused excess profits credit adjustment for any taxable year shall be the aggregate of the unused excess profits credit carry-overs and unused excess profits credit carry-backs to such taxable year, and shall be applied against excess profits net income for such year computed by determining income from installment sales on the straight accrual basis. However, no unused excess profits credit carry-back may be used against excess profits net income for an excess profits tax taxable year beginning prior to January 1, 1941, regardless of the fact that the excess profits net income for such year had been increased by income from installment sales computed on the straight accrual basis, whereas if such income had been computed on the installment basis the income from installment sales would be attributable to a subsequent taxable year to which an unused excess profits credit carry-back would be allowed. For the computation of the unused excess profits credit adjustment, see section 710 (c) and § 30.710-4.

If an election is made under section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–2 for an excess profits tax taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, or for a subsequent taxable year, to compute excess profits net income on the straight accrual basis in lieu of the installment basis:

(a) With respect to a taxable year beginning in 1940, the income tax determined under Chapter 1 shall be based upon normal tax net income which includes income from installment sales computed under the method provided by section 44 (a) and the excess profits tax shall be based upon adjusted excess profits net income which shall include income from installment sales computed upon the straight accrual basis as described in this section. The amount of the income tax shall be allowed as an adjustment under section 711 (a) (1) (A), in computing excess profits net income based on income, and under section 711 (a) (2) (C), in computing excess profits net income based on invested capital, as applicable to a taxable year beginning on January 1, 1940.

(b) With respect to a taxable year beginning in 1941 and not ending after June 30, 1942, the normal tax and surtax determined under Chapter 1 shall be based upon normal tax net income and surtax net income which include income from installment sales computed under the method provided by section 44 (a), and the excess profits tax shall be based upon adjusted excess profits net income which shall include income from installment sales computed upon the straight accrual basis as described in this section. The excess profits tax allowed as a deduction under the provisions of section 23 (c), applicable to a taxable year beginning on January 1, 1941, in the computation of net income for normal tax and surtax purposes shall be the amount of excess profits tax determined pursuant to the election under section 736 (a).

(c) With respect to taxable years beginning in 1941 and ending after June 30, 1942, the tentative normal tax and surtax for the purposes of the tentative tax provided in section 108 (a) (1) (A) and the tentative excess profits tax provided in section 710 (a) (3) (A) shall be computed as described in the preceding paragraph (b), and the tentative normal tax and surtax for the purposes of the tentative tax provided in section 108 (a) (1) (B) and the tentative excess profits tax provided in section 710 (a) (3) (B) shall be computed as described in the succeeding paragraph (d).

(d) With respect to a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, the normal tax and surtax determined under Chapter 1 shall be based upon normal tax net income and surtax net income which include income from installment sales computed under the method provided by section 44 (a), and the excess profits tax shall be based upon adjusted excess profits net income which shall include income from installment sales computed upon the straight accrual basis as described in this section. The normal tax net income and the corporation surtax net income for the purposes of the normal tax and surtax under Chapter 1 shall be determined by using as the credit under section 26 (e) (relating to income subject to excess profits tax) the amount of adjusted excess profits net income computed by determining income from installment sales upon the straight accrual basis. For the purposes of determining the excess profits tax under section 710 (a) (1) (B), as an amount which, when added to the normal tax and surtax for such year equals 80 percent of the corporation surtax net income computed without regard to the credit under section 26 (e), the corporation surtax net income shall include income from installment sales computed upon the straight accrual basis described in this section, the credit for dividends received used in computing corporation surtax net income shall be limited to 85 percent of the net income which shall include income from installment sales computed upon such straight accrual basis, and the normal tax and surtax shall be the actual normal tax and surtax determined under Chapter 1.

The income tax and excess profits tax for any taxable year recomputed as provided in this section pursuant to the election under section 736 (a) shall be the income tax and the excess profits tax for such year for the purposes of the provisions of Supplement L of Chapter 1, relating to assessment and collection of deficiency, the provisions of Supplement M of Chapter 1, relating to interest and additions to the tax, and the provisions of Supplement O, of Chapter 1, relating to overpayments. Any amount of excess profits tax deferred under section 710 (a) (5) on account of relief claimed under section 722, any amount of foreign tax credit under section 729 (c) and (d) which is limited to a portion of the excess profits tax imposed, any credit for debt retirement under section 783, and any amount of post war refund under section 780 shall be computed with respect to the excess profits tax so determined. Likewise, any amount of foreign tax credit under section 131 which is limited to a portion of the income tax imposed shall be computed with respect to the income tax so determined.

The provisions of this section may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. Corporation I, which came into existence early in 1936, is a retail dealer selling personal property on the installment plan. It computes its income on the calendar year basis under the method provided in section 44 (a). It has established that the average outstanding installment accounts receivable at the end of the years 1938, 1939, 1940, and 1941 is more than 125 percent of the amount of outstanding installment accounts receivable at the end of 1942. It therefore elects under section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–2 to compute its income from installment sales upon the straight accrual basis for purposes of the excess profits tax for the year 1942; income from such sales for the years 1940 and 1941 must also be computed upon the straight accrual basis. The net income of corporation I from installment sales computed upon the installment method and upon the straight accrual basis, the deductions (not including any deduction for excess profits tax) and the amount of income which will not be subject to excess profits tax as a result of the election under section 736 (a) are shown in the following schedule:

The average base period net income pursuant to section 713 (d) and (f) for 1940 is $254,675, i. e., one-half of the sum of $171,175 (the income for 1938 less the amount of the income tax for such year (pursuant to section 711 (b) (1) (A) applicable with respect to a taxable year beginning in 1940)), $254,675 (the income for 1939 less the amount of the income tax for such year computed as provided above), and $165,215 (one-half of the amount by which the aggregate of the incomes for 1938 and 1939 (computed as provided above) exceeds the aggregate of the incomes for 1936 of $17,760 and 1937 of $77,660 (computed as provided above)) but not in excess of $254,675. § 30.736 (a)–4 Election to abandon straight accrual basis and to return to installment basis. If the taxpayer establishes for any excess profits tax taxable year subsequent to the year in which it elected under the provisions of section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–2 to compute for excess profits tax purposes income from installment sales on the straight accrual basis that:

(a) Such election was based upon a comparison of the average volume of credit extended to purchasers on the installment plan in the installment base period with the volume of credit for such year, and that such average volume of credit extended in the installment base period is not more than 125 percent of the volume of credit extended to purchasers on the installment plan in the taxable year, or

(b) Such election was based upon a comparison of the average outstanding accounts receivable for the installment base period with the amount of such accounts receivable at the end of such year, and that such average outstanding accounts receivable for the installment base period is not more than 125 percent of the amount of such accounts receivable at the end of the taxable year, the taxpayer may elect in its excess profits tax return for the taxable year to abandon for excess profits tax purposes the computation of income from installment sales on the straight accrual basis and may elect under the method provided by section 44 (a) to compute its income from installment sales as that proportion of installment payments actually received in the taxable year which the gross profit realized or to be realized when payment is completed, bears to the total contract price. When made, such election shall be irrevocable and shall be applicable not only to the taxable year for which the election is made but also to all subsequent excess profits tax taxable years. No such election may be made if subsequent to the year for which the taxpayer has elected under section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–2 to compute its income from installment sales on the straight accrual basis, the taxpayer has received permission from the Commissioner under section 41 and § 19.41–2 to change its accounting method for purposes of the income tax under Chapter 1 to the straight accrual basis. An election made under section 736 (a) and this section to abandon the straight accrual basis and to resume the installment basis method provided by section 44 (a) precludes any further election under section 736 (a) and § 30.736 (a)–2, and no future election can be made to compute, for excess profits tax purposes, income from installment sales on the straight accrual basis.

If the election under section 736 (a) and this section is made to resume the installment method of computing income from installment sales, the income from such sales computed upon such basis shall be included in excess profits net income for the taxable year for which the election is made and for all subsequent excess profits tax taxable years. Such income shall be computed in accordance with section 44 (c), and amounts received during any such year on account of sales or other disposition of property made in any prior year (whether the income for such prior year was computed on the installment or the straight accrual basis) shall not be excluded in the computation of excess profits net income.

In computing the net operating loss deduction pursuant to section 23 (s), section 122, and section 711 (a) (1) (J) or section 711 (a) (2) (L) for the purposes of the excess profits tax for a taxable year for which income from installment sales is computed under the method provided by section 44 (a) pursuant to an election under section 736 (a) and this section to abandon the straight accrual basis:

(a) The net operating loss under section 122 (a) and the net income under section 122 (b) for any prior taxable year shall be determined by computing income from installment sales upon the basis, straight accrual basis or installment basis provided by section 44 (a), used in computing excess profits net income for such year,

(b) The net operating loss for any subsequent taxable year shall be determined by computing income from installment sales upon the installment basis method provided in section 44 (a),

(c) The excess profits net income for the taxable year for which the net operating loss deduction is computed shall, for the purposes of the reduction provided by section 711 (a) (1) (J) (ii) or section 711 (a) (2) (L) (ii), be determined by computing income from installment sales under the installment basis method provided by section 44 (a).

The unused excess profits credit under section 710 (c) (2) for any prior excess profits tax taxable year and the adjusted excess profits net income for any such year (used in the computation of the unused excess profits credit carry-over) shall be determined upon the basis of the excess profits net income for such year which shall include income from installment sales computed upon the basis, straight accrual basis or installment basis provided by section 44 (a), used in computing excess profits net income for such year. The unused excess profits credit for a subsequent excess profits tax taxable year shall be determined upon the basis of the excess profits net income which shall include income from installment sales computed upon the installment method provided by section 44 (a). The unused excess profits credit adjustment for any taxable year shall be the aggregate of the unused excess profits credit carry-overs and unused excess profits credit carry-backs to such year. For the computation of the unused excess profits credit adjustment, see section 710 (c) and § 30.710–4.

With respect to those excess profits tax taxable years for which the taxpayer has resumed the computation of income from installment sales on the installment basis provided by section 44 (a), normal tax net income and corporation surtax net income for the purposes of computing the excess profits tax shall, prior to any adjustments under section 711 (a) and section 710 (a) (1) (B), be the normal tax net income and the corporation surtax net income used in the computation of the normal tax and the surtax under chapter 1.

* * * * * * *

(d) Installment basis and other taxpayers. Subchapter E of Chapter 2 is amended by inserting after section 735 the following new section:

Sec. 736. Relief for installment basas taxpayers and taxpayers with income from long-term contracts. (Revenue Act of 1942, Title II.)

(b) Election on long-term contracts. In the case of any taxpayer computing income from contracts the performance of which requires more than 12 months, if it is abnormal for the taxpayer to derive income of such class, or, if the taxpayer normally derives income of such class but the amount of such income of such class includible in the gross income of the taxable year is in excess of 125 per centum of the average amount of the gross income of the same class for the four previous taxable years, or, if the taxpayer was not in existence for four previous taxable years, the taxable years during which the taxpayer was in existence, it may elect, in its return for such taxable year for the purposes of this subchapter, or in the case of a taxable year the return for which was filed prior to the date of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1942, within 6 months after the date of the enactment of such Act, to compute, in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, such income upon the percentage of completion method of accounting. Such election shall be made in accordance with such regulations and shall be irrevocable when once made and shall apply to all other contracts, past, present, or future, the performance of which required or requires more than 12 months. The net income of the taxpayer for each year prior to that with respect to which the election is made shall be adjusted for the purposes of this subchapter, including the computation of excess profits net income in each taxable year of the base period under section 711 (b), to conform to such election but for purposes of chapter 1, the tax imposed by this subchapter for any prior taxable year on account of the adjustment required by this subsection shall be considered a part of the tax imposed by this subchapter for the taxable year in which such income is, without regard to this subsection, includible in gross income. Income described in this subsection shall not be considered abnormal income under section 721.

(e) Retroactive application of provisions relative to general relief and income from long-term contracts.

(2) Subsection (b) of section 736 and so much of subsection (c) as is applicable thereto shall be applicable only with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941, except that, if a taxpayer, within six months after the date of enactment of this Act and in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, elects to have such subsections apply retroactively to all taxable years beginning after December 31, 1939, such amendments shall also be applicable to such taxable years.

§ 30.736 (b)–1 Taxpayers with income from long-term contracts; eligibility for relief. Section 736 (b) provides relief with respect to a taxpayer which computes, pursuant to section 42 and § 19.42–4 (b), income from contracts the performance of which requires more than twelve months (hereinafter called "long-term contracts") for the taxable year in which such contracts are finally completed and accepted (hereinafter called the "completed contract basis"), if such taxpayer establishes that either:

(a) It is abnormal for the taxpayer to derive income from such class of long-term contracts, or

(b) The taxpayer normally derives income from such class of long-term contracts, but the amount of such income of such class includible in the gross income of the taxpayer for the taxable year is in excess of 125 percent of the average amount of the gross income of the same class for the four previous taxable years, or if the taxpayer was not in existence for four previous taxable years, the taxable years during which the taxpayer was in existence (hereinafter called the "long-term contract base period"). In determining whether performance required a period of more than twelve months, only the period beginning with the commencement of the work and ending with its completion shall be taken into account. If twelve months or less elapse between the beginning of the work and its completion, the contract is not a long-term contract even though more than twelve months may have elapsed between the execution of such contract and the completion of its performance.

The average amount of gross income from long-term contracts in the long-term contract base period of a taxpayer shall be the aggregate of the gross incomes from such long-term contracts for each year in such base period divided by the number of months in such period and multiplied by twelve. If the taxable year for which the election under section 736 (b) and § 30.736 (b)–2 is made is a year of less than twelve months, the number of months in such year shall be used for the purposes of the preceding sentence instead of twelve. For the definition of gross income see section 22 (a).

§ 30.736 (b)–2 Election to report income upon percentage of completion basis. If the taxpayer satisfies the eligibility requirements provided in section 736 (b) and § 30.736 (b)–1 with respect to a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1939, it may elect in its excess profits tax return for such year, or if the election is made for a taxable year the excess profits tax return for which was filed prior to October 21, 1942 (the date of enactment of the Revenue Act of 1942) it may elect not later than April 21, 1943 (six months after the date of enactment of the Revenue Act of 1942), to compute its income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting provided in § 19.42–4 (a).

If the election to compute income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting is made in an excess profits tax return filed on or after October 21, 1942, the taxpayer shall file with its return for such year the following:

(a) A schedule setting forth in columnar form a comparison between the gross income from long-term contracts reported in the long-term contract base period and the gross income from long-term contracts which would be reported upon the completed contract basis for the taxable year, together with a statement of the percentage which the latter bears to the average of the former.

(b) A schedule showing the recomputation of the average base period net income and the excess profits net income for each year in the base period with income from long-term contracts computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting. Included in this schedule shall be an analysis of all long-term contracts entered into, the income from which has been reported in income tax returns for the purposes of chapter 1 for the taxable years beginning with the first taxable year in the base period of the taxpayer and ending with the taxable year for which the election is made, and including all long-term contracts which in such year of election are in the process of completion. The schedule shall contain a statement of the percentage of completion of such contracts for all such years supported, if possible, by architect's certificates or, if such certificates are not obtainable for such prior years, by other competent evidence establishing the percentage of completion claimed for such years.

(c) Amended excess profits tax returns for each prior excess profits tax taxable year for which a recomputation is necessitated by reason of the election to recompute income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting, and amended income tax returns if necessary to reflect the recomputation of excess profits tax for such prior year. If the recomputation has produced an overassessment for any of such years, the taxpayer should file a claim for refund on Form 843 with the amended returns for such years.

If the taxpayer desires to make the election under section 736 (b) for an excess profits tax taxable year, the return for which was filed prior to October 21, 1942, such election shall be made by the taxpayer filing an amended excess profits tax return for such year and an amended income tax return for such year, if necessary to reflect the recomputation of the excess profits tax for the year, on or before April 21, 1943. The additional information set forth in the preceding paragraph, shall also be filed with such returns.

If the taxpayer elects under the provisions of section 736 (b) and this section to compute its excess profits net income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting, such election shall be irrevocable when once made. The election shall apply to all other long-term contracts entered into by the taxpayer, whether completed in the past, or in the taxable year, or whether such contracts are partly performed and are to be completed in the future, and to contracts which may be entered into in the future as well as to contracts which have already been entered into by the taxpayer. The income for excess profits tax purposes for each taxable year prior to the year in which the election is made to compute excess profits net income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting shall be adjusted to conform to such method. The excess profits net income under section 711 (b) for each taxable year in the base period, for the purposes of computing the average base period net income under section 713 or section 742, shall also be adjusted so as to conform to such election and the income from long-term contracts shall be computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting. If the taxpayer uses the excess profits credit based upon invested capital pursuant to section 714, the determination of accumulated earnings and profits shall be made without regard to any adjustment resulting from any election made under section 736 (b) or this section, except as such election is reflected in the amount of income tax or excess profits tax payable for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1939.

The election made pursuant to section 736 (b) and this section to compute income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting shall apply only with respect to average base period net income and to excess profits net income for an excess profits tax taxable year. For purposes of the income tax under Chapter 1, or the surtax on personal holding companies or the declared value excess profits tax under Chapter 2, income from such contracts shall be computed upon the completed contract basis.

If the taxpayer does not satisfy the eligibility requirements of section 736 (b) and § 30.736 (b)–1 for a taxable year beginning prior to January 1, 1943, it is not precluded from electing for any subsequent excess profits tax taxable year with respect to which it satisfies such eligibility requirements to compute its income from long-term contracts on the percentage of completion basis for the purposes of the excess profits tax. Moreover, the taxpayer need not elect under section 736 (b) and this section to compute income from long-term contracts on the percentage of completion basis for the first excess profits tax taxable year with respect to which the eligibility requirements are satisfied. Failure so to elect does not preclude an election for a subsequent excess profits tax taxable year with respect to which the eligibility requirements are met.

§ 30.736 (b)–3 Computation of net income upon percentage of completion method of accounting—(a) Excess profits tax taxable year. If a taxpayer has elected under section 736 (b) and § 30.736 (b)–2 to compute for excess profits tax purposes its net income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting, in lieu of the completed contract basis, gross income from such long-term contracts shall be reported for each excess profits tax taxable year upon the basis of percentage of completion of such contract in such year. There shall be deducted from such gross income for a taxable year all expenditures made during such year on account of the contract, account being taken of the material and supplies on hand at the beginning and end of the taxable year for use in connection with the work under the contract but not yet so applied. Any deductions under section 23 which are limited to a percentage of net income (computed without regard to such deduction, as for example, the deduction for charitable contributions which is allowed by section 23 (q)) shall, for excess profits tax purposes, be determined upon the basis of such net income with the income from long-term contracts computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting, and not upon the basis of net income for chapter 1 purposes. No reserve for bad debts arising from accounts receivable from long-term contracts may be set up for excess profits tax purposes unless a reserve has been established for income tax purposes.

In computing the net operating loss deduction for the purposes of the excess profits tax for a taxable year pursuant to section 23 (s), section 122, and section 711 (a) (1) (J) or section 711 (a) (2) (L), the net operating loss under section 122 (a) and the net income under section 122 (b) for any taxable year prior or subsequent to the taxable year in which the election under section 736 (b) and § 30.736 (b)–2 is made shall be determined by computing income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting. The excess profits net income for the taxable year for which the net operating loss deduction is computed shall, for the purposes of the reduction provided by section 711 (a) (1) (J) (ii) or section 711 (a) (2) (L) (ii), be determined by computing income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting.

In computing normal tax net income for the purposes of determining excess profits net income, the credit for dividends received shall be limited to 85 percent of the adjusted net income computed by determining income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting as provided in section 736 (b) and this section, instead of upon the completed contract basis.

With respect to a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, or with respect to the tentative excess profits tax computation under section 710 (a) (3) (B) in the case of a taxable year beginning in 1941 and ending after June 30, 1942, the excess profits tax may be computed under section 710 (a) (1) (B) as an amount which when added to the normal tax and surtax computed under Chapter 1, or under section 108 (a) (1) (B) if the taxable year begins in 1941 and ends after June 30, 1942, equals 80 percent of the corporation surtax net income computed without regard to the credit under section 26 (e) (relating to income subject to excess profits tax). For such purpose, the corporation surtax net income shall be determined by computing the income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting. The credit for dividends received used in computing corporation surtax net income shall be limited to 85 percent of the net income determined by computing income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting, and the normal and surtax shall be the actual normal tax and surtax determined under Chapter 1, or under section 108 (a) (1) (B) if the taxable year begins in 1941 and ends after June 30, 1942.

The unused excess profits credit under section 710 (c) (2) for any excess profits tax taxable year for which the excess profits net income is determined by computing income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting pursuant to the election exercised under section 736 (b) and § 30.736 (b)–2 shall be computed with regard to the excess profits net income so computed. The adjusted excess profits net income used in the computation of the unused excess profits credit carry-back and carry-over under section 710 (c) (3) shall be the adjusted excess profits net income determined by computing income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting as described in this section. The unused excess profits credit adjustment for any taxable year shall be the aggregate of the unused excess profits carry-overs and unused excess profits credit carry-backs to such taxable year, and shall be applied against excess profits net income for such year determined by computing income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting. However, no unused excess profits carry-back may be used against excess profits net income for an excess profits tax taxable year beginning prior to January 1, 1941, regardless of the fact that the excess profits net income for such year has been increased by income from long-term contracts computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting, whereas if such income had been computed upon the completed contract basis it would be attributable to a subsequent taxable year to which an unused excess profits credit carry-back would be allowed. For the computation of the unused excess profits credit adjustment, see section 710 (c) and § 30.710–4.

The excess profits tax for a taxable year recomputed as provided in this section shall be the excess profits tax for such year for the purposes of the provisions of Supplement L of Chapter 1, relating to assessment and collection of deficiency, the provisions of Supplement M of Chapter 1, relating to interest and additions to tax, and the provisions of Supplement O of Chapter 1, relating to overpayments. Any amount of excess profits tax deferred under section 710 (a) (5) on account of relief claimed under section 722, any amount of foreign tax credit under section 729 (c) and (d) which is limited to a portion of the excess profits tax imposed, any credit for debt retirement under section 783, and any amount of post-war refund under section 780 shall be computed with respect to the excess profits tax so determined.

In no event shall income from long-term contracts computed for excess profits tax purposes upon the percentage of completion method of accounting pursuant to an election under section 736 (b) and § 30.736 (b)–2 be considered abnormal income under section 721.

(b) Taxable year in the base period. If a taxpayer elects, pursuant to section 736 (b) and § 30.736 (b)–2, to compute its income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting, the excess profits net income for a taxable year in the base period to be used in computing the average base period net income shall be computed pursuant to section 711 (b) but with income from long-term contracts computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting as described in § 30.736 (b)–3 in lieu of the completed contract basis method. In such event gross income attributable to each long-term contract shall be placed in the appropriate year in the base period upon the percentage of completion method of accounting, regardless of whether such contract was completed in a subsequent year in the base period or in an excess profits tax taxable year and regardless of when gross income from such contract was reported for income tax purposes under Chapter 1. Likewise, gross income attributable to each long-term contract completed during a taxable year in the base period shall be included in income for such year only to the extent to which such income is attributable to the percentage of the contract completed in such year. Gross income attributable to the percentage of the contract completed prior cable to taxable years beginning after computing net income for section 102

Assume that except for the deductions to the base period shall be excluded in the computation of excess profits net income for a taxable year in the base period and consequently from average base period net income. There shall be deducted from such gross income for each taxable year in the base period all expenditures made during the taxable year on account of the contract, account being taken of the material and supplies on hand at the beginning and end of each year for use in connection with the work under the contract but not yet so applied.

(c) Adjustment of income tax liability. For purposes of the normal tax and surtax and of the surtax on corporations improperly accumulating surplus imposed by Chapter 1, the excess profits tax imposed by Subchapter E of Chapter 2 for any taxable year on account of the adjustment in excess profits tax for such year required by the recomputation of income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting pursuant to the election under section 736 (b), shall be considered a part of the excess profits tax imposed by Subchapter E of Chapter 2 for the taxable year in which such income is, without regard to the provisions of section 736 (b), includible in gross income.

The excess profits tax imposed by Subchapter E of Chapter 2 for any excess profits tax taxable year on account of the recomputation of income from long-term contracts required by section 736 (b) shall be the amount by which the excess profits tax imposed for such year with the income from long-term contracts computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting exceeds the excess profits tax imposed for such year computed upon the completed contract basis method of accounting. The amount of such increase in excess profits tax which is attributable to the inclusion in excess profits net income for such year of income from long-term contracts computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting shall be added to the excess profits tax imposed for the year in which the income from such long-term contracts would be includible in gross income under the completed contract basis method of accounting. The amount of such increase shall be the increase prior to the inclusion in the excess profits tax for the taxable year in which the increase is determined of any increase in a prior taxable year attributable to a contract the gross income from which would be reported upon the completed contract basis for the year for which the increase is determined. If an increase in excess profits tax for a taxable year is due to income attributable to two or more contracts which are not completed in such year but the income from which is included in excess profits net income for such year upon the percentage of completion method of accounting, the portion of such increase attributable to each contract shall be the same proportion of the total increase for such year which the income attributable to such contract for such year is of the total income from such contracts for such year. The amount of income computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting which is attributable to a contract in any taxable year shall be the gross income (so computed) minus the direct costs for such year on account of such contract, but shall not include any deductions, expenses, or costs which are not directly charged to such contract under the method of cost accounting employed by the taxpayer. The increase in excess profits tax so attributed to each contract shall be considered to be a part of the excess profits tax for the taxable year in which such contract is completed and in which the income would be reported under the completed contract basis method of accounting.

For the purposes of the deduction under section 23 (c) (2) for excess profits tax with respect to a taxable year beginning in 1941, or of the credit under section 26 (e) for income subject to excess profits tax with respect to a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, the excess profits tax for any taxable year for which an increase in tax is considered to be part of the tax for a subsequent taxable year shall be deemed to be the excess profits tax computed for such year upon the completed contract basis method of accounting, increased by any increase in excess profits tax for a prior taxable year due to income from long-term contracts being computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting if the income from such contracts would have been reported for the taxable year upon the completed contract basis.

If the excess profits tax imposed for an excess profits tax taxable year recomputed pursuant to the election under section 736 (b) is less than the excess profits tax imposed for such prior year computed without regard to the election under section 736 (b), there is no amount of excess profits tax attributable to any contract which is to be completed in a future year and the income from which, computed upon the completed contract basis, would be included in gross income for such future year. Consequently no adjustment in the excess profits tax for such future year is to be made. With respect to the taxable year for which the excess profits tax recomputed pursuant to the election under section 736 (b) is less than the excess profits tax computed without regard to such election, the excess profits tax for the purposes of Chapter 1 shall be the excess profits tax computed pursuant to the election under section 736 (b) increased by any increase in excess profits tax for a prior taxable year due to income from long-term contracts being computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting if the income from such contracts would have been reported for the taxable year upon the completed contract basis.

The excess profits tax imposed by Subchapter E of Chapter 2 for any taxable year shall be the tax prior to the tax deferment under section 710 (a) (5), prior to the credit for foreign taxes under section 729 (c) and (d), prior to the credit for debt retirement under section 783, and prior to the adjustment under section 734 in case of position inconsistent with prior income tax liability. The recomputation pursuant to the election under section 736 (b) of excess profits tax imposed for any taxable year involves not only a recomputation of the excess profits net income for such taxable year by placing income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting, but also a recomputation of the average base period net income upon such accounting method, if the excess profits credit based on income pursuant to section 713 is used.

If income from long-term contracts is computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting pursuant to the election under section 736 (b), the following rules are applicable in determining, for the purposes of chapter 1, the excess profits tax, and the method of utilizing such tax, for a taxable year in which income from such contracts would be reported upon the completed contract basis:

(i) Since there is no deduction or credit for the purposes of the income tax under chapter 1 for taxable years beginning in 1940 on account of the excess profits tax or income subject to excess profits tax, there is no adjustment for Chapter 1 purposes for such years under section 736 (b).

(ii) With respect to taxable years beginning in 1941 and not ending after June 30, 1942, the excess profits tax is allowed as deduction under section 23 (c) (2) in the computation of net income. Thus any increase in excess profits tax for a taxable year beginning in 1940 on account of the recomputation upon the percentage of completion method of accounting of income from long-term contracts which would, if the provisions of section 736 (b) were inapplicable, be reported in the taxable year beginning in 1941 shall be deemed a part of the excess profits tax for such taxable year beginning in 1941 and shall be deducted under section 23 (c) (2) applicable to such year in computing the income tax imposed by Chapter 1 for such year.

(iii) The income tax for a taxable year beginning in 1941 and ending after June 30, 1942, is computed as the sum of the proportionate parts of two tentative income taxes. (See section 108 (a) (1).) The excess profits tax for such year is computed in a comparable manner. Thus any increase in excess profits tax for a taxable year beginning in 1940, as a result of the adjustments required by section 736 (b) must be deemed a part of both tentative excess profits taxes for the purposes of computing both tentative income taxes. The first tentative income tax is computed according to the law applicable to taxable years beginning on January 1, 1941. Therefore, the first tentative excess profits tax, including any increase in excess profits tax for a taxable year beginning in 1940, resulting from section 736 (b), shall be deducted under section 23 (c) in computing net income for the purposes of such income tax. The second tentative income tax is computed with regard to certain amendments made by the Revenue Act of 1942 to section 26 (e) applicable to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941, which provide for a credit against adjusted net income for income subject to excess profits tax instead of a deduction under section 23 (c) for the excess profits tax. Consequently, the computation of the second tentative income tax shall be made in accordance with the principles prescribed for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941.

(iv) In the case of taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941, there is allowed as a credit by section 26 (e) in computing normal tax net income and surtax net income, the amount of income subject to excess profits tax. If the excess profits tax is computed pursuant to an election under section 736 (b), such income is the amount of which the excess profits tax computed under section 710 (a) (1) (A) is 90 percent. For purposes of the credit provided by section 26 (e), the amount of excess profits tax so computed is considered to include the increase in excess profits tax imposed for a year beginning prior to January 1, 1942, and attributable to a contract which is completed, and the income from which would be reported on the completed contract basis, in a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941. Consequently, the excess profits tax for a year beginning in 1942 would be deemed to include any increase in excess profits tax for a taxable year beginning in 1940 or 1941 and attributable to a contract ending in 1942.

(v) In the case of the surtax on corporations improperly accumulating surplus the amount of excess profits tax payable for a taxable year beginning in 1940 shall be deducted in determining section 102 net income for such year pursuant to section 102 (d) (1) (A) as applicable to such year, the amount of excess profits tax payable for a taxable year beginning in 1941 (whether or not such year ends after June 30, 1942) shall be deducted under section 23 (c) (2) in computing net income for section 102 purposes for such year, and the credit under section 26 (e) for income subject to excess profits tax for a year beginning in 1942 or in subsequent years shall be deducted in determining section 102 net income for such year pursuant to section 102 (d) (1) (D).

The income tax for a taxable year recomputed as provided in this section shall be the income tax for such year for the purposes of the provisions of Supplement L of Chapter 1, relating to assessment and collection of deficiency, the provision of Supplement M of Chapter 1, relating to interest and additions to tax, and the provisions of Supplement O of Chapter 1, relating to overpayments. Any amount of foreign tax credit under section 131 which is limited to a portion of the income tax imposed shall be computed with respect to the income tax so determined.

The provisions of this section may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. Corporation C, which came into existence early in 1935, is a contractor deriving all its income from the performance of long-term contracts requiring more than twelve months to complete. It computes its income for income tax purposes on the calendar year basis under the provisions of section 42 and § 19.42-1 (b). It has established that gross income from long-term contracts completed in 1942 is in excess of 125 percent of the average amount of gross income from such contracts in 1938, 1939, 1940, and 1941. It therefore elects under section 736 (b) and § 30.736 (b)-2 to compute its income from long-term contracts upon the percentage of completion method of accounting. Income from such contracts must be computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting for the excess profits tax taxable years 1940, 1941, 1942, and subsequent years and also for the base period years 1936, 1937, 1938, and 1939. The net income of corporation C from long-term contracts computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting and upon the completed contract basis method of accounting, and the deductions (not including any deduction based upon excess profits tax) are shown in the following schedule:

Income from contracts upon completed contract basis (gross income minus expenditures)		$50,000	$150,000		$110,000	$200,000	$220,000	$270,000
Other deductions (not including excess profits tax or credit for income subject to excess profits tax)	$7,000	8,000	8,000	$10,000	11,000	12,000	15,000	11,000
Net income upon completed contract basis	(7,000)	42,000	142,000	(10,000)	99,000	188,000	205,000	259,000
Income from contracts upon percentage of completion method (gross income minus expenditures):
Contract A	30,000	20,000
Contract B	10,000	60,000	50,000
Contract C			30,000	40,000	40,000
Contract D				70,000	80,000	50,000
Contract E					10,000	90,000	40,000
Contract F						25,000	55,000
Contract G							150,000	100,000
Contract H (incomplete Dec. 31, 1942)							70,000	50,000
Total	70,000	80,000	80,000	110,000	130,000	165,000	315,000	150,000
Other deductions (not including excess profits tax or credit for income subject to excess profits tax)	7,000	8,000	8,000	10,000	11,000	12,000	15,000	11,000
Net income upon percentage of completion method	63,000	72,000	72,000	100,000	119,000	153,000	300,000	139,000

Assume that except for the deductions for income tax, excess profits tax, or for the credit for income subject to excess profits tax, there are no adjustments to net income shown in the preceding schedule in computing normal tax net income, corporation surtax net income, or excess profits net income, and that dividends out of earnings and profits were distributed for each year in the base period equal to the amount of the net income computed upon the completed contract basis for such year. The average base period net income computed upon the completed contract basis is determined under section 713 (d) and (e), since the income for the last half of the base period does not exceed the income for the first half. The average base period net income upon which is based the excess profits credit based on income for 1940 is $60,346.25, the aggregate of the incomes for 1936, 1937, and 1939 (the deficit for 1938 being excluded) reduced by the amount of the income tax for each such year pursuant to section 711 (b) (1) (A) applicable with respect to taxable years beginning in 1940, i. e., the sum of $36,860, $121,860, and $82,665 divided by four. The excess profits credit based on income for 1940 is $57,328.94 (95 percent of $60,346.25). The average base period net income upon which is based the excess profits credit based on income for 1941 is $70,750, i. e., the aggregate of the incomes for 1936, 1937, and 1939 (the deficit for 1938 being excluded) divided by four. The excess profits credit based on income for 1941 is $67,212.50 (95 percent of $70,750). The average base period net income upon which is based the excess profits credit based on income for 1942 is $88,437.50, i. e., the aggregate of the incomes for 1936, 1937, and 1939 plus $70,750 assumed to be the excess profits net income for 1938 under section 713 (e) (1) (75 percent of the average of the incomes for 1936, 1937, and 1939) divided by four. The excess profits credit based on income for 1942 is $84,015.63 (95 percent of $88,437.50). The average base period net income computed upon the percentage of completion method of accounting is determined under section 713 (d) and (f), since the income for the last half of the base period exceeds the income for the first half. The average base period net income for 1940 is $102,665, i. e., one-half of the sum of $100,000 (the income for 1938 less the amount of the income tax for such year computed upon the completed contract basis and pursuant to section 711 (b) (1) (A) applicable with respect to a taxable year beginning in 1940), $102,665 (the income for 1939 less the amount of the income tax for such year computed as provided above), and $41,972.50 (one-half of the amount by which the aggregate of the incomes for 1938 and 1939 computed as provided above) exceeds the aggregate of the incomes for 1936 of $66,860 and 1937 of $51,860 (computed as provided above) but not in excess of $102,665. The excess profits credit based on income for 1940 is $97,531.75 (95 percent of $102,665). The average base period net income for 1941 and subsequent years is $119,000, i. e., one-half of the sum of $100,000 (the income for 1938), $119,000 (the income for 1939), and $37,500 (one-half of the amount by which the aggregate of the incomes for 1938 and 1939 exceeds the aggregate of the incomes for 1936 and 1937) but not in excess of $119,000. The excess profits credit based on income for such years is $113,050 (95 percent of $119,000). The income and excess profits tax computed for each of the years 1940, 1941, and 1942 without regard to, and pursuant to an election under section 736 (b) is as follows:

(d) Installment basis and other taxpayers. Subchapter E of Chapter 2 is amended by inserting after section 735 the following new section:

SEC. 736. RELIEF FOR INSTALLMENT BASIS TAXPAYERS WITH INCOME FROM LONG-TERM CONTRACTS. (Revenue Act of 1942, Title II.)

* * * * * *

(c) Adjustment on account of change. If an adjustment specified in subsection (a) or subsection (b), as the case may be, is, with respect to any taxable year, prevented, on the date of the election by the taxpayer under subsection (a) or subsection (b), as the case may be, or within two years from such date, by any provision or rule of law (other than this section and other than section 3761, relating to comprises), such adjustment shall nevertheless be made if in respect of the taxable year for which adjustment is sought a notice of deficiency is mailed or a claim for refund is filed, as the case may be, within two years after the date such election is made. If at the time of the mailing of such notice of deficiency or the filing of such claim for refund, the adjustment is so prevented, then the amount of the adjustment authorized by this subsection shall be limited to the increase or decrease in the tax imposed by Chapter 1 and this subchapter previously determined for such taxable year which results solely from the effect of subsection (a), or subsection (b), as the case may be, and such amount shall be assessed and collected, or credited or refunded, in the same manner as if it were a deficiency or an overpayment, as the case may be, for such taxable year and as if on the date of such election, two years remain before the expiration of the period of limitation upon assessment or the filing of claim for refund for the taxable year. The tax previously determined shall be ascertained in accordance with section 734 (d). The amount to be assessed and collected under this subsection in the same manner as if it were a deficiency or to be refunded or credited in the same manner as if it were an overpayment shall not be diminished by any credit or set-off based upon any item, inclusion, deduction, credit, exemption, gain or loss, other than one resulting from the effect of subsection (a) or subsection (b), as the case may be. Such amount, if paid, shall not be recovered by a claim or suit for refund, or suit for erroneous refund based upon any item, inclusion, deduction, credit, exemption, gain or loss, other than one resulting from the effect of subsection (a) or subsection (b), as the case may be.

(e) Retroactive application of provisions relative to general relief and income from long-term contracts.

* * * * * *

(2) Subsection (b) of section 736 and so much of subsection (c) as is applicable thereto shall be applicable only with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941, except that, if a taxpayer, within six months after the date of enactment of this Act and in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, elects to have such subsections apply retroactively to all taxable years beginning after December 31, 1939, such amendments shall also be applicable to such taxable years.

SEC. 701. TAXABLE YEARS TO WHICH AMENDMENTS APPLICABLE. (Revenue Act of 1942, Title II.)

Except as otherwise expressly provided, the amendments made by this title shall be applicable only with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941.

§ 30.736 (c)–1 Adjustment on account of change arising from election under section 736 (a) or section 736 (b). The recomputation of the tax liability authorized by section 736 (c) applies to the income tax and to the surtax on corporations improperly accumulating surplus, imposed by chapter 1, and to the excess profits tax imposed by subchapter E of chapter 2. Under section 736 (c), if the adjustment of any of such taxes imposed for any taxable year, to give effect to the recomputations provided under section 736 (a) (in the case of an installment basis taxpayer) or under section 736 (b) (in the case of a taxpayer with long-term contracts), is prevented on the date of the election by the taxpayer under section 736 (a) or section 736 (b), as the case may be, or within two years from such date by any provision of law (other than section 736 and other than section 3761, relating to compromises) or by any rule of law, including the doctrine of res adjudicata, an adjustment shall nevertheless be made if with respect to the taxable year for which such adjustment is sought a notice of deficiency is mailed or a claim for refund is filed, as the case may be, within two years after the date such election was made. Section 736 (c) applies only if at the time of filing of a claim for refund or the mailing of the notice of the deficiency the adjustment would otherwise be prevented by the running of the statute of limitations, by the execution of a closing agreement, by the operation of the rule of res adjudicata, or because of other reasons. For reference to provisions which would prevent adjustment except for the provisions of section 736 (c), see § 19.3801 (b)–0. Section 736 (c) is not applicable if, on the date of the filing of the claim for refund or the mailing of the notice of deficiency, adjustment of the tax liability is permissible without recourse to such section.

The amount of the adjustment authorized by section 736 is limited to the increase or decrease in the tax imposed by Chapter 1 or the tax imposed by Subchapter E of Chapter 2 previously determined for the taxable year which results solely from the revision of the excess profits tax liability effectuated by section 736 (a) or section 736 (b), as the case may be, and the collateral effects of such revision upon items of income, deductions, credits, average base period net income, etc., already taken into account in ascertaining the tax previously determined. The tax previously determined shall be ascertained in accordance with section 734 (d). See § 30.734–4. If the amount of the adjustment determined under section 736 (c) represents an increase in tax, it is to be treated in the same manner, and assessed and collected as if it were a deficiency for the taxable year; if the amount of the adjustment represents a decrease in tax, it is to be treated, credited, or refunded, in the same manner as if it were an overpayment for the taxable year. In either case the increase or decrease shall be treated as if on the date of the election pursuant to section 736 (a) or section 736 (b), as the case may be, two years remain before the expiration of the period of limitation upon assessment or the filing of a claim for refund for the taxable year. The amount of the adjustment considered as a deficiency or as an overpayment, as the case may be, will bear interest to the extent provided by the internal revenue laws applicable to deficiencies and overpayments for the taxable year for which the adjustment is made.

The amount of any adjustment under section 736 (c) to be collected in the same manner as if it were a deficiency and the amount of any adjustment to be refunded or credited in the same manner as if it were an overpayment, as the case may be, shall not be diminished by any credit or set-off based upon any item, inclusion, deduction, credit, exemption or gain or loss other than one resulting from the effect of section 736 (a) or section 736 (b), as the case may be.

The amount of any adjustment under the provisions of section 736 (c) which is refunded may not subsequently be recovered in a suit for erroneous refund based upon any adjustment other than one resulting from the revision of excess profits tax liability occasioned by the recomputation of tax pursuant to an election under section 736 (a) or section 736 (b), as the case may be. The amount of any adjustment under section 736 (c) which is assessed and collected as a deficiency may not thereafter be recovered by the taxpayer in any suit for refund based upon any adjustment other than one resulting from the revision of excess profits tax liability occasioned by the recomputation of tax pursuant to an election under section 736 (a) or section 736 (b), as the case may be.

(Sec. 62 of the Internal Revenue Code (53 Stat. 32; 26 U.S.C., 62) as made applicable by sec. 729 (a) of the Internal Revenue Code (54 Stat. 789; 26 U.S.C. 729 (a)) and sec. 222 (d) and (e) (2) of the Revenue Act of 1942 (Pub. Law 753, 77th Cong.))

[Suspension Order S-271]

GEORGE L. OLES CO.

The George L. Oles Company, Youngstown, Ohio, is a corporation engaged in the general retail food business, and is a wholesale receiver of coffee within the meaning of Conservation Order M-135. During the months of July, August, September and October, 1942, the company accepted deliveries of 4,300 lbs. of coffee in excess of its quota as established by conservation Order M-135. The responsible officers of the company knew of the existence of Conservation Order M-135, that it restricted the operations of their business, but made no effort to learn its terms. Consequently, the above over-deliveries of coffee constitute a wilful violation of Conservation Order M-135.

This wilful violation of Conservation Order M-135 has hampered and impeded the war effort.

In view of the foregoing facts: It is hereby ordered, That:

§ 1010.271 Suspension Order No. S-271. (a) The George L. Oles Company, Youngstown, Ohio, its successors and assigns, shall not accept deliveries of coffee in any form from any person, except as hereafter specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(b) No person shall deliver coffee in any form to the George L. Oles Company, or its successors and assigns, except as hereinafter specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(c) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve the George L. Oles Company, its successors and assigns, from any restriction, prohibition or provision of any other order or regulation of the War Production Board except insofar as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(d) This order shall take effect on April 10, 1943, and shall expire on July 10, 1943, at which time it shall have no further force or effect.

Issued this 8th day of April 1943.

[Suspension Order S-274]

GARFUNKEL, INC.

Garfunkel, Inc., is a New Jersey corporation located at 750 Newark Avenue, Jersey City, New Jersey. It operates a retail store at the above address where it sells new fluorescent lighting fixtures over the counter. During the period June 1st through October 21, 1942, the respondent made twenty separate sales of fluorescent lighting fixtures totalling over one hundred fixtures, none of which sales were in accordance with the restrictions of Limitation Order L-78. The company knew of the existence of Limitation Order L-78, but made no effort to learn of its provisions.

These sales were in wilful violation of Limitation Order L-78, and have impeded and hampered the war effort of the United States. In view of the foregoing: It is hereby ordered, That:

§ 1010.274 Suspension Order No. S-274. (a) Deliveries of material or equipment to Garfunkel, Inc., its successors and assigns, shall not be accorded priority over deliveries under any other contract or order, and no preference rating shall be applied or assigned to such delivery by any preference rating certificate, preference rating order, general preference order, or any other orders or regulations of the War Production Board, except as hereafter specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(b) No allocation to Garfunkel, Inc., its successors and assigns, shall be made of any material, the supply or distribution of which is governed by any order of the War Production Board, except as hereafter specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(c) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve Garfunkel, Inc., its successors and assigns, from any restriction, prohibition or provision contained in any order or regulation of the War Production Board, except in so far as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(d) This order shall take effect on April 10, 1943, and shall expire on July 10, 1943 at which time it shall have no further force or effect.

Issued this 8th day of April 1943.

[General Conservation Order M-241-a as amended April 7, 1943[1]]

The fulfillment of requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply, for defense, for private account and for export, of various materials and facilities required in the manufacture and distribution of pulp, paper and paperboard; and the following order is deemed necessary in the public interest and to promote the national defense:

§ 3096.2 General Conservation Order M-241-a—(a) Definitions. For the purpose of this order:

(b) Restrictions on consumption of pulp, paper and/or paperboard in the manufacture of certain converted products. (1) No converter shall during the first calendar quarter of 1943, or any calendar quarter thereafter, consume in the manufacture of any article or class of articles on List A any quantity, in tons, of pulp, paper and/or paperboard greater than the quantity determined by applying the percentage figure on List A opposite the designation of such article or class of articles to either, at the option of the converter:

(i) The quantity, in tons, of pulp, paper and/or paperboard consumed by such converter in the manufacture of such article or class of articles during the corresponding quarter of 1942; or

(ii) One-fourth of the total quantity of pulp, paper and/or paperboard consumed by such converter in the manufacture of such article or class of articles during the entire calendar year of 1942.

(2) From and after February 15, 1943, no converter shall manufacture out of pulp, paper or paperboard any article or class of articles on List B except that for a period of 90 days from February 15, 1943, such converter may manufacture any article or class of articles on List B from pulp, paper or paperboard held by him in inventory on January 15, 1943.

(3) It shall be the duty of each converter to determine in the first instance which, if any, of his products are included among the articles and classes of articles on List A and B. In case of doubt he may apply to the War Production Board, in writing, describing the product in question, for a specific ruling, by telegram or letter, determining whether or not the same is so included. The War Production Board may of its own motion in any case, by telegram or letter, issue a specific ruling determining whether or not a particular product of a particular converter is so included.

(c) Applicability of priorities regulations. This order and all transactions affected thereby are subject to all applicable provisions of the priorities regulations of the War Production Board, as amended from time to time, except to the extent that any provision hereof may be inconsistent therewith, in which case the provisions of this order shall govern.

(e) Records. All persons affected by this order shall keep and preserve for not less than two years accurate and complete records concerning inventories, production and sales.

(f) Audit and inspection. All records required to be kept by this order shall, upon request, be submitted to audit and inspection by duly authorized representatives of the War Production Board.

(g) Reports. All persons affected by this order shall execute and file with the War Production Board such reports and questionnaires as said Board shall from time to time request.

(h) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or who, in connection with this order, wilfully conceals a material fact, or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States, is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, materials under priority control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(i) Communications. All communications concerning this order, shall, unless otherwise directed, be addressed to: War Production Board, Pulp and Paper Division, Washington, D. C. Ref.: M-241-a.

PART 1157—CONSTRUCTION MACHINERY AND EQUIPMENT

[Limitation Order L–192 as Amended April 9, 1943]

§ 1157.10 Limitation Order L–192—(a) Revocation of Limitation Order L–82 and L–82–a. This order, as of November 30, 1942, supersedes Limitation Orders Nos. L–82 and L–82–a. Such application when approved by the War Production Board shall establish all conditions under which such order may be placed with the supplier including the assignment of preference ratings if not previously granted.

(iii) A war agency shall furnish the Construction Machinery Division, War Production Board, Washington, D. C., with Form PD–556 made out in duplicate at the time that any order for such equipment is placed with a producer.

(iv) No person shall accept an order for such equipment from any person except a war agency, unless such order is accompanied by such authorization on Form PD–556.

(2) For Schedule B equipment. Nothing in this order shall prevent any person from placing or accepting an order for new equipment listed in Schedule B, subject to all applicable regulations of the War Production Board.

(3) For Schedule C equipment. (i) No person, except a war agency, may place an order for new equipment listed on Schedule C, and no person may accept such an order unless it is placed by a war agency and accompanied by an authorization to purchase on Form PD–556.

(ii) A war agency must file an application for authorization to purchase such equipment on Form PD–556 in quadruplicate with the Construction Machinery Division, War Production Board, Washington, D. C. A war agency may also file such an application for such equipment for use by a prime contractor on a construction project for such agency.

(4) For Schedule D equipment. In addition to such limitations and prohibitions as may be imposed by Order L–217 and all schedules thereto, on and after June 1, 1943, no person shall place or accept any order for new equipment listed in Schedule D.

(e) Restrictions on production of equipment. (1) No producer shall use or put into process any materials for the production or assembly of

(i) Any new equipment except in accordance with such production schedules as may be approved by the War Production Board as provided in paragraph (f) hereof;

(ii) Any new equipment designed for or requiring rubber tires except to fill an order placed by a war agency or unless the authorization on Form PD–556 required by paragraph (d) hereof specifically so provides;

(iii) Any parts to be physically incorporated into new equipment in excess of those required by approved production schedules: Provided, That this subparagraph (e) (1) (iii) shall not apply to the production of repair parts or components or attachments;

(iv) Any new equipment listed in Schedule C, except to fill an order authorized by the War Production Board on Form PD–556 pursuant to paragraph (d) (3) hereof.

(2) In addition to such limitations and prohibitions as may be imposed by Order L–217 and all schedules thereto, on and after May 1, 1943, no producer shall use or put into process any materials for the production or assembly of any equipment listed in Schedule D.

(f) Production schedules. (1) On or before November 25, 1942, and on or before the 15th day of each succeeding calendar month, every producer shall file in quadruplicate on Form PD–697 a statement of his production for the previous month and his proposed production schedule of all new equipment projected for all additional monthly periods for which production may be planned. Approval or modification of such production schedule of all new equipment for the three calendar months succeeding such filing, or for such shorter time as production may be planned, will be indicated on an approved copy of said Form PD–697 returned to such producer prior to the first day of the calendar month succeeding such filing. Except as provided in paragraph (f) (2) hereof, no producer shall change his production schedules as approved or changed by the War Production Board without specific authorization of the War Production Board.

(2) Any producer of new equipment listed in Schedule B may produce all or any one or more items of such equipment appearing on his approved production schedules on Form PD–697 at any time during the months for which the schedules were approved, and need not therefore in that regard produce in strict accordance or sequence with the individual monthly production schedules approved: Provided, That the total quantity of each item produced during such period shall not exceed that authorized on such approved schedules.

(g) Inventory reports. On or before November 25, 1942, and on or before the 15th day of each succeeding calendar month, every producer shall file in quadruplicate on Form PD–697, a statement of finished unsold inventory, as of the last day of the preceding calendar month, of new equipment including that in the possession of his dealers and distributors. (h) Prohibiting transfer and use of new equipment. On and after November 30, 1942, no producer shall use for other than experimental or demonstration purposes, or sell, lease, trade, lend, deliver, ship or transfer, any new equipment and no person shall accept the same unless

(1) Such equipment is then in transit to such person, or

(2) Such use, sale, lease, trade, loan, delivery, shipment or transfer has been specifically approved by the War Production Board as follows:

(i) On or before November 25, 1942, and on or before the 15th day of each succeeding calendar month, every producer shall file in quadruplicate on Form PD–697 a statement showing his proposed delivery schedule of all unfilled orders of new equipment, his shipments made during the calendar month previous to filing, and also his shipments during the current month to the date of filing. Approval of a delivery schedule of all new equipment for the calendar month succeeding such filing, whether or not such equipment is actually shipped during that month, will be indicated on an approved copy of said form returned to such producer prior to the first day of that month.

(ii) The delivery of all new equipment as scheduled for delivery on or before November 30, 1942, and previously authorized under Limitation Orders L–82 and L–82–a, shall be deemed to be authorized, unless the War Production Board shall otherwise direct.

(iii) The War Production Board may at any time revoke any delivery authorization provided for in subparagraphs (h) (2) (i) or (h) (2) (ii) above as to any or all new equipment included therein, direct or change the schedule for deliveries of any new equipment, allocate any order for any new equipment listed on a producer's Form PD–697 to any other producer, or direct the delivery of any new equipment to any other person, at regularly established prices and terms.

(iv) Except as provided in subparagraph (h) (2) (v) hereof, and notwithstanding any preference rating heretofore or hereafter granted, no producer shall change his schedule of deliveries of any new equipment as approved or changed by the War Production Board, without specific authorization of the War Production Board.

(v) Any producer may deliver any item of new equipment listed in Schedule B to the amount permitted by approved production schedules regardless of his schedule of deliveries of such equipment as listed on his current Form PD–697. Such deliveries shall be subject to all applicable Regulations of the War Production Board.

(i) Restrictions on resale, rental and use. (1) Every person, except a war agency, to whom delivery of any new equipment listed in Schedule A or C has been authorized pursuant to this order, must use such equipment on the project described in the authorization to purchase and will be subject to the provisions of paragraphs (i) (2) and (i) (3) hereof.

(2) Every person except a war agency, thirty days prior to the sale, lease or use on any other project of such equipment, shall complete, sign and return Form WPB 1333 to the Used Construction Machinery Regional Specialist in the War Production Board Regional office in the region in which the PD–556 was originally approved for such equipment.

(3) The War Production Board at any time on two weeks' written notice, may require any such person who owns such equipment to sell, lease, or use such equipment as directed.

(4) Nothing in this order shall be deemed to affect the applicability of Limitation Order L–196.

(j) Procedure and restrictions on sale and delivery of repair parts—(1) Repairs for actual or impending breakdown or maintenance. (i) No producer, dealer, or distributor shall sell or deliver repair parts for actual or impending breakdown or for maintenance of equipment in sound working condition to any person other than another producer, dealer, or distributor, unless such person has furnished the information and certification called for below in a writing signed by such person and in substantially the following form:

This order covers Repair Parts needed for actual or impending breakdown or maintenance of _____ which has been registered under L–196. Model Number _____ Serial Number _____ Rating _____ Project Identification _____ (Under project identification, if for War Agency give prime contract number of project otherwise state type of work for which parts are intended, e. g., mining, highway construction, housing, etc.)
In accordance with Limitation Order L–192 with the terms of which I am familiar.
Date_____ _____

By: _____

Such certification shall constitute a representation to the War Production Board that such repair parts are required for the purpose of repair of actual or impending breakdown or maintenance of the particular equipment, and, unless the applicant is a war agency, that the applicant does not have parts available or on order for this purpose and that such applicant has registered the equipment for which the repair parts are sought in accordance with the provisions of Limitation Order L–196 providing for registration of used construction equipment. This certification shall, for the purposes of this order, supplant the certification required in Preference Rating Order P–100.

(ii) No person, except a producer, dealer, distributor, or a war agency, shall purchase for stock or inventory repair parts (in excess of that required for the purpose of repair of impending breakdown or for maintenance of equipment in sound working condition on the current job), without specific authorization of the War Production Board on Form PD–556, submitted in duplicate. On such Form PD–556 the applicant must supply under section 5 thereof, adequate reasons why this stock or inventory must be acquired, which shall include the following information: quantity, make and model number of equipment for which parts are intended, present inventory of such parts, duration and preference rating of project on which such equipment is now working, and the distance from normal source of supply for such repair parts.

(iii) All orders for repair parts for actual or impending breakdown or maintenance of equipment in use on essential projects, as defined in paragraph (c) (7) hereof, shall carry the highest preference rating of such project. However, this subparagraph (j) (1) (iii) shall not be construed to prevent the use of any higher individual rating which may be authorized for emergency repairs pursuant to any regulation, order, or directive of the War Production Board.

(2) Repair parts for reconditioning or rebuilding used equipment. No producer, dealer, or distributor shall sell or deliver repair parts for purposes of reconditioning or rebuilding used equipment (except to a war agency, or to a person who has contracted to recondition or rebuild equipment owned by a war agency and to whom such war agency has properly extended a preference rating, or to a mine operating under a serial number of preference rating Order P-56), unless the order for such repair parts is accompanied by an authorization of the War Production Board, application for which shall be on Form PD-556 submitted in duplicate listing individually the repair parts requested and their approximate value.

(3) Spares. Orders for repair parts intended to be used as spares for new equipment listed in Schedules A and C shall be placed with the producer at the same time as the order for such new equipment, and shall be listed on the Form PD-556 on which such new equipment is requested.

(4) No producer shall deliver to war agencies in any one month, any repair part whatsoever in excess of seventy-five (75) percent of his combined production and inventory of such repair part during such month if such delivery would prevent deliveries of such repair part to fill orders properly placed by other persons, pursuant to provisions of paragraphs (j) (1), (2), and (3) above, without specific authorization of the War Production Board on Form PD-556. "Other persons" as used in this paragraph (j) (4) shall not include dealers or distributors who have ordered such repair part for their stock or to fill orders not yet sold.

(k) Substitution and conservation of critical materials. In the manufacture of any item of equipment or repair parts, no producer shall use any alloy steel, stainless steel, aluminum, magnesium, copper, brass, bronze, zinc, nickel, tin, cadmium, or fabricated rubber products where the use of other less critical materials will not impair the efficiency of operation of such item.

(l) Records. All persons affected by this order shall keep and preserve for not less than two (2) years accurate and complete records concerning inventories, purchases, production and sale.

(m) Audit and inspection. All records required to be kept by this order shall, upon request, be submitted to audit and inspection by duly authorized representatives of the War Production Board.

(n) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or who, in connection with this order, wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, material under priority control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(o) Appeals. Any appeal from the provisions of this order shall be made by filing a letter in triplicate referring to the particular provision appealed from and stating fully the grounds of the appeal.

(p) Communications. All communications concerning this order, except where specific reference is made therein to the contrary, shall be addressed to Construction Machinery Division, War Production Board, Washington, D. C., Ref: L-192.

§ 1293.5 Schedule IV to Limitation Order L-157—(a) Definitions. For the purposes of this schedule:

(1) "Producer" means any person who manufactures, stamps, forges, or otherwise fabricates heavy forged hand tools.

(2) "Heavy forged hand tools" means such (i) bars, (ii) blacksmiths' anvil tools, (iii) mauls and hammers or sledges weighing 4 pounds or over, (iv) hoes weighing 3½ pounds or over, (v) mattocks, (vi) picks, (vii) railway track tools, (viii) tongs, (ix) wedges, (x) mine blasting hand tools, mine breast drills and miscellaneous forged hand tools, as are listed in Table 1 through Table 10 of Appendix A of this Schedule, and all other tools as are listed in said Tables.

(b) Limitations. Parts manufactured for repair and maintenance of any heavy forged hand tools are not subject to the limitations of this Schedule.

(c) Simplified practices. Pursuant to Limitation Order L-157 the sizes, types, grades, weights and finishes set forth in Appendix A and Tables 1 through 10 of this schedule are established for the manufacture of heavy forged hand tools.

(d) Effective date of simplified practices. On and after the 3rd day of November, 1942, no heavy forged hand tool which does not conform to the size, type, grade, finish, weight and standard established by paragraph (c) of this schedule (and set forth in Appendix A and tables hereto) shall be produced by any producer except upon approval of the War Production Board.

APPENDIX A TO SCHEDULE IV

Explanations and Limitations

(1) Finishes. Faces, bits, points, and other commonly ground parts of a heavy forged hand tool shall not have a finish finer than the finish resulting from the use of a 60-grit emery wheel, dry, when good commercial technique is employed, except that sample tools selected from a lot for inspection may be polished to as fine a degree as may be necessary for such inspection. All other surfaces of heavy forged hand tools shall not be finished other than by applying a coating of paint, enamel, or lacquer over the natural forged surface, free from scale.

(2) Sizes. Weights given herein are exclusive of wooden handles. Dimensions and weights are subject to commercial tolerances.

(3) Eyes. The shapes of eyes specified by number herein and the dimensions of eyes, except those for which dimensions are given herein, shall conform with the diagrams and data on eye shapes and sizes shown pp. 10 to 18, inclusive, of Simplified Practice Recommendation R17-35, Forged Tools, issued by the National Bureau of Standards.

(4) Chisels cold, chisels hot, as both such types of chisel are set forth in Table 2 of this Appendix; Chisels, track (designs 1 and 2, A. R. E. By J. JOSEPH WHELAN,

INTERPRETATION 1

The word "manufacture" in line two of paragraph (c) (1) of § 3063.1 (Conservation Order M-217), refers to the operation whereby the features mentioned in subdivisions (i) to (xvii), inclusive, of said paragraph became a part of the footwear.

Illustration: Subdivision (iv) refers to full overlaid tips or full overlaid foxings except on work shoes. The order prohibits the placing of full overlay tips or full overlay foxings on dress shoes after October 31, 1942. But it does not prohibit the completion of the shoe if an overlaid tip or an overlaid foxing has been affixed prior to said date. (Issued October 6, 1942.)

Chapter XI—Office of Price Administration

PART 1404—RATIONING OF FOOTWEAR

[RO 17,[1] Amendment 9]

SHOES

A rationale accompanying this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.*

Ration Order 17 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 2.3 (a) is amended by deleting the first three sentences and substituting instead the following: (a) Every establishment must file an inventory of its supply of shoes and ration currency (on OPA Form R-1701) before April 18, 1943. After that date, no establishment may transfer or acquire new shoes until it has filed an inventory in the way required by this order. The inventory shall be taken as of the close of business on April 10, 1943. (However, the District Office may in proper cases permit the filing of a late inventory and the transfer and acquisition of shoes after April 17, 1943 by an establishment filing a late inventory.)

2. Section 2.3 (a) is further amended by adding after the last sentence of the paragraph the following: "Only shoes which are rationed at the time the inventory is taken should be included in the inventory."

3. Section 2.4 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 2.4 What establishments must open ration bank accounts. Every establishment having access to ration banking facilities must open a ration bank account on or after April 12, 1943 if it has a dollar checking account in any bank. No other establishment may open a shoe ration account except that:

(1) An establishment owned by a government agency may open a shoe ration account even though it does not have a dollar checking account;

*Copies may be obtained from the Office of Price Administration.

[1] 8 F.R. 1749, 2040, 2487, 2943, 3315, 3371, 3853, 4129, 3948.

(2) A person owning one establishment having a dollar checking account in any bank may open shoe ration accounts for other establishments owned by him even though he does not maintain a separate checking account for each establishment;

(3) A person owning two or more establishments located in the same city or community may open a joint account for them, if separate inventories are filed for each such establishment.

4. Section 2.5 (a) is amended by adding at the end of the first sentence: "except as otherwise permitted by the above section."

5. Section 2.5 (b) is amended to read as follows:

(b) To open the account, the owner of the establishment must file with the bank its inventory on OPA Form R-1701 and comply with the procedure set forth in General Ration Order 3A. All distributors who are entitled to a shoe purchase allowance under section 2.6 may make out and present deposit slip for the amount of the shoe purchase allowance, which will be credited to the account.

6. Section 2.6 is amended by deleting the last sentence and substituting instead the following: "If the inventory is filed at the District Office, the District Office will issue to the establishment a registration number and a certificate for the amount of its shoe purchase allowance."

7. Section 2.7 (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) Transfer must be made for ration currency. An establishment may transfer shoes to a consumer or to another establishment if it first gets ration currency from him. However, shoes may be transferred between establishments for which a joint account is opened as provided in section 2.4, without the surrender of ration currency. Only ration checks drawn on the account of the purchaser may be used as ration currency for transfers between establishments except as permitted under section 2.8.

8. Section 2.7 (b) is amended by deleting the phrase "Until the time set for filing the inventory" and substituting instead the words "Until April 25, 1943, inclusive" and by deleting the phrase "within ten days" and substituting instead the words "before May 6, 1943."

9. Section 2.8 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 2.8 Distributors having no ration bank account use ration currency. Any distributor who has received a registration number from the District Office shall use stamps and certificates which he has received (including ration currency received as an initial allowance) to repay his supplier for shoes shipped to him on credit before April 26, 1943. After all ration "debts" have been repaid, he may replenish his stock by sending to his supplier his registration number together with ration currency for the number of shoes ordered. He may present ration currency received by him to the District Office and receive in exchange certificates in such denominations as he desires equal in total to the ration currency surrendered. Ration currency may be forwarded to a supplier only within 20 days after its expiration for consumer use or to the District Office within the time it is valid for deposit as provided in the next section. An establishment forwarding a certificate to a supplier or to the District Office must endorse its name on the reverse side.

10. Section 2.9 (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) Time for depositing is limited. A War Ration Stamp received by an establishment may be deposited to its shoe ration bank account within 30 days after the end of its valid period. A special shoe stamp or certificate (including the Temporary Shoe Purchase Certificate) may be so deposited within 60 days after the date of its issue. Stamps or certificates not deposited within this time are void. However, all certificates are valid for deposit before May 1, 1943, regardless of the date of their issue. (There is no limit on the time when shoe ration checks may be deposited.)

This amendment shall become effective April 8, 1943.

PART 1434—MATCHES

WOOD MATCHES

In the judgment of the Price Administrator, it is necessary and proper to establish maximum prices for wood matches by a separate maximum price regulation. In the judgment of the Price Administrator, the maximum prices established by this regulation are and will be generally fair and equitable and will effectuate the purposes of said Act. A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this regulation has been issued simultaneously herewith and has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.*

PART 1421—IRON AND STEEL FOUNDRY PRODUCTS

[MPR 241,[2] Amendment 3]

MALLEABLE IRON CASTINGS

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.*

Maximum Price Regulation 241 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1421.114 (a) (5) is amended to read as follows:

(5) (i) "Malleable iron castings" means all ferrous castings sold to railroads and other classes of purchasers having a definite ductility resulting from an annealing process and known as malleable iron, pearlitic malleable iron or by a trade name. The term includes such ferrous castings sold either with or without subsequent processing thereon, such as (without limitation), machining, galvanizing, plating and japanning, but does not include: (a) malleable iron castings sold in an assembly with other materials (except bolts, nuts, screws, rivets or other industrial fastenings), (b) malleable iron castings purchased from the seller on which the purchaser has performed subsequent processing and (c) malleable iron castings sold as another commodity by a regular manufacturer of such other commodity or by a purchaser from such manufacturer.

(ii) A seller of malleable iron castings is considered a regular manufacturer of another commodity when (a) he represents himself in the trade as a manufacturer of such other commodity through the issuance of catalogues, price lists or other advertising matter, circulated generally to the trade, in which such commodity is designated by name, (b) he owns the patterns used for the production of such other commodity, and (c) he customarily produces such other commodity for, and sells such commodity from, stock. A seller of malleable iron castings who believes that he is a regular manufacturer of another commodity, but who does not meet each of the requirements specified in the foregoing items (a), (b), and (c) may nevertheless be considered a regular manufacturer of another commodity if he is recognized in the trade as a source of supply of such other commodity and he applies to the Office of Price Administration for a determination, or the Office of Price Administration makes a determination without such application, that he is a regular manufacturer of such other commodity.

2. Section 1421.114 (a) (11) is added to read as follows:

(11) "Seller" shall include sellers of malleable iron castings who are producers and those who are not producers. For the purpose of determining maximum prices under paragraph (b) of § 1421.116 of this regulation, but for no other purpose, if a seller owns and operates a number of different foundries each such foundry shall be considered a separate seller.

3. Section 1421.114 (a) (12) is added to read as follows:

(12) "Producer of malleable iron castings" and "producer" mean a person who is engaged in the business of casting the malleable iron and shall include such person whether or not he performs subsequent processing on such castings or causes subsequent processing to be performed on such castings by another, the producer retaining title to the castings.

4. Section 1421.114 (a) 13) is added to read as follows:

(13) "Foundry" includes, in the case of a seller of malleable iron castings who is not a producer, a plant, establishment or place of business.

5. Section 1421.116 (b) (1) (i) is amended to read as follows:

(i) The seller shall employ the applicable pricing method which was in use at the foundry on October 15, 1941, and which has been or will be filed with the Office of Price Administration in accordance with § 1421.111 herein, employing each of the pricing factors reflected in such method at the levels prevailing at such time, except as specified in subparagraphs (3), (4) and (5) hereinbelow, including: labor rates (applied in accordance with subparagraph (2) below); materials costs (applied in accordance with subparagraph (3) below); overhead (burden) rates (applied in accordance with subparagraph (4) below); subcontracted machinery service costs (applied in accordance with subparagraph (5) below); mark-up, margin or profit (applied in accordance with subparagraph (6) below: Provided however, That in the case of a seller of a malleable iron casting who is not the producer thereof, such seller shall compute his maximum price for such casting by adding to the price at which he purchased such casting, not to exceed the maximum price of the casting under this regulation for the producer thereof, a mark-up, margin or profit determined in accordance with subparagraph (6) of this paragraph (b), and by adjusting this sum in accordance with the following subdivision (ii).

This amendment shall become effective April 15, 1943.

PART 1499—COMMODITIES AND SERVICES

[Order 375 under § 1499.3 (b) of GMPR]

PROCESSED FOOD COMMODITIES WHICH CANNOT BE PRICED UNDER § 1499.2

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith, It is ordered:

§ 1499.1862 Method of determining maximum prices for processed food commodities which cannot be priced under § 1499.2 of the General Maximum Price Regulation—(a) Authorization; applicability. (1) Sellers other than sellers at wholesale or retail are authorized to determine their maximum selling prices for processed food commodities which cannot be priced under § 1499.2 of the General Maximum Price Regulation by the formula set forth in paragraph (b) of this order.

(2) The pricing formula set forth in paragraph (b) may be applied at the seller's election. In any case where a seller does not choose to price under that paragraph he shall make application for authorization of a maximum price under paragraph (d) of this order.

(3) This order is applicable only to processed food commodities which are subject to the General Maximum Price Regulation rather than to a specific maximum price regulation or schedule, and, further, it is applicable only if the seller cannot determine his maximum price for the product under § 1499.2 of the General Maximum Price Regulation.

(4) The term "processed food commodities" as used in this order includes all food items used as nutrition and nourishment for human consumption, and all ingredients used in the preparation of such food items—the food items themselves or the ingredients having been subjected to processing as defined in the General Maximum Price Regulation.

(b) Pricing formula. If the seller elects to price under this paragraph, his maximum price per customary selling unit shall be:

(1) His total "direct cost" per unit of the food commodity being priced, calculated as follows:

(i) The total cost per unit of all ingredients and packaging materials subject to maximum prices established by the Office of Price Administration, at the current maximum prices applying to the class of purchasers to which he belongs, plus

(ii) The cost per unit of every ingredient and packaging material, for which no maximum price has been prescribed by the Office of Price Administration, figured at the current market price of the ingredient or packaging material in question, plus

(iii) The direct labor costs per unit figured at the October 3, 1942, wage rates or as adjusted and approved by the War Labor Board, applying to each class of direct labor employed in the manufacture of the commodity being priced, plus

(iv) Transportation charges by the usual mode of transportation, if the cost factors used in (i) and (ii) above are not delivered costs, and if such charges are customarily incurred from his customary supply point to his customary receiving point,

(2) Multiplied by a markup percentage determined as follows:

(i) The maximum selling price established under the General Maximum Price Regulation or other maximum price regulation in effect at the time of the calculation reported under paragraph (c) for the most closely comparable commodity produced by him with a cost structure similar to that of the commodity being priced, divided by

(ii) His current cost of ingredients, packaging materials and direct labor of that commodity.

As used in this order "most closely comparable commodity" means a food commodity which is most nearly similar and whose "direct cost" is closest to and in no event is less than two-thirds of the "direct cost" of the commodity being priced, and where similar methods are employed in its sale and merchandising to those which will be used in the sale and merchandising of the commodity being priced hereunder.

As used in this paragraph "current" means current at the time of calculating the price reported under paragraph (c) of this section.

(3) The markup percentage determined hereunder shall be used as the multiplying factor only if the computation thereof as prescribed results in a figure of 150% or less,—i. e., the maximum selling price determined under this paragraph for any food commodity shall not exceed 150% of the cost of ingredients, packaging materials and direct labor thereof.

(4) The maximum price determined under the provisions of this paragraph (a) shall be subject to discounts, transportation allowances or other allowances and price differentials no less favorable than those given with respect to the comparable food commodity used in the calculation of the maximum price under this paragraph.

(5) In deciding whether items of labor cost are to be applied as separate items in figuring the price or are to be treated as overhead, the seller shall follow his customary practice. Thus, if a seller treated cleaning labor as an item of overhead in March 1942 he must continue so to treat it in figuring the maximum price.

(6) The seller shall employ no cost factors in addition to those which he used with respect to the comparable commodity by which he determined his percentage markup under paragraph (b) and shall make no changes in the method of application of those factors which would result in a higher price.

(7) The following are examples showing the proper methods to use in selecting the "most closely comparable commodity," as described in this paragraph (b):

Case 1. Assume the producer is pricing a new "cold type" of flaked breakfast cereal whose direct cost is $1.50 per case.

The other comparable products which this same seller manufactures are: A "hot type" breakfast cereal whose direct cost is $1.10 per case, a "cold type" shredded breakfast cereal whose direct cost is $1.05 per case, and a "cold type" flaked breakfast cereal whose direct cost is 98¢ per case. The correct product to use in applying the markup percentage, if 150% or less, is the "cold type" shredded breakfast cereal, since it is more closely comparable than the "hot type" cereal and the direct cost is within the two-thirds limitation, whereas the flaked breakfast cereal does not meet this requirement.

Case 2. Assume the producer is pricing a new dehydrated bean soup whose direct cost is 51 cents per dozen. The product will be sold directly to retailers. Other processed food commodities which this manufacture produces are:

A candy bar whose direct cost is 47 cents per box of 24 and which sells at 64 cents per box directly to wholesalers; potato chips in 10 cent packages whose direct cost is 60 cents per dozen and which sell at 90 cents per dozen directly to retailers; and bottled orange drink whose direct cost is 62 cents per dozen and which sells directly to retailers at 90 cents per dozen.

Each of the products is entirely dissimilar, but the comparable product to use is potato chips. The candy bar cost is closest to the cost of the new product, but the candy bar is not sold directly to retailers, whereas the new product will be. Both the potato chips and the bottled orange drink have markups within the 150 percent limit. The potato chip product must be selected as the comparable commodity because its cost is closest to the cost of the new product.

Case 3. Assume the producer is pricing a new formula "frozen baked beans" whose direct cost is $1.65 per dozen. The other commodities produced by him are: Fresh baked beans whose percentage markup is 168 percent, canned baked beans whose percentage markup is 160 percent, frozen fish flakes whose percentage markup is 158 percent, and canned fish flakes whose percentage markup is 150 percent. The correct product to use in applying the markup percentage is the "canned fish flakes" since this is the only comparable commodity with a markup of 150 percent or less. A further qualification, of course, is that the direct cost of the "canned fish flakes" must not be less than two-thirds of the direct cost of the "frozen baked beans."

(c) Reporting. Within 10 days after a producer has determined a maximum price pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this order, he shall report such price to the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C. Such report shall set forth, in addition to the price, (1) a description and identification of the food commodity for which such price was determined, and (2) a statement of facts which differentiate such food commodity from other food commodities delivered or offered for delivery during March 1942 by such producer and by other competitive sellers of the same class, and (3) a statement that the maximum price reported was determined in accordance with paragraph (b) of this order, and the facts in support of such statement. The producer, in this connection, shall submit a statement breaking down the price reported showing all the calculations entering into the determination of "direct cost" and maximum selling price of both the product being priced and the most closely comparable commodity used, including statements from customary suppliers of any ingredients or packaging materials for which no maximum price exists showing the purchase price thereof. The maximum price reported by a producer in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph (c) shall be subject to adjustment at any time by the Price Administrator.

(d) Application for authorization. In any case where a producer of a food commodity cannot or does not elect to price under paragraph (b) of this order, he shall make application to the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C., for authorization of a maximum price for his new product. Such application shall set forth (1) a description in detail, including brand name to be used, if any, of the commodity for which a maximum price is sought and a statement of the facts which differentiate the commodity from other commodities delivered during March 1942 by such producer and any other competitive sellers of the same class; (2) a detailed and itemized current cost breakdown of the proposed new product, and for each size thereof, for which a maximum price is sought, showing all cost component factors separately (i. e., raw materials, direct labor, factory overhead, selling, advertising and administrative costs, and freight if sold on a delivered basis), and the identical current cost breakdown structure of any other commodity which contributes substantially to his total volume of business; (3) the specific desired selling price to each class of purchasers for each size, including a statement regarding the necessity for the desired selling price and any discounts or trade practices and allowances which will be applicable to the requested list prices, and, for comparison, the applicant shall indicate the maximum selling prices with discounts and allowances for the other commodity as indicated in (2) above; and (4) the method of distribution to be employed by the seller in marketing the new commodity—i. e., whether it is to be sold to specific classes of purchasers, such as wholesalers, retailers, directly to consumers or other classes of purchasers. Upon receipt of such application the Office of Price Administration will authorize the maximum price or a method of determining the maximum price for the applicant or for sellers of the commodity generally including purchasers for resale or for a class of such sellers.

(e) Exceptions. Roasters and sellers of pure coffee or pure coffee and chicory combined shall not apply the formula set forth in paragraph (b), but shall make application for authorization of a maximum price under the provisions of paragraph (d) of this order. "Coffee" means roasted coffee, either whole bean or ground, decaffeinated coffee and coffee concentrates.

(f) Provision for revocation or amendment of this order. This order may be revoked or amended by the Price Administrator at any time, but its revocation or amendment shall have no effect upon prior sales or deliveries, except that prior contracts may be affected from the date of revocation or amendment or from such subsequent date as the Price Administrator may specify.

(g) This Order No. 375 shall become effective April 10, 1943.

(Pub. Laws 421 and 729, 77th Cong.; E.O. 9250, 7 F.R. 7871)

CONDITIONAL WAIVER OF MANNING REQUIREMENTS

Having determined upon investigation that there is a shortage of experienced personnel in the merchant marine industry due to the increase in the number of ships required to be manned and the demands of other industries and the armed services upon the available manpower of the country, and that as a result of such shortage the masters of merchant vessels engaged in business connected with the conduct of the war have been unable to obtain the number of experienced personnel required for their vessels by or pursuant to law and to avoid delays in sailing have departed with deficiencies in such complements, thereby giving rise to the penalties provided by law; therefore, to avoid delays in the sailings of such merchant vessels, to insure that vessels sailing with deficiencies in their complements have on board the best qualified crews available, to make inoperative with respect to certain vessels which sail with unavoidable deficiencies in their complements the penalties provided by law, to provide a simplified and uniform procedure for accomplishing the foregoing, and otherwise to further the conduct of the war, I find, in the case of vessels engaged in business connected with the conduct of the war, that the waiver of the navigation and vessel inspection laws is necessary in the conduct of the war, to the extent and in the manner and upon the terms and conditions set forth in the succeeding paragraph.

Extent, terms, and conditions of waivers. The master of any vessel engaged in business connected with the conduct of the war may, if such action is necessary to permit such vessel to sail without delay, substitute for any licensed officer or rated seaman required as part of the complement of such vessel by or pursuant to law, any licensed officer of lower rank, who is an American citizen, or any certificated seaman of lower rating: Provided, That (1) the deficiency in complement is not caused by the consent, fault or collusion of the master, owner or any other person interested in the vessel, (2) the master, over a reasonable period prior to the time fixed for the signing on of his crew, makes every reasonable effort to obtain such required licensed officer or rated seaman, (3) the person substituted for such required licensed officer or rated seaman is, in the opinion of the master, the best qualified substitute therefor that the master could obtain, (4), the master is of the opinion that the vessel is sufficiently manned for the contemplated voyage, and (5) the master, prior to departure prepares, executes, certifies, and files with, or sends to the Shipping Commissioner before whom the crew was signed on or, in cases when the crew is not required to be signed on before a Shipping Commissioner, to the nearest Merchant Marine Inspector in Charge, two copies of a report of each substitution made. One copy of such report shall also be submitted to the Collector of Customs at the time when application for clearance is made. In making such report the following form shall be used:

This is to report that in order to permit my vessel to sail without delay on a voyage beginning on or about this date, it was necessary for me to make substitutions in the required complement for my vessel as set forth below. I certify that the deficiency was not caused by my fault or collusion, or, to the best of my knowledge, by the fault or collusion of the owner or of any other person interested in the vessel; that prior to the signing on of my crew I made every reasonable effort to secure the complement of licensed officers and rated men required by or pursuant to law for this vessel and was unsuccessful; that the substitutes listed below are the best qualified men I could obtain for the positions which they occupy; and, that in my opinion my vessel is sufficiently manned for this voyage.

The failure of the master of any vessel departing with a deficiency in the required complement therefor to execute and submit the reports required hereunder, or a false certification in any such report by such master shall be considered misconduct within the meaning of R. S. 4450, as amended, 46 U. S. C. 239, and shall constitute grounds for suspension or revocation of the license of such master; and shall subject him and the owners to all other penalties provided by law. AUTHORITY: §§ 226.1 to 226.20, inclusive, issued under the following statutes: Sec. 32, 41 Stat. 450, sec. 27, 46 Stat. 1524, sec. 17, 49 Stat. 676, 30 U.S.C. 184, 184a, 189, 226.

§ 226.1 Scope and purpose of regulations. The regulations in this part describe the procedure under which oil and gas lessees of Federal land and their representatives, for the purpose of more properly conserving the oil or gas resources of any area, field, or pool, may, or may not be required to, unite with each other or jointly or separately with others in collectively adopting and operating under an agreement or other arrangement that embraces a plan of development and operation of any single area, field, or pool. These regulations shall apply to all agreements as defined in § 226.3 (a) and (b), infra, including agreements as so defined hereafter approved and those previously approved insofar as consistent with the provisions of previously approved unit agreements.

§ 226.2 Other regulations. These regulations are supplementary to and are not intended to supersede the oil and gas operating regulations for oil and gas leases. (30 CFR §§ 221.1 to 221.67, 7 F.R. 4132–4141.)

§ 226.3 Definitions. The following terms, as used in the regulations in this part, shall have the meanings here indicated:

(a) "Unit agreement" means an agreement or plan of development consummated pursuant to these regulations by which deposits of oil, gas, and associated fluid hydrocarbons made subject thereto shall be produced under an operating program to be carried out in an orderly, reasonable, efficient, and equitable manner by a single operator.

(b) "Cooperative agreement" means an agreement consummated pursuant to these regulations by which deposits of oil, gas, and associated fluid hydrocarbons made subject thereto shall be produced by two or more operators under a cooperative plan of prospecting for and producing such deposits in an orderly, reasonable, efficient, and equitable manner. Any agreement or plan of development defined in this paragraph or in paragraph (a), supra, is called an agreement in these regulations.

(c) "Unit area" means the gross area included in an agreement.

(d) "Unitized land" means the part of a unit area committed to an agreement.

(e) "Unitized substances" means deposits of oil, gas, and associated fluid hydrocarbons recovered or recoverable by operation under and pursuant to an agreement.

(f) "Unit operator" means the person, association, partnership, trustee, corporation, or other business entity designated to conduct and manage operations on unitized land under an agreement.

(g) "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Interior or any person duly authorized to exercise the powers vested in that officer.

(h) "Director" means the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C., or any person duly authorized to act in his behalf.

(i) "Supervisor" means a representative of the Secretary, under administrative direction of the Director, authorized and empowered to supervise and direct oil and gas operations, or any subordinate of such representative acting under his direction.

§ 226.4 Unit area; how designated. The Director, on his own motion, or upon receipt and consideration of an application filed by one or more lessees, owners of operating rights, or others having substantial interests in land proposed to be unitized, is authorized in his discretion to designate a unit area which shall comprise as nearly as practicable a single structural unit and to determine the depth of a test well reasonably adequate to determine the presence or absence of commercial deposits of unitized substances within the unit area. Where wells already drilled tend to disprove the oil and gas possibilities of an area or where, in the opinion of the Director, such possibilities are purely conjectural, tenuous, and hypothetical, a unit area will not be designated.

§ 226.5 Parties. The owners of any right, title, or interest in the oil and gas deposits underlying the unit area shall be invited to join in the agreement. If an owner fails or refuses to execute the agreement, a copy of the letter of invitation, with evidence of delivery thereof to him, and a copy of any reply to such invitation, must be submitted when the agreement is forwarded for approval. The Secretary, in his discretion, may seek to determine the grounds for failure of any party to join in an agreement. In the event an owner refusing to execute an agreement is the possessor of an interest in public lands, any authority vested in the Secretary by law or regulation may be invoked to enforce joinder in the agreement or to permit operation of such land independently subject to such limitations as may be deemed appropriate to permit fulfillment of the objectives of the agreement, or, if such agreement has not been approved, to require reasonable modifications in form to meet objections of such owner. The holder of a mere overriding royalty interest, without voice in the development and operation of a property, is not a necessary signatory party.

§ 226.6 Unit operator. Every agreement shall provide for a unit operator, shall either designate such unit operator, or specify how and when such unit operator shall be selected, shall contain a provision for selection or designation of a successor unit operator, shall specify the rights, duties, and obligations of the unit operator, and detail the terms and conditions on which he will conduct and manage the unitized land for and on behalf of the parties to the agreement. The unit operator shall execute an acceptance of the duties and responsibilities imposed upon him by his designation. No designation of a unit operator will become effective unless and until approved by the Secretary.

§ 226.7 Qualifications of unit operator. A unit operator must be experienced in oil and gas drilling and producing operations, must show evidence of financial, administrative, and technical capacity to perform successfully the duties of unit operator, and must have the qualifications as to citizenship required to hold rights in public land under the mineral-leasing laws.

§ 226.8 Bonds. The unit operator may be required to furnish and maintain a corporate surety bond or an individual bond conditioned upon faithful performance of the duties and obligations of unit operator. Individual bonds shall be accompanied by a deposit of negotiable Federal securities in a sum equal at their par value to the amount of the bond and by a proper conveyance to the Secretary of full authority to sell such securities in case of default in the performance of the obligation assumed. The bond may be substituted as a collective bond for all leases for which separate bonds otherwise might be required. In each case, the amount of the bond shall be determined by the Director, and the bond will be filed with the supervisor, and by him transmitted through the Director to the Commissioner of the General Land Office or Commissioner of Indian Affairs, or, if the lands in the unit area are under the jurisdiction of any other Government agency, then the bonds will be transmitted to the head of that agency.

§ 226.9 Plan of development and operation. To attain the purpose of more properly conserving the oil and gas resources of a unitized area will require drilling test wells unless all of the possible productive sands have been adequately tested, the drilling of sufficient wells to produce properly any known oil or gas deposits, and producing such wells in accordance with sound engineering practices. In a wholly unproved area the initial test well shall be drilled at a location approved by the supervisor, and, if such well is unsuccessful, one well at a time shall be drilled at other locations approved by the supervisor until a commercial discovery occurs or until it is established that the unit area is barren of commercial deposits of oil or gas, provided that the unit operator may resign at any time after completion or abandonment of any unsuccessful well without obligation to continue drilling test wells.

If a commercial deposit of oil or gas is found, the discovery well shall be shut down until a plan of future operations in the unit area shall be submitted to the supervisor and approved by said official. The future plan shall contemplate determination of the productive area within such time as may be reasonably required by the supervisor to protect all of the unitized land from loss by drainage. It shall set forth a well-casing and spacing program acceptable to the supervisor. It shall contain such provisions as the supervisor may require concerning gas-oil ratios as well as conservation and supplementation of reservoir energy. These requirements will be impracticable of complete fulfillment on the basis of information obtained from the discovery well or even when all necessary wells have been drilled. Therefore, any approved plan of development shall be subject to reconsideration at any time when the supervisor or the unit operator may deem such action necessary or advisable. Any departure from an approved plan of development without approval of the supervisor will constitute a default by the unit operator of his agreement.

After discovery of a commercial deposit of oil or gas in a unit area, the Secretary may require a unit operator to conduct further exploratory operations to search for oil or gas deposits in formations not theretofore adequately tested, whenever such further testing is deemed necessary and advisable in the public interest. If a unit operator shall fail or refuse to conduct such further exploratory operations, his rights as unit operator shall be terminated as to such unexplored formations, but not as to producing formations, and a new operator for said unexpired formations shall be selected in the manner provided for the selection of a new unit operator. The new unit operator shall accept the duties and responsibilities of unit operator as defined in the agreement subject to the condition that they shall be restricted to formations tested by said unit operator, and in which a new discovery of oil or gas shall be made within a reasonable time as determined by the Secretary.

§ 226.10 Rate of prospecting, development, and production. The rate of prospecting and development and the quantity and rate of production under any agreement approved under these regulations may be altered or modified from time to time by the Secretary, in his discretion, subject to such limitations as may be prescribed in the agreement.

§ 226.11 Leases modified and extended. Leases that have been granted for a term of 20 years and which are subject to an agreement approved under the regulations in this part, will continue beyond the period for which issued until termination of the agreement. Leases that have been granted for terms of 5 or 10 years and so long thereafter as oil or gas is produced in paying quantities, and which are subject to an agreement shall be deemed to be producing leases for all purposes when a discovery of oil or gas has been made anywhere in the unit area and so long thereafter as oil or gas is or can be produced in paying quantities anywhere from such unit area. Upon termination of a unit agreement any lease which is in an extended term by virtue of the unit agreement shall terminate or be continued in force and effect, extended or renewed, according to the lease terms, as though said lease had never been unitized. Suspension of operations and production on the unit area pursuant to direction or assent of the Secretary shall be deemed to constitute suspension pursuant to such direction or assent as to all leases committed to the agreement: Provided, That hereafter as to any lease involving land located in part inside and in part outside a unit area, such lease shall be segregated into separate leases, one for land inside a unit area and one for any other land.

§ 226.12 Vacant public land. Any unleased land owned by the United States in a unit area embracing a producing oil or gas field may be offered for lease at competitive bidding. Pending the leasing of such land, the unit operator may enter into an agreement with the Secretary under which the United States shall be compensated for any loss by drainage as a result of operations under the agreement. Such compensation shall be the amount or value of production less a reasonable allowance for development and production costs, but shall never be less than 12½ percent of the amount or value of production allocable to such land.

§ 226.13 Nonunitized land. A proposed agreement will be rejected if the amount or location of nonunitized land in the unit area is such that the agreement could not be made effective for conservation purposes or if competitive operation of the nonunitized land would preclude attainment of the conservation objectives of unitization, unless acceptable cooperative arrangements are made under which nonunitized land shall be developed and operated in harmony with the development and operation of unitized land.

§ 226.14 Term. Each agreement shall be for a term of approximately 5 years and for so long thereafter as unitized deposits can be produced in paying quantities. Each unit agreement shall terminate automatically at the expiration of its fixed term, unless prior thereto such term shall be extended by the Secretary of the Interior, or unless before expiration a valuable discovery of unitized substances shall have been made, in which case the agreement shall remain in effect as long as unitized substances can be produced in paying quantities. An agreement may be terminated whenever it is determined that the unitized land is incapable of commercial production of unitized substances and notice of termination is given by unit operator to all parties in interest at their last known address, provided such termination shall not become effective unless and until approved by the Secretary of the Interior. An agreement may be terminated by the Secretary of the Interior at his election whenever there is no unit operator capable of complying with the terms and conditions of the unit agreement and the parties entitled to select a new unit operator have failed to select such unit operator within 90 days after notice so to do. An agreement may be terminated at any time by consent of the owners of 75 per centum of the operating rights subject to said agreement, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior.

§ 226.15 State laws. State laws must be observed by the unit operator insofar as such laws are not in conflict with Federal law or regulation. State-owned land located within the unit area may be made subject to the agreement in accordance with applicable State laws.

§ 226.16 Filing. All instruments and documents required under these regulations or under the terms of the agreement should be filed in the office of the supervisor, unless otherwise instructed by the supervisor or the Director.

Applications for designation of unit areas under § 226.4, supra, must be filed in triplicate and must be accompanied by a map, outlining the desired unit area and participating area or areas, if any, and showing by distinctive symbols or colors State land, privately-owned land, public land identified by Land Office serial numbers or other appropriate designation, and ownership of all land. Such application should also include all geologic and other information available to the applicant and pertinent to determination of the necessity and propriety of designating a unit area.

When an agreement is filed for final approval at least six signed originals are required. If State land or land under the jurisdiction of other departments is involved, additional signed originals may be required. Each signature must be attested before a notary public, in States where such attestation is required by local laws for deeds which are to be recorded; otherwise, two witnesses to each signature will be deemed sufficient. Corporate or other signatures made in a representative capacity must be accompanied by evidence of the authority of the signatories to act. A map showing the unit area and separate unitized ownerships with appropriate identification should accompany each copy of the agreement.

Instruments or documents supplementing, modifying, or amending unit agreements, including changes of operator, designations of new operators, notices of termination, and requests for extensions should have the same number of copies as the original agreement.

Applications for establishment of initial participating areas or for revision of existing participating areas, with ownership maps and schedules attached, shall be filed in quintuplicate. Each such application shall be accompanied by a separate substantiating geologic report, including contour maps, cross-sections, and such other pertinent data as may be required, all in triplicate. This mat rial will be considered confidential, if so requested.

The supervisor will forward to the Director, with an appropriate report, all originals of documents or instruments filed pursuant to the regulations in this part.

Plans of development as required under the terms of the unit agreement shall be filed in quadruplicate with the supervisor for his approval.

One copy of each approved instrument or document will be returned to the unit operator by the approving official or his representative. Extra signed copies may be included for approval, if desired.

§ 226.17 Approval of agreement. The Director will forward, through the General Land Office, for final approval by the Secretary each agreement considered subject to approval, and will reject all others. The Commissioner of the General Land Office will determine that rights involving public land of the United States purported to be committed to any agreements are, in fact, so committed by the proper parties of record. The regulations of the General Land Office governing cooperative or unit development (43 C.F.R. 192.31 to 192.40, inclusive) shall remain in full force and effect except as modified by or inconsistent with the regulations in this part.

No agreement shall be effective unless and until approved by the Secretary.

§ 226.18 Recording. Duplicate originals of the agreements approved under these regulations will be filed in the office of the Geological Survey at Washington, D. C., the office of the supervisor for the district in which the unit area is located, the office of the Comptroller General of the United States, and the General Land Office. A duplicate original also will be furnished the unit operator and, at his election, may be recorded in the local county records.

§ 226.19 Appeals. All orders issued pursuant to any section of these regulations or any official action taken pursuant to any provision of any agreement approved hereunder shall be subject to reconsideration and review, in the same manner as appeals authorized under the oil and gas operating regulations. (30 CFR 221.1 to 221.67, 7 F.R. 4132–4141)

§ 226.20 Form of agreement and related documents. An acceptable form of agreement and related documents are appended to these regulations and said form shall be utilized for all agreements of the type defined in § 226.3 (a), supra, unless for good cause the Secretary shall determine that a modified form shall be accepted.

Agreements of the type defined in § 226.3 (b) shall be used only when the owners of operating rights are unable to agree on a single operator. Such agreements shall conform with the conservation principles outlined in the form in the appendix, departing from that form only so far as may be determined by the Secretary to be necessary in any case. The developed reserves under control of each separate operator will be estimated from time to time by the supervisor and such reserves shall be so produced that each operator shall receive a fair proportionate share thereof during any one calendar year with a reasonable allowance for overage and underage which shall be adjusted as promptly as practicable during the following year. Provision also shall be made for a committee representing each operating unit with the supervisor as ex-officio chairman to determine plans for coordinating the development and operation of the entire area subject to the agreement in an efficient, equitable, orderly, and reasonable manner.

Recommended for approval:

JULIAN D. SEARS,
Director of the Geological Survey.

PROPOSED FORM OF UNIT AGREEMENT

Appendix to Regulations for development and operation as a unit of oil or gas areas, fields or pools involving public land. (30 CFR, Part 226)

UNIT AGREEMENT FOR THE DEVELOPMENT AND AND OPERATION OF THE ------ AREA

This agreement, entered into, as of the ---- day of ----------, 19----, by and between the parties subscribing or consenting hereto, witnesseth:

Whereas the parties subscribing hereto are the owners of operating, royalty, or other oil or gas interests in the unit area subject to this agreement;

Whereas it is the purpose of the parties hereto to conserve natural resources, prevent avoidable waste, and secure other benefits obtainable through development and operation of the unit area subject to this agreement under the terms, conditions, and limitations hereinafter set forth, under and pursuant to the provisions of sections 17, 27, and 32 of the Act of Congress approved February 25, 1920, entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," 41 Stat. 443, 448, 450, as amended or supplemented by the acts of March 4, 1931, 46 Stat. 1525, and August 21, 1935, 49 Stat. 677, 678; 30 U.S.C. 226, 184, and 189;

Now, therefore, in consideration of the premises and the promises hereinafter contained, the parties hereto and the parties consenting hereto agree severally among themselves, and with the Secretary of the Interior, as follows:

Enabling Act and Regulations

1. The act of February 25, 1920, supra, as amended, and all pertinent regulations heretofore and all pertinent and reasonable regulations hereafter issued thereunder, including operating and unit plan regulations, are accepted and made a part of this agreement.

Unit Area

2. The following described lands are hereby designated and recognized as constituting the unit area: ----------
(Insert land description by legal subdivision of public survey)

The above-described unit area shall be enlarged or contracted whenever such action is necessary or desirable to conform with the purposes of this agreement. Notice of any proposed enlargement or contraction shall be given by the Unit Operator to all parties affected thereby, at least 30 days prior to submission to the Secretary with proof of service of such notice. Such enlargement or contraction shall be effective upon approval by the Secretary of the Interior.

Exhibit "A" attached hereto is a map on which is outlined the herein-established unit area, together with the ownership of the land and leases in said area. Exibit "B" attached hereto is a schedule showing the nature and extent of ownership of oil and gas rights in all land in the unit area to which this unit agreement will become applicable by signature hereto, or to a counterpart hereof, by the owners of such rights. Said schedule shall be revised by the Unit Operator whenever any change in the unit area or ownership of rights renders such change necessary, and the revised schedule shall be filed with the record of this agreement.

Unitized Substances

3. All oil, gas, natural gasoline, and associated fluid hydrocarbons producible from land subject to this agreement, in any and all sands or horizons, are unitized under the terms of this agreement and hereinafter are called "unitized substances."

Unit Operator

4. ---------- is hereby designated as Unit Operator and by signature hereto commits to this agreement all interests in unitized substances vested in him/it as set forth in the schedule attached hereto marked Exhibit B, and agrees and consents to accept the duties and obligations of Unit Operator to conduct and manage the operation of said unit area for the discovery and development of unitized substances as hereinafter provided and is hereinafter called Unit Operator.

NOTE: In case no Unit Operator has been selected delete the foregoing part of section 4 and substitute in lieu thereof the following as a first paragraph of said section:

Unit Operator

4. At their election or within 90 days after notice so to do by the Secretary of the Interior, the parties hereto shall select a Unit Operator in the same manner as hereinafter provided for the selection of a successor Unit Operator. The Unit Operator so selected shall commit to the unit agreement all interests in unitized substances vested in such Unit Operator in the land subject to the unit agreement and shall agree and consent in writing to accept the duties and obligations of the Unit Operator to conduct and manage the operation of said unit area for the discovery and development of unitized substances as herein provided and is hereinafter called Unit Operator.

The right to relinquish all rights as Unit Operator may be exercised whenever said Unit Operator is not in default under this agreement, but no Unit Operator shall be relieved from the duties and obligations of Unit Operator for a period of 6 months after notice of intention to relinquish such duties and obligations has been served by him on all other parties hereto and the Secretary of the Interior, unless a new Unit Operator shall have been selected and approved and shall have taken over and assumed the duties and obligations of Unit Operator prior to the expiration of said period. At any time prior to the date on which relinquishment by or removal of Unit Operator becomes effective, the parties hereto or a duly qualified new Unit Operator may elect to purchase on reasonable terms all or any part of the retiring Unit Operator's equipment, material, and appurtenances in or upon the land subject to this agreement, provided that no such equipment, material, or appurtenances so selected for purchase shall be removed pending determination of reasonable terms of purchase. Any equipment, material, and appurtenances not so purchased and not necessary for the preservation of wells may be removed by the retiring Unit Operator at any time within 6 months after the relinquishment or removal becomes effective, but if not so removed shall become the joint property of the owners of operating rights in land then subject to this agreement.

Assignment of any right or rights as Unit Operator shall be subject to approval by the Secretary of the Interior.

Successor Unit Operator

5. Whenever the Unit Operator shall discontinue or relinquish his rights as Unit Operator or shall fail to fulfill his duties and obligations as Unit Operator under this agreement, the owners of the majority of the participating acreage operating interests in the unit area, or the owners of operating rights according to their total acreage interest in the unit area until a participating area shall have been established, shall select a new Unit Operator. Such selection shall not become effective until (a) a Unit Operator so selected shall agree and consent in writing to accept the duties and responsibilities of Unit Operator, and (b) the selection shall have been approved by the Secretary of the Interior. In the absence of the selection of an acceptable Unit Operator by owners of operating rights within 90 days of notice so to do by the Secretary of the Interior, said Secretary may designate the Unit Operator or declare this unit agreement terminated. The Unit Operator shall be subject to removal by the owners of operating rights in the same manner as herein provided for the selection of a new Unit Operator.

Rights and Obligations of Unit Operator

6. Except as hereinafter specified, the exclusive right, privilege, and duty of exercising any and all rights of the parties signatory hereto which are necessary or convenient for prospecting for, producing, storing, and disposing of the unitized substances are hereby vested in the Unit Operator and shall be exercised by said Unit Operator as provided in this agreement. Acceptable evidence of title to said rights shall be deposited with said Unit Operator and, together with this agreement, shall constitute and define said Unit Operator's rights, privileges, and obligations in the premises; provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to transfer title to any land or leases, it being understood that the Unit Operator shall have rights of possession and use only and exclusively for the purposes herein specified. The Unit Operator shall pay all costs and expenses of operations with respect to the unitized land, and shall charge such costs to the account of the operating rights in the tracts comprising said land until a participating area shall have been established, and thereafter such costs shall be charged to the account of the operating rights in the participating area. On or before the 25th day of each calendar month, the Unit Operator shall render to the owners of unitized interests entitled thereto an accounting of the operations on unitized lands during the previous calendar month, the Unit Operator shall render to each party entitled thereto a proportionate and allocated share of the products produced hereunder.

The development and operation of land subject to this agreement under the terms hereof shall be deemed full performance by Unit Operator of all obligations for such development and operation with respect to each and every part or separately owned tract subject to this agreement, regardless of whether there is any development of any particular part or tract of the unit area.

Drilling to Discovery

7. Within 6 months after approval hereof by the Secretary of the Interior, Unit Operator shall begin to drill an adequate test well at a location to be approved by the Federal oil and gas supervisor, and thereafter continuously drill such well to a depth of not less than ---- feet, unless at a lesser depth either a commercially productive deposit of unitized substances shall be discovered, or the Geological Survey shall determine that further drilling in said well would not be warranted. Unit Operator thereafter shall continue drilling one well at a time until a commercially productive well is completed to the satisfaction of said supervisor, or until it is proved that the unitized land is incapable of commercial production of unitized substances. The Secretary of the Interior may modify the drilling requirements of this section when, in his opinion, such action is warranted.

Plan of Development

8. Upon completion of a commercially productive well as aforesaid and when requested by the Federal oil and gas supervisor, Unit Operator shall submit for the approval of said supervisor an acceptable plan of development for the unit area, which plan when so approved shall constitute the further drilling and operating obligations of Unit Operator. Said plan shall be as nearly complete and adequate as the supervisor may determine to be necessary and advisable to conserve properly the oil and gas resources of the unitized area. The plan of development may be modified from time to time upon approval of said supervisor or at the direction of said supervisor to meet changed conditions, and the further obligations of the Unit Operator shall be conformed thereto. All parties hereto and any and all interested parties approving or consenting to this agreement agree that after completion of one commercially productive well no further wells, except such as may be necessary to afford protection against operations not under this agreement, shall be drilled and no existing wells shall be produced except in accordance with a plan of development approved in writing by said supervisor or any modification thereof subsequently required by the supervisor.

Participation After Discovery

9. Upon completion of a commercially productive well as aforesaid, Unit Operator shall submit for approval by the Secretary of the Interior a schedule based on subdivisions of the public-land survey of all unitized land then regarded as reasonably proved to be commercially productive of unitized substances; all land in said schedule on approval by said Secretary to constitute a participating area, effective as of the date of first production. Said schedule shall set forth the percentage acreage interest of each owner of rights in the total participating area thereby established. Such percentage acreage interest shall govern the allocation of production from and after the date the participating area becomes effective. With the approval of the Secretary of the Interior a separate participating area may be established for any separate deposit of unitized substances or for any group of such deposits. The participating area or areas so established shall be revised from time to time, in like manner and subject to like approval, whenever such action appears proper as a result of further drilling operations or otherwise, to include additional land then regarded as reasonably proved to be commercially productive or to exclude land then regarded as reasonably proved not to be commercially productive, and a new schedule of percentage acreage interests conformable thereto shall thereupon be fixed; the effective date of any revision to be the first of the month in which the first authentic knowledge or information is obtained on which such revision is predicated. No land shall be excluded from the participating area on account of depletion of the unitized substances. It is the intent of this section that the participating area shall at all times represent the area known or reasonably estimated to be commercially productive; but, regardless of any increase or decrease of the participating area, nothing herein contained shall be construed as requiring any retroactive apportionment of any sums accrued or paid for production obtained prior to the effective date of revision of the participating area.

Until a participating area or areas has or have been established as herein provided, or in the absence of agreement at any time between the Unit Operator and the Secretary of the Interior as to the proper definition of the participating area, the portion of all payments affected by such absence of agreement, except royalties due the United States, may be impounded in a mutually acceptable bank.

NOTE: The following section should be substituted for the preceding section 9 when the entire unit area is participating.

Participation after discovery

9. Upon completion of a commercially productive well as aforesaid, all unitized land shall constitute a participating area, effective as of the date of first production. The percentage interest of each owner of rights in the total participating area shall govern the allocation of benefits from production under this agreement.

It is the intent of this section that all land within the unit area subject to this agreement shall be included in a single participating area for all unitized substances.

Allocation of Production

10. All unitized substances produced under this agreement, except any part thereof used for production and development purposes thereunder, or unavoidably lost, shall be deemed to be produced equally on an acreage basis from the several tracts of land of the participating area and, for the purpose of determining any benefits that accrue on an acreage basis as a result of operations under this agreement, each such tract shall have allocated to it such percentage of said production as its area bears to the said participating area. It is hereby agreed that production from any part of the participating area shall be allocated as provided herein regardless of whether any wells are drilled on any particular part or tract of said area.

Development or Operation on Non-participating Land

11. Any party hereto other than Unit Operator owning or controlling a majority interest of the operating rights in any unitized tract included in the non-participating area having thereon a regular well location in accordance with the approved well-spacing pattern may drill a well at such location at his own expense, unless Unit Operator elects and commences to drill such well within 90 days of receipt of notice from said party of his intention to drill the well.

If such well is not drilled by Unit Operator and results in production such that the land upon which it is situated may properly be included in a participating area, the party paying the cost of drilling such well shall be reimbursed one hundred and fifty percent (150%) of the average cost of drilling similar producing wells in the unitized area, and the well shall be operated pursuant to the terms of this agreement all as though the well had been drilled by the Unit Operator.

If any well drilled by Unit Operator or by an owner of operating rights as provided in this section obtains production insufficient to justify inclusion in a participating area of the land on which said well is situated, said owner of operating rights at his election, within 30 days of determination of such insufficiency, shall be wholly responsible for and may operate and produce the well at his sole expense and for his sole benefit. If such well was drilled by Unit Operator, said party shall pay the Unit Operator a fair salvage-value price for the casing and other equipment left in the well.

Wells drilled at the sole expense of any party other than Unit Operator or produced at his sole expense and for his sole benefit shall be subject to the drilling and producing requirements of this agreement the same as though drilled or produced by Unit Operator; and royalties in amount or value of production from any such well shall be paid as specified in the lease affected, unless otherwise authorized in writing by the lessor.

NOTE: Omit all of section 11 where entire unitized area is participating.

Rental and Royalty Payments

12. The Unit Operator, on behalf of the respective lessees, shall pay, or at the election of the Secretary of the Interior shall deliver in kind, all royalties and shall pay all rentals due the United States on account of unitized land and shall distribute the cost thereof to the appropriate parties conformably with their respective rental and royalty obligations: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall operate to relieve the lessees, or any of them, of their obligation to pay rentals and royalties under the terms of their respective leases.

On request of any party, Unit Operator shall pay other royalties on his behalf in accordance with a schedule furnished by him and charge the cost thereof to his account: Provided, That Unit Operator shall incur thereby no responsibility to any royalty owner, but such responsibility shall be and remain an obligation of the parties requesting payment thereof.

Government Royalties and Rentals

13. Royalty due the United States on account of unitized Federal land shall be computed as provided in the operating regulations and paid as to all unitized substances on the basis of the amounts thereof allocated to such land as provided herein at the rates specified in the respective Federal leases: Provided, That, for leases on which the royalty rate depends on the daily average production per well, said average production shall be determined in accordance with the operating regulations as though all the unitized land were a single consolidated lease.

(NOTE: Revision of this paragraph may be made to provide for an equivalent flat-royalty rate in an amount to be determined in advance by the Secretary by substituting for all after the first 41 words the following, "at a flat royalty rate of ------ per centum of the amount or value of the production of unitized substances so allocated.")

Rental for land of the United States subject to this agreement at the rates specified in the respective Federal leases shall be paid, suspended, or reduced as determined by the Secretary of the Interior, pursuant to applicable law and regulations. All such rentals shall be adjusted to the effective date of this agreement, and shall be due and payable in advance for the first year on said effective date, and annually thereafter on the anniversary date of this agreement.

Conservation

14. Operations shall be conducted so as to provide for the most economical and efficient recovery of unitized substances to the end that maximum ultimate yield may be obtained without waste. For the purpose of more properly conserving the natural resources of the land subject to this agreement, the production of unitized substances shall at all times be without waste as defined by or pursuant to State or Federal law; shall be limited to such production as can be put to beneficial use with adequate realization of fuel and other values; and, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior, shall be limited by the beneficial demand as determined by said Secretary for gas or for oil, whichever would tend to avoid excessive production of either oil or gas.

Drainage

15. Unit Operator shall take appropriate and adequate measures to prevent drainage of unitized substances from unitized land by wells on land not subject to this agreement or, with approval of the Secretary of the Interior, pay a fair and reasonable compensatory royalty as determined by the Federal Oil and Gas Supervisor.

Non-Unitized Land

16. Any land within the unit area not subject to the terms of this agreement which is now or hereafter may be under control of any or all the signatories to this agreement shall be developed and operated in accordance with the terms of this agreement to the extent that such development and operation will not conflict with the contract under which control of said land is held; Provided, That said land shall not be developed and operated in any manner that will be more advantageous to the owners of said land than to the owners of land covered by this agreement.

Leases and Contracts Conformed to Agreement

17. The parties hereto or consenting hereto holding interests in leases embracing unitized land of the United States consent that the Secretary of the Interior shall, and said Secretary by his approval of this agreement does, establish, alter, change, or revoke the drilling, producing, and royalty requirements of such leases and the regulations in respect thereto, to conform said requirements to the provisions of this agreement, but otherwise the terms and conditions of said leases shall remain in full force and effect.

The Secretary of the Interior and said parties further determine, agree, and consent that during the effective life of this agreement, drilling and producing operations performed by the Unit Operator upon any unitized land will be accepted and deemed to be operations under and for the benefit of all unitized leases embracing land of the United States; that no such lease shall be deemed to expire by reason of failure to produce wells situated on land therein embraced; that if a discovery of a valuable deposit of unitized substances is made anywhere on the unitized land, each such lease in effect on or after the date of such discovery shall be deemed to continue in force and effect as long as unitized substances are produced anywhere on unitized land in paying quantities; and, that suspension of all operations and production on the unitized land pursuant to direction or consent of said Secretary shall be deemed to constitute such suspension pursuant to such direction or consent with respect to each such lease.

The parties hereto or consenting hereto, holding interests in leases subject to this agreement embracing lands other than those of the United States or holding interests in any other agreements that involve oil and gas rights in lands in the unit area, consent and agree, to the extent of their respective interests, that all such leases and agreements shall conform to the provisions of this agreement and shall be continued in force and effect during the life of this agreement.

Covenants Run With Land

18. The covenants herein run with the land until this agreement terminates, and any grant, transfer or lease of interest in land or leases subject hereto shall be and hereby is conditioned upon the assumption of all privileges and obligations hereunder by the grantee, transferee, lessee, or other successor in interest and as to Federal land shall be subject to approval by the Secretary of the Interior.

Effective Date and Term

19. This agreement shall become effective on the first of the calendar month next following approval by the Secretary of the Interior and shall terminate on ----------, unless (1) such date of expiration is extended by the Secretary of the Interior; or (2) a valuable discovery of unitized substances has been made on unitized land, in which case the agreement shall remain in effect as long as unitized substances can be produced from the unitized land in paying quantities; or (3) it is proved at an earlier date that the unitized land is incapable of commercial production of unitized substances and, with approval of the Secretary of the Interior, notice of termination is given by Unit Operator to all parties in interest at their last known address; or (4) it is terminated as provided in section 5 hereof: Provided, That this agreement may be terminated at any time by consent of the owners of 75 per centum, on an acreage basis, of the operating rights signatory hereto with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior.

Rate of Prospecting, Development, and Production

20. All production and the disposal thereof shall be in conformity with allocations, allotments, and quotas made or fixed by any duly authorized person or regulatory body under any Federal or State statute: Provided, That the Secretary of the Interior is vested with authority pursuant to the amendatory acts of March 4, 1931, and of August 21, 1935, supra, to alter or modify from time to time, in his discretion, the rate of prospecting and development and the quantity and rate of production under this agreement, such authority being hereby limited to alteration or modification in the public interest, the purpose thereof and the public interest to be served thereby to be stated in the order of alteration or modification.

Determinations by operator and review thereof

21. Unit Operator shall determine the date of first authentic knowledge of information on which revision of any participating area shall be predicated; shall determine whether any well, deposit, or unitized land is proved or regarded as reasonably proved to be or to have been commercially productive, it being understood and agreed that commercial productivity shall be the productive capacity estimated to be sufficient to return normal drilling and production costs under wise and skillful management. Unit Operator shall determine all other matters involved in this agreement for which a different method of determination is not herein established: Provided, That Unit Operator shall give timely notice of all determinations not herein specifically authorized to all interested parties at their last known address. Notice of all determinations by the Unit Operator under this section shall be furnished to the Secretary of the Interior through the Supervisor and may be reviewed by said Secretary on his own initiative or on written request of any interested party, notice of any such review to be given to all interested parties, including Unit Operator, within 60 days after receipt of notice of Unit Operator's determination; and Provided further, That any matters so reviewed, on request of Unit Operator or at the option of the Secretary, may be submitted to a committee of three competent persons appointed by said Secretary, one on nomination of Unit Operator, one on nomination of the other interested parties, and the third on nomination of the first two, the cost of such committee to be a cost of operation and its report (which shall be binding on the committee when concurred in by any two of its members) to be submitted to said Secretary for his consideration and copies thereof by him to Unit Operator and other interested parties; and Provided, further, That after consideration of all credible evidence said Secretary shall render a reasonable decision based thereon and in conformity therewith, which decision, so made and rendered, shall be final and binding on all parties hereto or consenting hereto.

22. This agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts with the same force and effect as if all parties had signed the same document.

In witness whereof, the parties hereto have caused this agreement to be executed and have set opposite their respective names the date of execution and a list of the land made subject to this agreement.

the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR, Supp., 900.17; 6 F.R. 6570, 7 F.R. 3350, 8 F.R. 413), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentatively approved marketing agreement, as amended, and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area. Upon the basis of evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is hereby found that:

(1) The aforesaid order, as amended, and all the terms and conditions thereof, as amended, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The prices calculated to give milk purchased for sale in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area, a purchasing power equivalent to the purchasing power of such milk as determined pursuant to sections 2 and 8 (e) of the act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect marketing supplies of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices set forth in the aforesaid order, as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The aforesaid order, as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in their respective classes of commercial and industrial activity specified in the aforesaid tentatively approved marketing agreement, as amended, upon which a hearing has been held.

The foregoing findings are supplementary and in addition to the findings made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and all of said previous findings are hereby ratified and affirmed except insofar as such findings may be in conflict with the findings herein set forth.

(b) Determinations. It is hereby determined that handlers of at least 50 percent of the volume of milk covered by said order, as hereby amended, which is marketed within the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area refused or failed to sign the tentatively approved marketing agreement, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area; and it is further determined that

(1) The refusal or failure of such handlers to sign such tentatively approved marketing agreement, as hereby amended, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act;

(2) The issuance of this amendment to the order is the only practical means pursuant to the declared policy of the act of advancing the interest of producers of milk which is produced for sale in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area; and

(3) The month of March 1943 is the representative period for ascertaining the producers who have been engaged in the production for market of milk covered in the aforesaid order, as hereby amended.

(4) The issuance of this order is approved or favored by at least three-fourths of the producers who, during the determined representative period, were engaged in the production for market of milk covered in the aforesaid order, as hereby amended.

§ 961.000 Order relative to handling. It is, therefore, ordered that, from and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as hereby amended, and the aforesaid order is hereby amended in the following respect:

Delete § 961.4 (a) (1) and substitute therefor the following:

(1) Class I milk—$4.05 per hundredweight.

Chapter XI—Food Distribution Administration

[FDO 11, Amendment 1]

PART 1401—DAIRY PRODUCTS

MILK MARKETING ECONOMIES

Pursuant to the provisions of Executive Order No. 9280, dated December 5, 1942, and Executive Order No. 9322, dated March 26, 1943, Food Distribution Order No. 11 (8 F.R. 1090), § 1401.21, is amended as follows:

1. By striking out (b) (1) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(1) No handler may deliver milk in containers of less than one quart in size to homes of consumers, and no handler may sell or otherwise dispose of milk in containers of less than one quart in size to any person if he knows, or if he has reason to believe, that such milk is for home consumption.

2. By striking out (b) (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(2) No store, restaurant, hotel, or similar establishment shall purchase or otherwise acquire milk or cream from more than two handlers during any three consecutive days, except in instances where each delivery received by such store, restaurant, hotel, or similar establishment, at the delivery point, is in excess of 300 quarts.

3. By striking out (b) (4) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(4) No store, hotel, restaurant, or similar establishment shall refuse to accept delivery of any milk or cream previously ordered by it; no store, hotel, restaurant or similar establishment shall return, or offer to return, milk or cream previously delivered to it; and no handler shall accept the return of milk or cream previously delivered to such store, hotel, restaurant, or similar establishment.

4. By inserting at the end of (c) thereof, the following new provisions:

(3) Upon application by one or more handlers in any marketing area, and after demonstration to the satisfaction of the Director that compliance with the provisions of § 1401.21 (b) (5) (i), insofar as they require a deposit on glass containers used in the delivery of milk to homes of consumers, will not tend to effectuate an economy in the handling of milk or cream by any or all handlers in such area, and that exemption from such requirement will not interfere with the operation of the provisions of § 1401.21 (b) (5) (i), insofar as they require a deposit on glass containers used in the delivery of milk to places other than homes, the Director may, as to any or all handlers in such area, grant an exemption from the provisions which require a deposit on glass containers used in the delivery of milk to homes of consumers.

(4) The provisions of § 1401.21 (b) (1), (2), (3), (4), and (5) shall not be applicable in areas or places other than cities, towns, villages, or municipalities having a population of 5,000 persons or over.

This amendment shall become effective as of 12:01 e. w. t., April 12, 1943.

(E.O. 9280, 7 F.R. 10179; E.O. 9322, 8 F.R. 3807)

Issued this 9th day of April 1943.

(1) To sales, shipments or deliveries by producers to distributors;

(2) To sales, shipments or deliveries of softwood plywood:

(c) Appeals. Any appeal from this order shall be made by filing a letter in triplicate, referring to the particular provisions appealed from and stating fully the grounds of the appeal.

PART 3175—REGULATIONS APPLICABLE TO THE CONTROLLED MATERIALS PLAN

[Direction No. 2 of CMP Reg. 1]

The following direction is issued pursuant to paragraph (f) (6) of CMP Regulation No. 1 to all aluminum producers:

(a) No consumer shall receive any aluminum rod or bar in the second quarter of 1943 in excess of the amount authorized for delivery in April 1943, plus the amounts authorized under CMP allotments for May and June 1943 delivery. For the purpose of this paragraph, April authorizations consist of either CMP allotments or pre-authorized releases by Claimant Agencies for April. In those cases where allotments were made in CMP size ranges, the total deliveries for the quarter in each size range shall not exceed the total authorized for the quarter in that size range.

(b) Until May 1, 1943, aluminum mills shall hold all orders covered by authorizations for the delivery of aluminum rod and bar in March 1943, or earlier months, in their present places in the mill schedules for April, May and June 1943. Until May 1, 1943, each mill shall consider orders covered by such previous authorizations as if they were authorized controlled materials orders for the purpose of determining the amount of other orders it may accept within the limits of its production directive. However, unless the consumer assigns May or June CMP allotment numbers with the proper certification by April 30, 1943, to carry-over orders covered only by authorization for March or earlier deliveries, these orders must be taken out of the mill schedules on May 1, 1943.

(c) Aluminum mills are hereby directed to notify their consumers on or before April 10, 1943, of the amount of aluminum rod or bar authorized for delivery in March or previous months which will not be ready for delivery to the consumer by May 1, 1943.

(d) If the provisions of this direction affect unfavorably any critical requirements of any consumer because his CMP allotments have been used up for the second quarter, he may receive further consideration by submission to his Claimant Agency of CMP–4A for supplemental allotment for such critical item.

Issued this 10th day of April 1943.

By J. JOSEPH WHELAN,
Recording Secretary.

BLOOMFIELD MFG. COMPANY

The Bloomfield Mfg. Company, Chicago, Illinois, is a corporation engaged in the production of various war materials and metal kitchen equipment. Between July 1st and October 1, 1942 respondent extended a preference rating applied to it for the manufacture of military items for the purchase of capital equipment in the amount of $11,000.00. Furthermore, the respondent, a Class I producer under the production requirements plan, purchased for the third quarter of 1942 13,325 lbs. of cast iron castings in excess of its authorization under the production requirements plan; and purchased 400 lbs. of music wire, 300 lbs. of tin, 66 lbs. of brass rods, 1,058 butter cutters and handles, and approximately 685,000 cadmium plated rivets. The company was not authorized to purchase any of this material by the production requirements plan. The company also failed to maintain adequate or proper production and inventory records. It conducted its business with reckless disregard of the applicable orders, and made no effort to familiarize itself with the restrictions placed upon its business. The above conduct constituted wilful violations of Priorities Regulation No. 1, Priorities Regulation No. 3 and Priorities Regulation No. 11.

These wilful violations have impeded and hampered the war efforts of the United States by diverting scarce materials to uses unauthorized by the War Production Board.

In view of the foregoing facts: It is hereby ordered, That:

§ 1010.272 Suspension Order No. S–272. (a) The Bloomfield Mfg. Company, Chicago, Illinois, its successors and assigns, shall not cut, shape, form, put in process, process or manufacture any metal as set forth in the metals list attached to Priorities Regulation No. 11, as amended, to make any metal kitchen equipment in any of the shapes or forms as defined in any order of the L–30 series, as amended from time to time, except to fill orders bearing preference ratings of AAA or AA–1, or except as hereafter specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(b) No person shall deliver any metal as set forth in the metals list attached to Priorities Regulation No. 11, as amended, to the Bloomfield Mfg. Company, Chicago, Illinois, its successors or assigns, if such person knows or has reason to know that such metal is to be used by the Bloomfield Mfg. Company in violation of paragraph (a) of this order.

(c) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve the Bloomfield Mfg. Company, its successors and assigns, from any restriction, prohibition or provision of any other order or regulation of the War Production Board, except in so far as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(d) This order shall take effect April 12, 1943, and shall expire July 12, 1943, at which time the restrictions contained in this order shall be of no further effect.

Issued this 10th day of April 1943.

[Suspension Order S–275]

ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC COAL AND OIL COMPANY, INC.

The Atlantic and Pacific Coal and Oil Company, Inc., 6512 Fort Hamilton Parkway, Brooklyn, New York, owns and operates a garage and service station at that address. During the months of April, May, June and from July 1 to July 21, 1942, the Atlantic and Pacific Coal and Oil Company, Inc., accepted delivery of 42,652 gallons of motor fuel in excess of the amount permitted to be accepted for its service station in accordance with the monthly quota provisions of Limitation Order L–70. The percentage of deliveries accepted at this service station in excess of the proper quotas rose from 123 per cent in April 1942 to 758 per cent during July 1 to July 21, 1942. The Atlantic and Pacific Coal and Oil Company, Inc., knew of Limitation Order L–70 during the period in question and accepted the excess deliveries of motor fuel in wilful violation of the order.

These violations of Limitation Order L–70 have impeded and hampered the war effort of the United States by diverting motor fuel to uses unauthorized by the War Production Board.

In view of the foregoing facts: It is hereby ordered, That:

§ 1010.275 Suspension Order No. S–275. (a) Atlantic and Pacific Coal and Oil Company, Inc., its successors and assigns, shall not accept the delivery of any motor fuel, as defined in Limitation Order L–70, from any source, at 6512 Fort Hamilton Parkway, Brooklyn, New York, or at any other service station or motor fuel storage facility now or hereafter owned, operated, or leased by it, except as specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(b) No person shall deliver any motor fuel, as defined in Limitation Order L–70, to Atlantic and Pacific Coal and Oil Company, Inc., its successors and assigns, at 6512 Fort Hamilton Parkway, Brooklyn, New York, or at any other service station or motor fuel storage facility now or hereafter owned, operated or leased by Atlantic and Pacific Coal and Oil Company, Inc., its successors and assigns, except as specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(c) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve Atlantic and Pacific Coal and Oil Company, Inc., its successors and assigns, from any restriction, prohibition or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the War Production Board, except in so far as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(d) This order shall take effect on April 12, 1943, and shall expire on October 12, 1943, at which time the restrictions contained in this order shall be of no further effect.

Issued this 10th day of April 1943.

SPECIALTY MATTRESS COMPANY

Specialty Mattress Company is a West Virginia corporation having its principal office at Huntington, West Virginia. It has thirteen subsidiary companies located at various points in the States of Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana and West Virginia. It is engaged in the business of manufacturing and distributing "bedding products" as the same are defined in Limitation Order L–49. Between September 1, 1942 and October 15, 1942 the respondent manufactured 3,115 inner-spring mattresses, during which time an absolute prohibition against such manufacture was in existence. During July, August and September 1942 the respondent company used 40,365 pounds of iron and steel in the manufacture of box bed springs in excess of its quota for the said months. Specialty Mattress Company was familiar with the provisions of Limitation Order L–49 and its conduct as above described constituted wilful violations of the said order, thus hampering and impeding the war effort of the United States. In view of the foregoing facts: It is hereby ordered, That:

§ 1010.278 Suspension Order No. S–278. (a) Neither Specialty Mattress Company, nor any of its subsidiaries, nor its successors or assigns, shall process, fabricate or work on iron or steel for the production of coil, flat, box or fabric bed springs, whether or not they are integral parts of beds or other sleeping equipment, or use iron or steel in the manufacture of coil, flat, box or fabric bed springs, whether or not they are integral parts of beds or other sleeping equipment, during the period in which this order is in effect, except in fulfillment of a specific order of, or contract with, the Army or Navy of the United States.

(b) Deliveries of material to Specialty Mattress Company, its successors and assigns, shall not be accorded priority over deliveries under any other contract or order and no preference rating shall

(c) No allocation shall be made to Specialty Mattress Company, its successors and assigns, of any material the supply or distribution of which is governed by any order of the War Production Board, except as specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(d) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve Specialty Mattress Company, its successors and assigns, from any restriction, prohibition or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the War Production Board, except in so far as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(e) This order shall take effect on April 12, 1943, and shall expire on July 12, 1943, at which time the restrictions contained in this order shall be of no further effect.

PART 940—RUBBER AND BALATA AND PRODUCTS AND MATERIALS OF WHICH RUBBER OR BALATA IS A COMPONENT

[Supplementary Order M-15-g, as Amended April 12, 1943]

RUBBER TIRES FOR INDUSTRIAL POWER TRUCKS

The fulfillment of the requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply of rubber for defense, for private account and for export, and the following order is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense:

§ 940.9 Supplementary Order M-15-g—(a) Definitions. For the purposes of this order:

(1) "Person" means any individual, partnership, association, business trust, corporation, governmental corporation or agency, or any organized group of persons, whether incorporated or not.

(2) "Rubber" means any kind of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber or synthetic rubber.

(3) "Rubber tire" means any solid or pneumatic tire or tire tube made in whole or in part of any kind of rubber and used or designed for use on any industrial power truck.

(4) "Industrial power truck" means any self-power-propelled industrial truck or wheel tractor designed primarily for handling material (either by carrying or towing) on floors or paved surfaces in and around industrial plants, warehouses, docks, shipyards, airports or depots. The term shall not include any of the following: automotive tractors; automotive trucks; wheel-type industrial tractors designed for use on tax-built highways, or in such operations as construction, earth-moving, mining, logging or petroleum development; or trailers designed for industrial use.

(b) Restrictions on delivery or acquisition. Except as permitted by paragraph (c) hereof, no person shall sell, lease, rent, deliver or otherwise transfer, or purchase, accept or otherwise acquire, any new rubber tire used or designed for use on any industrial power truck except pursuant to an authorization in writing of the War Production Board on Form PD-840 or Form PD-408: Provided, That no Form PD-408 shall be used to acquire any such tire unless such form is an individual or interim form which covers only the tire or tires which are needed for one or more industrial power trucks referred to therein. Each application filed pursuant hereto on Form PD-840 or Form PD-408 shall contain or be accompanied by a statement certifying that each tire covered by such application is needed for replacement purposes within thirty days from the delivery date specified in such application.

No such tire which is permanently mounted on or affixed to a base band made of iron, steel or any other metal shall be delivered for replacement purposes pursuant to this paragraph (b) unless (1) there is delivered to the person supplying such replacement tire a metal base band of comparable size, or (2) said tire is mounted on or affixed to a base band which was furnished by the person acquiring said tire.

(c) Exceptions. The provisions of paragraph (b) of this order shall not apply to the sale, lease, renting, delivery or transfer or purchase, acceptance or acquisition of any new rubber tire used or designed for use on any industrial power truck:

(1) Exception of certain orders. When such tire is purchased or acquired by or for the account of:

(i) The Army or Navy of the United States, the United States Maritime Commission, Panama Canal, Coast and Geodetic Survey, Coast Guard, Civil Aeronautics Authority, National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics or Office of Scientific Research and Development;

(ii) Any agency of the United States where such tire is to be delivered to or for the account of any foreign country under the provisions of the Act of March 11, 1941 entitled "An Act to Promote the Defense of the United States" (Lend-Lease Act).

(2) Original equipment. When such tire is purchased or acquired to equip any new industrial power truck, manufactured or delivered under the provisions of Limitation Order L-112 (§ 1210.1), as amended from time to time (including any such vehicles manufactured or delivered under appeals from said Limitation Order L-112): Provided, That no person shall purchase, receive or otherwise acquire any new rubber tires to be used as original equipment on new industrial power trucks in quantities which will result in such person having an inventory of rubber tires held for such purpose in excess of his requirements for thirty days.

(3) Tire distributors and vehicle manufacturers. When any such tires are acquired for resale to others by

(i) Any person (other than a manufacturer of tires for industrial power trucks) who, during the calendar year 1941, was regularly engaged in the business of furnishing new rubber tires for industrial power trucks for replacement purposes and who, while engaged in such business, maintained during the greater part of the calendar year 1941, an inventory of not less than twenty tires for such purpose, or

(ii) Any person who is a manufacturer of industrial power trucks and who also engages in the business of furnishing to others new rubber tires for industrial power trucks for replacement purposes.

Provided, however, That no person shall purchase, receive or otherwise acquire for resale to others as replacement tires any new rubber tires pursuant to this subparagraph (3) in quantities which will result in such person having an inventory of rubber tires held for such purpose in excess of his anticipated orders for the ensuing thirty days; and no such person shall dispose of any such tires from his inventories except in accordance with paragraphs (b), (c) (1), (c) (2) or (c) (4) of this order.

(4) When such purchase or acquisition is authorized by a Preference Rating Certificate PD-1A issued prior to April 12, 1943, assigning a preference rating A-1-a or higher.

(d) Restriction on destruction of metal base bands. No person shall knowingly destroy or damage any metal base band designed for an industrial power truck tire if such base band is still usable for mounting or affixing any such tire.

(e) Miscellaneous provisions—(1) Applicability of regulations. This order and all transactions affected thereby are subject to all applicable regulations of the War Production Board, as amended from time to time.

(2) Reports. All persons affected by this order shall prepare and file such reports and questionnaires as may from time to time be requested by the War Production Board or the Rubber Director.

(3) Audit and inspection. All records required to be kept by this order or by any priorities regulation of the War Production Board shall, upon request, be submitted to audit and inspection by a duly authorized representative of the War Production Board.

(4) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order, or who, in connection with this order, wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, material under priority control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(5) Appeals. Any appeal from the provision of this order shall be made by filing a letter in triplicate, referring to the particular provision appealed from and stating fully the grounds of appeal.

(6) Communications. All communications concerning this order shall, unless otherwise directed, be addressed to: War Production Board, Office of Rubber Director, Washington, D. C.: Ref. M-15-g.

PART 1188—RAILROAD EQUIPMENT

[Interpretation 2 to General Limitation Order L-97 as Amended January 1, 1943]

The following official interpretation is hereby issued with respect to § 1188.1 General Limitation Order L-97:

The question has arisen to what extent a production and delivery schedule for a given number of locomotives, prescribed for a producer by the War Production Board pursuant to paragraph (d) (1) of Order L-97, takes precedence over any preference ratings which may be applied or extended to him, either for the locomotives themselves or for parts thereof.

A production and delivery schedule so established is protected by paragraph (d) (2), which provides that it "shall be maintained without regard to any preference ratings already assigned or hereafter assigned . . .". This protection of the schedule under Order L-97 extends not only to locomotives in completed form, but also to any locomotive parts manufactured by the producer which enter into the scheduled locomotives, to the extent that the diversion of such parts to fill rated orders would interfere with fulfillment of the prescribed schedule.

Issued this 12th day of April 1943.

PART 3165—PUMPS

[General Limitation Order L-246]

The fulfillment of requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply of certain critical materials and facilities used in the manufacture of pumps for defense, for private account and for export; and the following order is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense.

§ 3165.1 General Limitation Order L-246—(a) Definitions. For the purposes of this order:

(1) "Person" means any individual, partnership, association, business trust, corporation, governmental corporation or agency, or any organized group of persons, whether incorporated or not.

(2) "Pump" means any new, mechanically operated, rotating or positive displacement mechanism for raising, circulating, or otherwise moving any liquid; except (i) pumps manufactured by a person solely for incorporation into other machinery or equipment also manufactured by him, (ii) fuel injection pumps for internal combustion engines, (iii) pumps for farm use as defined in General Limitation Order L-170, (iv) service station type measuring and dispensing pumps, (v) vertical submerged reciprocating or turbine type pumps used in oil wells for petroleum production, (vi) non-reciprocating vacuum pumps, condensate return pumps, and hot water circulating pumps, designed and used solely for heating of building space, (vii) sanitary pumps used in milk processing and egg processing plants, or (viii) portable engine driven or electric motor driven pumping units, mounted on skids, with or without handles, or trailer mounted, incorporating self-priming centrifugal pumps, horizontal or vertical piston or plunger pumps or diaphragm pumps, ordinarily used for construction contractors' purposes or by construction contractors for dewatering and supply, as defined in "Contractors pump standards" adopted by the Associated General Contractors of America, Inc., (A. G. C.) February 21, 1941.

(3) "Manufacturer" means any enterprise to the extent that it is engaged in the fabrication or assembly of pumps, and includes sales and distribution outlets controlled by any such enterprise.

(4) "Dealer" means any person who purchases pumps for resale except sales and distribution outlets controlled by a manufacturer.

(5) "Delivery" includes delivery of pumps from one affiliate to another or from one branch, division or section of a single enterprise to another branch, division or section of the same enterprise, where the recipient affiliate, branch, division or section will use the pump.

(6) "New" as applied to a pump means any pump which has not been sold and delivered to a purchaser for use. A pump shall be deemed new until it has been so sold and delivered regardless of whether it may have theretofore been leased to any person or persons by the manufacturer or dealer.

(7) "Approved order" means:

(i) Any order for a pump, or parts thereof, bearing a preference rating of AA-5 or higher; or

(ii) Any order for a pump, or parts thereof, which the War Production Board approves pursuant to subparagraph (b) (3) hereof.

(b) Restrictions on acceptance of orders for, and delivery of, pumps. (1) After April 22, 1943, no manufacturer or dealer shall accept any order for pump, or parts thereof, unless the order is an approved order; and on and after May 12, 1943, no manufacturer shall deliver any pump, or parts thereof, in fulfillment of any order unless the order is an approved order.

(2) The limitations and restrictions of subparagraph (b) (1) above shall not apply to any order for repair parts (i) in an amount not exceeding $500 for any single pump, or 50% of the original sales price of the pump to be repaired, whichever is less in the particular case; or (ii) in any amount, for the repair of a pump when there has been an actual breakdown or suspension of operations thereof because of damage, wear and tear, destruction or failure of parts or the like, and the essential repair and maintenance parts are not otherwise available.

(3) Any manufacturer or dealer may apply for authorization to deliver orders on his books which are not approved orders by filing a report thereof in duplicate on Form PD-556, together with a statement of the percentage of completion of each such order. The War Production Board may thereupon approve any such orders regardless of the rating thereof, or may rerate any such orders in order to constitute them approved orders.

(4) No manufacturer shall accept any order for a pump if he knows or has reasonable cause to believe that he will be unable to make delivery on or before the delivery date specified in the order. Any order received by a manufacturer, specifying a delivery date which the manufacturer knows or has reasonable cause to believe he will be unable to meet, shall be returned by the manufacturer to the proposed purchaser within twenty days after the receipt thereof.

(c) Schedules of specifications. The War Production Board may at any time, and from time to time, issue schedules (by amendments to this order) establishing required specifications for pumps. Upon and after the date of issuance of any such schedule of specifications, or such other date as shall be prescribed therein, no person shall accept any order for, fabricate, assemble, sell, deliver, accept delivery of or use any pumps or parts therefor except in accordance with the terms of such schedule. As used in this paragraph the term "required specifications" shall mean specifications fixed for the fabrication, assembly, production, construction or other manufacture of pumps and designed to eliminate, reduce, or conserve the use of critical materials in pumps or parts, by simplifying or standardizing pumps or parts; specifying the operating conditions under which they may be used; restricting the numbers of sizes, types, models, or kinds produced or kinds or quantities of materials used by a manufacturer; or requiring substitution of less critical materials for more critical materials; or by establishing other requirements for the manufacture, sale, delivery or use of such pumps.

(d) Miscellaneous provisions—(1) Appeals. An appeal may be taken either by a manufacturer or by his proposed purchaser from any provision of this order or from any action taken hereunder by the War Production Board. Any such appeal shall be made by filing a letter, in triplicate, referring to the particular provision or action appealed from, and stating fully the grounds of the appeal.

(2) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order, or who, in connection with this order, wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, material under priority control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(3) Communications. All reports required to be filed hereunder, and all communications concerning this order, shall, unless otherwise directed, be addressed to War Production Board, General Industrial Equipment Division, Washington, D. C., Ref: L-246.

Chapter XI—Office of Price Administration

PART 1315—RUBBER AND PRODUCTS AND MATERIALS OF WHICH RUBBER IS A COMPONENT

[RO 1A,[1] Amendment 23]

TIRES, TUBES, RECAPPING AND CAMELBACK

A rationale accompanying this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.*

Ration Order No. 1A is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1315.201 (a) (41) is added to read as follows:

(41) "Equipment", unless the context indicates otherwise, means any conveyance or machinery operating with wheels which require tires for such operation.

2. Section 1315.201 (a) (42) is added to read as follows:

(42) "Mounted" as applied to a tire or tube, means a tire or tube physically mounted or held for use upon specific equipment and includes spare tires or tubes not in excess of the number allowable under this order or Ration Order No. 5C.

3. Section 1315.502 (b) is amended to read as follows:

(b) Inspection record. That the applicant has a tire inspection record, signed by an authorized tire inspector, showing that the required tire inspections have been made, and that either the serial number of the tire to be replaced has been entered upon such record or the applicant has Part D of a certificate authorizing acquisition of such tire. However, the Board may in its discretion waive the requirement that the applicant have a tire inspection record showing the required tire inspections if the tire inspection record establishes that the tires upon the vehicle were inspected within sixty (60) days prior to the filing of the application. If a waiver is granted under this section or § 1394.8010 of Ration Order No. 5C, the required inspections prior to the waiver shall be deemed to have been obtained. The provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to vehicles exempt from maintaining a tire inspection record under § 1315.701. Tire inspection records for automobiles operated on official rations need not show the serial number of the tire to be replaced.

4. In § 1315.701 the following is added to the first paragraph following the table:

The record must be kept with the vehicle when in operation, unless its removal is permitted by Office of Price Administration order or authorization. Upon transfer of a passenger automobile, the record pertaining to the vehicle, and Parts D of certificates for tires mounted on the vehicle, must be transferred with it.

5. In § 1315.701 (a) the words "indicated on the record" are substituted for the words "which appointed the inspector."

6. Section 1315.702 is amended to read as follows:

§ 1315.702 New tire inspection record upon transfer of passenger automobile. When application for a new gasoline ration is necessary under § 1394.8103 of Ration Order No. 5C as a result of a change in ownership of a vehicle, the transferee of the vehicle must turn in the existing tire inspection record to the board issuing the new gasoline ration and the board shall issue a new record for the vehicle as provided in § 1315.701. Within ten (10) days after receipt of the new record, the tires on the vehicle shall be inspected by an authorized Office of Price Administration inspector.

7. Section 1315.704 (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) Any person desiring to mount a tire upon, or remove a tire from, a passenger automobile pursuant to § 1315.802 (a) (3) or (4) must first surrender the tire inspection record for such automobile to the board having jurisdiction over the automobile. The board, upon being satisfied that the conditions of § 1315.802 (a) have been complied with, shall issue a new tire inspection record for the automobile.

8. Section 1315.802 (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) Any tire or tube may be mounted and used as follows, unless such mounting or use is specifically prohibited by other provisions of this order or involves a transfer of tires or tubes prohibited thereby:

(1) Upon the equipment for which a certificate or authorization to acquire such tire or tube was granted under this order.

(2) Upon the equipment upon which it was mounted on April 14, 1943: Provided, That at the time the tires were mounted upon the equipment such mounting was not in violation of any existing provisions of this order, the revised tire rationing regulations or Ration Order No. 5C.

(3) Upon other equipment, provided the tire or tube is needed for its operation or as an allowable spare and immediately following such mounting the person mounting such tire or tube will use the equipment in operations which would make it eligible for the tube or the grade or type of tire in question. If the tire was obtained on certificate or authorization, its grade at the time of acquisition, and not its present grade, shall control.

(4) Upon other equipment not covered by subparagraph (3), only if authorized in writing by the board having jurisdiction over the vehicle upon which the tire or tube is to be mounted. The board may grant such authorization only where it is satisfied that the mounting or use will result in a conservation of rubber or the more efficient use of tires in activities essential to the war effort, the public health or safety.

(5) To move any house trailer to a site for housing purposes if the tire or tube was acquired under § 1315.511 (b) or is held under § 1394.8014 of Ration Order No. 5C.

(6) Any person mounting or using tires pursuant to this paragraph must comply with the requirements of § 1315.704, if applicable.

9. Section 1315.802 (c) is added to read as follows:

(c) Temporary transfer, mounting and use of used tires or tubes. A person may temporarily transfer, without certificate, used tires or tubes to another person who may mount and use them to:

(1) Replace a tube which is being repaired or a tire which is being repaired or recapped;

(2) Move a wrecked, disabled or repossessed vehicle to a garage or other place of safety or storage;

(3) Move vehicles held for resale from one sales premises to another;

(4) Move any house trailer to a site for housing purposes.

Such tires or tubes shall be returned to the transferor within three (3) days after the purpose for which the tires or tubes were transferred is accomplished.

10. Section 1315.806 (g) is amended to read as follows:

(g) Turn in of tires or tubes to be replaced. A consumer who holds a certificate for a tire or tube and who is required to turn in the replaced tire or tube shall transfer it to a dealer. A dealer receiving a tire, including a scrap tire, under this paragraph must attach to it a tag on which is stated the serial number of the tire, the date upon which it was turned in, the name of the certificate-holder who turned it in and the serial number of the certificate. The dealer must hold such tire for at least thirty (30) days unless instructed to hold it for a longer or shorter period by an Office of Price Administration representative authorized to give such instructions. All tires held by a dealer under this paragraph must be segregated from any other tires and kept readily available for inspection.

11. In § 1315.1005 (e) reference to § 1315.802 (a) (9) is deleted and refer-

[Maximum Rent Reg. 64]

HOUSING ACCOMMODATIONS OTHER THAN HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES

BEAUFORT DEFENSE-RENTAL AREA

In the judgment of the Administrator, rents for housing accommodations within the Beaufort Defense-Rental Area as designated in the designation and rent declaration issued by the Administrator on April 28, 1942, as amended, have not been reduced and stabilized by State or local regulation, or otherwise, in accordance with the recommendations set forth in the said designation and rent declaration.

It is the judgment of the Administrator that by April 1, 1941, defense activities had not yet resulted in increases in rents for housing accommodations within the Beaufort Defense-Rental Area inconsistent with the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942. The Administrator has therefore ascertained and given due consideration to the rents prevailing for housing accomodations within the Beaufort Defense-Rental Area on or about March 1, 1942. The Administrator has made adjustments for such relevant factors as he has determined and deemed to be of general applicability in respect of such housing accommodations, including increases or decreases in property taxes and other costs.

In the judgment of the Administrator, the maximum rents established by this maximum rent regulation for housing accommodations within the Beaufort Defense-Rental Area will be generally fair and equitable and will effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942.

AUTHORITY: §§ 1388.981 to 1388.994, inclusive, issued under Pub. Law 421, 77th Cong.

§ 1388.981 Scope of regulation. (a) This maximum rent regulation applies to all housing accommodations within the Beaufort Defense-Rental Area (referred to hereinafter in this maximum rent regulation as the "Defense-Rental Area"), as designated in Designation and Rent Declaration No. 25 (§§ 1388.1201 to 1388.1205)[1] issued by the Administrator on April 28, 1942, as amended (consisting of the Counties of Beaufort and Colleton), except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) This maximum rent regulation does not apply to the following:

(1) Housing accommodations situated on a farm and occupied by a tenant who is engaged for a substantial portion of his time in farming operations thereon;

(2) Dwelling space occupied by domestic servants, caretakers, managers, or other employees to whom the space is provided as part of their compensation and who are employed for the purpose of rendering services in connection with the premises of which the dwelling space is a part;

(3) Rooms or other housing accommodations within hotels or rooming houses, or housing accommodations which have been, with the consent of the Administrator, brought under the control of the maximum rent regulation for hotels and rooming houses pursuant to the provisions of that regulation.

(4) Entire structures or premises wherein more than 25 rooms are rented or offered for rent by any lessee, sublessee or other tenant of such entire structure or premises: Provided, That this maximum rent regulation does apply to entire structures or premises wherein 25 or less rooms are rented or offered for rent by any lessee, sublessee or other tenant of such entire structure or premises, whether or not used by the lessee, sublessee or other tenant as a hotel or rooming house: And provided further, That this maximum rent regulation does apply to an underlying lease of any entire structure or premises which was entered into after March 1, 1942, and prior to the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, while such lease remains in force with no power in the tenant to cancel or otherwise terminate the lease.

(5) Housing accommodations rented to the United States acting by the National Housing Agency: Provided, however, That this maximum rent regulation does apply to a sublease or other subrenting of such accommodations or any part thereof.

(c) The provisions of any lease or other rental agreement shall remain in force pursuant to the terms thereof, except insofar as those provisions are inconsistent with this maximum rent regulation.

(d) An agreement by the tenant to waive the benefit of any provision of this maximum rent regulation is void. A tenant shall not be entitled by reason of this maximum rent regulation to refuse to pay or to recover any portion of any rents due or paid for use or occupancy prior to the effective date of this maximum rent regulation.

§ 1388.982 Prohibition against higher than maximum rents. (a) Regardless of any contract, agreement, lease, or other obligation heretofore or hereafter entered into, no person shall demand or receive any rent for use or occupancy on and after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation of any housing accommodations within the Defense-Rental Area higher than the maximum rents provided by this maximum rent regulation; and no person shall offer, solicit, attempt, or agree to do any of the foregoing. Lower rents than those provided by this maximum rent regulation may be demanded or received.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of this maximum rent regulation, where housing accommodations are heated with fuel oil the landlord of such accommodations may as hereinafter provided enter into an agreement with the tenant providing for payment by the tenant of part or all of the cost of changing the heating unit to use some fuel other than oil or of installing a new heating unit using some fuel other than oil. Prior to making such agreement the landlord shall in writing report the terms of the proposed agreement to the area rent office. The landlord may enter into the agreement either upon its approval by the Administrator or, unless the Administrator has disapproved the proposed agreement within five days after the filing of such report, upon the expiration of such 5-day period.

(c) Where a lease of housing accommodations was entered into prior to the effective date of this maximum rent regulation and the tenant as a part of such lease or in connection therewith was granted an option to buy the housing accommodations which were the subject of the lease, with the further provision that some or all of the payments made under the lease should be credited toward the purchase price in the event such option is exercised, the landlord, notwithstanding any other provision of this maximum rent regulation, may be authorized to receive payments made by the tenant in accordance with the provisions of such lease and in excess of the maximum rent for such housing accommodations. Such authority may be secured only by a written request of the tenant to the area rent office and shall be granted by order of the Administrator if he finds that such payments in excess of the maximum rent will not be inconsistent with the purposes of the Act or this maximum rent regulation and would not be likely to result in the circumvention or evasion thereof. After entry of such order the landlord shall be authorized to demand, receive and retain payments provided by the lease in excess of the maximum rent for periods commencing on or after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation. After entry of such order, the provisions of the lease may be enforced in accordance with law, notwithstanding any other provision of this maximum rent regulation: Provided, however, That if at the termination of the lease the tenant shall not exercise the option to buy, the landlord may thereafter remove or evict the tenant only in accordance with the provisions of § 1388.986 of this maximum rent regulation. Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to authorize the landlord to demand or receive payments in excess of the maximum rent in the absence of an order of the Administrator as herein provided. Where a lease of housing accommodations has been entered into on or after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, and the tenant as a part of such lease or in connection therewith has been granted an option to buy the housing accommodations which are the subject of the lease, the landlord, prior to the exercise by the tenant of the option to buy, shall not demand or receive payments in excess of the maximum rent, whether or not such lease allocates some portion or portions of the periodic payments therein provided as payments on or for the option to buy.

§ 1388.983 Minimum services, furniture, furnishings and equipment. Except as set forth in § 1388.985 (b), every landlord shall, as a minimum, provide with housing accommodations the same essential services, furniture, furnishings, and equipment as those provided on the date determining the maximum rent, and as to other services, furniture, furnishings, and equipment not substantially less than those provided on such date: Provided, however, That where fuel oil is used to supply heat or hot water for housing accommodations, and the landlord provided heat or hot water on the date determining the maximum rent, the heat and hot water which the landlord is required to supply shall not be in excess of the amount which he can supply under any statute, regulation or order of the United States or any agency thereof which rations or limits the use of fuel oil.

§ 1388.984 Maximum rents. Maximum rents (unless and until changed by the Administrator as provided in § 1388.985) shall be:

(a) For housing accommodations rented on March 1, 1942, the rent for such accommodations on that date.

(b) For housing accommodations not rented on March 1, 1942, but rented at any time during the two months ending on that date, the last rent for such accommodations during that two-month period.

(c) For housing accommodations not rented on March 1, 1942, nor during the two months ending on that date, but rented prior to the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, the first rent for such accommodations after March 1, 1942. The Administrator may order a decrease in the maximum rent as provided in § 1388.985 (c).

(d) For (1) newly constructed housing accommodations without priority rating first rented after March 1, 1942, and before the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, or (2) housing accommodations changed between those dates so as to result in an increase or decrease of the number of dwelling units in such housing accommodations, or (3) housing accommodations changed between those dates from unfurnished to fully furnished, or from fully furnished to unfurnished, or (4) housing accommodations substantially changed between those dates by a major capital improvement as distinguished from ordinary repair, replacement and maintenance, the first rent for such accommodations after such construction or change: Provided, however, That, where such first rent was fixed by a lease which was in force at the time of a major capital improvement, the maximum rent shall be the first rent after termination of such lease. The Administrator may order a decrease in the maximum rent as provided in § 1388.985 (c).

(e) For (1) newly constructed housing accommodations without priority rating first rented on or after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, or (2) housing accommodations changed on or after such effective date so as to result in an increase or decrease of the number of dwelling units in such housing accommodations, or (3) housing accommodations not rented at any time between January 1, 1942, and such effective date, the first rent for such accommodations after the change or the effective date, as the case may be. Within 30 days after so renting the landlord shall register the accommodations as provided in § 1388.987. The Administrator may order a decrease in the maximum rent as provided in § 1388.985 (c).

(f) For housing accommodations constructed with priority rating from the United States or any agency thereof for which the rent has been heretofore or is hereafter approved by the United States or any agency thereof, the rent so approved, but in no event more than the rent on March 1, 1942, or, if the accommodations were not rented on that date, more than the first rent after that date.

(g) For housing accommodations constructed by the United States or any agency thereof, or by a State of the United States or any of its political subdivisions, or any agency of the State or any of its political subdivisions, and owned by any of the foregoing, the rent generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942, as determined by the owner of such accommodations: Provided, however, That any corporation formed under the laws of a State shall not be considered an agency of the United States within the meaning of this paragraph. The Administrator may order a decrease in the maximum rent as provided in § 1388.985 (c).

(h) For housing accommodations rented to either Army or Navy personnel, including civilian employees of the War and Navy Departments, for which the rent is fixed by the national rent schedule of the War or Navy Department, the rents established on the effective date of this maximum rent regulation by such rent schedule. The Administrator may order an increase in such rents, if he finds that such increase is not inconsistent with the purposes of the Act or this maximum rent regulation.

§ 1388.985 Adjustments and other determinations. In the circumstances enumerated in this section, the Administrator may issue an order changing the maximum rents otherwise allowable or the minimum services required. In those cases involving a major capital improvement, an increase or decrease in the furniture, furnishings or equipment, an increase or decrease of services, an increase or decrease in the number of subtenants or other occupants, or a deterioration, the adjustment in the maximum rent shall be the amount the Administrator finds would have been on March 1, 1942, the difference in the rental value of the housing accommodations by reason of such change: Provided, however, That no adjustment shall be ordered where it appears that the rent on the date determining the maximum rent was fixed in contemplation of and so as to reflect such change. In all other cases, except those under paragraph (a) (7) and (c) (6) of this section, the adjustment shall be on the basis of the rent which the Administrator finds was generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942. In cases involving construction due consideration shall be given to increased costs of construction, if any, since March 1, 1942. In cases under paragraph (a) (7) and (c) (6) of this section the adjustment shall be on the basis of the rents which the administrator finds were generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations during the year ending on March 1, 1942.

(a) Any landlord may file a petition for adjustment to increase the maximum rent otherwise allowable, only on the grounds that:

(1) There has been on or after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation a substantial change in the housing accommodations by a major capital improvement as distinguished from ordinary repair, replacement and maintenance.

(2) There was, on or prior to March 1, 1942, a substantial change in the housing accommodations by a major capital improvement as distinguished from ordinary repair, replacement and maintenance, and the rent on March 1, 1942 was fixed by a lease or other rental agreement which was in force at the time of such change.

(3) There has been a substantial increase in the services, furniture, furnishings or equipment provided with the housing accommodations since the date or order determining its maximum rent. No increase in the maximum rent shall be ordered on the ground set forth in this paragraph (a) (3) unless the increase in services, furniture, furnishings or equipment occurred with the consent of the tenant or while the accommodations were vacant: Provided, That an adjustment may be ordered, although the tenant refuses to consent to the increase in services, furniture, furnishings, or equipment, if the Administrator finds that such increase (i) is reasonably required for the operation of a multiple dwelling structure or other structure of which the accommodations are a part or (ii) is necessary for the preservation or maintenance of the accommodations.

(4) The rent on the date determining the maximum rent was materially affected by the blood, personal or other special relationship between the landlord and the tenant and as a result was substantially lower than the rent generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942: Provided, That no adjustment under this subparagraph increasing the maximum rent shall be made effective with respect to any accommodations regularly rented to employees of the landlord while the accommodations are rented to an employee, and no petition for such an adjustment will be entertained until the accommodations have been or are about to be rented to one other than an employee.

(5) There was in force on March 1, 1942, a written lease, for a term commencing on or prior to March 1, 1941, requiring a rent substantially lower than the rent generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942; or the housing accommodations were not rented on March 1, 1942, but were rented during the two months ending on that date and the last rent for such accommodations during that two-month period was fixed by a written lease, for a term commencing on or prior to March 1, 1941, requiring a rent substantially lower than the rent generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942.

(6) The rent on the date determining the maximum rent was established by a lease or other rental agreement which provided for a substantially higher rent at other periods during the term of such lease or agreement.

(7) The rent on the date determining the maximum rent was substantially lower than at other times of year by reason of seasonal demand, or seasonal variations in the rent, for such housing accommodations. In such cases the Administrator's order may if he deems it advisable provide for different maximum rents for different periods of the calendar year.

(8) There has been, since March 1, 1942, either (i) a substantial increase in the number of subtenants or other persons occupying the accommodations or a part thereof under a rental agreement with the tenant, or (ii) a substantial increase in the number of occupants, in excess of normal occupancy for that class of accommodations on March 1, 1942, or (iii) an increase in the number of occupants over the number contemplated by the rental agreement on the date determining the maximum rent, where the landlord on that date had a regular and definite practice of fixing different rents for the accommodations for different numbers of occupants.

(b) (1) If, on the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, the services provided for housing accommodations are less than the minimum services required by § 1388.983, the landlord shall either restore and maintain such minimum services or, within 30 days after such effective date, file a petition requesting approval of the decreased services. If, on such effective date, the furniture, furnishings or equipment provided with housing accommodations are less than the minimum required by § 1388.983, the landlord shall, within 30 days after such date, file a written report showing the decrease in furniture, furnishings or equipment.

(2) Except as above provided, the landlord shall, until the accommodations become vacant, maintain the minimum services, furniture, furnishings, and equipment unless and until he has filed a petition to decrease the services, furniture, furnishings, or equipment and an order permitting a decrease has been entered thereon; however, if it is impossible to provide the minimum services, furniture, furnishings, or equipment he shall file a petition within 10 days after the change occurs. When the accommodations become vacant the landlord may, on renting to a new tenant, decrease the services, furniture, furnishings, or equipment below the minimum; within 10 days after so renting the landlord shall file a written report showing such decrease.

(3) The order on any petition under this paragraph may require an appropriate adjustment in the maximum rent; and any maximum rent for which a report is required by this paragraph may be decreased in accordance with the provisions of § 1388.985 (c) (3). If the landlord fails to file the petition or report required by this paragraph within the time specified, or decreases the services, furniture, furnishings, or equipment without an order authorizing such decrease where such order is required, the rent received by the landlord for any rental period commencing on or after such decrease or the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, whichever is the later, shall be received subject to refund to the tenant of any amount in excess of the maximum rent which may later be fixed by any order decreasing the maximum rent on account of such decrease in services, furniture, furnishings, or equipment. In such case, any order decreasing the maximum rent shall be effective to decrease such rent from the beginning of the first rental period after the decrease in services, furniture, furnishings, or equipment or after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, whichever is the later. The foregoing provisions and any refund thereunder do not affect any civil or criminal liability provided by the Act for failure to comply with any requirement of this paragraph.

(c) The Administrator at any time, on his own initiative or on application of the tenant, may order a decrease of the maximum rent otherwise allowable, only on the grounds that:

(1) The maximum rent for housing accommodations under paragraph (c), (d), (e), or (g) of § 1388.984 is higher than the rent generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942.

(2) There has been a substantial deterioration of the housing accommodations other than ordinary wear and tear since the date or order determining its maximum rent.

(3) There has been a decrease in the minimum services, furniture, furnishings, or equipment required by § 1388.983 since the date or order determining the maximum rent.

(4) The rent on the date determining the maximum rent was materially affected by the blood, personal, or other special relationship between the landlord and the tenant and as a result was substantially higher than the rent generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942.

(5) The rent on the date determining the maximum rent was established by a lease or other rental agreement which provided for a substantially lower rent at other periods during the term of such lease or agreement.

(6) The rent on the date determining the maximum rent was substantially higher than at other times of year by reason of seasonal demand, or seasonal variations in the rent, for such housing accommodations. In such cases the Administrator's order may if he deems it advisable provide for different maximum rents for different periods of the calendar year.

(7) There has been a substantial decrease in the number of subtenants or other occupants since an order under paragraph (a) (8) of this section.

(d) If the rent on the date determining the maximum rent, or any other fact necessary to the determination of the maximum rent, is in dispute between the landlord and the tenant, or is in doubt, or is not known, the Administrator on petition of the landlord filed within 30 days after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, or at any time on his own initiative, may enter an order fixing the maximum rent by determining such fact; or if the Administrator is unable to ascertain such fact he shall enter the order on the basis of the rent which he finds was generally prevailing in the defense-rental area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942.

(e) Where housing accommodations or a predominant part thereof are occupied by one or more subtenants or other persons occupying under a rental agreement with the tenant, the tenant may petition the Administrator for leave to exercise any right he would have except for this maximum rent regulation to sell his underlying lease or other rental agreement. The Administrator may grant such petition if he finds that the sale will not result, and that sales of such character would not be likely to result, in the circumvention or evasion of the Act or this maximum rent regulation. He may require that the sale be made on such terms as he deems necessary to prevent such circumvention or evasion.

(f) Where a petition is filed by a landlord on one of the grounds set out in paragraph (a) of this section, the Administrator may enter an interim order increasing the maximum rent until further order, subject to refund by the landlord to the tenant of any amount received in excess of the maximum rent established by final order upon such petition. The receipt by the landlord of any increased rent authorized by such interim order shall constitute an agreement by the landlord with the tenant to refund to the tenant any amount received in excess of the maximum rent established by final order. The landlord shall make such refund either by repayment in cash or, where the tenant remains in occupancy after the effective date of the final order, by deduction from the next installment of rent, or both.

(g) No adjustment in the maximum rent shall be ordered on the ground that the landlord, since the date or order determining the maximum rent, has, as a part of or in connection with a lease of housing accommodations, granted the tenant an option to buy the accommodations which are the subject of the lease. Where a lease of housing accommodations was in force on the date determining the maximum rent, and the landlord had on that date, as a part of or in connection with such lease, granted the tenant an option to buy the accommodations which are the subject of the lease, the Administrator may, on or after the termination of such lease, on his own initiative or on application of the tenant, enter an order fixing the maximum rent on the basis of the rents which the Administrator finds were generally prevailing in the defense-rental area for comparable housing accommodations not subject to an option to buy on March 1, 1942.

§ 1388.986 Restrictions on removal of tenant. (a) So long as the tenant continues to pay the rent to which the landlord is entitled, no tenant shall be removed from any housing accommodations, by action to evict or to recover possession, by exclusion from possession, or otherwise, nor shall any person attempt such removal or exclusion from possession, notwithstanding that such tenant has no lease or that his lease or other rental agreement has expired or otherwise terminated, and regardless of any contract, lease, agreement or obligation heretofore or hereafter entered into which provides for entry of judgment upon the tenant's confession for breach of the covenants thereof or which otherwise provides contrary hereto, unless:

(1) The tenant, who had a written lease or other written rental agreement, has refused upon demand of the landlord to execute a written extension or renewal thereof for a further term of like duration but not in excess of one year but otherwise on the same terms and conditions as the previous lease or agreement, except insofar as such terms and conditions are inconsistent with this maximum rent regulation; or

(2) The tenant has unreasonably refused the landlord access to the housing accommodations for the purpose of inspection or of showing the accommodations to a prospective purchaser, mortgagee or prospective mortgagee, or other person having a legitimate interest therein: Provided, however, That such refusal shall not be ground for removal or eviction if such inspection or showing of the accommodations is contrary to the provisions of the tenant's lease or other rental agreement; or

(3) The tenant (i) has violated a substantial obligation of his tenancy, other than an obligation to pay rent, and has continued, or failed to cure, such violation after written notice by the landlord that the violation cease, or (ii) is committing or permitting a nuisance or is using or permitting a use of the housing accommodations for an immoral or illegal purpose; or

(4) The tenant's lease or other rental agreement has expired or otherwise terminated, and at the time of termination the occupants of the housing accommodations are subtenants or other persons who occupied under a rental agreement with the tenant, and no part of the accommodations is used by the tenant as his own dwelling.

(5) The landlord seeks in good faith to recover possession for the immediate purpose of demolishing the housing accommodations or of substantially altering or remodeling it in a manner which cannot practicably be done with the tenant in occupancy and the plans for such alteration or remodeling have been approved by the proper authorities, if such approval is required by local law; or

(6) The landlord owned, or acquired an enforceable right to buy or the right to possession of, the housing accommodations prior to the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, and seeks in good faith to recover possession of such accommodations for immediate use and occupancy as a dwelling for himself. If a tenant has been removed or evicted under this paragraph (a) (6) from housing accommodations, the landlord shall file a written report on a form provided therefor before renting the accommodations or any part thereof during a period of six months after such removal or eviction.

(b) (1) No tenant shall be removed or evicted on grounds other than those stated above unless, on petition of the landlord, the administrator certifies that the landlord may pursue his remedies in accordance with the requirements of the local law. The administrator shall so certify if the landlord establishes that removals or evictions of the character proposed are not inconsistent with the purposes of the Act or this maximum rent regulation and would not be likely to result in the circumvention or evasion thereof.

(2) Removal or eviction of a tenant of the vendor, for occupancy by a purchaser who has acquired his rights in the housing accommodations on or after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, is inconsistent with the purposes of the Act and this maximum rent regulation and would be likely to result in the circumvention or evasion thereof, unless (i) the payment or payments of principal made by the purchaser, excluding any payments made from funds borrowed for the purpose of making such principal payments, aggregate 33⅓% or more of the purchase price, and (ii) a period of three months has elapsed after the issuance of a certificate by the Administrator as hereinafter provided. For the purposes of this paragraph (b) (2), the payments of principal may be made by the purchaser conditionally or in escrow to the end that they shall be returned to the purchaser in the event the Administrator denies a petition for a certificate. If the Administrator finds that the required payments of principal have been made, he shall, on petition of either the vendor or purchaser, issue a certificate authorizing the vendor or purchaser to pursue his remedies for removal or eviction of the tenant in accordance with the requirements of the local law at the expiration of three months after the date of issuance of such certificate.

In no other case shall the Administrator issue a certificate for occupancy by a purchaser who has acquired his rights in the housing accommodations on or after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, unless he finds (i) that the vendor has or had a substantial necessity requiring the sale and that a reasonable sale or disposition of the accommodations could not be made without removal or eviction of the tenant, or (ii) that other special hardship would result, or (iii) that equivalent accommodations are available for rent, into which the tenant can move without substantial hardship or loss; under such circumstances the payment by the purchaser of 33⅓% of the purchase price shall not be a condition to the issuance of a certificate, and the certificate may authorize the vendor or purchaser, either immediately or at the expiration of three months, to pursue his remedies for removal or eviction of the tenant in accordance with the requirements of the local law.

(c) (1) The provisions of this section do not apply to a subtenant or other person who occupied under a rental agreement with the tenant, where removal or eviction of the subtenant or other such occupant is sought by the landlord of the tenant, unless under the local law there is a tenancy relationship between the landlord and the subtenant or other such occupant.

(2) The provisions of this section shall not apply to housing accommodations rented to either Army or Navy personnel, including civilian employees of the War and Navy Departments, for which the rent is fixed by the national rent schedule of the War or Navy Department.

(3) The provisions of this section shall not apply to an occupant of a furnished room or rooms not constituting an apartment, located within the residence occupied by the landlord or his immediate family, where such landlord rents to not more than two occupants within such residence.

(d) (1) Every notice to a tenant to vacate or surrender possession of housing accommodations shall state the ground under this section upon which the landlord relies for removal or eviction of the tenant. A written copy of such notice shall be given to the area rent office within 24 hours after the notice is given to the tenant.

No tenant shall be removed or evicted from housing accommodations, by court process or otherwise, unless, at least ten days (or, where the ground for removal or eviction is non-payment of rent, the period required by the local law for notice prior to the commencement of an action for removal or eviction in such cases, but in no event less than three days) prior to the time specified for surrender of possession and to the commencement of any action for removal or eviction, the landlord has given written notices of the proposed removal or eviction to the tenant and to the area rent office, stating the ground under this section upon which such removal or eviction is sought and specifying the time when the tenant is required to surrender possession.

Where the ground for removal or eviction of a tenant is non-payment of rent, every notice under this paragraph (d) (1) shall state the rent for the housing accommodations, the amount of rent due and the rental period or periods for which such rent is due. The provisions of this paragraph (d) (1) shall not apply where a certificate has been issued by the Administrator pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section.

(2) At the time of commencing any action to remove or evict a tenant, including an action based upon nonpayment of rent, the landlord shall give written notice thereof to the area rent office stating the title of the case, the number of the case where that is possible, the court in which it is filed, the name and address of the tenant, and the ground under this section on which removal or eviction is sought.

(e) No provision of this section shall be construed to authorize the removal of a tenant unless such removal is authorized under the local law.

§ 1388.987 Registration. Within 45 days after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, or within 30 days after the property is first rented, whichever date is the later, every landlord of housing accommodations rented or offered for rent shall file in triplicate a written statement on the form provided therefor to be known as a registration statement. The statement shall identify each dwelling unit and specify the maximum rent provided by this maximum rent regulation for such dwelling unit and shall contain such other information as the Administrator shall require. The original shall remain on file with the Administrator and he shall cause one copy to be delivered to the tenant and one copy, stamped to indicate that it is a correct copy of the original, to be returned to the landlord. In any subsequent change of tenancy the landlord shall exhibit to the new tenant his stamped copy of the registration statement, and shall obtain the tenant's signature and the date thereof, on the back of such statement. Within five days after renting to a new tenant, the landlord shall file a notice on the form provided therefor, on which he shall obtain the tenant's signature, stating that there has been a change in tenancy, that the stamped copy of the registration statement has been exhibited to the new tenant and that the rent for such accommodations is in conformity therewith.

No payment of rent need be made unless the landlord tenders a receipt for the amount to be paid.

When the maximum rent is changed by order of the Administrator, the landlord shall deliver his stamped copy of the registration statement to the area rent office for appropriate action reflecting such change.

The foregoing provisions of this section shall not apply to housing accommodations under § 1388.984 (g). The owner of such housing accommodations shall file a schedule or schedules, setting out the maximum rents for all such accommodations in the Defense-Rental Area and containing such other information as the Administrator shall require. A copy of such schedule or schedules shall be posted by the owner in a place where it will be available for inspection by the tenants of such housing accommodations.

The provisions of this section shall not apply to housing accommodations rented to either Army or Navy personnel, including any civilian employees of the War and Navy Departments, for which the rent is fixed by the national rent schedule of the War or Navy Department.

§ 1388.988 Inspection. Any person who rents or offers for rent or acts as broker or agent for the rental of housing accommodations and any tenant shall permit such inspection of the accommodations by the Administrator as he may, from time to time, require.

§ 1388.989 Evasion. The maximum rents and other requirements provided in this maximum rent regulation shall not be evaded, either directly or indirectly, in connection with the renting or leasing or the transfer of a lease of housing accommodations, by way of absolute or conditional sale, sale with purchase money or other form of mortgage, or sale with option to repurchase, or by modification of the practices relating to payment of commissions or other charges or by modification of the services furnished with housing accommodations, or otherwise.

§ 1388.990 Enforcement. Persons violating any provision of this maximum rent regulation are subject to criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions and suits for treble damages as provided for by the Act.

§ 1388.991 Procedure. All registration statements, reports and notices provided for by this maximum rent regulation shall be filed with the area rent office. All landlord's petitions and tenant's applications shall be filed with such office in accordance with Revised Procedural Regulation No. 3 (§§ 1300.201 to 1300.253, inclusive).[1]

§ 1388.992 Petitions for amendment. Persons seeking any amendment of general applicability to any provision of this maximum rent regulation may file petitions therefor in accordance with Revised Procedural Regulation No. 3 (§§ 1300.201 to 1300.253, inclusive).

PART 1388—DEFENSE-RENTAL AREAS

[Maximum Rent Reg. 65A]

BEAUFORT DEFENSE-RENTAL AREA[1]

In the judgment of the Administrator, rents for housing accommodations within the Beaufort Defense-Rental Area, as designated in the designation and rent declaration issued by the Administrator on April 28, 1942, as amended, have not been reduced and stabilized by State or local regulation, or otherwise, in accordance with the recommendations set forth in the said designation and rent declaration.

It is the judgment of the Administrator that by April 1, 1941, defense activities had not yet resulted in increase in rents for housing accommodations within the Beaufort Defense-Rental Area inconsistent with the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942. The Administrator has therefore ascertained and given due consideration to the rents prevailing for housing accommodations within the Beaufort Defense-Rental Area on or about March 1, 1942. The Administrator has made adjustments for such relevant factors as he has determined and deemed to be of general applicability in respect of such housing accommodations, including increases or decreases in property taxes and other costs.

In the judgment of the Administrator, the maximum rents established by this maximum rent regulation for rooms in hotels and rooming houses within the Beaufort Defense Rental Area will be generally fair and equitable and will effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942.

AUTHORITY: §§ 1388.1031 to 1388.1044, inclusive, issued under Pub. Law 421, 77th Cong.

§ 1388.1031 Scope of regulation. (a) This Maximum Rent Regulation No. 65A applies to all rooms in hotels and rooming houses within the Beaufort Defense-Rental Area (referred to hereinafter in this maximum rent regulation as the "Defense-Rental Area"), as designated in Designation and Rent Declaration No. 25 (§§ 1388.1201 to 1388.1205, inclusive)[1] issued by the Administrator on April 28, 1942, as amended (consisting of the Counties of Beaufort and Colleton), except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) This maximum rent regulation does not apply to the following:

(1) Rooms situated on a farm and occupied by a tenant who is engaged for a substantial portion of his time in farming operations thereon;

(2) Rooms occupied by domestic servants, caretakers, managers, or other employees to whom the rooms are provided as part of their compensation and who are employed for the purpose of rendering services in connection with the premises of which the rooms are a part;

(3) Rooms in hospitals, or rooms of charitable or educational institutions used in carrying out their charitable or educational purposes;

(4) Entire structures or premises used as hotels or rooming houses, as distinguished from the rooms within such hotels or rooming houses.

(c) The provisions of any lease or other rental agreement shall remain in force pursuant to the terms thereof, except insofar as those provisions are inconsistent with this maximum rent regulation.

(d) An agreement by the tenant to waive the benefit of any provision of this maximum rent regulation is void. A tenant shall not be entitled by reason of this maximum rent regulation to refuse to pay or to recover any portion of any rents due or paid for use or occupancy prior to the effective date of this maximum rent regulation.

(e) Where a building or establishment which does not come within the definitions of a hotel or rooming house contains one or more furnished rooms or other furnished housing accommodations rented on a daily, weekly, or monthly basis, the landlord may, with the consent of the Administrator, elect to bring all housing accommodations within such building or establishment under the control of this maximum rent regulation. A landlord who so elects shall file a registration statement under this maximum rent regulation for all such housing accommodations, accompanied by a written request to the Administrator to consent to such election.

If the Administrator finds that the provisions of this maximum rent regulation establishing maximum rents are better adapted to the rental practices for such building or establishment than the provisions of the maximum rent regulation for housing accommodations other than hotels and rooming houses, he shall consent to the landlord's election. Upon such consent, all housing accommodations within such building or establishment which are or hereafter may be rented or offered for rent shall become subject to the provisions of this maximum rent regulation, and shall be considered rooms within a rooming house for the purposes of the provisions relating to eviction.

The landlord may at any time, with the consent of the Administrator, revoke his election, and thereby bring under the control of the maximum rent regulation for housing accommodations other than hotels and rooming houses all housing accommodations previously brought under this maximum rent regulation by such election. He shall make such revocation by filing a registration statement or statements under the maximum rent regulation for housing accommodations other than hotels and rooming houses, including in such registration statement or statements all housing accommodations brought under this maximum rent regulation by such election. Such registration statement or statements shall be accompanied by a written request to the Administrator to consent to such revocation. The Administrator may defer action on such request if he has taken or is about to take action to decrease the maximum rents of any housing accommodations within such building or establishment. If the Administrator finds that the revocation so requested will not result in substantial increases in the maximum rents of housing accommodations affected by such revocation, he shall give such consent. Upon such consent, all housing accommodations affected by such revocation shall become subject to the provisions of the maximum rent regulation for housing accommodations other than hotels and rooming houses.

§ 1388.1032 Prohibition. (a) Regardless of any contract, agreement, lease or other obligation heretofore or hereafter entered into, no person shall demand or receive any rent for use or occupancy on and after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation of any room in a hotel or rooming house within the Defense-Rental Area higher than the maximum rents provided by this maximum rent regulation; and no person shall offer, solicit, attempt, or agree to do any of the foregoing. Lower rents than those provided by this maximum rent regulation may be demanded or received.

(b) (1) No tenant shall be required to change his term of occupancy.

(2) Where, during June 1942, a room was rented or offered for rent for a weekly or monthly term of occupancy, the landlord shall continue to offer the room for rent for that term of occupancy except that he is not required to rent for that term more than the greatest number of rooms which were rented for the term at any one time during June 1942. However, if, during the year ending on June 30, 1942, a landlord had regular and definite seasonal practices with reference to the renting of rooms on a weekly or monthly basis, he may request the Administrator to approve such practices. When approval is given the landlord shall offer rooms for rent for weekly and monthly terms of occupancy pursuant to the practices so approved. The Administrator may withdraw approval at any time if he finds that the landlord has failed to conform to such practices, or if he finds that the effects of the approval are inconsistent with the Act or this maximum rent regulation or are likely to result in the circumvention or evasion thereof.

(3) Any tenant on a daily or weekly term of occupancy shall on request be permitted by the landlord to change to a weekly or monthly term unless the landlord is then renting for such term a number of rooms equal to the number which he is required to rent for that term under subparagraph (2). If the room occupied by such tenant was not rented or offered for rent for such term during June 1942, the landlord may transfer the tenant to a room, as similar as possible, which was so rented or offered for rent.

(4) Where, since October 1, 1942, a room, cabin or similar accommodations in a tourist camp, cabin camp, auto court or similar establishment has been or is hereafter rented to the same tenant for a continuous period of 60 days or longer on a daily or weekly basis, the landlord shall offer such room, cabin or other accommodations for rent for a monthly term of occupancy, regardless of the provisions of subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. The room, cabin or other accommodations shall be offered for rent on a monthly basis for each number of occupants for which it is offered by the landlord for any other term of occupancy. Any tenant of such room, cabin or other accommodations on a daily or weekly basis shall on request be permitted by the landlord to change to a monthly term of occupancy.

Notwithstanding the provisions of § 1388.1034 (c) of this maximum rent regulation, if no maximum rent is established for such room, cabin or other accommodations for a monthly term of occupancy or for a particular number of occupants for such term, the Administrator on his own initiative may enter an order fixing the maximum rent for that term and number of occupants and specifying the minimum services. This maximum rent shall be fixed on the basis of the rent generally prevailing in the defense-rental area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942.

§ 1388.1033 Minimum services, furniture, furnishings, and equipment. Except as set forth in § 1388.1035 (b), every landlord shall, as a minimum, provide with a room the same essential services, furniture, furnishings and equipment as those provided on the date or during the thirty-day period determining the maximum rent, and as to other services, furniture, furnishings, and equipment not substantially less than those provided on such date or during such period: Provided, however, That where fuel oil is used to supply heat or hot water for a room, and the landlord provided heat or hot water on the date or during the thirty-day period determining the maximum rent, the heat and hot water which the landlord is required to supply shall not be in excess of the amount which he can supply under any statute, regulation or order of the United States or any agency thereof which rations or limits the use of fuel oil.

§ 1388.1034 Maximum rents. This section establishes separate maximum rents for different terms of occupancy (daily, weekly or monthly) and numbers of occupants of a particular room. Maximum rents for rooms in a hotel or rooming house (unless and until changed by the Administrator as provided in § 1388.1035) shall be:

(a) For a room rented or regularly offered for rent during the thirty days ending on March 1, 1942, the highest rent for each term or number of occupants for which the room was rented during that thirty-day period, or, if the room was not rented or was not rented for a particular term or number of occupants during that period, the rent for each term or number of occupants for which it was regularly offered during such period.

(b) For a room neither rented nor regularly offered for rent during the thirty days ending March 1, 1942, the highest rent for each term or number of occupants for which the room was rented during the thirty days commencing when it was first offered for rent after March 1, 1942; or, if the room was not rented or was not rented for a particular term or number of occupants during that period, the rent for each term or number of occupants for which it was regularly offered during such period.

(c) For a room rented for a particular term or number of occupants for which no maximum rent is established under paragraphs (a) or (b) of this section the first rent for the room after March 1, 1942, for that term and number of occupants, but not more than the maximum rent for similar rooms for the same term and number of occupants in the same hotel or rooming house.

(d) For a room constructed by the United States or any agency thereof, or by a State of the United States or any of its political subdivisions, or any agency of the State or any of its political subdivisions, and owned by any of the foregoing, the rent generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable rooms on March 1, 1942, as determined by the owner of such rooms: Provided, however, That any corporation formed under the laws of a State shall not be considered an agency of the United States within the meaning of this paragraph. The Administrator may order a decrease in the maximum rent as provided in § 1388.1035 (c) (1).

(e) For a room with which meals were provided during the thirty-day period determining the maximum rent without separate charge therefor, the rent apportioned by the landlord from the total charge for the room and meals. The landlord's apportionment shall be fair and reasonable and shall be reported in the registration statement for such room. The Administrator at any time on his own initiative or on application of the tenant may by order decrease the maximum rent established by such apportionment, if he finds that the apportionment was unfair or unreasonable.

Every landlord who provides meals with accommodations shall make separate charges for the two. No landlord shall require the taking of meals as a condition of renting any room unless the room was rented or offered for rent on that basis on June 15, 1942.

(f) For a room rented to either Army or Navy personnel, including civilian employees of the War and Navy Departments, for which the rent is fixed by the national rent schedule of the War or Navy Department, the rents established on the effective date of this maximum rent regulation by such rent schedule. The Administrator may order an increase in such rents, if he finds that such increase is not inconsistent with the purposes of the Act or this maximum rent regulation.

§ 1388.1035 Adjustments and other determinations. In the circumstances enumerated in this section, the Administrator may issue an order changing the maximum rents otherwise allowable or the minimum services required. Except in cases under paragraphs (a) (7) and (c) (4) of this section, every adjustment of a maximum rent shall be on the basis of the rent which the Administrator finds was generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942: Provided, however, That no maximum rent shall be increased because of a major capital improvement or an increase in services, furniture, furnishings or equipment, by more than the amount which the Administrator finds would have been on March 1, 1942, the difference in the rental value of the accommodations by reason of such improvement or increase: And provided, further, That no adjustment shall be ordered because of a major capital improvement, an increase or decrease in services, furniture, furnishings, or equipment, or a deterioration, where it appears that the rent during the thirty-day period determining the maximum rent was fixed in contemplation of and so as to reflect such change. In cases involving construction due consideration shall be given to increased costs of construction, if any, since March 1, 1942. In cases under paragraphs (a) (7) and (c) (4) of this section the adjustment shall be on the basis of the rents which the Administrator finds were generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations during the year ending on March 1, 1942.

(a) Any landlord may file a petition for adjustment to increase the maximum rent otherwise allowable, only on the grounds that:

(1) There has been, since the thirty-day period or the order determining the maximum rent for the room, a substantial change in the room by a major capital improvement as distinguished from ordinary repair, replacement and maintenance.

(2) There was, on or prior to March 1, 1942, a substantial change in the room by a major capital improvement as distinguished from ordinary repair, replacement and maintenance, and the rent during the thirty-day period ending on March 1, 1942, was fixed by a lease or other rental agreement which was in force at the time of such change.

(3) There has been a substantial increase in the services, furniture, furnishings or equipment provided with the room since the thirty-day period or the order determining its maximum rent.

(4) The rent during the thirty-day period determining the maximum rent was materially affected by the blood, personal or other special relationship between the landlord and the tenant, or by an allowance or discount to a tenant of a class of persons to whom the landlord regularly offered such an allowance or discount, and as a result was substantially lower than the rent generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942.

(5) There was in force on March 1, 1942, a written lease, for a term commencing on or prior to March 1, 1941, requiring a rent substantially lower than the rent generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942.

(6) The rent during the thirty-day period determining the maximum rent was established by a lease or other rental agreement which provided for a substantially higher rent at other periods during the term of such lease or agreement.

(7) The rent during the thirty-day period determining the maximum rent for the room was substantially lower than at other times of year by reason of seasonal demand for such room. In such cases the Administrator's order may if he deems it advisable provide for different maximum rents for different periods of the calendar year.

(b) (1) If, on the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, the services provided for a room are less than the minimum services required by § 1388.1033 the landlord shall either restore and maintain such minimum services or, within 30 days after such effective date, file a petition requesting approval of the decreased services. If, on such effective date, the furniture, furnishings or equipment provided with a room are less than the minimum required by § 1388.1033, the landlord shall, within 30 days after such date, file a written report showing the decrease in furniture, furnishings or equipment.

(2) Except as above provided, the landlord shall, until the room becomes vacant, maintain the minimum services, furniture, furnishings and equipment unless and until he has filed a petition to decrease the services, furniture, furnishings or equipment and an order permitting a decrease has been entered thereon; however, if it is impossible to provide the minimum services, furniture, furnishings or equipment he shall file a petition within 10 days after the change occurs. When the room becomes vacant the landlord may, on renting to a new tenant, decrease the services, furniture, furnishings or equipment below the minimum; within 10 days after so renting the landlord shall file a written report showing such decrease.

(3) The order on any petition under this paragraph may require an appropriate adjustment in the maximum rent; and any maximum rent for which a report is required by this paragraph may be decreased in accordance with the provisions of § 1388.1035 (c) (3). If the landlord fails to file the petition or report required by this paragraph within the time specified, or decreases the services, furniture, furnishings or equipment without an order authorizing such decrease where such order is required, the rent received by the landlord for any rental period commencing on or after such decrease or the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, whichever is the later, shall be received subject to refund to the tenant of any amount in excess of the maximum rent which may later be fixed by any order decreasing the maximum rent on account of such decrease in services, furniture, furnishings or equipment. In such case, any order decreasing the maximum rent shall be effective to decrease such rent from the beginning of the first rental period after the decrease in services, furniture, furnishings or equipment or after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, whichever is the later. The foregoing provisions and any refund thereunder do not affect any civil or criminal liability provided by the Act for failure to comply with any requirement of this paragraph.

(c) The Administrator at any time, on his own initiative or on application of the tenant, may order a decrease of the maximum rent otherwise allowable, only on the grounds that:

(1) The maximum rent for the room is higher than the rent generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accommodations on March 1, 1942.

(2) There has been a substantial deterioration of the room other than ordinary wear and tear since the date or order determining its maximum rent.

(3) There has been a decrease in the minimum services, furniture, furnishings or equipment required by § 1388.1033 since the date or order determining the maximum rent.

(4) The rent on the date determining the maximum rent for the room was substantially higher than at other times of year by reason of seasonal demand for such room. In such cases the Administrator's order may if he deems it advisable provide for different maximum rents for different periods of the calendar year.

(d) If the rent on the date determining the maximum rent, or any other fact necessary to the determination of the maximum rent, is in dispute between the landlord and the tenant, or is in doubt, or is not known, the Administrator on petition of the landlord filed within 30 days after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, or at any time on his own initiative, may enter an order fixing the maximum rent by determining such fact; or if the Administrator is unable to ascertain such fact he shall enter the order on the basis of the rent which he finds was generally prevailing in the Defense-Rental Area for comparable housing accomodations on March 1, 1942.

§ 1388.1036 Restrictions on removal of tenant. (a) So long as the tenant continues to pay the rent to which the landlord is entitled, no tenant of a room within a hotel or rooming house shall be removed from such room, by action to evict or to recover possession, by exclusion from possession, or otherwise, nor shall any person attempt such removal or exclusion from possession, notwithstanding that such tenant has no lease or that his lease or other rental agreement has expired or otherwise terminated unless:

(1) The tenant, who had a written lease or other written rental agreement, has refused upon demand of the landlord to execute a written extension or renewal thereof for a further term of like duration but not in excess of one year but otherwise on the same terms and conditions as the previous lease or agreement except insofar as such terms and conditions are inconsistent with this maximum rent regulation; or

(2) The tenant has unreasonably refused the landlord access to the room for the purpose of inspection or of showing the room to a prospective purchaser, mortgagee or prospective mortgagee, or other person having a legitimate interest therein: Provided, however, That such refusal shall not be ground for removal or eviction if such inspection or showing of the room is contrary to the provisions of the tenant's lease or other rental agreement; or

(3) The tenant (i) has violated a substantial obligation of his tenancy, other than an obligation to pay rent, and has continued, or failed to cure such violation after written notice by the landlord that the violation cease, or (ii) is committing or permitting a nuisance or is using or permitting a use of the room for an immoral or illegal purpose; or

(4) The landlord seeks in good faith to recover possession for the immediate purpose of demolishing the room or of substantially altering or remodeling it in a manner which cannot practicably be done with the tenant in occupancy and the plans for such alteration or remodeling have been approved by the proper authorities, if such approval is required by local law; or

(5) The landlord seeks in good faith not to offer the room for rent. If a tenant has been removed or evicted from a room under this paragraph (a) (5), the landlord shall file a written report on a form provided therefor before renting the room during a period of 6 months after such removal or eviction.

(b) No tenant shall be removed or evicted on grounds other than those stated above unless, on petition of the landlord, the Administrator certifies that the landlord may pursue his remedies in accordance with the requirements of the local law. The Administrator shall so certify if the landlord establishes that removals or evictions of the character proposed are not inconsistent with the purposes of the Act or this maximum rent regulation and would not be likely to result in the circumvention or evasion thereof.

(c) At the time of commencing any action to remove or evict a tenant (except an action based on non-payment of a rent not in excess of the maximum rent) the landlord shall give written notice thereof to the area rent office stating the title and number of the case, the court in which it is filed, the name and address of the tenant and the grounds on which eviction is sought.

(d) The provisions of this section do not apply to:

(1) A subtenant or other person who occupied under a rental agreement with the tenant where removal or eviction of the subtenant or other such occupant is sought by the landlord of the tenant, unless under the local law there is a tenancy relationship between the landlord and the subtenant or other such occupant; or

(2) A tenant occupying a room within a hotel on a daily or weekly basis; or a tenant occupying on a daily basis a room within a rooming house which has heretofore usually been rented on a daily basis: Provided, That the provisions of this section do apply to a tenant on a daily or weekly basis who has requested a weekly or monthly term of occupancy pursuant to § 1388.1032 (b) (3) or (4).

(3) Rooms rented to either Army or Navy personnel, including civilian employees of the War and Navy Departments, for which the rent is fixed by the national rent schedule of the War or Navy Department.

(4) An occupant of a furnished room or rooms not constituting an apartment, located within the residence occupied by the landlord or his immediate family, where such landlord rents to not more than two occupants within such residence.

No provision of this section shall be construed to authorize the removal of a tenant unless such removal is authorized under the local law.

§ 1388.1037 Registration and records. (a) Within 45 days after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation every landlord of a room rented or offered for rent shall file a written statement on the form provided therefor, containing such information as the Administrator shall require, to be known as a registration statement. Any maximum rent established after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation under paragraphs (b) or (c) of § 1388.1034 shall be reported either on the first registration statement or on a statement filed within 5 days after such rent is established.

(b) Within 45 days after the effective date of this maximum rent regulation, every landlord shall post and thereafter keep posted conspicuously in each room rented or offered for rent a card or sign plainly stating the maximum rent or rents for all terms of occupancy and for all numbers of occupants for which the room is rented or offered for rent. Where the taking of meals by the tenant or prospective tenant is a condition of renting such room, the card or sign shall so state. Should the maximum rent or rents for the room be changed by order of the Administrator the landlord shall alter the card or sign so that it states the changed rent or rents.

The foregoing provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to rooms under § 1388.1034 (d). The owner of such rooms shall post a copy of the registration statement in a place where it will be available for inspection by the tenants of such rooms.

(c) No payment of rent need be made unless the landlord tenders a receipt for the amount to be paid.

(d) The provisions of this section shall not apply to rooms rented to either Army or Navy personnel, including civilian employees of the War and Navy Departments, for which the rent is fixed by the national rent schedule of the War or Navy Department.

(e) (1) Every landlord of a room rented or offered for rent shall preserve, and make available for examination by the Administrator, all his existing records showing or relating to (i) the rent for each term and number of occupants for which such room was rented or regularly offered for rent during the thirty-day period determining the maximum rent for such room, (ii) the rent on any date determining a maximum rent for such room for a particular term and number of occupants under § 1388.1034 (c), and (iii) rooms rented and offered for rent on a weekly and monthly basis during June, 1942.

(2) Every landlord of an establishment containing more than 20 rooms rented or offered for rent shall keep, preserve, and make available for examination by the Administrator, records showing the rents received for each room, the particular term and number of occupants for which such rents were charged, and the name and permanent address of each occupant; every other landlord shall keep, preserve, and make available for examination by the Administrator, records of the same kind as he has customarily kept relating to the rents received for rooms.

§ 1388.1038 Inspection. Any person who rents or offers for rent or acts as a broker or agent for the rental of a room and any tenant shall permit such inspection of the room by the Administrator as he may from time to time require.

§ 1388.1039 Evasion. The maximum rents and other requirements provided in this maximum rent regulation shall not be evaded, either directly or indirectly in connection with the renting or leasing or the transfer of a lease of a room, by requiring the tenant to pay or obligate himself for membership or other fees, or by modification of the practices relating to payment of commissions or other charges, or by modification of the services furnished with the room, or otherwise.

§ 1388.1040 Enforcement. Persons violating any provisions of this maximum rent regulation are subject to criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, and suits for treble damages as provided for by the Act.

§ 1388.1041 Procedure. All registration statements, reports and notices provided for by this maximum rent regulation shall be filed with the area rent office. All landlord's petitions and tenant's applications shall be filed with such office in accordance with Revised Procedural Regulation No. 3, (§§ 1300.201 to 1300.253, inclusive).[2]

§ 1388.1042 Petitions for amendment. Persons seeking any amendment of general applicability to any provision of this maximum rent regulation may file petitions therefor in accordance with Revised Procedural Regulation No. 3, (§§ 1300.201 to 1300.253, inclusive).

APPLICATIONS FOR ADJUSTMENT BY SELLERS WHO HAVE BEEN FOUND TO HAVE VIOLATED THE ROBINSON-PATMAN ACT

A statement of the reasons involved in the issuance of this supplementary order, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.* It is hereby ordered:

§ 1305.55 Applications for adjustment by sellers who have been found to have violated the Robinson-Patman Act. (a) The Office of Price Administration may adjust the maximum price established for any seller by any price regulation in any case in which such seller shows:

(1) That he has been found by the Federal Trade Commission, or any court of competent jurisdiction, to have discriminated in price between different purchasers of commodities in violation of the provisions of the Robinson-Patman Act (49 Stat. 1526) or of any state statute prohibiting price discrimination; and

(2) That the elimination of such discrimination by lowering his price to the purchasers against whom he has been found to have discriminated would cause him substantial hardship; and

(3) That the elimination of such discrimination by increasing his price to the purchasers in whose favor he has been found to have discriminated is prohibited by the applicable price regulation.

Applications for adjustment under this provision shall be filed with the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C., in accordance with the provisions of Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1.[1]

(b) "Price regulation," as used in this supplementary order means a price schedule effective in accordance with the provisions of section 206 of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, a maximum price regulation or temporary maximum price regulation issued by the Office of Price Administration, or any amendment or supplement thereto or order issued thereunder.

PART 1333—TIN

[RPS 17,[1] Amendment 3]

PIG TIN

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.*

Revised Price Schedule 17 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1333.10 (e) is amended to read as follows:

(e) Differentials for special shapes other than anodes. Whenever, at the request of the buyer, tin of the grades set forth above is melted and poured into molds and is sold in special shapes, other than anodes, weighing not more than seven pounds, an amount not exceeding 1¼ cents per pound may be added to the prices set forth in this Revised Price Schedule 17. No premium is allowed for special shapes, other than anodes, weighing more than seven pounds.

2. Section 1333.10 (f) is added to read as follows:

(f) Maximum prices for tin anodes. Whenever tin of the grades set forth above is sold in the form of anodes (1) the maximum price shall be the highest price charged by the seller for the same commodity on a delivery made during March, 1942, to a purchaser of the same class, and (2) if no such delivery was made during March, 1942, the maximum price shall be the highest offering price for delivery during March, 1942, of the same commodity to a purchaser of the same class. "Purchaser of the same class" refers to the practice adopted by the seller in setting different prices for commodities for sales to different purchasers or kinds of purchasers.

Any seller of tin anodes who is unable to determine his maximum price or prices under the preceding paragraph shall calculate a price at which he expects to sell his product and submit that price for approval of the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C. Such selling price shall be determined, whenever feasible, by the use of the method of calculating prices used by the seller during March, 1942, to determine the price of similar tin anodes for which he had prices in effect during that period.

When filing such a price with the Office of Price Administration, the seller shall set forth all discounts, allowances, and differentials for all classes of buyers, a description of the anode, a statement of facts differentiating such tin anode from the other tin anodes delivered or offered for delivery by the seller during March, 1942, and a statement setting forth the method used in calculating the price therefor.

Pending action by the Office of Price Administration on prices submitted for approval under this paragraph, any seller may sell and deliver or offer to sell and deliver, and any person may buy, offer to buy, or receive from the seller in the course of trade or business such tin anodes at the price submitted for approval. If, however, the Office of Price Administration determines that the price submitted is not in line with the general level of March, 1942 prices, the price submitted will be disapproved and the selling price shall be revised downward to the maximum price which may be approved, and any payment made in excess of the price so approved may be required to be refunded to the buyer within 15 days after the date of the written instrument informing the seller of such revision. Notice of such revision will be given to the seller by letter from the Price Executive of the Non-Ferrous Metals Branch of the Office of Price Administration. At the request of the seller, however, if made within 30 days from the date of such notice, notice of disapproval and the revised price will be incorporated in a formal order. In the absence of notice to the contrary from the Office of Price Administration within 30 days after the receipt of such a selling price by the Office of Price Administration, the price shall stand approved and shall be the maximum price applicable.

This amendment shall become effective April 16, 1943.

2. The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to reject any subscription, in whole or in part, to allot less than the amount of certificates applied for, and to close the books as to any or all subscriptions at any time without notice; and any action he may take in these respects shall be final. Subject to these reservations, subscriptions for amounts up to and including $100,000 from commercial banks, and subscriptions in any amount from all other subscribers, will be allotted in full; subscriptions for amounts over $100,000 from commercial banks will be allotted on an equal percentage basis, to be publicly announced. 2½ PERCENT TREASURY BONDS OF 1964–69

APRIL 12, 1943.

I. OFFERING OF BONDS

1. The Secretary of the Treasury, pursuant to the authority of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, invites subscriptions, at par and accrued interest, from the people of the United States for bonds of the United States, designated 2½ percent Treasury Bonds of 1964–69. These bonds will not be available for subscription, for their own account, by commercial banks, which are defined for this purpose as banks accepting demand deposits. The amount of the offering is not specifically limited.

II. DESCRIPTION OF BONDS

1. The bonds will be dated April 15, 1943, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 2½ percent per annum, payable on a semiannual basis on June 15 and December 15 in each year until the principal amount becomes payable. They will mature June 15 1969, but may be redeemed at the option of the United States on and after June 15, 1964, in whole or in part, at par and accrued interest, on any interest day or days, on 4 months' notice of redemption given in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe. In case of partial redemption the bonds to be redeemed will be determined by such method as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. From the date of redemption designated in any such notice, interest on the bonds called for redemption shall cease.

2. The income derived from the bonds shall be subject to all Federal taxes, now or hereafter imposed. The bonds shall be subject to estate, inheritance, gift or other excise taxes, whether Federal or State, but shall be exempt from all taxation now or hereafter imposed on the principal or interest thereof by any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority.

3. The bonds will not be acceptable to secure deposits of public moneys before April 15, 1953; they will not bear the circulation privilege, and they will not be entitled to any privilege of conversion.

4. Bearer bonds with interest coupons attached, and bonds registered as to principal and interest, will be issued in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000. Provision will be made for the interchange of bonds of different denominations and of coupon and registered bonds, and for the transfer of registered bonds, under rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, except that they may not, before April 15, 1953, be transferred to or be held by commercial banks, which are defined for this purpose as banks accepting demand deposits. However, the bonds may be pledged as collateral for loans, including loans by commercial banks, but any such bank acquiring such bonds before April 15, 1953, because of the failure of such loans to be paid at maturity will be required to dispose of them in the same manner as they dispose of other assets not eligible to be owned by banks.

5. Any bonds issued hereunder which upon the death of the owner constitute part of his estate, will be redeemed at the option of the duly constituted representatives of the deceased owner's estate, at par and accrued interest to date of payment,[1] Provided:

(a) That the bonds were actually owned by the decedent at the time of his death; and

(b) That the Secretary of the Treasury be authorized to apply the entire proceeds of redemption to the payment of Federal estate taxes.

Registered bonds submitted for redemption hereunder must be duly assigned to "The Secretary of the Treasury for redemption, the proceeds to be paid to the Collector of Internal Revenue at ---------- for credit on Federal estate taxes due from estate of ----------." Owing to the periodic closing of the transfer books and the impossibility of stopping payment of interest to the registered owner during the closed period, registered bonds received after the closing of the books for payment during such closed period will be paid only at par with a deduction of interest from the date of payment to the next interest date;[2] bonds received during the closed period for payment at a date after the books reopen will be paid at par plus accrued interest from the reopening of the books to the date of payment. In either case checks for the full six months' interest due on the last day of the closed period will be forwarded to the owner in due course. All bonds submitted must be accompanied by Form PD 1782,[3] properly completed, signed and sworn to, and by a certificate of the appointment of the personal representatives, under seal of the court, dated not more than 6 months prior to the submission of the bonds, which shall show that at the date thereof the appointment was still in force and effect. Upon payment of the bonds appropriate memorandum receipt will be forwarded to the representatives, which will be followed in due course by formal receipt from the Collector of Internal Revenue.

6. Except as provided in the preceding paragraphs, the bonds will be subject to the general regulations of the Treasury Department, now or hereafter prescribed, governing United States bonds.

III. SUBSCRIPTION AND ALLOTMENT

1. Subscriptions will be received at the Federal Reserve Banks and Branches and at the Treasury Department, Washington. Banking institutions generally may submit subscriptions for account of customers, but only the Federal Reserve Banks and the Treasury Department are authorized to act as official agencies. Subscriptions must be accompanied by payment in full for the amount of bonds applied for.

2. The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to reject any subscription, in whole or in part, to allot less than the amount of bonds applied for, and to close the books as to any or all subscriptions at any time without notice; and any action he may take in these respects shall be final. Subject to these reservations, all subscriptions will be allotted in full. Allotment notices will be sent out promptly upon allotment.

IV. PAYMENT

1. Payment at par and accrued interest, if any, for bonds alloted hereunder must be made on or before April 15, 1943, or on later allotment. One day's accrued interest is $0.06868 per $1,000. Any qualified depositary will be permitted to make payment by credit for bonds allotted to its customers up to any amount for which it shall be qualified in excess of existing deposits, when so notified by the Federal Reserve Bank of its District.

V. GENERAL PROVISIONS

1. As fiscal agents of the United States, Federal Reserve Banks are authorized and requested to receive subscriptions, to make allotments up to the amounts indicated by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Federal Reserve Banks of the respective Districts, to issue allotment notices, to receive payment for bonds allotted, to make delivery of bonds on full-paid subscriptions allotted, and they may issue interim receipts pending delivery of the definitive bonds.

2. The Secretary of the Treasury may at any time, or from time to time, prescribe supplemental or amendatory rules and regulations governing the offering, which will be communicated promptly to the Federal Reserve Banks.

[Docket No. B-371]

EARL BYERS

NOTICE OF FILING OF APPLICATION

Notice is hereby given that an application dated March 29, 1943 for disposition of the above-entitled matter without formal hearing was filed with the Bituminous Coal Division on March 31, 1943, pursuant to § 301.132 of the Rules of Practice and Procedure before the Bituminous Coal Division by Earl Byers the above-named code member.

The application was filed with respect to the matters contained in a Notice of and Order for Hearing dated March 12, 1943 to determine whether the above-named code member had violated the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937 (the "Act"), the Bituminous Coal Code (the "Code") and Rules and Regulations promulgated thereunder as more fully set forth in the said Notice of and Order for Hearing.

In said application the code member:

1. Admits that he is a code member operating the Earl Byers Mine, Mine Index No. 816, located in Fairview Township, Butler County, Pennsylvania in District No. 2 and that his business address is R. F. D. No. 1, Petrolia, Pennsylvania.

2. Admits that he wilfully violated section 4 Part II (e) and (g) of the Act and Part II (e) and (g) of the Code by the sale and delivery during the period from October 1, 1940 to January 1, 1942, both dates inclusive, of approximately 387 tons of run of mine coal (Size Group 8) to the Karns City Borough and the Fairview Township Schools in Butler County, Pennsylvania, a distance of approximately three miles from said mine at a delivered price of $2.35 per net ton, whereas the delivered price was the effective minimum f. o. b. mine price of said coal of $2.30 per net ton plus an estimated transportation and handling cost of 10 cents to 15 cents per net ton.

3. Admits that he wilfully violated section 4 Part II (e) and (g) of the Act and Part II (e) and (g) of the Code by the sale and delivery during the period from October 1, 1940 to January 1, 1942, both dates inclusive, of approximately 1841.8 net tons of run of mine coal (Size Group 8) to the Ultra-Penn Refining Company, Bruin, Pennsylvania, an actual distance of $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles from said mine, at delivered prices ranging from $2.35 to $2.40 per net ton, whereas the delivered price was the effective minimum f. o. b. mine price of said coal of $2.30 per net ton plus an estimated transportation and handling cost of 10 cents to 15 cents per net ton.

4. Admits that he wilfully violated Rule 1 (F) of section VII of the Marketing Rules and Regulation: by accepting payments from said Ultra-Penn Refining Company in the transactions described in paragraph 3 above in the form of petroleum products manufactured by said purchaser in lieu of payment in full in United States currency or funds equivalent thereto.

5. Consents with respect to the foregoing admitted violations to the entry of an order directing the code member to cease and desist from violations of the Code and regulations thereunder.

6. Agrees to execute any and all papers and instruments necessary to dispose of this proceeding in the event that this application is granted.

7. Represents that to the best of his belief and knowledge he has not committed any other violations of the Act, the Code or regulations thereunder either before or after the above admitted violations occurred, whether of the same or of any other character.

8. Represents in extenuation of the foregoing admitted violations that the consumer, Ultra-Penn Refining Company together with other consumers control the available market for his coal to the extent that the price received by the code member for the coal was dictated by such consumers; and that the acceptance by him of payment, for the coal sold, in the form of petroleum products was insisted upon by said Ultra-Penn Refining Company.

All interested parties may, if they so desire, file with the Division, recommendations or requests for informal conference with respect to said application within fifteen (15) days from the date of publication of this notice.

Dated: April 9, 1943.

GRADEN COAL COMPANY

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER TO CEASE AND DESIST

On September 24, 1942, after notice and hearing, Joseph A. Huston, a duly designated Examiner of the Division, submitted a Report in which he found that code member, The Graden Coal Company, a corporation, operating the Graden Mine, Mine Index No. 121, in Weld County, Colorado, in District 16, wilfully violated the provisions of sections 4 II (e) and 4 II (i) 8 of the Code and rules and regulations thereunder, by selling, during the period from December 1, 1940, to October 9, 1941, an unknown quantity of coal at $4.05 per net ton f. o. b. the mine, which should have been sold at $4.55 per net ton f. o. b. the mine, and 409.25 tons of $3''$ slack coal at $1.60 per net ton f. o. b. the mine which should have been sold at $1.85 per net ton f. o. b. the mine, and by invoicing as $2\frac{1}{2}''$ x 8" egg coal, 8" lump coal and $\frac{1}{4}''$ slack, coal which was not $2\frac{1}{2}''$ x 8" egg, 8" lump or $\frac{1}{4}''$ slack, as invoiced. The Examiner further found that code member had not violated Division Orders Nos. 288, 296, 297, 307 or 312.

The Examiner recommended that an order be entered dismissing those charges in the complaint relating to violations of Division Orders Nos. 288, 296, 297, 307 or 312, and requiring code member to cease and desist from selling coal at prices below the applicable minima established therefor by the Division, and from misrepresenting the size of coal upon its invoices, or from otherwise violating the Act, the Code, and orders, rules and regulations issued thereunder.

Opportunity was afforded to all parties to file exceptions to the Examiner's Report. No exceptions have been filed.

I have considered the Report of the Examiner and I find that it adequately and accurately reflects the evidence disclosed in the record. Upon the basis of the proposed findings of fact, proposed conclusions of law, and recommendation set forth in the Report, and upon the entire record in this proceeding;

It is hereby ordered, That the proposed findings of fact and the proposed conclusions of law of the Examiner are approved and adopted as the findings of fact and conclusions of law of the Director.

It is further ordered, That all allegations in the complaint which charge code member with violations of Division Orders Nos. 288, 296, 297, 307 or 312 be, and same are, hereby dismissed.

It is further ordered, That The Graden Coal Company, a corporation, code member, its representatives, agents, servants, employees, attorneys, and all persons acting or claiming to act in its behalf or interest, cease and desist from violating sections 4 II (e) and 4 II (i) 8 of the Act, and the corresponding sections of the Code, or from otherwise violating the provisions of the Act, the Code, or rules and regulations issued thereunder.

Notice is hereby given that upon failure or refusal to comply with this order, the Division may apply to a United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the enforcement thereof, or may otherwise proceed as authorized by the Act.

FURNITURE MANUFACTURERS

ESTABLISHMENT OF MAXIMUM PRICES

Order No. 255 under § 1499.159 (b) of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188—Manufacturers' Maximum Prices for Specified Building Materials and Consumers' Goods Other Than Apparel.

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and pursuant to the authority vested in the Price Administrator by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and Executive Order No. 9250, It is ordered:

(a) Optional line pricing and reporting of furniture under § 1499.156 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188. The maximum price of any article of furniture which cannot be priced under § 1499.155 and which differs from an article for which a maximum price has already been established, only because of changes necessitated by shortages of materials or parts used in the original article, shall be determinec by one of the following two methods:

(1) The maximum price of a changed article may be determined by adjusting the maximum price of the original article through adding or subtracting the increase or decrease in unit direct cost resulting from the changes.

(2) In case the same change is made in a group of comparable articles the manufacturer may at his option select one of the comparable articles and determine the maximum prices of all the comparable articles on the basis of the change in unit direct cost of the article selected. This determination shall be made by computing the change in unit direct cost of the article selected and by adding any increase in unit direct cost of this article to, or subtracting any decrease in the unit direct cost of this article from, the original maximum prices of all the comparable articles. In the case of increases in unit direct costs of all the comparable changed articles, the article to be used as the basis for determining the maximum prices shall be the one in the line of comparable articles in which the change in unit direct cost is smallest; in the case of decreases in unit direct costs of all the comparable articles, the article to be used as the basis for determining the maximum prices shall be the one in the line of comparable articles in which the change in unit direct cost is largest.

In calculating unit direct cost for the original articles, the manufacturer shall compute on the basis of the wage rates, material prices, and operating conditions provided in paragraph (b) of § 1499.157 for comparable articles. In calculating unit direct cost for the changed articles, the manufacturer shall compute on the basis of the wage rates, material prices, and operating conditions provided in Paragraph (b) of § 1499.157 for the article being priced.

(b) Reports of maximum prices—(1) Maximum price determined under paragraph (a) (1). In the case of an article of furniture for which a maximum price must be determined under paragraph (a) (1), the manufacturer shall report the maximum price as computed by him to the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C., prior to first offering the article for sale. The report shall contain a description of the original and of the changed article, a detailed explanation of the changes made (including any innovation in manufacturing process), the reasons therefor, and details of the computation of the unit direct cost and of the maximum price.

(2) Maximum prices determined under (a) (2). In case the same change is made in a group of comparable articles and the manufacturer elects to price the group under paragraph (a) (2), the manufacturer may report for all (or any) of such comparable articles a description of one of the original articles, a detailed explanation of the changes made (including any innovation in manufacturing process), the reasons therefor, and details of the computation of unit direct costs and of the maximum price. In the case of a decrease in the unit direct cost of the changed articles, the article reported shall be the one in the group of comparable articles in which the unit direct cost change is largest; in the case of an increase in the unit direct cost of the changed articles, the article reported shall be the one in the group of comparable articles in which the unit direct cost change is smallest. The manufacturer shall accompany such report with illustrations (photographs or sketch) of the article submitted as it appeared originally and as changed, and of each of the other comparable articles as they appeared originally and as changed, together with a list of the original and the changed maximum prices of each article.

Fifteen days after mailing the report, in the absence of a contrary direction from the Office of Price Administration, he may offer for sale or complete the sale of the article at the price reported. Such price shall be subject to adjustment (not to apply retroactively) at any time by order of the Office of Price Administration.

(c) This Order No. 255 shall become effective April 12, 1943.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Record Act of 1942.

Issued this 10th day of April 1943.

DRESSED HOGS AND WHOLESALE PORK CUTS

ARIZONA DESIGNATED AS CRITICAL AREA

Pursuant to § 1364.23 (b) of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 148, I find that a critical shortage of meat has occurred in the State of Arizona because of the unavailability of customary sources of supply and because the established maximum prices do not contain a sufficient allowance to cover the cost of transporting meat to that area from other sources of supply. The State of Arizona is hereby designated a critical area, and the Regional Administrator for the VIIIth region, or any District Manager authorized by him, may in writing authorize sellers to charge and receive, for dressed hogs and wholesale pork cuts and processed products sold to buyers in the State of Arizona the actual added cost of transportation in addition to the applicable maximum price. The actual added cost of transportation shall be ascertained by reference to the point from which the meat originates; the distribution point at which the buyer takes actual physical possession of the meat or from which local delivery to the buyer begins; the manner in which and the rate at which the meat is shipped by the seller to such point; and maximum price which the seller could charge on such a sale in the absence of any adjustment; and the difference between the amount allowed for transportation in such maximum price and the transportation expense incurred by the seller.

This designation shall remain in effect to and including June 12, 1943, unless sooner terminated or unless extended by amendment to this order.

This order may be revoked or amended at any time. This order shall become effective April 10, 1943.

If no menu was in use in that period, or if the menus in use did not list all food items or meals then offered, the "proprietor" shall file with the Board a list in menu form showing the prices which he charged during the seven-day period for food items or meals which are not shown on any menus he may file hereunder. If he does not use menus, he shall prepare and keep for such examination a daily record, in duplicate, of the prices charged by him for food items and meals, except that he need not record prices which are the same as, or less than, prices he previously recorded for the same items or meals. A proprietor who has customarily used menus shall continue to do so.

(e) Authority of regional administrator to fix maximum prices. Each regional administrator of the Office of Price Administration is hereby authorized to issue orders, in accordance with the provisions of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, establishing maximum prices for meals, food items and beverages. Such orders or regulations may establish maximum prices at or in line with the prices charged during the seven-day period beginning April 4, 1943, reduce prices below such levels if the prices charged during that period were abnormally high, and may require or authorize other appropriate action in accordance with the above standards. NATIONAL POWER & LIGHT CO., ET AL.

NOTICE OF FILING AND ORDER FOR HEARING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania on the 10th day of April A. D. 1943.

In the matter of National Power & Light Company, File No. 54-51 and Carolina Power & Light Company, National Power & Light Company, and Electric Bond and Share Company, File No. 59-67.

I

Notice is hereby given that an application and an amendment thereto have been filed with this Commission by National Power & Light Company ("National"), a registered holding company, pursuant to the provisions of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 for authority to consummate certain transactions as further steps in compliance with the order of this Commission dated August 23, 1941, issued pursuant to the provisions of section 11 (b) (2) of the Act, directing the dissolution of National. All interested persons are referred to said application, which is on file in the office of this Commission, for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

National proposes to sell a portion of its assets consisting of 242,664 shares (no par value) of common stock of Houston Lighting & Power Company and 16,806 shares (no par value) of $7 preferred stock of Carolina Power & Light Company, and to use the proceeds realized therefrom, together with other available funds, to retire 150,000 shares of its preferred stock, constituting the entire amount thereof outstanding, by payment to the holders thereof of cash in the amount of $100 per share and accumulated dividends thereon to the date fixed for retirement.

It is stated that National has under consideration the advisability of requesting an order, pursuant to sub-paragraph (a) (6) of Rule U-50, exempting the proposed sale of said shares of Houston Lighting & Power Company common stock from the competitive bidding requirements of paragraphs (b) and (c) of Rule U-50, and that National reserves the right to apply for such order of exemption at or prior to the hearing scheduled to be held on the proposed transactions summarized above.

II

The Commission has data in its official files and records relating to Carolina Power & Light Company, National and Electric Bond and Share Company, establishing or tending to establish the following matters:

1. Carolina Power & Light Company ("Carolina") is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of North Carolina which maintains its principal office in the City of Raleigh, State of North Carolina. It is an electric utility company within the meaning of section 2 (a) (3) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, and a "public utility" as that term is defined in the Federal Power Act. Carolina is a subsidiary of National, which is in turn a subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share Company ("Bond and Share"), a registered holding company under the Act.

2. Carolina was organized on April 6, 1926 by a merger and consolidation of Carolina Power & Light Company (old), Pigeon River Power Company, Asheville Power & Light Company, Carolina Power Company and Yadkin River Power Company. Each of the constituent companies named was at the time of said merger and consolidation controlled, directly or indirectly, by National and through National by Bond and Share. Since the date of organization Carolina has been and still is controlled directly by National and through National by Bond and Share.

3. A condensed balance sheet of Carolina per books at December 31, 1942, after giving effect to the adjustments authorized by the Order of this Commission dated December 15, 1942, and referred to in paragraph "8" hereof, was as follows:

The outstanding preferred stocks of Carolina consist of 110,359 shares of $7 Preferred Stock and 80,454 shares of $6 Preferred Stock, both of which rank equally as to all rights, privileges, preferences and priorities, except as to the rate of dividends payable thereon. In any distribution of assets, other than by dividends from surplus or profits, the $7 Preferred Stock and $6 Preferred Stock have a preference over the common stock to the extent of $100 per share plus unpaid cumulative dividends. Each class of preferred stock is redeemable, in whole or in part, at $110 per share plus unpaid cumulative dividends thereon to the date of redemption. Each share of common stock and preferred stock outstanding is entitled to one vote. No additional voting power is conferred upon the preferred stocks in the event of arrearages in dividends thereon.

5. Of the outstanding securities of Carolina, National owns all of the common stock and 16,806 shares of the $7 Preferred Stock, 15,000 shares thereof having been acquired by National in the manner set forth in paragraphs 19 to 22, inclusive, hereof.

6. On December 29, 1942, the Federal Power Commission, in a proceeding arising under the Federal Power Act entitled "In the Matter of Carolina Power & Light Company, Docket No. IT-5701", entered an order requiring Carolina to make the accounting adjustments hereinafter set forth and to take the action hereinafter described with respect to the reclassification and original cost study of its Electric Plant Account, in order to comply with the requirements of the Uniform System of Accounts prescribed by that Commission for public utilities and licensees under the Federal Power Act.

7. The order of the Federal Power Commission referred to in paragraph 6 hereof provides, in substance, that:

(a) Carolina classify the amount of $18,648,438 in Account 107, Electric Plant Adjustments, and dispose of such amount by (i) a charge of $13,643,100 to Account 270, Capital Surplus, created through the surrender by National of 1,442,609 shares of Carolina's common stock, and (ii) by a net charge of $5,005,338 to Account 271, Earned Surplus;

(b) Carolina transfer from Account 107 to Account 100.6, Electric Plant in Process of Reclassification, the amount of $2,857,705 (consisting of $1,391,964, claimed by Carolina as an excessive write-off of plant account in connection with the sale of gas and other properties, and $1,465,741 claimed by Carolina as a part of the original cost of the so-called Rockingham hydro project) pending a restudy of said amount of $2,857,705 for the purpose of submitting additional data respecting such claims;

(c) Carolina prepare and submit to the Federal Power Commission not later than January 1, 1944 revised reclassification of accounts and original cost studies with respect to an amount of $70,333,875, representing the balance of its recorded or book cost of electric plant as of January 1, 1937, after classifying $18,648,438 in Account 107.

8. Prior to the entry of the order of the Federal Power Commision referred to in paragraph 6 hereof, and on December 15, 1942 in a proceeding entitled "In the Matter of Carolina Power & Light Company et al., File No. 70-603", this Commission entered an order (Holding Company Act Release No. 3995) permitting to become effective a joint declaration filed by Carolina and National with respect to the surrender for cancellation by National of 1,442,609 shares of common stock of Carolina as a capital contribution to the latter, and the reduction of Carolina's common capital to $10,000,000, to eliminate a deficit in earned surplus which would result from the write-down of plant account in the amount of $18,648,438, and certain other adjustments in the accounts of Carolina. Said order of this Commission reserved jurisdiction to determine in appropriate proceedings under applicable provisions of the Act:

(a) Whether it is necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors or consumers to require Carolina Power & Light Company to make further adjustments in its accounts;

(b) Whether it is necessary or appropriate to prohibit the declaration or payment by Carolina Power & Light Company of dividends on its common stock in order to protect the financial integrity, or safeguard the working capital of Carolina Power & Light Company, to prevent the payment of dividends out of capital or unearned surplus, or to prevent the circumvention of the provisions of the Act or any rules, regulations or orders thereunder; and

(c) Whether it is necessary or appropriate to require Carolina Power & Light Company to revise its capital structure for the purpose of fairly and equitably distributing voting power among its security holders, and whether in such revision of the capital structure of Carolina Power & Light Company, the 16,806 shares of $7 preferred stock of Carolina Power & Light Company held by National Power & Light Company should be converted into common stock of Carolina Power & Light Company, or be otherwise subordinated to its publicly held securities.

9. On or about February 24, 1943 the accounting adjustments set forth in paragraph 7 hereof were made and entered upon the books of Carolina as of January 1, 1942.

10. After giving effect to the accounting adjustments set forth in paragraph 7 hereof, the plant, property and equipment account of Carolina as stated on its balance sheet as of December 31, 1942 is $65,080,275.

11. The book amount of the reserve for property retirement and depreciation of Carolina as of December 31, 1942 is $7,850,778, or 9.2% of the gross book amount of its plant, property and equipment.

12. The book amount of the reserve for property retirement and depreciation of Carolina as of December 31, 1942 is approximately $15,831,125 less than such reserve would have been had Carolina and its predecessors accrued for property retirement and depreciation amounts equal to the sums allowed or claimed for depreciation for Federal income tax purposes.

13. The following table indicates the effect upon Carolina's capital structure of adjusting the reserve for property retirement and depreciation to increase said reserve by the difference of $15,831,125 between the amounts allowed or claimed by Carolina and its predecessors for depreciation for Federal income tax purposes and the amounts accrued for property retirement and depreciation on the books of Carolina and its predecessors, as set forth in paragraph 12 hereof.

The earnings available for dividends on the common stock of Carolina for the years 1926 to 1942, inclusive, and the amount of common stock dividends paid to National during said period, and the excess of the sum allowed or claimed for depreciation for Federal income tax purposes over the book amount of accruals for property retirements and depreciation for the years 1926 to 1942, inclusive, were as follows:

17. If the earnings for the years 1926 to 1942, inclusive and adjusted to reflect accruals for property retirement and depreciation on the same basis as allowed or claimed for Federal income tax purposes, the amount of dividends paid on the common stock of Carolina during such period would have exceeded the earnings available therefor by $3,900,400.

18. On November 4, 1925, Carolina Power & Light Company (old) had outstanding 47,875 shares of common stock with a stated value of $100 per share; 15,608 shares of said common stock were owned by Bond and Share and 5,389 shares thereof were owned by interests affiliated with Bond and Share. The shares of common stock of Carolina (old) owned by Bond and Share were acquired by it at a cost of $349,179 and at November 4, 1925 were carried in its investment account at $1,092,500. On November 4, 1925, National Power & Light Company (old) had outstanding 122,080 shares of common stock with a stated value of $75 per share of which Bond and Share and interests affiliated with it owned 72,423 shares. Bond and Share controlled Carolina (old) and National (old).

19. On November 4, 1925 Bond and Share organized United Investors Securities Company ("United") which on November 7, 1925 made an offer to the common stockholders of Carolina (old) to exchange shares of common stock of United for shares of common stock of Carolina (old) on a share for share basis, and in connection therewith advised the common stockholders of Carolina (old) that United and National (old) had executed an agreement of consolidation and merger under the terms of which 15 shares of common stock of the consolidated company, National Power & Light Company (new), would be issued in exchange for each share of common stock of United or National (old). Pursuant to the exchange offer made to holders of common stock of Carolina (old) United acquired 47,521 shares of common stock of Carolina (old) and recorded the same in its investment account at $500 per share, or a total of $23,760,500. The market price of the common stock of Carolina (old) during the period from January, 1924 to November 30, 1925 ranged from a low of $76 a share to a high of $415 per share.

20. On November 4, 1925 United and National (old) executed an agreement of consolidation and merger to form National Power & Light Company (new). Said consolidation and merger became effective on December 7, 1925. Pursuant to the terms thereof each share of preferred stock of National (old) was exchanged for one share of $7 preferred stock of National (new) and each share of common stock of National (old) and each share of common stock of United, respectively, was exchanged for 15 shares of common stock of National (new). By virtue of such consolidation and merger National (new) acquired 47,521 shares of Carolina (old) theretofore held by United and recorded the same in its investment account at $500 per share, or $23,760,500. Subsequent to said consolidation and merger National (new) acquired 115 additional shares of common stock of Carolina (old).

21. All of the shares of common stock of Carolina (old) acquired by National (new) in the manner alleged in paragraph 20 hereof, excepting 15 shares thereof, 47,621 shares), were transferred by National (new) on December 8, 1925, together with other assets acquired by it at a cost of approximately $4,600,000 to Pigeon River Power Company, its wholly owned subsidiary which owned certain land and water rights but was at the time inactive and without income. In exchange therefor Pigeon River Power Company issued to National (new) 2,500,000 shares of common stock, 15,000 shares of $7 preferred stock and $3,000,000 principal amount of 6% notes. The common stock of Carolina (old) so acquired by Pigeon River Power Company was recorded in its investment account at $500 per share, or $23,810,500.

22. Pursuant to an agreement of merger and consolidation dated February 24, 1926, which became effective on April 6, 1926, Pigeon River Power Company, Carolina (old), and three of the latter's subsidiaries (Asheville Power & Light Company, Carolina Power Company and Yadkin River Power Company) were merged and consolidated to form Carolina (new). Under the terms of the agreement of merger and consolidation National received 15,000 shares of Caroline (new) $7 preferred stock in exchange for 15,000 shares of $7 preferred stock of Pigeon River Power Company, 75 shares of Carolina (new) $7 preferred stock in exchange for 15 shares of common stock of Carolina (old), and 2,500,000 shares of Carolina (new) common stock in exchange for a like number of shares of common stock of Pigeon River Power Company, and Carolina (new), assumed and in 1926 paid the $3,000,000 6% note of Pigeon River Power Company held by National (new), as well as other indebtedness of Pigeon River Power Company to National (new) in the amount of $329,498 with funds derived from the sale of bonds.

23. The agreement of merger and consolidation creating Carolina (new): Provided, That ". . . the capital of the new corporation shall be the capital of the constituent corporations, parties hereto, as ascertained and determined by consolidation of the balance sheets of the constituent corporations, with elimination of all inter-corporate holdings of stock of the constituent corporations, at the book value thereof, as shown by the capital stock account of the particular constituent corporation which shall have issued the same . . ." Pursuant to the foregoing quoted provision of said agreement of merger and consolidation the common stock of Carolina (old) held by Pigeon River Power Company was eliminated from the consolidated accounts at its book value per share, and the difference between such book value per share and the amount per share ($500) at which Carolina (old) common stock was carried in the investment account of Pigeon River Power Company (viz., approximately $400 per share) remained in the capitalization of Carolina (new) and was balanced by a corresponding increase $19,100,478 in the plant and property account of Carolina (new). Subsequently, pursuant to the order and direction of the Federal Power Commission referred to in paragraphs 6 and 7 hereof Carolina (new) removed such inflation from its electric plant account.

24. By reason of the transactions alleged in paragraphs "19" to "22", inclusive, hereof National by a net cash investment of an amount not in excess of $1,265,000 (together with the issuance of 712,815 shares of its common stock in connection with its acquisition of 47,521 shares of Carolina (old) common stock) acquired 15,000 shares (no par value) of Carolina's $7 preferred stock and 2,500,000 shares (no par value) of the common stock of Carolina.

25. The net plant of Carolina (new) at organization, after adjustments to reflect (a) the elimination of $26,214,423 of inflationary items in the plant and property account (which items have since been eliminated) and (b) a restatement of the reserve for property retirement to increase the amount thereof by the difference of $4,220,519 between the amounts allowed or claimed for depreciation for Federal income tax purposes and the book amount of the accruals for property retirement and depreciation, amounted to $30,735,865. At organization of Carolina (new) its current liabilities exceeded its current assets by $3,444,267, and there were deferred credits and miscellaneous reserves in the amount of $585,665, leaving net assets in the amount of $26,705,933. Against such net assets there were outstanding at organization bonds in the amount of $15,780,500 and preferred stock in the amount of $11,075,432, or total senior securities in the amount of $26,855,932. Thus, the principal amount or liquidating value of the senior securities exceeded adjusted net assets by $149,999. Consequently, at organization of Carolina (new) there was no equity for the common stock on the basis of adjusted net assets. The outstanding debt and preferred stock of Carolina at December 31, 1942 exceeded net assets (exclusive of deferred charges), as adjusted by the amount alleged in paragraph 12 hereof, by $5,964,205; consequently at December 31, 1942, on the basis of adjusted net assets, no equity existed for the common stock, and the preferred stock capital was substantially impaired.

III

It appearing to the Commission in the light of the allegations set forth in Part II hereof that it is appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers to institute proceedings against Carolina, National and Bond and Share under sections 11 (b) (2), 12 (c), 12 (f), 15 (f), and 20 (a) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 in order to determine whether certain orders should be entered pursuant to the provisions of any of said sections, all as hereafter set forth; and

It further appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that a hearing be held with respect to the application filed by National for authority to consummate the transaction hereinabove summarized as further steps in compliance with said order of the Commission dated August 23, 1941; and

It further appearing to the Commission that the said proceedings involve common questions of law and fact and should be consolidated and heard together:

It is ordered, That said proceedings pursuant to sections 11 (b) (2), 12 (c), 12 (f), 15 (f) and 20 (a) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act, and said proceeding with respect to the application filed by National for authority to consummate the transactions hereinabove summarized be, and the same hereby are, consolidated.

It is further ordered, That a hearing on such consolidated matters under the applicable provisions of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 and the rules of the Commission thereunder be held on April 22, 1943 at 10:00 a. m., e. w. t., at the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in such room as may be designated on such date by the hearing room clerk.

It is further ordered, That Edward C. Johnson or any other officer or officers of the Commission designated by it for that purpose shall preside at the hearing so ordered. The officer so designated to preside at such hearing is hereby authorized to exercise all powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of the Act and to a trial examiner under the Commission's rules of practice.

It is further ordered, That any person desiring to be heard in connection with these proceedings or proposing to intervene herein shall file with the Secretary of the Commission, on or before April 19, 1943, his request or application therefor as provided by Rule XVII of the rules of practice of the Commission.

It is further ordered, That without limiting the scope of the issues presented by said consolidated matters otherwise to be considered in this proceeding particular attention will be directed at the hearing to the following questions and matters:

1. Whether the proposed sale of 242,664 shares of common stock of Houston Lighting & Power Company and 16,806 shares of $7 preferred stock of Carolina and retirement of 150,000 shares of $6 preferred stock of National (a) constitute steps in compliance with the Order of the Commission dated August 23, 1941, issued pursuant to section 11 (b) (2) of the Act, directing the dissolution of National, (b) are fair and equitable to all classes of security holders affected thereby, and (c) are in conformity with the applicable provisions of sections 12 (c) and 12 (d) of the Act.

2. Whether the accounting entries proposed to be recorded on the books of National in connection with any or all of such proposed transactions are in conformity with the standards of the Act and all rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

3. Whether the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 to 25, inclusive, are true and accurate.

4. Whether it is necessary or appropriate to enter an order pursuant to sections 12 (c) and 12 (f) of the Act prohibiting or restricting the declaration or payment by Carolina of dividends on its common stock.

5. Whether voting power is unfairly and inequitably distributed among the security holders of Carolina, and if so, what action is necessary or appropriate to ensure a fair and equitable distribution of voting power among its security holders.

6. Whether it is necessary or appropriate that the 16,806 shares of $7 preferred stock of Carolina owned by National be converted, in whole or in part, into common stock of Carolina.

It is further ordered, That upon the convening of the consolidated hearing above ordered the first issues to be considered shall be those specified above as issues (1) and (2).

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction be, and hereby is, reserved to separate, either for hearing, in whole or in part, or for disposition, in whole or in part, any of the issues or questions which may arise in these procedings, and to take such other action as may appear conducive to an orderly, prompt and economical disposition of the matters involved.

It appearing to the Commission that evidence bearing on the matters recited above, and upon the questions to be determined, is contained in the record of proceedings before the Commission entitled "In the Matter of Electric Bond and Share Company, et al., File No. 59–12", and "In the Matter of Carolina Power & Light Company, et al., File No. 70–603", and "In the Matter of Carolina Power & Light Company, File No. 70–52."

It is further ordered, That in the interest of expeditious procedure all evidence with respect to Carolina Power & Light Company, National Power & Light Company and Electric Bond and Share Company contained in the record of the proceedings entitled "In the Matter of Electric Bond and Share Company, File No. 59–12", and "In the Matter of Carolina Power & Light Company, et al., File No. 70–603", and "In the Matter of Carolina Power & Light Company, File No. 70–52", so far as relevant to the issues above stated, shall be incorporated in the consolidated record of the proceeding herein ordered, and shall be regarded as evidence duly adduced in the present proceedings, subject to the same objections and exceptions preserved in the record of the proceeding in which first introduced.

It is further ordered, That the Secretary of the Commission shall serve notice of the entry of this order by mailing a copy thereof by registered mail to Carolina Power & Light Company, National Power & Light Company and Electric Bond and Share Company, and that notice shall be given to all other persons by publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By the Commission.

PART 1206—FERTILIZER

CHEMICAL FERTILIZER

Section 1206.1 is hereby amended as set forth below:

Paragraph (i) (2) is revised and amended to read as follows:

(2) Group B crops. The requirement of any person for chemical fertilizer containing chemical nitrogen for use on any Group B crop shall be the acreage of the crop to be grown for which fertilizer is requested by such person, multiplied by the rate of application per acre used by such person or used on the farm for which fertilizer is being requested in either the 1940–1941 or 1941–1942 season. Provided, however, That if information as to neither of such rates of application per acre is available, then the rate of application per acre shall be the same as that being used to determine the requirements for persons operating comparable farms in the same area growing the same crop: Provided, further, That in no case shall the rate of application per acre exceed the rate of application per acre recommended by the State Agricultural Experiment Station for the approved grade to be used on such Group B crop. Except as to citrus crops where straight organic nitrogen materials were used in the 1940–1941 and 1941–1942 seasons, no fertilizer manufacturer, dealer, or agent shall deliver and no person shall accept chemical fertilizer containing chemical nitrogen for use on any Grade B crop during the 1942–1943 season unless chemical fertilizer containing chemical nitrogen was used in the 1940–1941 or 1941–1942 season on any Group B crop by such person or on any Group B crop on the farm for which such fertilizer is being requested. In the case of citrus crops where straight organic nitrogen materials were used in the 1940–1941 and 1941–1942 seasons, fertilizers manufacturers, dealers or agents may deliver and any person may accept straight chemical nitrogen materials for use on such citrus crops. In such case, the requirement of any person for such straight chemical nitrogen materials shall be determined in the same manner as the requirements for other Group B crops, except that the rate of application per acre shall not exceed the rate of application per acre, on a nitrogen equivalent basis, of the organic materials used in either the 1940–1941 or 1941–1942 season, and shall not exceed the rate of application per acre, on a nitrogen equivalent basis, recommended by the State Agricultural Experiment Station for the approved grade (straight or mixed) to be used on such crop.

To the list of approved grades of chemical fertilizer for Washington, grade 10–12–14 is added.

SAM A. LEVINE

Sam A. Levine, 117 Monk Street, Brunswick, Georgia, is engaged in the salvage business and in connection with it he has been in the habit of purchasing and selling plumbing equipment, both new and secondhand. During the months of September and October 1942 he sold new plumbing equipment in violation of Limitation Order L–79 and he also purchased new plumbing equipment, and in connection therewith, wrongfully extended preference ratings to his supplier inasmuch as he had not been supplied with such ratings from customers, thereby violating Priorities Regulation No. 3 and Preference Rating Order P–84. The respondent's activities as above described constituted wilful violations of said orders and regulation.

Said violations by the respondent have hampered and impeded the war effort of the United States by diverting scarce materials to uses unauthorized by the War Production Board. In view of the foregoing, It is hereby ordered, That:

§ 1010.279 Suspension Order No. S–279. (a) Sam A. Levine, his successors and assigns, are hereby prohibited from receiving or accepting deliveries of any new metal plumbing or heating equipment, as defined in Limitation Order L–79, except as hereafter specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(b) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve Sam A. Levine from any restriction, prohibition, or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the War Production Board, except insofar as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(c) This order shall take effect on April 14, 1943, and shall expire on October 14, 1943, at which time the restrictions contained in this order shall be of no further effect.

Issued this 12th day of April 1943.

[Suspension Order S–280]

JAMES GODWIN DAVIS

James Godwin Davis, 201 14th Street, Phenix City, Alabama, is the owner of premises located at 1800 Crawford Road, Phenix City, Alabama. Subsequent to April 9, 1942 he caused construction to be commenced at said location of a two-story brick building, to provide warehouse space on the first floor and a number of small apartments or rooms on the second floor. The estimated cost of such construction was greater than the amount permitted by Conservation Order L–41, regardless of whether said construction is considered as residential, industrial or commercial. The cost of the building if and when completed was conceded to be approximately $20,000 or $25,000. The building is now completed, except for the first floor lobby, and except for the installation of certain plumbing fixtures and inside trim on the second floor. Such conduct on the part of James Godwin Davis constituted a wilful violation of Conservation Order L–41.

This construction cannot be allowed to continue unless authorized by the War Production Board. In view of the foregoing, It is hereby ordered, That:

§ 1010.280 Suspension order No. S–280. (a) Neither James Godwin Davis, nor any other person, shall order, purchase, accept delivery of, withdraw from inventory, or in any other manner secure or use material or construction plant in order to continue or complete construction of the building located at 1800 Crawford Road, Phenix City, Alabama, except as hereafter specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(b) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve James Godwin Davis from any restriction, prohibition or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the War Production Board, except in so far as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(c) This order shall take effect on April 14, 1943.

PART 1010—SUSPENSION ORDERS

B. Z. HARDING

B. Z. Harding, Gaithersburg, Maryland, is a general contractor in Montgomery County, Maryland. Subsequent to July 23, 1942, but prior to September 7, 1942, without the authorization of the Director General for Operations of the War Production Board, he began construction, as defined in Conservation Order L–41, of the remodeling into apartments of a building located at #2 Walker Avenue, Gaithersburg, Maryland, at an estimated cost of approximately $3,253.00. At the time said construction was begun, B. Z. Harding had knowledge that construction was restricted, and his failure to ascertain the provisions of Conservation Order L–41 amounted to wilful conduct, and the beginning of construction, as aforesaid, therefore constituted a wilful violation of that order.

This violation of Conservation Order L–41 has hampered and impeded the war effort of the United States by diverting scarce materials to uses not authorized by the War Production Board. In view of the foregoing facts, It is hereby ordered, That:

§ 1010.281 Suspension Order No. S–281. (a) Deliveries of material to B. Z. Harding, his successors and assigns, shall not be accorded priority over deliveries under any other contract or order and no preference ratings shall be assigned, applied or extended to such deliveries by means of preference rating orders, general preference orders, or any other orders or regulations of the War Production Board, except as hereafter specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(b) No allocation shall be made to B. Z. Harding, his successors and assigns, of any material the supply or distribution of which is governed by any order of the War Production Board, except as hereafter specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(c) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve B. Z. Harding from any restriction, prohibition, or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the War Production Board, except in so far as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(d) This order shall take effect on April 14, 1943, and shall expire on July 14, 1943, at which time the restrictions contained in this order shall be of no further effect.

Issued this 12th day of April 1943.

JACKSON TURNER COMPANY

Jackson Turner is an individual contractor, doing business under the name of Jackson Turner Company at Long Beach, California.

Subsequent to April 9, 1942, without the authorization of the War Production Board, Jackson Turner began construction, as defined in Conservation Order L–41, of six residential buildings located at 5876 Brayton Avenue, 5381 Lime Avenue, 1820–22 May Avenue, 4226–28 East 7th Street, 4230 East 7th Street, and 4232 East 7th Street, respectively, all located in Long Beach, California; the estimated cost of each building being in excess of $500.00. Such construction was begun in disregard of the provisions of Conservation Order L–41, issued April 9, 1942, with which Jackson Turner was familiar, or should have been familiar, since it applied directly to his sole business and had been given wide publicity in that area.

This violation of Conservation Order L–41 has hampered and impeded the war effort of the United States by diverting scarce materials to uses unauthorized by the War Production Board. In view of the foregoing, It is hereby ordered, That:

§ 1010.283 Suspension Order No. S–283. (a) No application filed by or on behalf of Jackson Turner, individually or doing business as Jackson Turner Company or otherwise, his successors and assigns, for authorization to begin construction under the provisions of Conservation Order L–41 shall be granted, except with the written approval of the Regional Compliance Chief, San Francisco Regional Office, War Production Board.

(b) Deliveries of material to Jackson Turner, individually or doing business as Jackson Turner Company or otherwise, his successors and assigns, shall not be accorded priority over deliveries under any other contract or order and no preference ratings shall be assigned, applied, or extended to such deliveries by means of preference rating certificates, preference rating orders, general preference orders, or any other orders or regulations of the War Production Board, except with the written approval of the Regional Compliance Chief, San Francisco Regional Office, War Production Board.

(c) No allocations shall be made to Jackson Turner, individually or doing business as Jackson Turner Company or otherwise, his successors and assigns, of any material, the supply or distribution of which is governed by any order of the War Production Board, except with the written approval of the Regional Compliance Chief, San Francisco Regional Office, War Production Board.

(d) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to relieve Jackson Turner, individually or doing business as Jackson Turner Company or otherwise, from any restriction, prohibition, or provision contained in any other order or regulation of the War Production Board, except in so far as the same may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(e) Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to prevent any purchaser, or purchasers, of the houses mentioned in this order from applying for and obtaining authorization to complete the construction of any of said houses.

(f) This order shall take effect on April 19, 1943, and shall expire August 1, 1943, at which time the restrictions contained in this order shall be of no further effect.

Issued this 12th day of April 1943.

The fulfillment of the requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply of rubber and balata for defense, for private account and for export; and the following order is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense:

§ 940.3 General Limitation Order M–15–b—(a) Definitions. For the purposes of this order:

(1) "Crude rubber" means all forms and types of crude rubber (including crepe rubber for soles or any other purpose) but does not mean or include balata, gutta-percha, gutta siak, gutta jelutong, pontianac, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber or latex.

(2) "Latex" means the dry latex solids contained in liquid latex in crude form, and in compounded liquid latex (but not the dry latex solids in shoe adhesives and container sealing compounds).

(3) "Scrap rubber product" means any finished rubber product or part thereof, made in whole or in part from crude rubber, latex, synthetic rubber, scrap rubber or reclaimed rubber, which through wear, deterioration or obsolescence has served its primary purpose in its present state, but does not mean or include a repairable tire, treadable tire or any other manufactured product which is still usable for the primary purpose for which it was designed.

(4) "In-process scrap" means any material which is produced in the course of manufacture (including the repair, retreading or recapping of tires), and any defective or factory rejected materials or products which are not usable for the primary purpose for which they were designed and which contain any crude rubber, latex, synthetic rubber, scrap rubber or reclaimed rubber, including all types and grades of residues, such as cuttings, trimmings, tuber heads, flash, cut edgings, sweepings, dust buffings, sawings, grindings, drippings and any other form of rubber whether vulcanized or unvulcanized, which results from or is incident to the processing of crude rubber, latex, synthetic rubber, scrap rubber or reclaimed rubber in the manufacture or repair of any product, but does not mean or include uncured friction scrap, reclaimed rubber or any finished rubber products.

(5) "Uncured friction scrap" means any scrap rubber which contains fabric and which is produced in the manufacture of tires, hose or belting before such products are finally vulcanized.

(6) "Scrap rubber" means and includes any scrap rubber product, in-process scrap or uncured friction scrap.

(7) "Reclaimed rubber" means any vulcanizable material derived from the processing or treatment of scrap rubber.

(8) "Repairable tire" means a pneumatic tire or tire casing which has sufficient tread design or under tread to warrant repair for use for the purpose for which it was primarily designed. For the purposes of this definition:

(i) "Repair" means a vulcanized sectional repair, or vulcanized reinforcement or vulcanized spot repair which can be accomplished in accordance with recognized commercial practice and which can be reasonably expected to render satisfactory service under limited operating conditions (speed under

The underscored portions represent changes made as of April 13, 1943.

40 MPH and no overload) so that the tire when repaired will be in a safe condition for service.

(ii) The tread and sidewall must not be severely weather checked or cracked to the extent that the tire has more than two radial cracks which extend through the cord body.

(iii) The cord body:

(a) Must not have separation between plies.

(b) Must not have been damaged to the extent that cords are pulled loose beyond the first inside ply.

(c) Must not have any fabric injuries that exceed one half the cross-sectional diameter of the tire. Example—Injuries in 600/16 (6 inch) tires must not be more than three inches long on the inside of the tire: in 10.00/20 tires not more than five inches.

(d) Must not have or show evidence of having had more than three injuries requiring sectional repairs.

(e) Must not have injuries below any point where the top of the rim flange makes contact with the tire.

(f) Must not have or exhibit circumferential or flex breaks on the inside ply.

(g) Bead area must be sound with no broken wires.

(9) "Treadable tire" means a pneumatic tire or tire casing which warrants repair and retreading or recapping for the purpose for which it was primarily designed in accordance with recognized commercial practice, and which can reasonably be expected to render satisfactory service under limited operating conditions (speed under 40 MPH and no overload). For the purpose of this definition:

(i) The cord body:

(a) Must not be worn through more than one body ply for a total length of more than four inches on four ply tires.

(b) Must not be worn through more than two plies for a total length of more than four inches on tires of six plies or more.

(c) Must not have or show evidence of having had more than two injuries each not exceeding one-third the cross-sectional diameter of the tire. Example—Breaks in 600/16 (6 inch) tire must not be more than two inches long on the inside of the tire: 900/20 (9 inch) tires not more than three inches long.

(d) Must not have more than three radial cracks of more than one inch in length extending to the cord body.

(ii) The tire must in all other respects than specified in this paragraph (a) (9) conform to the requirements of a repairable tire.

(10) "Scrap consumer" means any person who consumes scrap rubber in the manufacture of any finished or partly finished product or material, and includes any person producing reclaimed rubber from scrap rubber, but does not include any person who separates scrap rubber or tears, splits or pulls scrap rubber apart (such as splitting tires) for the purpose of selling the component parts thereof to Rubber Reserve Company or to a scrap dealer.

(11) "Scrap dealer" means any person (other than a scrap consumer) buying, selling or collecting scrap rubber.

(12) "Synthetic rubber" means any of the varieties of compositions generally known as synthetic rubber, including, but not limited to, butadiene types, chloroprene, organic polysulfids and butyl.

(13) "Balata" means any of the gums of recognized commercial grades having a gutta hydrocarbon base and a high resin content, procured from wild forest trees of the Mimusops genus and closely related genera generally found in South and Central America from the Amazon Valley north through Panama, and includes such gums whether in crude or refined (deresinated or partly deresinated) form; but does not mean or include scrap balata or reclaimed balata; or Massaranduba balata and Peruvian F. A. Q. white balata which were not in deresinated form prior to March 5, 1943.

(14) "Inventory" means crude rubber, latex, scrap rubber, reclaimed rubber or balata, or products thereof, in the form of raw materials, semi-processed materials, finished parts or sub-assemblies.

(15) "Consume" means to use, process, stamp, cut, or in any manner make any substantial change in the form, shape or chemical composition of any crude rubber, latex, scrap rubber, reclaimed rubber or balata.

(16) "Person" means any individual, partnership, association, business trust, corporation, governmental corporation or agency, or any organized group of persons, whether incorporated or not.

(17) "War order" means:

(i) Any contract or purchase order for material or equipment to be delivered to, or for the account of, the Army or Navy of the United States, the United States Maritime Commission, the Panama Canal, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Coast Guard, the Civil Aeronautics Authority, the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, or the Office of Scientific Research and Development, but not to or for the account of any post exchange, ship's store, commissary, officers' mess, officers', non-commissioned officers' or enlisted men's club, or any similar agency or organization.

(ii) Any contract or purchase order placed by any agency of the United States for material or equipment to be delivered to, or for the account of, any foreign country under the provisions of the Act of March 11, 1941, entitled "An Act to Promote the Defense of the United States" (Lend-Lease Act).

(iii) Any contract or purchase order for material or equipment required by the person placing the same to fill his contracts or purchase orders on hand, provided such material or equipment is to be physically incorporated in material or equipment to be delivered under contracts or purchase orders included under (i) and (ii) of this paragraph (a) (17).

(b) Restrictions on consumption of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber and balata—(1) Crude rubber. Crude rubber may be consumed only:

(i) To fill war orders; but only in the manufacture of those products set forth in Schedule I attached to this order.

(ii) To manufacture those groups of products set forth in Schedule II–A or II–B attached to this order; but only upon receipt of authorization from the War Production Board.

(2) Latex. Latex may be consumed only:

(i) To fill war orders; but only in the manufacture of those products set forth in Schedule I attached to this order.

(ii) To manufacture those groups of products set forth in Schedule II–B attached to this order; but only upon receipt of authorization from the War Production Board.

(3) Reclaimed rubber. Reclaimed rubber may be consumed only:

(i) To fill war orders; but only in the manufacture of those products set forth in Schedule I attached to this order.

(ii) To manufacture those groups of products set forth in Schedule II–A or II–B attached to this order and not set forth in Schedule II–C attached to this order; but only where special authorization for the consumption of crude rubber, latex or reclaimed rubber to manufacture such products has been issued by the War Production Board.

(iii) To manufacture those groups of products set forth in Schedule II–C attached to this order which are also set forth in Schedule II–A or Schedule II–B attached to this order, whether or not mixed or compounded with crude rubber, latex or scrap rubber; but only upon receipt of authorization from the War Production Board for the consumption of the respective amounts of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber and scrap rubber to be consumed.

(iv) To manufacture those groups of products set forth in Schedule II–C attached to this order and not set forth in Schedule II–A or II–B attached to this order; but only upon receipt of authorization from the War Production Board.

(4) Scrap rubber. Scrap rubber may be consumed only:

(i) To fill war orders; but only in the manufacture of those products set forth in Schedule I attached to this order.

(ii) To manufacture those products set forth in Schedule II–A or II–B attached to this order and not set forth in Schedule II–C attached to this order; but only where special authorization for the consumption of crude rubber, latex or scrap rubber to manufacture such products has been issued by the War Production Board.

(iii) To manufacture those groups of products set forth in Schedule II–C attached to this order which are also set forth in Schedule II–A or Schedule II–B attached to this order, whether or not mixed or compounded with crude rubber, latex or reclaimed rubber; but only upon receipt of authorization from the War Production Board for the consumption of the respective amounts of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber and scrap rubber to be consumed.

(iv) To manufacture those groups of products set forth in Schedule II–C attached to this order and not set forth in Schedule II–A or II–B attached to this order; but only upon receipt of authorization from the War Production Board.

(v) To manufacture reclaimed rubber.

(vi) As to in-process scrap or uncured friction scrap generated after March 31, 1942, by the person who generated such in-process scrap or uncured friction scrap; but only in the manufacture of any products of the group (as set forth in said Schedules II–A, II–B and II–C) in which is listed the product in connection with which such in-process scrap or uncured friction scrap was generated. In such case the in-process scrap or uncured friction scrap consumed shall not be charged against his quota or allotment of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber or scrap rubber for making products of that group. Any person may consume in-process scrap or uncured friction scrap whether generated by him or not, in the manufacture of any products not so listed in the same group when, but only when, he has received from the War Production Board an authorization to consume reclaimed rubber or scrap rubber in the manufacture of such other group of products, and in such event the in-process scrap or uncured friction scrap consumed shall be within the limits of such authorization and shall be charged against his quota or allotment of reclaimed rubber or scrap rubber for manufacturing such other group of products.

(5) Balata. Balata shall be consumed only:

(i) To manufacture self-sealing fuel cells to fill war orders.

(ii) For such other purposes as may be permitted by special authorization of the War Production Board.

(c) General provisions—(1) Distribution of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber and balata among plants. Each company (which term when used in this subparagraph shall include any corporation together with all other corporations controlling, and all other corporations controlled by, such corporation) which is a processor of crude rubber, latex, scrap rubber, reclaimed rubber or balata and which operates plants in more than one community (all plants operated by the same company in the same community being herein collectively referred to as a "unit") shall immediately upon distributing crude rubber, latex, scrap rubber, reclaimed rubber or balata during any calendar month among its units in proportions differing from the proportional distribution throughout such units during July 1941, file with the Office of Rubber Director of the War Production Board, a full report thereof showing clearly the reasons for such change in proportional distribution throughout its units. In any case in which it appears that such change in ratio was not justified or proper, the War Production Board may take such action as it deems appropriate.

(2) Manufacture according to regulations. Any of the products or materials whose manufacture is permitted by this order or by special authorization of the War Production Board shall be manufactured only in conformity with regulations now or hereafter set forth in lists attached to § 940.5 Supplementary Order M–15–b–1 or such other regulations as may be issued by the War Production Board; provided that until regulations for particular products or groups of products are issued by the War Production Board, the crude rubber, latex or balata content by weight of any such products manufactured by any person shall not exceed the respective crude rubber, latex or balata content by weight of similar products manufactured by such person on the most recent date prior to September 1, 1942, on which he manufactured such products.

(3) Limitation on consumption to fill war orders. (i) The War Production Board may from time to time, by special directives issued pursuant to this paragraph (c) (3) (i), limit the consumption of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber or balata by any person to fill war orders to such extent and in such manner as may be provided by such special directives.

(ii) No person shall consume more crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber or balata to fill any war order than is required for delivery within sixty days from the date such crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber or balata is consumed under the delivery dates specified in the purchase order placed with him.

(4) Limitation of inventories. No person other than Rubber Reserve Company shall purchase, accept delivery of or otherwise acquire any crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, or balata, or products thereof, or any products of scrap rubber in the form of raw materials, semi-processed materials, finished products or parts or subassemblies in quantities which shall result in such person having an inventory of such material or products in excess of a minimum practicable working inventory, taking into consideration the limitations placed by this order on the production of products made of crude rubber, latex, balata, reclaimed rubber and scrap rubber. An inventory of crude rubber, latex or balata which can reasonably be expected to last more than sixty days, or of reclaimed rubber which can reasonably be expected to last more than forty-five days, shall be deemed to be in excess of a minimum practicable working inventory. The limitation on inventories imposed by this paragraph (c) (4) and by § 944.14 (Priorities Regulation No. 1) as amended, shall not apply to inventories of reclaimed rubber held or acquired by persons engaged in the business of reclaiming rubber but who are not consumers of reclaimed rubber, it being contemplated that persons engaged in the business of reclaiming rubber (but not consumers of reclaimed rubber) may accumulate such inventories of reclaimed rubber as they may deem advisable.

(5) Restriction on the acquisition of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber and balata. No person other than Rubber Reserve Company shall purchase, accept delivery of or otherwise acquire any crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber or balata for any purpose except for the purpose of consuming the same in the manufacture of a product or products for which such material may be consumed under the provisions of this order or under special authorization of the War Production Board, provided that nothing in this order shall prevent

(i) Any scrap dealer from acquiring scrap rubber in the usual course of his business for the purpose of selling the same to another scrap dealer or to Rubber Reserve Company, or

(ii) Any person from acquiring crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, or scrap rubber from the owner thereof solely for the purpose of milling, washing, drying and/or conditioning and thereafter returning the same to the owner thereof.

(6) Restriction on the sale of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber and balata. No person shall sell, trade, or transfer the ownership of any crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber or balata, and no person shall accept any such sale, trade or transfer of ownership, except (i) as may be expressly permitted by regulations prescribed by Rubber Reserve Company, or (ii) in those cases in which special authorizations may be issued by the War Production Board; provided that nothing in this paragraph (c) (6) shall be deemed to prohibit the sale of unvulcanized rubber products or products made from balata which were in finished or marketable form on December 11, 1941, or which have become finished and marketable at any time after that date pursuant to processing not prohibited by any orders or other instructions heretofore or hereafter issued by the War Production Board.

(7) General restrictions on the purchase and sale of scrap rubber. Except (i) as may be expressly permitted by regulations prescribed by Rubber Reserve Company, or (ii) in those cases in which special authorizations may be issued by the War Production Board.

(a) No person other than Rubber Reserve Company shall sell, trade or transfer the ownership or possession of any scrap rubber to any scrap consumer.

(b) No scrap consumer shall purchase, receive or accept delivery of any scrap rubber, or the right to receive any scrap rubber, from any person other than Rubber Reserve Company.

(c) No scrap consumer shall sell, trade or transfer the ownership or possession of any scrap rubber to any person, including any scrap dealer.

Provided, That the prohibitions of this paragraph (c) (7) shall not apply to any transfer or delivery of scrap rubber from one location to another location controlled by the same person where no change of ownership takes place, or to any purchase or sale by any corporation from or to another corporation which is its subsidiary or of which it is a subsidiary, of any in-process scrap or uncured friction scrap generated by the corporation making such sale or transfer, and any such sale shall be expressly permitted within the terms of paragraph (c) (2) (iii) of Priorities Regulation No. 13 (Part 944). For the purposes hereof a corporation shall be deemed to be a subsidiary of another corporation if all or substantially all of its voting stock is owned by such other corporation.

(8) Restriction on the destruction of tires and scrap rubber. No person shall destroy, damage, cut or tear apart any tire, tire casing or tire tube or any scrap rubber whether by burning or any other means and whether for the purpose of making or repairing products or materials from or with all or any of its constituent parts: Provided, That this restriction shall not apply to the following:

(i) The consumption of any scrap rubber in the manufacture of any product for which crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber or scrap rubber may be consumed under the provisions of this order or under special authorization of the War Production Board; but subject to such limitations as to quantities, specifications, and other restrictions as may be imposed by this order or such special authorization.

(ii) The consumption of any scrap rubber by any person producing reclaimed rubber as a necessary incident to such reclaiming operations.

(iii) The destruction of any scrap rubber (without destroying the rubber therein) for the purpose of selling its component parts to a scrap dealer for resale by him either (a) to Rubber Reserve Company, or (b) under rules or regulations prescribed from time to time by Rubber Reserve Company.

(iv) The destruction of the following articles when through obsolescence, use or deterioration the articles have entirely served their usefulness in their present state:

(a) Used battery containers and separators and parts thereof.

(b) Rough bore (metal reinforced) oil suction and discharge hose and hose containing asbestos combined with rubber.

(c) Rubber insulated wire and cable.

(d) That part of rubber bonded to metal which cannot be separated from the metal by mechanical means.

(e) Brake linings and clutch facings.

(g) Metal-inserted running boards.

(h) Gasoline pump hose.

(i) Friction tape and adhesive tape (except in-process scrap).

(10) Restriction on splitting camelback and capping stock. No person shall split, cut, tear or otherwise separate any camelback or capping stock in such manner that there will result camelback or capping stock of gauges other than 10/32, 12/32, 14/32, 16/32, 18/32, 20/32, 22/32 inches and larger.

(11) Reports covering war orders. Reports covering the consumption of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber and scrap rubber to fill war orders shall be filed monthly on Form PD–49, as revised, pursuant to the requirements of paragraph (c) (24) of this Supplementary Order No. M–15–b.

(12) Prohibited products for other than war orders. Except to fill war orders, no person shall consume any crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber or scrap rubber in the manufacture of any of the products for which the consumption of such material is prohibited by Schedule III attached to this order, even though the consumption of such material would otherwise be permitted under any of the broader provisions, classifications or groupings of this order or under any of the other schedules attached to this order.

(13) Prohibited products for war orders. Unless permitted by special authorization of the War Production Board, no person shall (i) consume any crude rubber or latex in the manufacture or assembly of any of the products or materials set forth in Groups A and B of Schedule IV attached to this order for delivery to fill any war order; or (ii) consume any reclaimed rubber or scrap rubber in the manufacture or assembly of any of the products or materials set forth in Group B of said Schedule IV for delivery to fill any war order.

(14) Index of permitted and prohibited products. Schedule V is attached to this order for the convenience of the industry. This schedule constitutes an index of the products for which crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber and scrap rubber may be consumed, and those for which these materials may not be consumed, and contains appropriate cross-references to the other schedules in which such products are mentioned.

(15) Restriction on the importation of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber and balata and products thereof. No person other than Metals Reserve Company, Defense Supplies Corporation, Rubber Reserve Company or any other corporation organized under section 5 (d) of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, or any agent acting for one of them, shall, except as authorized or otherwise directed in writing by the War Production Board purchase for import, import, offer to purchase for import, receive, or offer to receive on consignment for import, or make any contract or other arrangement for the importing of any crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber or balata, whether in crude, partly processed or processed form, or any finished or partly finished product or material made from any of the foregoing. For the purpose hereof "import" means to transport into the continental United States from any foreign country or from any territory or possession of the United States, and shall include a release from the bonded custody of the United States Bureau of Customs; and products or materials shall be deemed to be made from crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber or balata if at least ten per cent of the weight of such products or materials was made from crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber and balata or from any one or more of them. The restriction of this paragraph (c) (15) shall not apply to:

(i) The importation by any person during any calendar month of products or materials (except tires, tire casings and tire tubes) which contain an aggregate of not more than twenty-five pounds of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber and balata provided such products or materials are not imported for the purpose of manufacturing, processing, sale or resale;

(ii) The importation by any person who is entering or reentering the United States of bicycle tires mounted on any used bicycle included in the personal effects of such person.

(iii) The importation of any scrap rubber by the Army or Navy of the United States or the United States Maritime Commission;

(iv) The importation of any finished products made of rubber or balata by diplomatic representatives (but not consuls or other commercial representatives) of any foreign government for their personal use or the use of members of their staffs;

(v) The importation from the Dominion of Canada by any person of any rubber or balata, or any products thereof manufactured in the Continental United States, Canada or the British Isles.

(16) Restriction on consumption of rubber products and materials. No person shall use or consume any finished or partly finished product or material containing in the aggregate more than ten per cent by weight of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber and scrap rubber, to manufacture for sale to others any other products in such a manner as to divert the products or materials so consumed from the purpose for which they were originally intended, except to manufacture products for which he has received an authorization from the War Production Board to consume crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber or scrap rubber. In any case in which any such product or material is used pursuant to any such authorization, it shall be chargeable to such person's quota of reclaimed rubber and/or scrap rubber for the manufacture of such permitted products.

(17) Finished item deliveries. No person shall sell, transfer or deliver, or purchase or accept or accept transfer or delivery of any item which he knows or has reason to know was fabricated, assembled or delivered in violation of any applicable provisions of this order as amended from time to time.

(18) Applicability of priorities regulations. This order and all transactions affected thereby are subject to all applicable provisions of the Priorities Regulations of the War Production Board, as amended from time to time.

(19) Applications for authorizations to consume crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber and scrap rubber. Each person who wishes to consume any crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber or scrap rubber at any time subsequent to October 1, 1942 to manufacture any of the products or groups of products listed in Schedules II–A, II–B and II–C attached to this order, shall file with the Office of Rubber Director of the War Production Board an application on Form PD–407, or such other forms as may be prescribed. Such application shall be filed not later than the tenth day of the month preceding the calendar month during which such person wishes to consume crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber or scrap rubber.

(20) Appeals. Any person affected by this order who considers that compliance therewith would work an exceptional and unreasonable hardship upon him, or that it would result in a serious problem of unemployment in the community, or that compliance with this order would disrupt or impair a program of conversion from nondefense to defense work, may appeal to the War Production Board by transmitting to the Office of Rubber Director, War Production Board, Washington, D. C., an appeal on Form PD–500–b.

(21) Applicability of order. The prohibitions and restrictions contained in this order shall apply to the use of material in all articles manufactured on or after August 25, 1942, irrespective of whether such articles are manufactured pursuant to a contract made prior or subsequent to the effective date hereof, or pursuant to a contract supported by a preference rating. Insofar as any other order of the War Production Board heretofore or hereafter issued may have the effect of limiting or curtailing to a greater extent than herein provided the use of crude rubber, latex, scrap rubber, reclaimed rubber or balata in the production of any article, the limitations of such other order shall be observed.

(22) Violations. Any person who willfully violates any provision of this order, or who, in connection with this order, willfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, material under priority control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(23) Communications. All reports required to be filed under this order, and all communications concerning this order, shall, unless otherwise directed, be addressed to: Office of Rubber Director, War Production Board, Washington, D. C. Ref.: M–15–b.

(24) General reports. Any person who, during any calendar month, consumes, ships or stocks any crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber or balata, or who, on the last day of any calendar month, has in his possession any crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber, scrap rubber or balata, shall, not later than the fifteenth day of the succeeding month, file with the Office of Rubber Director of the War Production Board a report on the appropriate form PD–49, PD–649 or such other form or forms as may be prescribed from time to time.

(25) Outstanding special instructions. No unrevoked special instruction (i. e., instruction issued by individual letter or telegram and not by general order) issued prior to September 1, 1942 by the War Production Board which (i) authorizes the consumption of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber or scrap rubber within a specified period of prior to a specified date, or (ii) forbids or restricts the consumption of crude rubber, latex, reclaimed rubber or scrap rubber, is revoked or rescinded by this revised Supplementary Order No. M–15–b. All such unrevoked instructions shall remain in effect unless hereafter specifically rescinded or revoked by the War Production Board.

(26) Any action which, under the terms of this order or of any of the schedules attached to this order, is to be taken by the War Production Board, may be taken in the name of the Rubber Director in such manner as may be prescribed.

Issued this 13th day of April 1943.

PART 1198—GLASS CONTAINER AND CLOSURE SIMPLIFICATION

[Supplementary Order L-103-a]

GLASS CONTAINERS AND CLOSURES

§ 1198.20 Supplementary Order L-103-a—(a) Definitions. For the purposes of this supplementary order:

(1) "Commercial user" means any person who uses glass containers for commercially packing or packaging any product.

(2) "Inventory" means a commercial user's entire stock of all empty new glass containers which are of the same design and finish and which are on hand in his plant, in transit to his plant from suppliers, and set aside for him by suppliers, on his request or with his knowledge.

(3) "Glass container", "finish", and "design" have the same meanings as in Limitation Order L-103. Variations within tolerances permitted by that order shall not be considered as representing different designs.

(4) "Supplier" means any glass container manufacturer, dealer, or jobber.

(b) Restrictions on suppliers. No supplier shall deliver to, or set aside for, any commercial user any quantity of any glass container which he knows or has reason to believe the commercial user is not entitled to accept pursuant to paragraph (c) below.

(c) Restrictions on commercial users. On and after April 18, 1943, no commercial used shall at any time accept, or have any supplier set aside for him, any quantity of any empty new glass container of any design and finish which will increase his inventory thereof to more than (1) 2 carloads or (2) the total amount of his reasonably anticipated requirements therefor for the next 60 days, whichever is greater.

(d) Exceptions. The restrictions of paragraph (c) above shall not apply to any commercial user's acceptance, at any time, of any glass containers which:

(1) Were, on April 18, 1943, in transit to him from suppliers or set aside for him by suppliers; or

(2) Are for his use in packing fresh fish, fresh shellfish, fresh fruits, fresh vegetables, or products produced from fresh fruits or fresh vegetables. The term "fresh" refers to products which have not been previously preserved or frozen (temporary refrigeration in bulk excluded).

(e) Applicability. Any commercial user who uses glass containers at more than one plant, may, at his option, apply the inventory restrictions of paragraph (c) either to the inventory of each such plant separately or to the collective inventory of all such plants.

(f) Appeals. Any appeal from the provisions of this order shall be made by filing a letter in triplicate, referring to the particular provision appealed from and stating fully the grounds for the appeal.

(g) Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to: War Production Board, Containers Division, Washington, D. C., Ref: L-103-a.

(2) The foregoing requirement shall not apply to any order for parts to be delivered to a manufacturer or dealer for resale for repair purposes, or to any other person for use in the repair of any such equipment already owned by such person, if the purchaser furnishes his supplier with a certification in substantially the following form, on the purchase order or in a separate document:

I hereby certify that the above (or attached) order is for parts to be used for repair purposes only, in compliance with paragraph (b) (2) of General Limitation Order L-111

---------- Company

By ---------- (Authorized Official)

Such certification shall in every case be signed by the purchaser or an authorized official, either manually or as provided in Priorities Regulation No. 7. No person shall make delivery under any such order if he knows or has reason to believe that such certificate is false; and no person shall falsely furnish any such certification. Such certification shall constitute a representation to the War Production Board, as well as to the supplier, that the statements therein are true. Any supplier may rely upon the information therein, and shall not be responsible for any action taken by him under this order in reliance upon inaccurate or untrue statements therein, unless he knows or has reason to believe that such statements are inaccurate or untrue. Such certificate may be incorporated as a part of any certification furnished under paragraph (c) below.

(c) Operation reports. On or before the 15th day of May 1943, and the 15th day of each succeeding calendar month, each manufacturer shall file a report with the War Production Board on Form PD-845 showing his production capacity and such other information as may be required by said form.

(d) Required specifications for hand trucks and other handling equipment. No person shall manufacture or deliver any new hand trucks, platforms, pallets, racks, or portable (platform type) elevators, or deliver any new rubber tires, wheels, or other parts for use on any such new equipment or for replacement on any such used equipment, except in accordance with the specifications and restrictions set forth below, and no person shall deliver, or accept delivery of, any such equipment which he knows, or has reason to believe, was manufactured, or is being delivered, contrary to such specifications and restrictions:

(1) Restrictions on use of rubber. No rubber shall be used in the manufacture of hand trucks, semi-live platforms, or portable (platform type) elevators, except in wire or cable insulation, or for rubber tires where such rubber tires or rubber tired equipment are not available from the inventory of the purchaser and are required for immediate use to avoid breakage or damage in the transportation of "green" foundry cores, delicate instruments, unbaked enamelware, or unbaked grinding wheels, or to avoid explosions either (i) in transportation of explosives not already packaged, encased, or otherwise prepared for storage, shipment, or transfer so as to eliminate the explosion hazard, or (ii) where the use of other wheels, tires, or casters would create a definite explosion hazard as a result of the necessity of using the equipment in the same room with, or in other close proximity to materials subject to explosive reaction from sparks caused by static electricity, such as black powder, lead azide, igniter composition, tracer mixtures, primer mixtures, incendiary composition, vapors from combustible substances, or dust from explosives.

(2) Restrictions on use of bearings. No ball bearing or roller bearings shall be used in the manufacture of two wheel hand trucks, platform trucks, dollies, or semi-live platforms, except where the normal load capacity is 2,500 pounds or more.

(3) Restrictions on use of cast steel wheels. No cast steel wheels shall be used in the manufacture of two wheel hand trucks, platform trucks, lift trucks, lift jacks, portable (platform type) elevators, dollies, or semi-live platforms.

(4) Other restrictions on use of iron and steel. No iron or steel shall be used in the manufacture of the equipment specified below, elsewhere than in bearings, wheels, axles, axle housings, caster brackets, or small hardware.

(i) In two wheel hand trucks, except in halfstrap nose, legs, or leg braces; except in any parts of barrel trucks; and except in protective strapping on two wheel hand trucks to be used in stevedore operations and having a load capacity of 1,000 pounds or more;

(ii) In platform trucks, except in tongue type handles, stake pockets, and turntable in fifth wheel types;

(iii) In the flooring of trailers, except in edging and binding;

(iv) In dollies;

(v) In platforms, except in legs; in semi-live platforms, except in legs and engaging pins; in angle iron supports on sides and strap or angle iron protection on ends of platforms only where load capacity is 6,000 pounds or more;

(vi) In pallets;

(vii) In the platforms and back plates of portable (platform type) elevators, except in edging and binding; or

(viii) In racks.

(5) Restrictions on use of copper and copper base alloy. No copper or copper base alloy shall be used in the manufacture of hand trucks, pallets, or platforms, except in hydraulic packing washers, or where the use of other materials would create a definite explosion hazard as a result of the necessity of using such equipment under the conditions specified under paragraph (d) (1) (ii) above.

(6) Restrictions on use of aluminum, tin, cadmium, zinc, stainless or chrome steel, and metallic plating and finishes. No aluminum, tin, cadmium, zinc, stainless or chrome steel, metallic plating or metallic finishes shall be used in the manufacture of hand trucks, pallets, or platforms, except that alloy steel may be used in bearings where permitted under paragraph (d) (2) above, or in lift trucks or lift jacks where necessary to afford strength, and being used by the manufacturer thereof for that purpose in such parts on April 13, 1943, and zinc may be used for galvanizing when necessary to comply with the regulations of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture.

(c) Required certification with orders. Each person placing an order for delivery of (1) new rubber tires, with any producer of such tires, for use on any hand truck, semi-live platform, or portable (platform type) elevator, or for replacement on any such equipment, or with any manufacturer or dealer for delivery of new hand trucks, semi-live platforms, portable (platform type) elevators, with rubber tires, or new rubber tires, or (2) new platform trucks, trailers or platforms with steel or iron platforms, or (3) new all steel or iron platforms, trailers or platform trucks, or (4) new steel supported platforms to carry loads in excess of 6,000 pounds, shall certify to his supplier on the purchase order or in an accompanying letter, as a condition to receiving such delivery, information in statements substantially as follows, respectively:

(i) The undersigned hereby certifies that he is familiar with General Limitation Order L-111, as heretofore amended, and that (state which):

The rubber tired hand trucks, dollies, semi-live platforms
The rubber tired portable (platform type) elevators
The rubber tires

hereby ordered are not available from inventory of the undersigned and are required for immediate use (state which):

To avoid breakage or damage to "green" foundry cores, unbaked enamelware, delicate instruments, or unbaked grinding wheels, in the transportation thereof.

To avoid explosions in the transportation of explosives not already packaged, encased, or otherwise prepared for storage, shipment, or transfer so as to eliminate the explosion hazard.

Where the use of other wheels, tires, or casters would create a definite explosion hazard as a result of the necessity of using the equipment in the same room with, or in other close proximity to materials subject to explosive reaction from sparks caused by static electricity, such as black powder, lead azide, igniter composition, tracer mixtures, primer mixtures, incendiary composition, vapors from combustible substances, or dust from explosives.

(showing which foregoing statements are applicable by omitting those which are not applicable); or

(ii) The undersigned hereby certifies that the steel or iron platform on the platform truck(s), trailer(s) or platform(s) hereby ordered is (are) necessary in meat packing or processing to comply with the regulations of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture.

or

(iii) The undersigned hereby certifies that the all-steel or iron platform(s) or platform truck(s) or trailer(s) hereby ordered is (are) necessary to handle hot metal parts, or that the load to be handled will exceed 10,000 pounds.

or

(iv) The undersigned hereby certifies that the steel supported platform(s) hereby ordered is (are) necessary to carry loads in excess of 6,000 pounds.

Such certification shall in every case be signed by the purchaser or an authorized official, either manually or as provided in Priorities Regulation No. 7.

No person shall make delivery under any such order if he knows, or has reason to believe, that the certificate is false; and no person shall falsely furnish any such certification. Such certification shall constitute a representation to the War Production Board, as well as to the supplier, that the statements therein are true. Any manufacturer or dealer may rely upon the information therein and shall not be responsible for any action taken by him under this order in reliance upon inaccurate or untrue statements therein, unless he knows or has reason to believe that such statements are inaccurate or untrue.

(f) Exemptions and exceptions. (1) The limitations and restrictions contained in subparagraphs (4) (ii), (iii) and (v) of paragraph (d) shall not apply to the use of iron or steel where necessary in equipment manufactured for use in meat packing or processing to comply with the regulations of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture, or for the transportation of hot forgings, castings, heat treated or other hot metal parts, or loads in excess of 10,000 pounds.

(2) The limitations and restrictions of subparagraphs (2) to (6) inclusive, of paragraph (d) of this order shall not apply:

(i) To the manufacture, delivery and acceptance of parts which are to be used for repair and maintenance only and which cannot be used for replacement on existing equipment in a practical manner if made in conformity with such specifications and restrictions;

(ii) To the manufacture, delivery and acceptance of parts which on April 23, 1943, had been fabricated or processed to the extent that any other use would be impractical;

(iii) To the manufacture, delivery and acceptance of any hand trucks or other handling equipment in the process of manufacture on April 23, 1943, and to be used in filling any order accepted by the manufacturer prior to said date;

(iv) Until 90 days after April 13, 1943, to the manufacture, delivery and acceptance of any hand trucks or other handling equipment to be delivered to, and for direct use of, the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission or War Shipping Administration, to the extent that any applicable specifications of any such organization require construction, design or materials not in accordance with the provisions of this order. As used in this paragraph, the terms "Army", "Navy", "Maritime Commission" and "War Shipping Administration" shall not include any privately operated plants or shipyards financed by or controlled by any of those organizations, or operated on a cost-plus-fixed-fee basis.

(g) Miscellaneous provisions—(1) Applicability of regulations. This order and all transactions affected thereby are subject to all applicable provisions of the regulations of the War Production Board, as issued and amended from time to time, except to the extent that any provision of this order may be inconsistent therewith, in which case the provision of this order shall govern.

(2) Records. All persons affected by this order shall keep and preserve for not less than two years accurate and complete records concerning inventories, purchases, production, and sales of hand trucks and other handling equipment.

All records required to be kept by this order shall, upon request, be submitted to audit and inspection by duly authorized representatives of the War Production Board.

(3) Reports. All persons affected by this order shall execute and file with the War Production Board such reports and questionnaires as said Board shall from time to time request.

(4) Violations. Any person who willfully violates any provision of this order, or who, in connection with this order, willfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, materials under priority control, and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(5) Appeals. Any appeal from the provisions of this order, or any direction thereunder, shall be made by filing a letter in triplicate, referring to the particular provision appealed from and stating fully the grounds of the appeal.

(6) Communications. All reports to be filed and other communications concerning this order should be addressed to: War Production Board, General Industrial Equipment Division, Washington, D. C., Ref.: L-111.

Issued this 13th day of April 1943.

PART 3208—CRITICAL COMMON COMPONENTS

[General Preference Order E-10]

ANTI-FRICTION BEARINGS

The fulfillment of requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply of anti-friction bearings for defense, for private account, and for export; and the following order is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense.

§ 3208.6 General Preference Order E-10—(a) Definitions. For the purpose of this order: (1) "Person" means any individual, partnership, association, business trust, corporation, governmental corporation or agency, or any organized group of individuals, whether incorporated or not.

(2) "Producer" means any person who is engaged in the manufacture of anti-friction bearings.

(3) "Anti-friction bearing" means any bearing employing as rolling elements balls of any size or rollers of any size or shape.

(4) "Production order" means

(i) Any purchase order or contract for one or more anti-friction bearings of any one size having a total purchase price of $500 or more, or

(ii) Any purchase order or contract for more than five hundred anti-friction bearings of any one size.

(5) "Miscellaneous order" means any purchase order or contract for anti-friction bearings other than production orders: Provided, however, That on person shall subdivide his purchase orders or contracts for anti-friction bearings for the purpose of coming within this definition.

(6) "Total quarterly production" means the total number of units of all types of anti-friction bearings to be manufactured by a producer in any given quarter.

(7) "Total monthly deliveries" means the total number of units of all types of anti-friction bearings to be delivered by a producer in any given month.

(8) "Continental United States" means the territory comprising the several States and the District of Columbia.

(b) Scheduling of total quarterly production. (1) Commencing with June 1, 1943, each producer shall schedule his total quarterly production of anti-friction bearings in such manner as to make available during such quarter 85% of such total quarterly production for delivery against production orders, and 15% of such total quarterly production for delivery against miscellaneous orders: Provided, however, That the percentages of total quarterly production allocated to production orders and miscellaneous orders, respectively, pursuant to this paragraph (b) (1) may be varied by any producer to the extent that such producer does not have sufficient unfilled purchase orders and estimated future orders not yet received, but reasonably to be anticipated within the next 90 days, to absorb one or the other of such percentage allocations.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of Priorities Regulation No. 1, any producer who shall schedule the production of a given size of anti-friction bearings to fill an order or orders therefor, delivery of which is required during any given quarter, may schedule the production of additional bearings of such size either

(i) When necessary to bring the quantity scheduled to a minimum practicable production run, or

(ii) To meet orders therefor not yet actually received but reasonably to be anticipated within the next 90 days: Provided, however, That in no event shall the additional quantity of bearings to be scheduled for production to meet such anticipated orders exceed the average quarterly quantity of such bearings sold by such producer during 1942.

(c) Operations reports and schedules to be filed. (1) All producers are required to submit reports of operations on Forms WPB–1314 and WPB–2387, in accordance with the instructions appearing thereon. From and after April 13, 1943, any producer, when specifically required to do so by the War Production Board, shall also file on such form as may be required, in accordance with instructions attached to such form, such producer's proposed schedule of production and delivery of anti-friction bearings for production orders, for such period or periods as may be required by the War Production Board, together with such other information in such form as may be required.

(2) In any proposed schedule of production and delivery of anti-friction bearings against production orders, filed pursuant to paragraph (c) (1) of this order, the sequence of production and deliveries shall be scheduled according to the terms of Priorities Regulation No. 1 and other applicable regulations of the War Production Board.

(d) Changes in schedules of production orders. Except as provided in paragraph (e) of this order, no producer who has been required to file his proposed schedule of production and delivery of anti-friction bearings for production orders pursuant to paragraph (c) of this order shall change such schedule of production and delivery as filed without specific permission of the War Production Board.

(e) Deletion and addition of purchase orders in schedules. (1) No producer who receives any instruction from any purchaser to withhold work on, or delivery under, any contract or purchase order for anti-friction bearings shall retain such contract or order in his schedule for more than ten days, regardless of whether or not such schedule shall have been filed pursuant to paragraph (c) of this order. Whenever any such contract or order has been deleted from such schedule, the producer shall immediately notify the purchaser of such action. No contract or order, which shall have been deleted from a producer's schedule pursuant to this paragraph (e) (1), shall be reinstated in the same or any subsequent schedule: Provided, however, That in the event the purchaser withdraws such instruction to withhold work on or delivery under any contract or purchase order, notice of such withdrawal may be treated by the producer as the placing of a new contract or purchase order for the same amount, type and size of anti-friction bearings as covered by the unfilled portion of the original contract or purchase order, and may be scheduled as such.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (d) of this order, in the event of any cancellation or deletion of any order from any producer's schedule of production orders as reported pursuant to paragraph (c) hereof, additional production orders may be inserted in such schedule to replace such cancelled or deleted orders. The position of any such additional order in such schedule shall be determined by its preference rating in accordance with the terms of Priorities Regulation No. 1 and other applicable regulations of the War Production Board: Provided, however, That in no event shall any production order so added to such schedule affect the delivery date of any other order already established in such schedule. Whenever, pursuant to this paragraph (e) (2), any production order has been added to any schedule of production orders previously reported pursuant to paragraph (c) hereof, the producer shall immediately notify the War Production Board.

(f) Allocation of deliveries against production orders and miscellaneous orders. On and after June 1, 1943, each producer shall allocate 85% of his total monthly deliveries to production orders and 15% of his total monthly deliveries to miscellaneous orders; Provided, however, That the percentage of total monthly deliveries allocated to production orders and miscellaneous orders, respectively, by this paragraph (f), may be varied by any producer to the extent that such producer does not have sufficient unfilled purchase orders to absorb one or the other of such percentage allocations.

The sequence of deliveries against production orders and miscellaneous orders within the respective percentage limitations on such deliveries imposed by this paragraph (f) shall be scheduled according to the terms of Priorities Regulation No. 1 and other applicable regulations of the War Production Board.

(g) Necessity for the preference ratings. On and after June 1, 1943, no producer shall accept any purchase order or contract for anti-friction bearings unless such order or contract bears a preference rating of A–10 or higher, except that deliveries of anti-friction bearings produced in accordance with the provisions of Limitation Order L–158 or L–170, shall not be subject to this restriction.

(h) Limitation on inventories. No person shall accept delivery of any anti-friction bearings of any type and size if his inventory of such type and size of bearings is, or will, by virtue of such acceptance, become greater than the quantity of such item he will be required by his current practices to put into use during the succeeding sixty-day period for production, construction, operating supplies, or maintenance, or repair, or greater than a minimum practicable working inventory thereof, whichever is smaller; Provided, however, That the deliveries of anti-friction bearings pursuant to the following designated types of purchase orders shall be permitted to effect such an increase:

(1) Purchase orders placed by any procurement agency of the United States pursuant to the Act of March 11, 1941, entitled, "An Act to Promote the Defense of the United States" (Lend-Lease Act).

(2) Purchase orders placed by the Army, Navy, or Maritime Commission for anti-friction bearings required for bases or supply depots outside the continental United States, or for bases or supply depots within the continental United States which are maintained for emergency purposes, or to supply such bases or supply depots outside the continental United States.

(3) Purchase orders placed by distributors for anti-friction bearings, which are intended to be used as replacement parts, as defined by paragraph (b) (1) of Limitation Order L–158: Provided, That in no event shall such distributor's inventory of such bearings exceed the quantities specified in paragraph (h) of Limitation Order L–158.

(4) Any other purchase order specifically excepted from this restriction by the War Production Board.

(i) End use classification. (1) No producer shall schedule any purchase order or contract received after June 1, 1943, for production or delivery unless it contains

(i) An endorsement placed thereon by the purchaser pursuant to CMP Regulation No. 5 or 5A, or

(ii) The purchaser's allotment number placed thereon by the purchaser pursuant to CMP Regulation No. 3, or

(iii) In the case of Lend-Lease purchase orders or contracts, a statement of the foreign country for which the anti-friction bearings are purchased, or

(iv) In the case of any other purchase order or contract, if no allotment number or symbol has been assigned, a statement of the product into which such bearings are intended to be incorporated, if known to the purchaser.

(2) Producers are not required to secure any identification of end use with respect to any order placed prior to June 1, 1943, but may be required to report the product into which such bearings are intended to be incorporated, if known to the producer.

(3) Except in the case of Lend-Lease orders, no producer shall schedule the production or delivery of any contract or purchase order received after June 1, 1943, for more than five thousand anti-friction bearings, unless it is accompanied by a statement of the percentage of such bearings, if any, which are spares. Spares are those bearings which the purchaser does not build into the end product being produced by him, but which are delivered by such purchaser as extra bearings.

(j) Changes in schedules. Notwithstanding any other provision of this order, the War Production Board may direct or change any schedule of production or delivery of anti-friction bearings or component parts thereof, allocate any order for anti-friction bearings or component parts thereof to any other producer of anti-friction bearings or component parts thereof, or direct the delivery of any anti-friction bearings or component parts thereof, to any other person in accordance with prices and terms regularly established for sales by the supplying producer to such a purchaser.

(k) Applicability of other orders and regulations. This order is supplementary to the provisions of General Preference Order M–293 with respect to anti-friction bearings. Nothing contained in this order shall be deemed to constitute a revocation of any of the provisions of General Preference Order M–293.

All transactions affected by this order are subject to applicable provisions of the regulations of the War Production Board, as amended from time to time, except to the extent that any provision hereof may be inconsistent therewith, in which case, the provisions of this order shall govern.

(l) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order, or who, in connection with this order, wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States, is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, material under priorities control, and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(m) Reports. All producers affected by this order shall execute and file with the War Production Board such reports and questionnaires as the War Production Board shall from time to time prescribe.

(n) Appeals. Any appeal from the provisions of this order shall be made by filing a letter, in triplicate, referring to the particular provision appealed from, and stating fully the grounds of the appeal.

(o) Communications. All reports to be filed, appeals and other communications concerning this order, should be addressed to: War Production Board, Tools Division, Washington, D. C. Ref: E–10.

PART 1364—FRESH, CURED AND CANNED MEAT AND FISH

[Rev. MPR 169,[1] Amendment 6]

BEEF AND VEAL CARCASSES AND WHOLESALE CUTS

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.*

Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 169 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1364.401 (d) is amended to read as follows:

§ 1364.401 Prohibition against selling beef and veal carcasses and wholesale cuts, and processed products at prices above the maximum. • • •

(d) Maximum prices for slaughtering services. Any person who slaughters cattle or calves as a service for the purchaser of such cattle or calves shall remit to such purchaser an amount sufficient to make the cost of the dressed beef or veal carcass or of the wholesale cuts derived therefrom, to such purchaser, equal to or less than the costs which would be incurred by the purchaser, if he purchased the carcass or cuts from the slaughterer at the slaughterer's maximum price therefor: Provided, That this requirement shall not apply in cases where the purchaser does not acquire the carcasses or cuts for resale in any form: Provided further, That this requirement shall not apply with respect to the slaughter of cattle or calves for a purchaser who resells the meat derived therefrom other than at retail in those cases where the following circumstances exist and the slaughterer and purchaser have filed with the appropriate district, state, or regional office of the Office of Price Administration, evidence based upon regular business records showing that: (1) the slaughterer during the period January 1941 to March 1942, inclusive, (i) did not sell any beef or veal carcasses or wholesale cuts and (ii) regularly slaughtered cattle or calves for such purchaser on a continuing contractual basis; and (2) during such period the purchaser (i) did not himself slaughter cattle or calves and (ii) procured at least 75 percent of the beef or veal sold by him from cattle or calves slaughtered for him by such slaughterer: Provided further, That on or after March 25, 1943, this requirement shall not apply in cases where the cattle or calves slaughtered are certified to be club cattle or calves within the meaning of this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 169, as amended, and the supervisor, club agent, agricultural county agent or vocational agricultural project teacher as the case may be, has filed a sworn certificate to the effect with the appropriate district, state, or regional office of the Office of Price Administration or any duly authorized representative thereof. Carcasses derived therefrom must be graded and grade marked in accordance with the grade specifications and grade marking requirements contained in this Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 169.

To enable the slaughterer to determine the amount to be remitted to the purchaser, it shall be the duty of such purchaser to advise the slaughterer of the amount paid for the cattle or calves slaughtered.

2. Section 1364.410 (c) is added to read as follows:

(c) The Office of Price Administration, may, by order, adjust the maximum price established by §§ 1364.451 and 1364.452 or §§ 1364.466 and 1364.467 for the sale by a seller of kosher beef or veal to a buyer of kosher meat, in any case in which such seller shows:

(1) That the seller during the year preceding March, 1942, was regularly engaged in the kosher slaughtering of beef or veal and selling such beef or veal to buyers of kosher meat within the market area in which his plant is located; and the proportion of kosher slaughter to total slaughter, by months;

(2) That only a portion of his slaughter is kosher slaughter, and that, as a result thereof, the costs of kosher slaughter performed by him exceed the costs of other slaughter by an amount greater than the amount allowed in the applicable zone price for kosher beef or veal;

(3) That the seller has customarily obtained for his kosher beef or veal a premium greater than that contained in the applicable zone prices for kosher and other beef or veal.

Upon proof of the foregoing facts, the maximum price of the seller may be adjusted to provide for the actual additional cost of kosher slaughter. The seller shall be required to submit monthly reports of the number of pounds of kosher and non-kosher beef or veal slaughtered and delivered by him, and the maximum price shall be reduced if it appears to the Administrator that such price is causing or threatening to cause an increase in the proportion of kosher slaughter.

3. Section 1364.411 (c) (3) is redesignated § 1364.411 (c) (3) (i).

4. Section 1364.411 (c) (3) (ii) is added to read as follows:

(ii) If the slaughterer is a farm slaughterer or if he is primarily the resident operator of a farm engaging only casually, and not as a business, in slaughtering cattle or calves as a service for others, he shall not be required to have the cattle or calves slaughtered by him graded by an official grader of the United States Department of Agriculture. Such beef or veal as is sold by such slaughterer, or is slaughtered by him as a service for sale by others, shall be graded by him in accordance with the requirements of paragraphs (a), (b), (c) (1) and (c) (2) of this § 1364.411. "Farm slaughterer" as used in this subparagraph (c) (3) (ii) means a person chiefly engaged in producing agricultural products as the resident operator of a farm who did not deliver meat in 1941 of a live weight of more than 10,000 pounds and whose current slaughter is not in excess of that permitted such slaughterers under Food Distribution Order No. 27[2] or any superseding order.

5. Section 1364.451 (a) (4) is amended to read as follows:

(a) Pricing instructions. • • •

(4) Except as permitted in paragraph (l), (m), (n), (o) or (p) of Schedule I (§ 1364.452), regardless of any contract, agreement or other obligation, no person shall sell or deliver any beef or any part or portion of any beef carcass and no person in the course of trade or business shall buy or receive any beef or any part or portion of any beef carcass unless such beef or part or portion is a beef carcass or a beef wholesale cut as defined in § 1364.455, for which applicable prices have been established.

6. Section 1364.451 (a) (5) is added to read as follows:

(5) On and after April 14, 1943, regardless of any contract, agreement or other obligation, no person shall sell or deliver any ground, chopped or comminuted meat containing any proportion of beef or any miscellaneous beef item and no person in the course of trade or business shall buy or receive any ground, chopped or comminuted meat containing any proportion of beef or any miscellaneous beef item unless such ground, chopped or comminuted meat is ground beef and such miscellaneous beef item is a miscellaneous beef item as defined in § 1364.452 (p), for which applicable prices have been established.

higher than minus 10° Fahrenheit, and the maintenance of the product in a thoroughly frozen condition until delivered to the buyer's place of business.

(f) "Miscellaneous beef item" means and is limited to any of the following items meeting the following minimum specifications:

(i) Full trimmed beef tenderloin. "Full beef tenderloin" means the cutter and carver grade tenderloin muscle with the attached side strip muscle lying inside the full loin, cut and trimmed as herein required. The tenderloin shall be removed from the full loin by cutting along the inside of the chine bone following the conformation of this bone from the tip of the loin or at the point where the 13th rib joins the 13th thoracic vertebra to the end of the chine bone or vertebra and by a cut at the butt end at a point adjacent to the 5th sacral vertebra and by a cut at the butt end of the tenderloin which shall be made along the hip bone following the natural seam (or blue seam) in the sirloin end of loin. Full trimmed beef tenderloin shall be void of any head muscle and all the excess fat shall be removed from the back of the tenderloin so as to expose the gland which lies about 6 inches forward from the butt end of the tenderloin. All the fat lying beyond the exposed gland shall be tapered down to a point that in no case shall extend beyond three quarters of the length of the entire tenderloin.

(ii) Corned boneless brisket (deckle on). "Corned boneless brisket" means that part of the trimmed brisket which has been cured after all the bones, and intercostal meat have been removed. The fat along the sternum edge of the corned brisket shall not exceed ½ inch, and all rough fat and ragged pieces of meat from both bone and skin side of boneless brisket shall be removed. The web muscle (full lip) shall be left attached with the thin tissue edge trimmed to expose the narrow portion of lean meat. The cured weight of corned boneless brisket shall not exceed the green weight by more than 10%.

(iii) Corned boneless brisket (deckle off). "Corned boneless brisket (deckle off)" means corned boneless brisket with the deckle removed. The deckle means the thin top layer of fat meat and tissue lying in the breast bone (sternum) side of the brisket.

(iv) Corned boneless short plate. "Corned boneless short plate" means that part of the trimmed short plate which has been cured after the skirt (diaphragm), skirt fat and all bones have been removed. The fell shall be stripped from the flank side of the plate and all fat exceeding ½ inch shall be removed. The cured weight of corned boneless brisket shall not exceed the green weight by more than 10%.

(v) Cured beef hams (insides, outsides, knuckles). "Cured beef hams (inside, outside, knuckle)", means the cured three natural muscle pieces into which the round is separated after the rump, shank and femur bone (round bone) have been removed.

The "knuckle" shall be separated by cutting through the natural muscle seam between the knuckle and outside muscle on the one side, and the knuckle and the inside muscle on the other side leaving one and one half inches of the wedge shaped piece of the meat from the overlapping inside muscle attached to the knuckle. The patella (or knee cap bone) may be left on the knuckle.

The "inside" and "outside" pieces shall be separated by a cut starting at the termination of the gambrel cord separating the shank end portion equally between the inside and outside, and continuing in a straight line to a point on the rump end which is just barely on the outside edge of the large muscle seam that is visible at this end. The gland which lies in the center between the inside and outside muscles shall be cut through so as to leave a portion of this gland in both muscles. All cod or udder fat and all other fat in excess of ⅛ of an inch shall be removed. The cured weight of beef hams shall not exceed the green weight by more than 10%.

(vi) Corned short plate (bone in). "Corned short plate means a cured short plate with all the diaphragm (skirt) and diaphragm (skirt fat) and all loose trimmings removed. The cured weight shall not exceed the green weight by more than 6%.

(vii) Dried beef (insides, outsides, knuckles). "Dried beef (insides, outsides, knuckles)" means cured insides, outsides or knuckles of the beef ham, which have the moisture content reduced so that the resulting weight is not in excess of 65% of the green weight, but in no event shall the moisture content exceed 2.5 times the protein content.

12. Section 1364.455 (a) (18) is added to read as follows:

(18) "Club cattle or calves" means any cattle or calves which have been bred, raised and fed, or fed only, by a member of a 4-H or F. F. A. club under the supervision of the Extension Service of the United States, or by an individual participating in a vocational agricultural project under the supervision of a vocational agricultural teacher in any recognized Vocational Agricultural Department, and which have been certified in writing to conform to the provisions hereof by the supervisor, club agent, agricultural county agent or vocational agricultural project teacher under whose supervision such cattle or calves were bred, raised or fed.

13. Section 1364.477 (a) (3) is amended to read as follows:

(3) "Processed products" means cured, pickled, spiced, smoked, dried or otherwise processed beef and/or veal, including sausage containing any proportion of beef or veal: Provided, That any beef carcass, or cut thereof, including any beef wholesale cut which has been boned as permitted in Subpart B of this Revised Regulation or otherwise, or any veal carcass, or cut thereof, including any veal wholesale cut which has been boned as permitted in Subpart C of this Revised Regulation or otherwise, or any miscellaneous beef item defined in § 1364.452 (p) or product of the same type or similar thereto shall not be deemed a processed product. Products of each grade and brand and in each stage of processing, shall be considered separate processed products. PART 1364—FRESH, CURED, AND CANNED MEAT AND FISH PRODUCTS

FRESH TUNA FISH

In the judgment of the Price Administrator, it is necessary in order to effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and Executive Order No. 9250, that maximum prices be established for the sale by producers of fresh tuna fish.

So far as practicable, the Price Administrator has consulted and advised with representative members of the industry which will be affected by the regulation. In the judgment of the Price Administrator, the prices established are generally fair and equitable and will effectuate the purposes of the act. The prices established are not below the average price of fresh tuna fish in the year 1941.

A statement of considerations involved in the issuance of the regulation has been issued herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.*

DISTRICT BOARD 23

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER GRANTING TEMPORARY RELIEF

In the matter of the petition of District Board No. 23 for the establishment of price classifications and minimum prices for mines in Subdistrict "D", District No. 23.

An original petition, pursuant to section 4 II (d) of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, has been duly filed with this Division by the above-named party, requesting the establishment, both temporary and permanent, of price classifications and minimum prices for the coals produced at all mines in Subdistrict "D" in District No. 23 for rail and truck shipments.

No petitions of intervention have been filed with the Division in the above-entitled matter.

After due consideration it appears that an adequate showing of necessity has been made for the granting of temporary relief as hereinafter set forth. It appears further, however, that the original petition does not allege sufficient facts for establishing permanent price classifications or minimum prices as requested, without a hearing.

Now, therefore, it is ordered, That, pending further order of the Director, temporary relief be, and the same hereby is, granted as follows: Commencing forthwith, the Schedule of Effective Minimum Prices for District No. 23 for All Shipments is supplemented to include the price classifications and minimum prices set forth in the Schedule marked Supplement R and T annexed hereto and hereby made a part hereof.

It is further ordered, That pleadings in opposition to the original petition in the above-entitled matter and applications to stay, terminate or modify the temporary relief herein granted may be filed with the Division, pursuant to the Rules and Regulations Governing Practice and Procedure before the Bituminous Coal Division in Proceedings Instituted Pursuant to section 4 II (d) of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937.

An order scheduling a hearing to adduce facts upon which final relief may be based in this matter will be issued in due course.

Dated: April 7, 1943.

RIO GRANDE COAL CO.

NOTICE OF FILING OF APPLICATION, ETC.

In the matter of E. K. Olson, W. F. Olson, Francis Bradley and Mrs. George M. Hansen, individually and as partners, doing business under the name and style of Rio Grande Coal Company, code member.

Notice of filing of application, as amended, for disposition of compliance proceeding without formal hearing, pursuant to § 301.132 of the rules of practice and procedure before the bituminous coal division.

Notice is hereby given that an application dated March 2, 1943 (the application), for the disposition of this proceeding without formal hearing was filed with the Bituminous Coal Division (the Division) on March 8, 1943, pursuant to § 301.132 of the Rules of Practice and Procedure before the Division, by E. K. Olson, W. F. Olson, Francis Bradley and Mrs. George M. Hansen, individually and as partners, doing business under the name and style of Rio Grande Coal Company, a Code Member (the Code Member), and that an amendment dated March 12, 1943, to the application was filed with the Division on March 17, 1943.

The application as amended was filed with respect to a Notice of and Order for Hearing dated February 19, 1943, issued pursuant to the provisions of section 6 (a) and other pertinent provisions of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937 (the Act) for the purpose of determining whether the Code Member had violated the Act, the Bituminous Coal Code (the Code) and the rules and regulations issued thereunder in the respects set forth in said Notice of and Order for Hearing.

In the application, as amended, the code member:

1. Admits that it wilfully violated section 4 II (e) and (g) of the Act and Part II (e) and (g) of the Code, by selling during the period January 20, 1941, to March 31, 1941, both dates inclusive, approximately 1,446.97 net tons of 3" lump coal, Size Group 3, produced at its Rio Grande Mine, Mine Index No. 18, to the War Department, United States Government, at delivered prices ranging from $4.25 to $9.00 per net ton, which prices were less than the effective minimum f. o. b. mine price of $3.24 per net ton established therefor, plus an amount at least equal, as nearly as practicable, to the actual transportation, handling and incidental charges for delivery of said coal from the mine to the points of delivery to the said purchaser.

2. Admits that it wilfully violated section 4 II (e) and (g) of the Act and Part II (e) and (g) of the Code, by selling during the period January 20, 1941 to March 31, 1941, both dates inclusive, approximately 550.16 net tons of 3" lump coal, Size Group 3, to the War Department, United States Government at delivered prices ranging from $4.75 to $6.00 per net ton, which prices were less than the effective minimum f. o. b. mine price of $3.34 per net ton, established for said coal, plus an amount at least equal, as nearly as practicable, to the actual transportation, handling, and incidental charges for delivery of said coal from the originating mine to the point of delivery to said purchaser; that said coal was purchased from one Carl Nyman, a code member who produced it at his National Mine, Mine Index No. 179.

3. Admits that it wilfully violated Order No. 14 of the National Bituminous Coal Commission, dated July 15, 1937, which was adopted by Order of the Division dated July 1, 1939, and Rule 7 of section VI of the Marketing Rules and Regulations of the Division, by failing to file with the Statistical Bureau for District 20 a copy of the contract for the sale of the coal referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2, hereof.

4. Admits that it wilfully violated Rules 1 and 2 of section VIII of the Marketing Rules and Regulations of the Division by failing to file with the Statistical Bureau for District 20 a report of the analysis of the coal referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 hereof as required by said Rules.

5. States that to the best of its knowledge and belief it has not committed any other violations of the Act, the Code, or regulations thereunder.

6. Consents, upon the basis of the above-mentioned admitted violations, to the entry of an order cancelling and revoking its code membership, or to the entry of an order directing it to cease and desist from further violations, or to the entry of an order cancelling and revoking its code membership and also enjoining it from violations of the Code and regulations thereunder upon any restoration of it to code membership.

7. Agrees to pay a tax to be determined by the Division upon the basis of the above-admitted violations as a condition precedent to restoration of its membership in the Code.

8. Represents as extenuating circumstances that it made bids on a large number of advertisements for offers to sell coal to the said War Department with the expectation of being awarded only a few of the contracts for which bids were made, but that it was awarded by the War Department an unexpectedly large number of contracts for sale and delivery, which contracts the code member could not fulfill without purchasing coal in addition to that produced at its own mine and without employing independent truck operators to transport such coal at a transportation charge higher than that estimated by the code member in making such bids; and that, accordingly, the foregoing admitted violations were not premeditated.

All interested parties desiring to do so may within fifteen (15) days from the date of this notice file with the Division recommendations or requests for informal conferences in respect to such application, as amended.

Dated: April 10, 1943.

DISTRICT BOARD 8

ORDER DENYING TEMPORARY RELIEF

In the matter of the petition of District Board No. 8 for the establishment of price classifications and minimum prices, and for changes in shipping points and freight origin group nos. for the coals of certain mines in District No. 8.

An application to modify order granting temporary relief and motion for final relief in accordance therewith having been duly filed with this Division by the above named party, requesting that the order dated February 13, 1943, 8 F.R. 2963, granting temporary relief and conditionally providing for final relief issued in this docket be modified by accepting for filing on April 1, 1943 the application to modify the temporary relief therein granted, although filed subsequent to forty-five (45) days from the date of such order, and that the Schedules of Effective Minimum Prices for District No. 8 for All Shipments Except Truck be supplemented by including therein a provision in substance as follows:

Size Group 16 coals produced by L. A. Wilson (Wilson Coal Company) from Shrewsbury mine, Mine Index No. 575, may be sold to Cedar Grove Collieries, Inc., for loading into barges or other floating equipment (either as Size Group 16 coals or as screen into other sizes) at the tipple of Cedar Grove Collieries, Inc., located at Cedar Grove, West Virginia, in mixture with coals produced by Cedar Grove Collieries, Inc., from Cedar Grove mine, Mine Index No. 96, at not less than the minimum price applicable to the sale of Size Group 16 coals produced by Cedar Grove Collieries, Inc., from said Cedar Grove mine for free alongside deliveries; and Cedar Grove Collieries, Inc., may resell such coals purchased from L. A. Wilson (Wilson Coal Company) and loaded into barges or other floating equipment (either as Size Group 16 coals or as screened into other sizes) at the said tipple at not less than the minimum prices applicable to the same shipment of coals of the same size produced by it from Cedar Grove mine, Mine Index No. 96, to the same effect in all respects as if such coals purchased from L. A. Wilson (Wilson Coal Company) were produced from Cedar Grove mine.

It appearing that a reasonable showing of necessity has not been made for the granting of temporary relief and that the application does not set forth sufficient facts to warrant the granting of temporary or final relief requested without a hearing;

Now, therefore, it is ordered, That temporary relief requested by petitioner be, and the same hereby is, denied.

DISTRICT BOARD 15

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER SEVERING DOCKET, ETC.

In the matter of the petition of District Board No. 15 for the establishment of price classifications and minimum prices for the coals of certain mines in District No. 15.

In the matter of the petition of District Board No. 15 for the establishment of price classifications and minimum prices for the coals of the Little Jim Mine.

Memorandum opinion and order severing Docket No. A-1889 Part II from Docket No. A-1889 and granting temporary relief in Docket No. A-1889 Part II.

The original petition in the above-entitled matter was filed with the Division on February 26, 1943, pursuant to section 4 II (d) of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, requesting the establishment, both temporary and permanent, of price classifications and minimum prices for the coals of certain mines in District No. 15. Petitioner requests that no permanent price classifications or minimum prices be established for the coals of the Little Jim Mine (Mine Index No. 1667), located in Putnam County, Missouri, pending the entry of a final order in Docket No. A-179.

Petitioner alleges that the coals produced from the Little Jim Mine are analogous to the coals produced from other mines in Putnam County, Missouri, and, in view of the fact that the latter coals are presently subject to temporary minimum prices established in Docket No. A-179, requests that no permanent price classifications and minimum prices be established for the coals of the Little Jim Mine pending a final determination in that matter.

It appears that a reasonable showing of necessity has been made for the granting of the relief prayed for by petitioner. However, in view of the fact that petitioner requests only the temporary establishment of price classifications and minimum prices for the coals of the Little Jim Mine, it is deemed advisable to sever that portion of Docket No. A-1889 relating to such coals from the remainder of the docket and to designate the severed portion as Docket No. A-1889 Part II.

Now, therefore, it is ordered, That that portion of Docket No. A-1889 relating to the coals of the Little Jim Mine (Mine Index No. 1667) of Jim and Harry Gadberry, in Putnam County, Missouri, Production Group 3 in District No. 15 be, and it hereby is, severed from the remainder of that docket and designated Docket No. A-1889 Part II.

It is further ordered, That pending final disposition of Docket No. A-1889 Part II, temporary relief is granted as follows: Commencing forthwith the Schedule of Effective Minimum Prices for District No. 15 for Truck Shipments is supplemented to include the price classifications and minimum prices set forth below for the coals of the Little Jim Mine, Mine Index No. 1667, of Jim and Harry Gadberry, for shipment by truck to all market areas.

2. Finding that Friedrich Merz, whose last known address was Frankfurt a/Main, Germany, is a national of a designated enemy country (Germany);

3. Finding that Adolf Schickert is a subject of Germany and is presently interned in the United States and therefore is a national of a designated enemy country (Germany);

4. Finding that 100 shares of no par value common capital stock, represented by Certificate #2, of Merz & Co. Chemical Works, Inc., a New York corporation, Newark, New Jersey, are registered in the name of George Merz and beneficially owned by Friedrich Merz;

5. Finding that Merz & Co. Chemical Works, Inc. is a business enterprise within the United States and that said 100 shares constitute all of the outstanding capital stock of said business enterprise and are evidence of ownership and control thereof;

6. Determining, therefore, that said business enterprise is controlled by said Friedrich Merz and is a national of a designated enemy country (Germany);

7. Finding that the property described as follows:

The interest of Friedrich Merz in the bankrupt estate of Merz & Co. Chemical Works, Inc. as represented by 100 shares of common capital stock registered in the name of George Merz, is an interest in the aforesaid business enterprise held by a national of a designated enemy country (Germany);

8. Finding that said Merz & Co. Chemical Works, Inc. is presently being liquidated by a referee in bankruptcy pursuant to a voluntary petition in bankruptcy dated October 9, 1941, under the supervision of the United States District Court, District of New Jersey, located at Newark, New Jersey;

11. Determining that to the extent that such nationals are persons not within a designated enemy country, the national interest of the United States requires that such person be treated as a national of the aforesaid designated enemy country (Germany);

12. Having made all determinations and taken all action, after appropriate consultation and certification, required by said Executive Order or Act or otherwise; and hereby vests in the Alien Property Custodian the aforesaid stock Certificate #2 and the property described in subparagraphs 7 and 10 hereof, to be held, used, administered, liquidated, sold or otherwise dealt with in the interest of and for the benefit of the United States.

Such property, and any or all of the proceeds thereof, shall be held in an appropriate special account or accounts, pending further determination of the Alien Property Custodian. This shall not be deemed to limit the powers of the Alien Property Custodian to return such property or the proceeds thereof, or to indicate that compensation will not be paid in lieu thereof, if and when it should be determined that such return should be made or such compensation should be paid.

Any person, except a national of a designated enemy country, asserting any claim arising as a result of this order may file with the Alien Property Custodian a notice of his claim, together with a request for a hearing thereon, on Form APC-1, within one year from the date hereof, or within such further time as may be allowed by the Alien Property Custodian. [Order 256 Under MPR 188]

EASTMAN KODAK CO.

APPROVAL OF MAXIMUM PRICES

Order No. 256 under § 1499.158 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188[1]—Manufacturers' Maximum Prices for Specified Building Materials and Consumers' Goods Other Than Apparel.

Maximum prices for sales of certain photographic and optical equipment by Eastman Kodak Company to the United States or Allied Governments and war industries.

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and under the authority vested in the Price Administrator by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and Executive Order No. 9250, It is ordered:

(a) Scope of order. This order provides the formula to be used by Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, New York, in calculating its maximum prices for sales only to the United States or Allied Governments and to war industries of certain articles which cannot be priced under §§ 1499.155 to 1499.157, inclusive, of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, or which cannot be priced under those sections without undue hardship. This order applies only to cameras, photographic apparatus and mechanical equipment, microphile equipment, sundries, lenses, filters, and other optics and mechanical x-ray equipment manufactured by Eastman Kodak Company.

(b) Pricing formula. The maximum price for each article covered by this order shall be calculated as follows:

(1) Computation of unit direct cost. The company shall compute the cost per unit for direct labor and material on the basis of the following wage rates, material prices, and operating conditions:

(i) Wage rates. The wage rates used shall be the highest wage rates in effect in the company's plant for any substantial portion of March 1942 for each class of labor involved in the production of the article.

(ii) Material prices. The price of any material used in the article being priced shall be the highest price charged during March 1942 (as defined in § 1499.163 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188) by the company's supplier; except that if the Office of Price Administration has established a lower maximum price for the sale of the material to the company by its supplier, such lower price shall govern. The "company's supplier" shall be its March 1942 supplier of the material or, lacking a March 1942 supplier of the material, its most recent supplier of the material. If neither of these exists, it shall be its potential supplier.

(iii) Operating conditions. Using the wage rates and material prices determined under (i) and (ii), the company shall compute the cost per unit of direct labor and materials according to the methods customarily employed by it in computing its cost, on the basis of production techniques employed in its plant at the time of mailing the report required by paragraph (c) of this order and on the basis of the volume of production it reasonably expects.

(2) Factory burden. Factory burden shall be calculated by applying to direct labor the rates experienced for the first 24 weeks of 1942, as stated in the company's letter of February 15, 1943, to the Office of Price Administration. Total factory cost shall then be computed by adding factory burden to the unit direct cost.

(3) Administrative expenses. Administrative expenses shall be calculated by applying to total factory cost the rates experienced by the company for the first 24 weeks of 1942, as stated in the company's letter of February 15, 1943, to the Office of Price Administration. Total cost shall then be computed by adding administrative expenses to total factory cost.

(4) Final mark-up. Final mark-up shall be calculated by applying to the above total cost the average percentage mark-up for the first 24 weeks of 1942 on comparable types of business with the United States Government and war industries, as stated in the company's letter of February 15, 1943, to the Office of Price Administration.

(5) Special costs. Estimated special costs will be amortized over the order or quoted separately, and re-orders will be priced accordingly, depending upon whether or not the company has been reimbursed for the special costs. "Special costs" include the following expenses: training, design, layout, development, and engineering. No mark-up shall be taken on these costs.

The maximum price shall then be calculated by adding the final mark-up and the special costs to the total cost.

(c) Reports. In the case of an article for which a maximum price must be determined under this order, the company may at any time offer for sale, sell, or deliver the article at a tentative price, if it informs the purchaser that the maximum price must be determined under this order. In such case it must refund any amount collected in excess of the price so determined. Ten days after the formation of the contract the company shall submit a report of the maximum price as computed by it to the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C. The report shall contain a description of the article being priced, an explanation of the computation of the cost and the maximum price, and a statement of the facts which make it necessary to price the article under this order. Fifteen days after the mailing of the report, in the absence of a notification to the contrary from the Office of Price Administration, the reported maximum price shall stand approved. Such approved price shall be subject to adjustment (not to apply retroactively) at any time by order of the Office of Price Administration.

(d) Unless the context otherwise requires, the definitions contained in § 1499.163 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 shall apply to all terms used herein.

(e) This order may be revoked or amended by the Price Administrator at any time.

This order shall become effective April 12, 1943.

PRENTISS M. BROWN, Administrator.

Chapter IV—Home Owners' Loan Corporation

[Bulletin 188]

INSURANCE

Sections 402.25 (a)[1], 402.25-1 to 402.25-16 inclusive, and 402.25-18 are amended to read as follows:

§ 402.25 Insurance. (a) All properties securing indebtedness to the Corporation must be insured against loss by fire as provided herein. Windstorm or other insurance may also be required and procured in certain localities as the General Manager may direct.

The General Manager may accept insurance policies furnished by home owners when the following requirements are complied with:

(1) The insurance is written by an insurance company, association or organization, licensed to do business in a particular state or territory, or specifically authorized by state law to transact business within the state or territory where the property is located, and whose policy contract and forms are acceptable to the General Manager.

[1] 6 F.R. 5631; 7 F.R. 1080, 7 F.R. 1761

(2) In cases of home owners having a Tax and Insurance account or at the time of sale, of purchasers of Corporation-owned property, the insurance is written for a term of not less than three years, accompanied by a receipt for payment of premium in full.

Exceptions may be made and policies for a term of less than three years may be accepted in the following instances:

(i) Where the period required for payment of the indebtedness to the Corporation is less than three years;

(ii) If insurance on the property cannot be obtained for a term of three years from the insuring company or association issuing the policy;

(iii) In cases where no savings in premium cost would result from payment in advance for a term of three years;

(iv) Insurance, otherwise acceptable, is written by an assessment mutual insurance company on an annual assessment basis;

(v) Where policies written for not less than three years, when accompanied by a receipt for the first year's premiums, provide for annual endorsement renewal at reduced premium cost to the home owner.

(3) The minimum amount of the fire insurance is as follows, if not prohibited by the mortgage covenant:

(i) If the amount of the present indebtedness is more than the depreciated replacement value, full insurance to the depreciated replacement value shall be required on all buildings valued at $200 and over.

(ii) If the amount of the present indebtedness is more than the depreciated replacement value of the main dwelling but less than the depreciated replacement value of all insurable improvements, insurance in the amount of 100% shall be required on the main dwelling and in addition, sufficient insurance shall be required on the remaining buildings in an amount necessary to bring the total amount of insurance to the present indebtedness.

(iii) If the amount of the present indebtedness is equal to or less than the depreciated replacement value of the main dwelling, insurance shall be required on the main dwelling in an amount equal to the present indebtedness. If the other buildings or improvements are essential economically as a means of liquidating the loan or sales account and produce a reasonable portion or all of the home owner's income, either as a rental property or commercial interest of the home owner, then, upon the recommendation of the Insurance Section, the Regional Manager, in his discretion, also may require on the said other buildings such amounts of insurance as circumstances warrant.

(4) The amount of windstorm or other insurance is not less than the Corporation's requirements as determined by the General Manager.

(5) Co-insurance or similar clauses, when applicable, are complied with and the amount of insurance necessary to avoid penalty is furnished.

(6) If "extended coverage" or "supplemental coverage" is submitted by the home owner, all insurance coverage is made concurrent.

If the closing of a sale is authorized by the General Manager, notwithstanding the purchaser fails to provide insurance as required, or if the home owner fails to, or does not otherwise provide required renewal or other insurance, or, if for any reason the policy is canceled and the home owner fails to provide an acceptable insurance contract in lieu thereof, the General Manager shall direct that insurance be ordered by the Corporation through carrier under contract as follows:

(i) In cases of home owners who have not established a Tax and Insurance account, the Corporation's requirements shall be those indicated in subparagraphs (3), (4) and (5) above.

(ii) In cases of home owners having a Tax and Insurance account in which accruals for insurance have been established and not suspended, the requirements shall be those indicated in subparagraphs (3), (4) and (5) above, except that when ordering renewals the amount of indebtedness shall be considered to be the loan balance at the time accruals were established for the purchase of insurance.

(iii) In cases of home owners who have established a Tax and Insurance account but who have not accumulated any funds for the purchase of insurance due to suspension of accruals for insurance, the requirements shall be those indicated in subparagraphs (3), (4) and (5) above. The amount of indebtedness shall be considered to be the loan balance at the time the insurance is ordered by the Corporation. In these cases the Tax and Insurance account accrual for insurance shall be re-established.

(iv) All insurance ordered by the Corporation shall be for a term of three years, except in cases where no savings in premium cost would result from payment in advance for a term of three years or unless otherwise directed by the General Manager.

No funds accumulated in the Tax and Insurance Accounts shall be used to pay any agent or insurance company for policies ordered by the home owner direct.

Exceptions may be made to any of the provisions of this section by the General Manager in any case or class of cases when he determines that the circumstances warrant and that such exception is in the best interest of the Corporation. The authority vested in the General Manager by this section also may be exercised by the Regional Manager with the advice of the Regional Counsel, as set forth in other sections of this Part.

§ 402.25-1 Insurance requirements. Insurance shall be required in accordance with the provisions of § 402.25 (a) except that, if, in the opinion of the Regional Manager in any specific case, the strict application of the requirements of the Regulations as to other buildings and improvements brings about an inequitable result, he may require less insurance or waive all insurance on buildings other than the dwelling.

Insurance may be waived. In any case where the outstanding loan balance is $100 or less, all insurance may be waived. Insurance in the amount of $200 or less on the main dwelling may be waived when the value of the land is equivalent to or greater than the amount waived. In such cases, a memorandum of the facts and justification for the action taken shall be entered on Form RO-I-240 which shall be filed in the insurance jacket.

Except in the instances cited, any other waivers of insurance requirements may be granted only with the approval of the General Manager.

Co-insurance qualification. Where co-insurance or any other restrictive clauses are applicable, the amount of insurance necessary to meet this condition shall be required so that there shall be no penalty in event of loss.

Mortgage clause or contract of sale endorsement. Form 12, Insurance Mortgage Clause shall be attached to all policies securing mortgages or other security instruments, making the insurance payable to the Corporation as its interest may appear. If for legal or other reasons such mortgage clause cannot be attached, then the New York, New Jersey or Pennsylvania standard mortgage clause (without contribution) is desired; and if this clause cannot be secured, then the best form of mortgage clause or loss payable clause obtainable in the territory where the insurance is to be written shall be secured. In all cases where a property is sold under contract of sale, Corporation Form 12-A shall be attached to all policies covering the affected property. If the agent or insurance company refuses to execute said Form 12-A, the policy will not be acceptable.

Trustee. Where required, the mortgage clause or loss payable clause shall be as "Trustee for the Home Owners' Loan Corporation". No trustee or Corporation employee shall be designated as mortgagee personally, but only as "Trustee for the Home Owners' Loan Corporation" and only in states where this is the practice.

Junior liens. In cases where another mortgage exists, it is permissible that such other mortgagee also be named in the mortgage clause, as an inferior mortgagee.

§ 402.25-2 Windstorm coverage. Windstorm or other necessary coverage shall be required in certain states and territories as follows:

Group III

One-third replacement value. Windstorm insurance is required up to one-third of the depreciated replacement value of the main dwelling and, if fire insurance has been required on other buildings and improvements, then windstorm insurance shall likewise be required in an amount equal to one-third the depreciated replacement value of all such other buildings and improvements having an individual value of $600 and over.

If properties that have been acquired by the Corporation are disposed of on terms other than cash, the amount of insurance required shall be the same as that required for properties in home owner status as outlined herein. Where title is retained by the Corporation in properties sold under installment contract, "extended coverage" in an amount equal to the fire requirement shall be included under the fire policy in the following states:

13-Iowa	32-North Dakota
25-Nebraska

§ 402.25–3 Direct coverage. All home owners who have not established a Tax and Insurance account, or who have a Tax and Insurance account on which accruals have been suspended, are expected to renew their insurance on or before the expiration date and to furnish the Corporation with an original insurance policy which will fulfill the Corporation's requirements both as to amount and acceptability.

Acceptable policies. The Regional Manager is authorized to accept from home owners insurance written by an insurance company, association or organization licensed to do business in a particular state or territory, or specifically authorized by state law to transact business within the state or territory where the property is located: Provided, An acceptable mortgage clause is attached and such insurance does not include any limiting clauses that would prevent the Corporation or home owner from collecting insurance in accordance with the Corporation's requirements.

Policies not acceptable. Policies are not to be accepted if, under the terms of the carrier's by-laws, the contract or the local laws, contributions or assessments may be made against this Corporation as mortgagee or owner; nor where contributions or assessments against the home owner would become a lien on the property superior to the lien of the Corporation; nor where, by the terms of the carrier's by-laws or policy or other conditions, loss payments are contingent upon action by the Board of Directors or the policyholders or members.

Excess coverage. If any home owner secures insurance in excess of the Corporation's requirements, all such policies forwarded to the Corporation shall be made concurrent with existing coverage.

Three-fourths value clause. Any insurance contract having a three-fourths value clause, or other restrictive clause limiting the amount of collectible insurance to less than the Corporation's requirements, must have such clause eliminated or modified to afford the required protection; otherwise the policy is not acceptable.

Less than minimum coverage. When a home owner, other than the purchaser of Corporation-owned property, or a home owner having an agreement for a Tax and Insurance account, submits renewal or other insurance which is less than the requirement, the same shall be accepted and the home owner requested to provide the additional insurance necessary to meet the requirements. If he refuses or fails to do so and the mortgage covenant permits, the additional required coverage shall be ordered through the carrier under contract.

Where consent of home owner is required. In any case where it is necessary to order insurance coverage to fulfill the Corporation's requirements, and the premium covering any insurance in addition to the amount originally furnished by the home owner cannot be charged to the home owner's account for the reason that the mortgage contains a covenant which specifically states the amount of insurance to be furnished and which has not been modified by a subsequent agreement or for some other reason, the consent of the home owner shall be obtained authorizing the Corporation to secure such additional insurance and charge the premium to his account. In any such case, the Regional Manager, within his discretion, may direct the taking of additional instruments in legal form, approved by the Regional Counsel, to secure the advance.

§ 402.25–4 Direct coverage in tax and insurance account cases. Direct coverage submitted by home owners having a Tax and Insurance account must conform with the requirements set forth in § 402.25 (a).

If the insurance including the new policy equals the then loan balance but is less than the Form 198 in effect, a new Form 198 containing revised requirements shall be prepared and forwarded to the home owner.

If such insurance does not meet all of the requirements as stated herein, the home owner will be so advised and, if he fails or refuses to submit acceptable coverage, all policies submitted by the home owner for the particular expiration shall be returned as unacceptable and the required amount of coverage shall be ordered through the carrier under contract.

§ 402.25–6 Expiration notices. Forms RO–I–10 shall be reviewed 20 days after expiration date. Appropriate expiration notices shall be forwarded to home owners as follows:

(a) When the home owner does not have a Tax and Insurance account and acceptable renewal insurance has not been received, Form RO–I–218 shall be used.

(b) Where the expiring insurance policy constitutes excess insurance and has not been renewed, notice shall be sent on all classes of accounts by use of Form RO–I–248.

§ 402.25–7 Vendee accounts. Upon receipt of a closed sales file from the Regional Accountant, the Insurance Section shall immediately remove all insurance policies from the file along with pertinent insurance data, complete Form 198 and transmit the file containing Form 198 and the other forms to the Control Supervisor. The Insurance Section shall review insurance for sufficiency and make proper notation of necessary information on the policy jacket. If such insurance does not meet all the requirements as stated herein, the purchaser shall be so advised; and, if he fails or refuses to submit acceptable coverage, all policies shall be returned to the purchaser as unacceptable and the required amount of coverage shall be ordered through the carrier under contract. Upon receipt of the sales file in cases where the Regional Manager authorized the closing of the sale without the purchaser providing the required insurance, the Insurance Section shall order the required amount through the carrier under contract, to be effective as of the date of sale.

§ 402.25–8 Insurance placed by corporation. Immediately upon the cancellation, notification of lapse or voidance of any insurance policy, and forty days after the expiration date in the instance of all home owners who have not submitted acceptable renewal insurance adequate as to kind and sufficient in amount to meet the Corporation's requirements, all insurance contracts protecting the loan or property shall be reviewed. If the remaining effective coverage does not fulfill the requirements of the Corporation, an order for the proper coverage shall be prepared upon the special forms furnished by the Corporation's insurer under contract and shall be effective as of the termination of the insurance to be replaced. In those instances where an expiration notice has not been sent to the home owner and the Corporation places less than the expiring insurance, the home owner shall be notified immediately.

If home owner requests extended coverage. In cases where the Corporation orders insurance for a home owner, "extended coverage" or "supplemental coverage" may be secured upon the specific request of the home owner.

Minimum premium cases. When the minimum premium imposed by insurance regulations will purchase more insurance than the Corporation requires, insurance in an amount or term sufficient to absorb the minimum premium will be procured provided the value of the improvements so warrants.

Re-establishing accruals. Where insurance is ordered for a home owner having a Tax and Insurance account on which accruals were suspended, the Insurance Section shall prepare a new Form 198, based upon the amount of indebtedness at the time of ordering insurance, and shall prepare Form 197, indicating the amount of accrual to be re-established, and shall forward both forms to the Control Supervisor.

Foreclosure cases. Insurance shall be ordered through the contract carrier in the regular manner on expiring policies in all cases wherein foreclosure has been authorized, and the order shall be plainly marked "Foreclosure Authorized", giving the date thereof. If subsequent to the ordering of the certificate foreclosure is withdrawn, the contract carrier shall be notified and requested to issue its regular certificate. If prior to acquisition the property is redeemed or sold to a third party, the carrier shall be requested to cancel the certificate and furnish the Corporation with a certified bill for the earned premium, which shall be forwarded to the Legal Department. If the property is acquired, the carrier shall be notified of the date of acquisition and requested to cancel the order.

§ 402.25–9 Canceling orders. Whenever a home owner submits an acceptable new or renewal insurance policy, subsequent to the issuance of the order to the insurer but prior to the expiration of 45 days following the termination of the insurance being replaced, the order for coverage shall be canceled without charge unless a loss has occurred. No new or renewal policy shall be accepted from a home owner after the expiration of the 45 day period, unless in the opinion of the Insurance Section special circumstances justify the acceptance of the policy and the home owner agrees to pay the earned premium, if any, incurred in the cancellation of the insurance procured from the insurer.

§ 402.25–10 Foreclosure subsequent to order. If, subsequent to the time an order for insurance has been issued for which a certificate has not been received, foreclosure proceedings are instituted, the insurer shall be requested to issue the certificate immediately and to provide a receipted bill for the premium on the coverage in those instances where the Regional Counsel advises a receipted bill is necessary. The receipted bill, when required, shall be delivered to the Legal Department.

§ 402.25–11 Routing of certificate and notice of insurance placed. The insurer under contract shall issue a certificate or policy of insurance in accordance with the order. The certificate, home owner's notice of insurance placed and Accounting Division copy of notice of insurance placed (insurance invoices) shall be sent to the Insurance Section, where the certificate shall be filed in the policy jacket; home owner's notice of insurance procured shall be attached to the Daily Transmittal, Form 764, prepared by the insurer under contract and forwarded to the Regional Accountant, unless the Assistant Regional Manager in Charge of Loan Service directs that the home owner's notice be forwarded either directly to the Mail Room for mailing to the home owner or to the Control Supervisor. When received by the Regional Accountant, the home owner's notice shall be held and attached to the home owner's monthly billing. The accounting copy shall be attached to the Daily Transmittal, Form 764, and retained in the Accounting Division files. The Regional Accounting Division shall make appropriate entries to the home owner's account in accordance with § 402.11–7.

Transmittal of debits and credits. The insurer under contract will prepare a Daily Transmittal, Form 764, of debits and credits listing thereon each and every insurance transaction. No entries shall be included on such form prior to the inception date of insurance. The effective entry date in all cases shall be the "Transmittal date" as indicated on the form.

§ 402.25–13 Cancellation of certificate. When a certificate is canceled and returned to the insurer under contract, credit memoranda shall be issued by the insurer showing the amount of return premium which the insurer will enter on the Daily Transmittal Form. The Accounting Division copy of the credit memoranda from the insurer shall be attached to the Daily Transmittal Form; and, in those instances where insurance is canceled on a flat basis and no interest is to be charged, the Insurance Section shall stamp "No Interest To Be Charged" on the Accounting Division copy of the credit memoranda.

§ 402.25–15 Foreclosure endorsements. Immediately upon notice from the Legal Department that foreclosure proceedings have been instituted, Form 12–B shall be attached to all policies covering the affected property, except in those instances where the insurer, by an existing agreement, has included the provisions of this form in the policy. When the insurer has so agreed, Form 12–B need not be executed. In the event the insurance company, when requested, refuses to execute Form 12–B, the policies will no longer be acceptable and shall be canceled; and coverage shall be secured through the insurer under contract.

Receivers. When the property is in the process of foreclosure and a receiver is appointed, such receiver may have acceptable policies that are in force transferred or endorsed to him; or, where desirable and possible, he may secure the required amount and kinds of insurance through Corporation facilities. Notice of the expiration of policies shall be furnished in such form and manner as approved by the Regional Counsel.

Vacancy or increased hazard endorsements. Upon receipt of notification of vacancy, unoccupancy, tenant occupancy, change of name or ownership, foreclosure withdrawal, acquisition of absolute title (not subject to right of redemption), partial release, increased hazards or other changes, the Insurance Section shall ascertain the date such change occurred and shall immediately notify the Insurance Company concerned. The necessary or appropriate endorsement, as required, shall be obtained and attached to the insurance policy, and the necessary changes made on the insurance records. Where the information reveals that the property is occupied for purposes more hazardous than those heretofore intended, unless full facts have been given, an immediate inspection of the premises is required. The inspector should report the date the increase in hazard occurred, the type of occupancy and the financial condition of the home owner.

§ 402.25–16 Additional premium due to endorsements. In any case involving an endorsement, where there is an additional premium due to the carrier under contract, the amount of the additional premium shall be entered on the daily transmittal form, included in the monthly account of the insurer under contract, and charged to the proper account.

In any case involving an endorsement on a direct agency policy, it is presumed that the home owner will pay the additional premium, if any, to the agent direct. However, when the home owner cannot pay the additional premium, it may be paid by the Corporation, providing the agent writing the policy provides the Insurance Section with a certified invoice for the additional premium required. This invoice shall be attached to a properly executed voucher which, when approved by the Regional Manager, shall be paid from the Regional Working Fund and charged to the home owner's account.

§ 402.25–17 Lost or misplaced policies. In cases where an existing insurance policy has become lost or misplaced, it shall be necessary to obtain a replacing policy. The replacing policy can be obtained only by all interested parties signing a Lost Policy Release.

When it becomes necessary to execute a Lost Policy Release, the Insurance Clerk shall execute such release for the Corporation. In the event the original policy is found after the issuance of a replacing policy, the original policy shall be returned to the issuing agent.

Expired insurance policies. Expired insurance policies or certificates held by the Corporation shall be destroyed or otherwise disposed of; if they are destroyed, it shall be done in the presence of a representative of the Corporation who shall certify as to their destruction, or if they are otherwise disposed of, the Regional Manager shall cause them to be mutilated so as to prevent their use in the making of expiration lists or the procuring of other pertinent data by unauthorized persons. Such destruction or other disposition shall be accomplished at the following periods:

(a) All expired insurance policies or certificates held by the Corporation for accounts of home owners shall be destroyed or otherwise disposed of after four months following expiration, except where such policies are delivered to the home owners, the signing local insurance agent or the insurance company upon request made by any of the aforesaid parties prior to the expiration of the four months' period.

(b) In all cases where an expired insurance policy or certificate while in force covered a period during the time when the Corporation held title to the property covered by the policy or certificate, such policies or certificates shall be destroyed or otherwise disposed of after one year following expiration.

§ 402.25–18 Insurer's certificate. When a loan is paid in full and an insurer's certificate has been issued by an insurer under contract, the certificate shall be mailed to the insurer, who will contact the former home owner to ascertain the latter's wishes in regard to the continuation or cancellation of the insurance. Upon the cancellation of a certificate, any unearned premium from the date of liquidation to the expiration of the certificate accrues to the benefit of the former home owner. It is very important that this certificate be mailed to the insurer, and in no event is the home owner or any outside party to be given any papers in connection with this coverage, with the exception of the invoice. If, at the time of payment in full, a credit is due the home owner's account, arising from a previous cancellation or reduction of a certificate for which credit memorandum has not been received from the insurer, the amount of such credit shall not be considered in arriving at the balance of account to be paid, and the insurer under contract shall be requested to make payment direct to the home owner.

§ 402.25–19 Financed premium on direct policies. When an insurance policy is submitted by a company financing the premium, with request for a receipt in acknowledgment thereof, the Insurance Section shall execute, without deviation, receipt Form 723, or a receipt in form identical therewith. Upon receipt of request from the financing company for return of the policy covered under the executed receipt, the Insurance Section shall immediately return the policy to the financing company and so advise the home owner, requesting the submission of replacing insurance in line with the customary cancellation procedure.

Effective April 13, 1943.

Chapter I—Bureau of Internal Revenue

Subchapter A—Income and Excess Profits Taxes

[T.D. 5258]

PART 19—INCOME TAX UNDER THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

WAR LOSSES

In order to conform Regulations 103 [Part 19, Title 26, Code of Federal Regulations, 1940 Sup.] to section 156 of the Revenue Act of 1942 (Public Law 753, 77th Congress), approved October 21, 1942, such regulations are amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. There is inserted immediately after § 19.126–4 the following:

SEC. 156. WAR LOSSES. (Revenue Act of 1942, Title I.)

(a) Losses from war, taxation of property recovered, and basis of property. The Internal Revenue Code is amended by inserting after section 126 the following new section:

SEC. 127. WAR LOSSES.

(a) Cases in which loss deemed sustained, and time deemed sustained. For the purposes of this chapter—

(1) Property not in enemy countries. Property destroyed or seized on or after December 7, 1941, in the course of military or naval operations by the United States or any other country engaged in the present war shall be deemed to have been destroyed or seized on a date chosen by the taxpayer in the manner provided in paragraph (4), which falls between—

(A) the latest date, as established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, on which such property may be considered as not destroyed or seized, and

(B) the earliest date, as established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, on which such property may be considered as having already been destroyed or seized.

For the purposes of this paragraph property within an area which comes under the control of a country at war with the United States after the date war with such country is declared by the United States shall be deemed to have been destroyed or seized in the course of military or naval operations by such country, and the date specified in subparagraph (A) shall not be later than the latest date determined by the Commissioner as the date on which such area was under the control of the United States or a country not at war with the United States, and the date specified in subparagraph (B) shall not be later than the earliest date determined by the Commissioner as the date on which such area may be considered under the control of the country which is at war with the United States.

(2) Property in enemy countries. Property within any counrty at war with the United States, or within an area under the control of any such country on the date war with such country was declared by the United States, shall be deemed to have been destroyed or seized on the date war with such country was declared by the United States.

(3) Investments referable to destroyed or seized property. Any interest in, or with respect to, property described in paragraph (1) or (2) (including any interest represented by a security as defined in section 23 (g) (3) or section 23 (k) (3)) which becomes worthless shall be considered to have been destroyed or seized (and the loss therefrom shall be considered a loss from the destruction or seizure) on the date chosen by the taxpayer which falls between the dates specified in paragraph (1), or on the date prescribed in paragraph (2), as the case may be, when the last property (described in the applicable paragraph) to which the interest relates would be deemed destroyed or seized under the applicable paragraph. This paragraph shall apply only if the interest would have become worthless if the property had been destroyed. For the purposes of this paragraph, an interest shall be deemed to have become worthless notwithstanding the fact that such interest has a value if such value is attributable solely to the possibility of recovery of the property, compensation (other than insurance or similar indemnity) on account of its destruction or seizure, or both. Section 23 (g) (2) and (k) (2) shall not apply to any interest which under this paragraph is considered to have been destroyed or seized. Under regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, a taxpayer which owns 100 per centum (excluding qualifying shares) of each class of stock of a corporation may elect to determine the worthlessness of its interest, described in this paragraph, in or with respect to the property of the corporation, without regard to the amount of the property of such corporation which would be excluded under subsection (e) (2) (A) in determining the adjusted basis of all the assets of the corporation for the purposes of subsection (e), but such amount shall be treated under subsection (b) (1) as a recovery by the taxpayer in the taxable year with respect to such interest.

(4) Choice of date. The taxpayer's choice of a date under paragraph (1) or (3) shall be effective only if made within such time and in such manner as may be prescribed by regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary.

(b) Taxable years to which amendments applicable. The amendments made by this section shall be applicable to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1940.

§ 19.127 (a)–1 Description of war losses. Under section 127, property destroyed or seized in the course of the present war and property which is within an enemy country or an enemy controlled area on the date the United States declares that a state of war exists with the enemy country result in war losses. Property which is within an area that comes under the control of an enemy country after the date the United States declares that a state of war exists with such enemy country also results in a war loss. An investment in any of the foregoing property which loses all its value because of the war loss resulting from such property is itself treated as resulting in a war loss. Investments in such property which lose only part of their value by reason of such property resulting in a war loss are also treated, under certain circumstances, as resulting in a war loss to the extent of such loss in value. See section 127 (e).

Section 127 (a) and (e) provides that the property and investments described above shall be treated as being "destroyed or seized" upon the date specified in the applicable subsections. That is, upon such date the taxpayer is treated as losing his entire interest in such property or investment, and this loss of such property rights is deemed to be sustained by reason of a casualty. The casualty is the destruction or seizure, whichever event the taxpayer claims occurred. If the property or investment was held for more than six months and was a capital asset or property used in the trade or business of the taxpayer, this loss (and any compensation therefor) is subject to the provisions of section 117 (j), relating to gains and losses upon involuntary conversions. See § 19.117–7. Unless such loss is treated under section 117 (j) as a loss from the sale or exchange of a capital asset, such loss is deductible as an ordinary loss under the provisions of section 23 (f) in the case of a corporation and section 23 (e) (3) in the case of an individual. The loss upon an investment which is treated under section 127 as resulting in a war loss is not subject to the provisions of section 23 (g) (2) and (k) (2) which treat losses upon worthless securities as capital losses, although such loss may nevertheless be treated under section 117 (j) as a loss upon the sale or exchange of a capital asset.

For property to be treated as resulting in a war loss, such property must be in existence on the date prescribed in section 127 (a) (2) as the date it is deemed destroyed or seized or at the beginning of the period prescribed in section 127 (a) (1) or (a) (3), within which period the property is deemed destroyed or seized, and for the taxpayer to claim a loss with respect to such property he must own such property or an interest therein at such time. If before such time the property was destroyed or confiscated, section 127 is not applicable with respect to such property. For example, a taxpayer owned property in an enemy country before war was declared on such enemy by the United States, and such property was confiscated by the enemy before the date war was declared. The seizure was not in the course of military or naval activities. The taxpayer may not claim a war loss with respect to such property under section 127.

Section 127 relates only to losses sustained on or after December 7, 1941. For the purposes of section 127, the term "area" does not mean a territory or political unit but means the locality in which the property was situated.

The date on which a war loss was sustained must be determined under the provisions of section 127 (a) and the regulations thereunder. The amount of loss sustained must be determined subject to the provisions of section 127 (b) and the regulations thereunder. Income to the taxpayer upon any recovery of or in respect of property or investments treated as resulting in a war loss must be determined under section 127 (c) and the regulations thereunder. The basis of any such recovery must be determined under section 127 (d) and the regulations thereunder.

§ 19.127 (a)–2 Property destroyed or seized after the outbreak of war. Section 127 (a) (1) has two main purposes. One is to provide that property shall be treated as destroyed or seized if it is located in an area which comes under the control of an enemy country after the date the United States declares that a state of war exists with such enemy country. This provision corresponds to the provisions of section 127 (a) (2) which give similar treatment to property located in an area under enemy control on the date the United States declares that a state of war exists with the enemy. See § 19.127 (a)–3. The other purpose of section 127 (a) (1) is to provide the method for determining the date on which such destruction or seizure is deemed to occur in cases in which the exact date when control is established cannot be determined, and to provide the method for determining the date of destruction or seizure in the case of property actually destroyed or seized on or after December 7, 1941, in the course of military or naval operations by any country engaged in the present war if the exact date of such destruction or seizure cannot be established.

(a) Actual destruction or seizure. Any property actually destroyed or seized on or after December 7, 1941 in the course of military or naval operations by the United States or any other country engaged in the present war shall be deemed to have been destroyed or seized on any date chosen by the taxpayer which falls between:

(1) The latest date, as established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, on which such property may be considered as not destroyed or seized, and

(2) The earliest date, as established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, on which such property may be considered as having already been destroyed or seized.

If the exact date of the destruction or seizure can be ascertained, then (1) refers to the day before such date and (2) refers to the day after such date. Thus, if the taxpayer knows that his property was destroyed during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, the latest date on which such property may be considered as not destroyed is December 6, 1941, and the earliest date on which it may be considered as being already destroyed is December 8, 1941. Under section 127 (a) (1), the only date the taxpayer may choose is December 7, 1941. However, in many cases the taxpayer will not be able to ascertain the exact date on which the destruction or seizure of his property occurred. In such cases the taxpayer may claim that the destruction or seizure occurred at any time he chooses between the dates prescribed in (1) and (2) of this paragraph, which dates may be established on the basis of such information as the taxpayer is reasonably able to obtain. For example, the taxpayer's property was destroyed during a bombardment of a certain area which lasted several days. The taxpayer is only able to ascertain that the property was undestroyed before the bombardment, and was already destroyed when the bombardment ended.

The taxpayer may treat the destruction as occurring on any date during the bombardment.

Section 127 (a) (1) refers to a destruction or seizure by the United States or any other country engaged in the present war. Such other countries are the members of the United Nations, any other countries at war with enemies of the United States, and the enemies of the United States or of any of the United Nations. Thus, a country which is not a member of the United Nations nor an enemy of the United States is nevertheless considered engaged in the present war if it is an enemy of any other member of the United Nations. Furthermore, the military or naval operations need not be carried on by the regular forces of the countries engaged in the present war, but it is sufficient if such operations are carried on by any forces supported by or operating in conjunction with any such country. For example, nationals of the D country form an independent fighting force for the liberation of their country, which was conquered by an enemy of the United States, and such fighting force operates in conjunction with the forces of one or more of the United Nations. The military or naval operations of such force are considered for the purposes of section 127 (a) (1) as military or naval operations by the countries, engaged in the present war, with which such forces operate.

The term "military or naval operations" in section 127 (a) (1) is used in a broad sense to cover all actions incident to belligerent activities, whether in furtherance of or in opposition to such activities. It includes operations carrying out a scorched earth policy or rendering a position under threat of attack or other danger more secure or less desirable to the attacker. For example, when invasion of a certain area by the forces of an enemy is imminent, civilians in such area burn and otherwise destroy warehouses and other property in such area. Such property is destroyed in the course of military or naval operations of the enemy. However, the orderly requisition or condemnation of property by any government, in the ordinary course of which the taxpayer is entitled to fair compensation, is not a destruction or seizure in the course of military or naval operations.

(b) Property deemed destroyed or seized by reason of enemy control. Property in an area which, after the date the United States declares war with a country, comes under the control of such enemy country is deemed to have been seized or destroyed in the course of military or naval operations by such country. Such destruction or seizure is deemed to occur on any date chosen by the taxpayer which falls between the latest date, as determined by the Commissioner, on which the area was under the control of the United States or a country not at war with the United States, and the earliest date, as determined by the Commissioner, on which the area was under the control of the enemy country.

If during the period described in the above paragraph the property in such area was actually destroyed or seized in the course of military or naval operations by any country engaged in the present war, the taxpayer may choose as the date on which the destruction or seizure occurred any date falling after whichever of the following dates is the earlier:

(1) The latest date, as established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, on which such property may be considered as not destroyed or seized, or

(2) The latest date determined by the Commissioner as the date on which such area was under the control of the United States or a country not at war with the United States, and falling before whichever of the following dates is the earlier:

(i) The earliest date, as established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, on which such property may be considered as having already been destroyed or seized, or

(ii) The earliest date determined by the Commissioner as the date on which such area may be considered under the control of the country which is at war with the United States.

For example, the taxpayer has property in an area under the control of a country not at war with the United States. Such country lost control of the area on December 20, 1941, under attack by the enemy, but the taxpayer who remained in the area ascertains that the property was not destroyed on that date, but was destroyed during further fighting on January 1, 1942. An enemy country gained control of the area on February 1, 1942. The earliest date on which the taxpayer may claim the loss is December 20, 1941, the day after the latest date on which the area was under control of a country not at war with the United States. The latest date on which it may claim the loss is January 1, 1942, the day before the earliest date on which the property may be considered as having already been destroyed. An additional example is the case of a taxpayer with property in an area evacuated on December 15, 1941, when a country not at war with the United States lost control of such area. The property of the taxpayer in such area was undestroyed on such date. An enemy country established control over the area on January 20, 1942. The taxpayer learns that on July 15, 1942 the property was destroyed in a bombing raid on such area. The loss may not be claimed as occurring on any date later than January 20, 1942, the day before the earliest date on which the enemy country was in control of the area.

Whether or not a country at war with the United States gains control over intangible property by reason of its gaining control over any area is determined under the same provisions as are applicable for the purposes of section 127 (a) (2) in determining whether intangible property is subject to the control of the enemy country on the date war is declared. See § 19.127 (a)-3.

In the case of any property which is within the provisions of section 127 (a) (1) by reason of any area falling under the control of an enemy of the United States, it is necessary to determine the latest date on which the United States or any country not at war with the United States was in control of such area and the earliest date on which the country at war with the United States was in control of such area. For the purposes of section 127 (a) (1), control of an area on any day means effective control which is not seriously disputed at any time during such day. For such control to exist, order must be maintained in the area, such order must be maintained by authority of the country in control, and such order must not be seriously disputed by hostile action either by elements of the civilian population or by the armed forces of any other country. Section 127 (a) (1) contemplates that in many cases there will be a lapse of time between the date when one country loses control of an area and the date when another country gains control. During this period neither country will be in control of the area, and the loss may be claimed to occur at any time during such period. The fact that any country loses control of an area is not sufficient for the purposes of section 127 (a) (1) unless a country at war with the United States gains control of such area. That is, if a country not at war with the United States, which has lost control of an area, regains control of the area before a country at war with the United States gains control, the fact that control was lost for a period of time does not cause any property in the area to be deemed to have been destroyed or seized.

It should be noted that the term "area" means the locality in which the property is situated. The determination as to whether control by any country was lost or established in any area on any date will be made in a practical manner on the basis of all factors, and particular attention will be paid to the nature of the military and political operations affecting the control over such area as well as to the amount of information which can be obtained under the circumstances. For example, in view of the fact that the island of Luzon was one theatre of military operations, complete control over such island by the American and Philippine forces will be considered to have ceased in December, 1941, upon the beginning of the Japanese invasion of the island, and complete Japanese control will be considered to have begun in May, 1942, upon the cessation of American resistance at Corregidor. In the absence of information to the contrary, control by American and Philippine forces over other Philippine islands will be considered to have ceased on the date in December, 1941, when complete control of Luzon ceased, and Japanese control over such other islands will be considered to have begun on the date in May, 1942, when complete Japanese control of Luzon began. Similarly, control over areas in other theatres of military or political action will be determined on the basis of the principal events in such theatres of action.

A country at war with the United States may gain control over an area by its armed forces, by its civil authorities, or by obtaining control over the local authorities already established in that area. Such control over local authorities will not be deemed to exist by reason of the enemy country's domination over the government of any country if and so long as the United States maintains diplomatic relations with such government. Areas formerly subject to such government but actually taken over by armed forces or civil authorities of the enemy country are under control of the enemy country. If the United States has not declared that a state of war exists with any country, the control by such country over any area is not deemed a destruction or seizure of property in such area, even though such country may be considered engaged in the present war by reason of its being an enemy of one of the United Nations.

The latest date on which the United States or a country not at war with the United States was in control of an area, and the earliest date when an enemy of the United States was in control of an area, are questions of fact to be determined by the Commissioner on the basis of the facts established by the taxpayer and such other information as may be in his possession. The Commissioner may from time to time issue rulings on the basis of all information then in his possession as to such dates as he has already determined with respect to any areas. Such rulings will be subject to change in the event further information is obtained. In the absence of any applicable ruling, the facts established by the taxpayer must satisfy the Commissioner that the dates chosen are proper.

(c) Choice of date when loss deemed sustained. Section 127 (a) (1) grants the taxpayer the right to choose within the period described in (a) and (b) of this section the date on which the destruction or seizure of property is deemed to occur. This choice of a date is exercised by claiming a gain or loss with respect to such destruction or seizure in a return for a taxable year in which such date falls, in a claim for credit or refund of an overpayment for such taxable year, or in a petition to The Tax Court of the United States with respect to such taxable year. Until the taxpayer makes such a choice upon a return, a claim, or a petition, he will be deemed to have chosen the latest date on which the destruction or seizure may be treated as having occurred. Such latest date will be considered for all purposes the date chosen by the taxpayer if the taxpayer has not chosen on a return, claim, or petition, in the manner described above, any other date by the time the return for the period in which such latest date falls is due (including any extension of time for filing such return). Thereafter, the taxpayer may choose another date only with the permission of the Commissioner. If the taxpayer has once made the choice described above by the filing of a return, a claim, or a petition in which gain or loss is claimed with respect to the destruction or seizure, such choice (whether made before or after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1942) may not thereafter be changed except with the permission of the Commissioner.

A taxpayer desiring to make a new choice of date with the permission of the Commissioner shall send a copy of his return, claim for refund, or petition in which he makes such new choice to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., together with a statement of the date previously used as the date of the destruction or seizure, the new date chosen, and a recomputation of each tax imposed by the Internal Revenue Code (including income, excess profits, and declared value excess profits taxes) for each taxable year affected by such change of date. For example, if the taxpayer on the calendar year basis desires to change his choice of date from a date in 1942 to one in 1943, and if there was a carry-back of unused excess profits credit from 1942 to 1941, the taxpayer must attach to his request for permission to change his choice of date a recomputation of the tax for 1943, reflecting the tax effect of treating the destruction or seizure as occurring in that year, for 1942, reflecting the effect of treating the destruction or seizure as not occurring in such year, and for 1941, computed with the carry-back from 1942 determined by treating the destruction or seizure as occurring in 1943 and not 1942.

The ta payer must also attach to his request a statement as to whether the tax for any taxable year affected by the change of date has been determined by The Tax Court of the United States or by any court, whether a case with respect to any such tax liability is pending in any such tribunal, and whether any period of limitations or rule of law would prevent the proper adjustment of the tax liability for each such year if the change in date were permitted. The Commissioner will permit the taxpayer to change his choice of the date of the destruction or seizure if such proper adjustments may be made for each taxable year affected.

§ 19.127 (a)-3 Property in enemy countries and enemy controlled areas. Property in a country at war with the United States, or in an area controlled by such country, on the date the United States declared that a state of war existed with such country is deemed under section 127 (a) (2) to have been destroyed or seized on such date.

The term "property" includes tangible property of every kind actually within such country or area. Whether or not intangible property is within the provisions of section 127 (a) (2) depends in general upon whether the enemy country exercises the same control over such intangible property as it exercises over tangible property located within such country or area. If the enemy country may legally divest the taxpayer of his right to such intangible property in such manner that all other jurisdictions having control of any of the obligations and assets from which such intangible property derives its value would not recognize the taxpayer as having any interest in such obligations and assets, then such intangible property is within the provisions of section 127 (a) (2). For example, a taxpayer owns stock and bonds in a corporation chartered by an enemy country. All of the assets of such corporation are in the enemy country, in a neutral country, and in a country also at war with the enemy country. The enemy country may sequester the taxpayer's interest in such stock and bonds. The neutral country recognizes the control of the enemy country over its corporation, and would not grant the taxpayer any right of recourse against the assets of the corporation located in such country. The country at war with the enemy country treats the assets of the corporation located within its jurisdiction as enemy property and would grant the taxpayer no rights in such assets during the war. The stock and bonds of the taxpayer are property within the enemy country and subject to the provisions of section 127 (a) (2). A further example is the case of a taxpayer having negotiable bonds in a corporation chartered in a neutral country. Such bonds are in the enemy country at the outbreak of the war, in the hands of an agent of the taxpayer. The neutral country does not recognize the authority of the enemy country to divest the taxpayer of his right to these bonds. Such bonds are not property subject to the provisions of section 127 (a) (2).

Ordinarily, if the right of the taxpayer to the intangible property exists by reason of the law and authority of the enemy country, section 127 (a) (2) applies to such intangible property. For example, all public bonds of a country at war with the United States are considered to be within the provisions of section 127 (a) (2). On the other hand, the public bonds of a country not at war with the United States, the territory of which is occupied by a country at war with the United States on the date war is declared, are not within the provisions of section 127 (a) (2). Any interest in a corporation chartered by a country at war with the United States will be considered intangible property located in the enemy country unless the taxpayer has any rights to assets of such corporation not treated as destroyed or seized under section 127. However, any interest in a corporation chartered by a country not at war with the United States, the territory of which is occupied by a country at war with the United States, will not be considered intangible property located in an area under the control of an enemy country. Any intangible property not within the provisions of section 127 (a) (2) may be within the provisions of section 127 (a) (3), which relate to intangible property which becomes worthless by reason of war losses. See § 19.127 (a)-4.

For the purposes of section 127 (a) (2), the control by the enemy country over any area may be exercised either through its military or civil agencies, or through its control over the local authorities. Thus, an area will be treated as being under the control of the enemy country if the enemy country exercises its control through the agents of a puppet government or through the local government organization in operation at the time it gained control of the area. Such control over local authorities will not be deemed to exist by reason of the enemy country's domination over the government of any country if the United States maintains diplomatic relations with such government. Areas formerly subject to such government but actually taken over by armed forces or civil authorities of the enemy country are under the control of the enemy country. Areas under the control of the governments of Hungary, Rumania, and Bulgaria will not be considered under enemy control prior to the date the United States declared that a state of war existed with such governments. Whether or not control by the enemy country exists is a question of fact which the Commissioner will determine on the basis of the facts established by the taxpayer and such other facts as may be in his possession.

§ 19.127 (a)–4 Investments referable to destroyed or seized property. Section 127 (a) (3) provides that intangible property which is an interest in or with respect to underlying assets treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) and (2) shall itself be treated as being destroyed or seized if it would be worthless if such underlying assets had in fact been destroyed. The intangible property may be of any kind, provided it meets the test that it would become worthless upon the actual destruction of the underlying assets treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) and (2). Thus, it may be represented by accounts receivable from or by stocks, bonds, or other securities in a corporation all of the assets of which are treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) or (2), or by obligations of an individual, under the control of an enemy country, all of whose assets are also under the control of the enemy country. Any intangible property which derives its value from underlying assets treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) and (2) is considered an interest in or with respect to such assets for the purposes of section 127 (a) (3). For example, if all of the assets owned by a holding company are securities within the provisions of section 127 (a) (3) as being issued by corporations owning only property described in section 127 (a) (1) and (2), then stock in such holding company is considered an interest in or with respect to such property described in section 127 (a) (1) and (2), and is subject to the provisions of section 127 (a) (3).

For intangible property to be treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (3) the following tests must be met:

(1) Such property must be worthless if the value described in the next paragraph is disregarded; and

(2) Such property must be of a kind which would have become worthless upon the destruction of all the underlying assets which are described in section 127 (a) (1) and (2). That is, upon the date the last underlying asset described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2) is deemed destroyed or seized, there must be no other underlying asset from which such property derives a value. In applying this test as to whether the intangible property would have become worthless if the underlying assets treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) and (2) were actually destroyed, all interest in such assets shall be considered to have ceased as if such assets had been totally destroyed, whether or not any such asset, such as land, may ordinarily be considered indestructible. Furthermore, the value described in the next paragraph is disregarded in determining whether such property would have become worthless.

In determining for the purposes of both (1) and (2) of the preceding paragraph whether property has become worthless, any value attributable to the possibility of recovering assets treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) and (2) or of compensation (other than insurance or similar indemnity) for their destruction or seizure, such as an award by a government upon the completion of the war, shall be disregarded. Insurance or any other certain indemnity by a government is not disregarded. For the purposes of (1) of the preceding paragraph, any value attributable to an actual recovery in the taxable year in which the loss is claimed or, if the possibility of receiving compensation develops during such taxable year into a recognized right to compensation, attributable to such right to compensation, will prevent the intangible property from becoming worthless, and will therefore keep such property from being treated as a war loss under section 127 (a) (3).

Whether or not intangible property is worthless when the underlying assets described in section 127 (a) (1) and (2) are treated as destroyed or seized is a question of fact to be established by the taxpayer. Thus, the intangible property may be worthless even though there are underlying assets which are not treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) and (2) if it derives no value from such other assets, as in a case in which there are obligations actually enforceable against such assets which are superior to the interest in such assets represented by the intangible property. For example, a corporation has $100,000 of assets, $80,000 of which are treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) and (2), and $20,000 of which are located in the United States and are not within the provisions of section 127 (a) (1) and (2). The corporation owes considerably more than $20,000 to creditors in the United States. Any stock interest in such corporation is considered worthless. If the corporation owed only $10,000 to creditors who could enforce their claims against the corporation, and owed $40,000 to creditors who are alien enemies of the United States, located in countries at war with the United States, who could not enforce their claims against the corporation, the stock is not considered worthless. The fact that any underlying assets, not under the control of a country at war with the United States, are subject to stringent controls by the United States or by any other government, such as being placed in blocked accounts or under "freezing" controls, or otherwise under the custody of the government, will not cause any interest in such assets to be considered worthless. Such assets are merely subject to government regulation, and the interest in or with respect to such assets continues subject to such regulation.

The intangible property interest described in section 127 (a) (3) is deemed to be destroyed or seized upon the date that the last of the underlying assets subject to the provisions of section 127 (a) (1) or (2) was treated as destroyed or seized under that section. In determining for such purposes when any property described in section 127 (a) (1) was destroyed or seized, the taxpayer may choose any date described in that section which he could properly choose under that section if he were the owner of such property. The choice is made by the taxpayer's claiming a loss with respect to the destruction or seizure of the intangible property described in section 127 (a) (3) in a return for the taxable year in which the date chosen falls, or in a claim for credit or refund of an overpayment for such taxable year, or in a petition to The Tax Court of the United States with respect to such taxable year. If no such choice is made, the date chosen will be deemed to be the latest date which could be chosen under section 127 (a) (1). If at the time the return for the taxable year in which such latest date falls is due (including any extension of time for filing such return), the taxpayer has not so chosen a date in a return, claim for refund, or petition, such latest date will be considered for all purposes the date chosen, and the taxpayer may not later choose any other date unless he first obtains the permission of the Commissioner. A taxpayer choosing a date by claiming such a loss on a return, claim for refund, or petition (whether or not such choice was made before the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1942) cannot change such choice unless he obtains the permission of the Commissioner. A taxpayer requesting the permission of the Commissioner in order to choose a new date must submit the same information as is required under § 19.127 (a)–2 (c) in the case of a taxpayer changing his choice of date under section 127 (a) (1), and such permission will be granted if the proper adjustments in tax liability resulting from such change may be made. The choice of date by the taxpayer must be the same for all intangible property which relates to the same property treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) and (2). Thus, a taxpayer owning stock and bonds in a corporation, all the assets of which are in an area that comes under the control of the enemy, cannot under section 127 (a) (3) treat the stock as destroyed or seized on one date and the bonds as destroyed or seized on another date.

If a taxpayer owns 100 percent (excluding qualifying shares) of each class of stock of a corporation, it may elect for the purposes of section 127 (a) (3) to determine the worthlessness of its interest in such corporation without regard to the amount of the property of such corporation which is money in the United States, bank deposits, the right to receive money from any person not situated in a country at war with the United States or in a territory under the control of such a country, and obligations issued or guaranteed as to principal or interest by the United States, except any of such property of the corporation which is treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1), (2), or (3) during or before the taxable year of the taxpayer in which the war loss is claimed. This exclusion of certain property of the corporation in determining worthlessness is made both for the purpose of determining whether the interest of the taxpayer in the corporation is worthless and for the purpose of determining whether such interest would have become worthless if the underlying assets of the corporation treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) or (2) had been destroyed. Such election is made by claiming in a return, a claim for credit or refund of an overpayment, or a petition to The Tax Court of the United States a deduction for a loss which was actually sustained upon the destruction or seizure described in section 127 (a) (3) of any interest in such corporation. The election is made for the entire interest of the taxpayer in the corporation, whether represented by stock, bonds, or otherwise, and is so made even if the taxpayer claims the loss for only a part of such interest. Such election when once made is irrevocable, although the date chosen as the date when the loss occurred may be changed with the permission of the Commissioner as in the case of other losses from a destruction or seizure described in section 127 (a) (3). For treatment of the amount of property excluded in determining worthlessness as a recovery by the taxpayer, see § 19.127 (b)–1.

For a loss to be sustained under section 127 (a) (3) with respect to any intangible property, such property must have a basis. Any intangible property treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (3) will, to the extent of the loss sustained upon such destruction or seizure, be treated as a casualty loss. Section 23 (g) (2) and (k) (2), relating to losses on certain worthless securities being treated as capital losses, does not apply to the loss on any such intangible property described in section 127 (a) (3), although such loss may, if the provisions of section 117 (j) are applicable, be treated as a capital loss under the provisions of section 117 (j). See § 19.117–7.

SEC. 156. WAR LOSSES. (Revenue Act of 1942 Title I.)

(a) Losses from war, taxation of property recovered, and basis of property. The Internal Revenue Code is amended by inserting after section 126 the following new section:

SEC. 127. WAR LOSSES.

(b) Amount of loss on destroyed or seized property. In the case of any property or interest in or with respect to property deemed to be destroyed or seized under subsection (a)—

(1) The amount of the loss on account of such property or interest shall be determined with regard to any recoveries with respect thereto in the taxable year but without regard to any possibility of recovering such property or interest, or of receiving any compensation (other than insurance or similar indemnity) on account of such property or interest in the taxable year or in any future taxable year.

(2) The taxpayer may choose to decrease the amount of the loss by all obligations or liabilities of the taxpayer with respect to such property or interest discharged or satisfied out of the property or interest upon its destruction or seizure, if the Commissioner is satisfied that such obligations or liabilities are so discharged or satisfied in a subsequent taxable year, or that the taxpayer is unable to determine whether or not such obligations or liabilities are in fact discharged or satisfied. No loss shall be deemed to have been sustained upon the destruction or seizure of such property or interest to the extent that it is compensated for by the discharge or satisfaction of obligations and liabilities of the taxpayer out of such property or interest in the taxable year in which such destruction or seizure is deemed to have occurred. The taxpayer's choice under this subsection shall be effective only if made within such time and in such manner as may be prescribed by regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary.

(b) Taxable Years to Which Amendments Applicable. The amendments made by this section shall be applicable to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1940.

§ 19.127 (b)–1 Determination of amount of war loss. The loss upon the property treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) and (c) is determined as if the taxpayer's interest in such property had ceased by reason of such destruction or seizure. The loss is determined in the same manner as in the case of any other loss by casualty (see §§ 19.23 (e)–1 and 19.23 (f)–1) except that the possibility of recovering such property described in section 127 (a) or (c) or of recovering any compensation (other than insurance or similar indemnity) on account of such property or interest in the taxable year or in any future taxable year (such as the return of the property, or an award by a government, upon the termination of the war) is disregarded both in determining whether the loss is evidenced by a closed and completed transaction and in determining the amount of the loss. Insurance or any other certain indemnity by a government is not disregarded. If during the same taxable year in which the destruction or seizure is deemed to occur the taxpayer recovers the property, recovers money or other property in lieu of such property, or receives compensation for such property, or if during such taxable year the possibility of any such recovery or of receiving any such compensation develops into a recognized right to such recovery or compensation, such facts must be taken into account in determining whether any loss was sustained and, if a loss was sustained, the amount of the loss. For example, the taxpayer has property in an area under the control of an enemy country on the date war with such country is declared. Such property is deemed, under section 127 (a) (2), destroyed or seized on such date. During the taxable year of the taxpayer in which such date falls, the property is sent into a neutral country where the taxpayer recovers it. No loss is sustained by the taxpayer by reason of the destruction or seizure deemed to occur under section 127 (a) (2). If in lieu of such property the taxpayer had recovered other property in the same taxable year, the value of such other property must be taken into account as compensation for the loss sustained upon the destruction or seizure deemed to occur under section 127 (a) (2).

If a taxpayer owning 100 percent of each class of stock of a corporation elects under section 127 (a) (3) (see § 19.127 (a)–4) to determine the worthlessness of his interest in such corporation without regard to certain assets of the corporation as described in section 127 (a) (3), the entire value of such assets of the corporation as of the date the taxpayer's interest in the corporation is deemed destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (3) shall be treated as a recovery on such date by the taxpayer in determining the amount of his loss upon such destruction or seizure. Obligations of the corporation enforceable against such assets are disregarded in determining the amount of such recovery. For example, if the corporation's interest in such assets is worth $100,000, the taxpayer's recovery under the provisions of section 127 (a) (3) is considered to be $100,000, regardless of whether or not any obligations of the corporation, enforceable against such assets, are superior to the interest of the taxpayer in the corporation. Thus, if the only interest of the taxpayer in the corporation is his ownership of its stock, and if the adjusted basis of such stock is $1,000,000, his loss is $900,000 even though the corporation may have $300,000 in outstanding bonds enforceable against its $100,000 of assets.

If, in the same taxable year in which the destruction or seizure of any property is deemed to occur, such property was used to discharge or satisfy any obligations and liabilities of the taxpayer, or if any such obligations and liabilities are discharged by reason of the events which cause such property to be treated as destroyed or seized, the amount of such compensation must be taken into account in determining the loss upon the destruction or seizure of the property. Furthermore, the taxpayer may elect to decrease the amount of his loss in the taxable year with respect to any property treated as seized or destroyed under section 127 by the amount of his other obligations and liabilities with respect to such property if such obligations or liabilities are discharged or satisfied in a subsequent taxable year out of such property or if the taxpayer is unable to determine at the time of the election whether or not such obligations or liabilities are so discharged or satisfied. The determination of the amount of the loss where there are obligations and liabilities with respect to destroyed or seized property is illustrated by the case of a bank having a branch in Tokio, the assets of which are treated under section 127 (a) (2) as destroyed or seized on the date war is declared with Japan. In determining the loss upon such assets, consideration must be given to the compensation for the destruction or seizure resulting from the assets being used in the same taxable year to discharge the bank's liabilities to depositors in the branch. Furthermore, if the bank establishes that any liabilities to depositors were discharged out of the assets in a subsequent taxable year, or if the bank establishes that it is unable to determine whether or not any such liabilities are discharged out of the assets, it may elect to decrease the amount of the loss with respect to the assets in the branch by all such liabilities. If it is determined that any liabilities will not be discharged out of the assets, the bank may not decrease the amount of the loss by the amount of such liabilities.

The election described above to decrease the amount of the loss by obligations and liabilities with respect to the destroyed or seized property is made by so decreasing the loss in claiming a deduction therefor in the return (or if such return was filed on or before March 15, 1943, in an amendment thereto filed on or before July 1, 1943), in a claim for credit or refund of an overpayment, or in a petition to The Tax Court of the United States with respect to the taxable year in which the loss was sustained, and by attaching to such return (or such amendment thereto filed on or before July 1, 1943) as a part thereof, or by including in such claim a statement as to the obligations and liabilities involved, the property to which they relate, and such facts as are in the taxpayer's knowledge. If the loss is claimed in a petition to The Tax Court, such statement, made under oath, should be attached to a copy of the petition and sent to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C. The election when once made may be changed only with the permission of the Commissioner. The election must be made as to all the obligations and liabilities described above with respect to the same property, and applies to all such obligations and liabilities if made as to any of them.

SEC. 156. WAR LOSSES. (Revenue Act of 1942, Title I)

(a) Losses from war, taxation of property recovered, and basis of property. The Internal Revenue Code is amended by inserting after section 126 the following new section:

SEC. 127. WAR LOSSES.

(c) Recoveries included in gross income. (1) General rule. Upon the recovery in the taxable year of any money or property in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized in any prior taxable year, the amount of such recovery shall be included in gross income to the extent provided in paragraph (2).

(2) Amount of gain includible. The amount of the recovery of any money or property in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized shall be an amount equal to the aggregate of such money and the fair market value of such property, determined as of the date of the recovery. To the extent that such amount plus the aggregate of the amounts of previous such recoveries do not exceed that part of the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in subsection (a) which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this chapter, such amount shall not be includible in gross income and shall not be deemed gain upon the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure. To the extent that such amount plus the aggregate of the amounts of previous such recoveries exceed that part of the aggregate of such deductions which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this chapter and do not exceed that part of the aggregate of such deductions which did result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this chapter, such amount shall be included in gross income but shall not be deemed a gain upon the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure. To the extent that such amount plus the aggregate of the amounts of previous such recoveries exceed the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in subsection (a), such amount shall be considered a gain upon the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure and shall be recognized or not recognized as provided in section 112 (f). If for any previous taxable year the taxpayer chooses under subsection (b) to treat any obligations and liabilities as discharged or satisfied out of the property or interest described in subsection (a), and if such obligations and liabilities were not so discharged or satisfied, the amount of such obligations and liabilities treated as discharged or satisfied under subsection (b) shall be considered for the purposes of this section as a deduction by reason of this section which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this chapter. For the purposes of this paragraph an allowable deduction for any taxable year on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in subsection (a) shall, to the extent not allowed in computing the tax of the taxpayer for such taxable year, be considered an allowable deduction which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this chapter.

(3) Restoration of value of investments referable to destroyed or seized property. For the purposes of paragraphs (1) and (2), the restoration in whole or in part of the value of any interest described in subsection (a) (3) by reason of any recovery of money or property in respect of property to which such interest related and which was considered under subsection (a) (1) or (2) as destroyed or seized shall be deemed a recovery of property in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized.

* * * * *

(f) Determination of tax benefits. The determination as to whether and to what extent an allowable deduction on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in subsection (a) did or did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this chapter shall be made in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary.

(b) Taxable years to which amendments applicable. The amendments made by this section shall be applicable to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1940.

§ 19.127 (c)–1 Recoveries included in gross income. A taxpayer who has sustained a war loss described in section 127 must include in his gross income for each taxable year, to the extent provided in section 127 (c), the amount of his recoveries of money and property for such taxable year in respect of any war loss in a previous taxable year. Section 127 (c) provides that such recoveries for any taxable year are not includible in income until the taxpayer has recovered an amount equal to his allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of such war losses which did not result in a reduction of any tax under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code, that is, of any income tax of the taxpayer. See § 19.127 (c)–2 for the determination of the amount of such deductions. Recoveries in excess of such amount are treated as ordinary income until such excess equals the amount of his allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of war losses which did result in a reduction of any such tax under chapter 1. Any further recoveries in excess of all the taxpayer's allowable deductions in prior taxable years for war losses are treated as gain on an involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure, and such gain is recognized or not recognized under the provisions of section 112 (f). See § 19.112 (f)–1. Such gain, if recognized, is included in gross income as ordinary income unless section 117 (j) applies to cause such gain to be treated as gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than six months. See § 19.117–7.

The amount of the recovery of any money or property in respect of any war loss is the aggregate of the amount of such money and of the fair market value of such property, both determined as of the date of the recovery. The recoveries in respect of any war loss include the recovery of the property or interest treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 and the recovery of any money or property in lieu of such property or interest or on account of the destruction or seizure of such property or interest. For example, there is a recovery upon the return to the taxpayer after the termination of the war of his property which was treated as resulting in a war loss because it was located in a country at war with the United States. An award by a government on account of the seizure of the taxpayer's property by an enemy country is a recovery under section 127 (c). The amount obtained upon the sale or other transfer by the taxpayer of his right to any property treated as resulting in a war loss is also a recovery for the purposes of section 127 (c). Similarly, if a taxpayer who sustained a war loss under section 127 (e) upon the liquidation of a corporation has received the rights to any property of the corporation which was treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) or (2), any recovery by the taxpayer with respect to such rights is a recovery by him for the purposes of section 127 (c). Furthermore, if any interest of the taxpayer in or with respect to property was determined to be worthless and was treated as a war loss under section 127 (a) (3) (see § 19.127 (a)–4), or if the taxpayer retained an interest in a corporation with respect to which he sustained a war loss under section 127 (e), and if the interest in the hands of the taxpayer is restored in value, in whole or in part, by reason of a recovery with respect to the underlying assets treated as destroyed or seized under section 127, then such restoration in value is a recovery by the taxpayer for the purposes of section 127 (c).

The determination as to whether and to what extent any recoveries are to be included in gross income is made upon the basis of the amount of all the recoveries for each day upon which there are any such recoveries, as follows:

(a) The amount of the recoveries for any day is not included in gross income, and is not considered gain on an involuntary conversion, to the extent, if any, that the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of war losses which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code, as determined under § 19.127 (c)–2, exceeds the amount of all previous recoveries in the same and prior taxable years.

(b) The amount of the recoveries for any day which is not excluded from gross income under (a) is included in gross income as ordinary income, and is not considered gain on an involuntary conversion, to the extent, if any, that the aggregate of all the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of war losses which did not result in any tax benefit, $1,000, exceed $0, the sum of all his previous recoveries. On a later date the taxpayer recovers property B, which is worth $1,500 on the date of recovery. This recovery is not included in gross income to the extent of $200, the amount by which the allowable deductions for prior taxable years on account of war losses which did not result in any tax benefit, or $1,000, exceed the sum of all previous recoveries, or $800. All of the remaining $1,300 of the recovery is included in gross income as ordinary income, and is not considered gain on the involuntary conversion of property, since it is less than the amount by which the aggregate of all the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of war losses, or $3,000, exceeds $1,000, the sum of the $800 of previous recoveries and of the $200 portion of the recovery with respect to B which is not included in gross income. On a still later date the taxpayer sells for $2,500 his rights to recover C. Since the allowable deductions for prior taxable years on account of war losses which did not result in any tax benefit ($1,000) do not exceed the previous recoveries by the taxpayer ($800 and $1,500, or $2,300), none of the recovery on account of C is excluded from gross income. This recovery is included in gross income as ordinary income, and is not considered gain on the involuntary conversion of property, to the extent of $700, the amount by which the aggregate of all the allowable deductions for prior taxable years on account of war losses ($3,000) exceeds $2,300, the sum of the $2,300 of previous recoveries and of the $0 portion of the recovery on account of C which is not included in gross income. The remaining $1,800 of the recovery is considered gain on an involuntary conversion of property on account of its destruction or seizure, and is not recognized if forthwith expended in the manner provided in section 112 (f). Thus, it is not recognized if it is forthwith expended for the acquisition of property related in service or use to C. On a later date the taxpayer recovers D, which has a fair market value of $400 at the time of the recovery. Since the aggregate of all the allowable deductions for prior taxable years on account of war losses ($3,000) does not exceed the previous recoveries by the taxpayer ($800 + $1,500 + $2,500, or $4,800), all of the recovery with respect to D is considered gain on an involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure. Under the provisions of section 112 (f), this gain is not recognized if D is used for the same purposes for which it was used before it was deemed destroyed or seized under section 127.

Example (2). The taxpayer on one day recovers $3,600 for property A and $7,000 for property B, both of which were treated under section 127 as destroyed or seized in a prior taxable year, and $8,000 of such $10,000 recoveries is considered gain on the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure. The taxpayer forthwith expends $5,000 in the acquisition of property similar in use to B. Therefore, $5,000 of the $8,000 gain is not recognized under section 112 (f), leaving $3,000 of recognized gain. Property B is within the provisions of section 117 (j), relating to gains and losses on the involuntary conversion of certain described property, but property A is not. Therefore, the provisions of section 117 (j) apply to $2,000 of the $3,000 gain, that is, the amount of the recovery with respect to B which is not attributable to the nonrecognized gain for such day ($7,000 minus $5,000). If the taxpayer forthwith expended $8,000 or more for the acquisition of property similar in use to B, none of the gain would be recognized. If the taxpayer forthwith expended the $5,000 to acquire property related in use to A, the $3,000 recognized gain would be considered derived from B to the extent of the recovery with respect to B ($7,000), not reduced by any nonrecognized gain since none of such recovery is attributable to such nonrecognized gain, and therefore all of the $3,000 recognized gain would be subject to the provisions of section 117 (j).

For the purposes of section 127 (c), the recoveries considered are only those with respect to war losses sustained in prior taxable years. Similarly, the only deductions considered are those allowable for prior taxable years, and any allowable deductions for the year of the recovery are ignored for the purposes of applying such section to the recovery. If property is treated as destroyed or seized under section 127, and if in the same taxable year there is also a recovery with respect to such property, such recovery is not within the provisions of section 127 (c) but is taken into account under section 127 (b) in determining the amount of the loss, if any, on the destruction or seizure. See § 19.127 (b)–1. An allowable deduction with respect to a war loss is any deduction to which the taxpayer is entitled on account of any property or interest being treated as destroyed or seized under section 127, regardless of whether or not such deduction was claimed by the taxpayer or otherwise allowed in computing his tax. If a deduction was claimed by a taxpayer in computing his tax for any taxable year, and if such deduction was disallowed, such deduction will not be considered an allowable deduction for such taxable year since the previous determination will not be reconsidered.

§ 19.127 (c)–2 Determination of tax benefits from allowable deductions. That part of the aggregate of the deductions allowed a taxpayer for any taxable year on account of war losses under section 127 which, if disallowed, would not result in an increase in the normal tax, surtax (including the tax imposed by section 102), or victory tax of the taxpayer, or of any tax imposed in lieu of such taxes, for the taxable year in which such deductions are allowed or in any other taxable year, such as a taxable year in which the taxpayer's income tax is computed by reference to a carry-over or carry-back of net operating losses from the taxable year in which such deductions are allowed, is considered for the purposes of section 127 an allowable deduction for the taxable year which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code. In determining that part of the aggregate of the deductions on account of war losses which, if disallowed, would not result in an increase in any such income tax of the taxpayer, there shall first be excluded for each taxable year affected the deductions and credits on account of the bad debt, tax, and delinquency amounts which under section 22 (b) (12) and the regulations thereunder are treated as not resulting in a tax benefit. The deductions allowed a taxpayer for any taxable year on account of war losses are all the deductions on account of war losses which were claimed by the taxpayer in a return, in a claim for credit or refund of an overpayment, or in a petition to The Tax Court of the United States with respect to such taxable year and which were not disallowed, and all deductions on account of war losses which, although not so claimed by the taxpayer, were nevertheless allowed (for example, by the Commissioner, a court, or The Tax Court) in computing a tax of the taxpayer.

Any deduction allowable for a taxable year on account of a war loss under section 127 which (a) was not claimed by the taxpayer for such year in a return, a claim for credit or refund of an overpayment, or a petition to The Tax Court of the United States and (b) was not allowed as a deduction (for example, by the Commissioner, a court, or The Tax Court) in computing his tax for such year or for any other year is considered a deduction which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code, since it is an allowable deduction which was not allowed in computing any tax of the taxpayer. If the taxpayer claimed for any taxable year a deduction on account of a war loss, and if such deduction was disallowed, the taxpayer may not subsequently contend for the purposes of section 127 (c) that such deduction was an allowable deduction for such taxable year.

If the taxpayer elected under section 127 (b) to decrease the amount of a war loss by treating the obligations and liabilities described in that section as discharged or satisfied out of the property destroyed or seized, and if the taxpayer establishes that any of the obligations and liabilities were not so discharged or satisfied, then the amount by which such continuing obligations and liabilities decreased the war loss shall be considered an allowable deduction for the taxable year in which the war loss was sustained which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code.

SEC. 156. WAR LOSSES. (Revenue Act of 1942, Title I.)

(a) Losses from war, taxation of property recovered, and basis of property.—The Internal Revenue Code is amended by inserting after section 126 the following new section:

SEC. 127. WAR LOSSES.

* * * * *

(d) Basis of recovered property.—The unadjusted basis of property recovered in respect of property considered destroyed or seized under subsection (a) shall be determined under this subsection. Such basis shall be an amount equal to the fair market value of such property, determined as of the date of the recovery, reduced by an amount equal to the excess of the aggregate of such fair market value and the amounts of previous recoveries of money or property in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized over the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in subsection (a), and increased by that portion of the amount of the recovery which under subsection (c) is treated as a recognized gain from the involuntary conversion of property. Upon application of the taxpayer, the aggregate of the bases (determined under the preceding sentence) of any properties recovered in respect of properties considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized may be allocated among the properties so recovered in such manner as the Commissioner may determine under regulations prescribed by him with the approval of the Secretary, and the amounts so allocated to any such property so recovered shall be the unadjusted basis of such property in lieu of the unadjusted basis of such property determined under the preceding sentence.

* * * * *

(b) Taxable years to which amendments applicable. The amendments made by this section shall be applicable to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1940.

§ 19.127 (d)–1 Basis of recovered property. Under section 127 (d), the unadjusted basis of any property treated as a war loss under section 127 which is recovered and the unadjusted basis of any property which is recovered in lieu of or on account of any such war loss is considered the fair market value of such recovered property upon the date of its recovery with the following adjustments:

(1) If the sum of the recoveries for the day such property is recovered and of all previous recoveries exceeds the aggregate of the allowable deductions for prior taxable years on account of war losses, so that a portion of the recoveries for such day is treated as gain on the involuntary conversion of property, such fair market value of the property is reduced by the total gain, if any, for such day derived from such recovered property, as determined under § 19.127 (c)–1.

(2) Such fair market value, as reduced under (1) above, is increased by the portion, if any, of the recognized gain resulting from the recoveries for such day which is allocable to such recovered property, as determined under §19.127 (c)–1.

In effect, the unadjusted basis of such property is its fair market value upon the date of its recovery, reduced by the amount of nonrecognized gain attributable to such recovery under the provisions of § 19.127 (c)–1.

If the respective bases of several properties of a taxpayer determined under section 127 (d) are greatly disproportionate to their adjusted bases immediately prior to their being treated as destroyed or seized under section 127, the taxpayer may apply to the Commissioner for the allocation of the aggregate of the bases of such properties among them in the proportion of their adjusted bases immediately prior to the destruction or seizure of such properties determined under section 127. The amount so allocated to any such property, in an application approved by the Commissioner, shall be the unadjusted basis of such property in lieu of the amount determined under the preceding paragraph.

The application to the Commissioner shall set forth a list of all the properties of the taxpayer having an unadjusted basis determined under this section, a description of each such property together with a statement as to the amount of its adjusted basis immediately prior to the destruction or seizure of such property determined under section 127, and a statement as to whether there has been any substantial change in the use or nature of the property chosen for the allocation from its nature or use immediately prior to the time it was treated as destroyed or seized. Such application will be allowed unless there has been such a substantial change in the nature or use of such property that the allocation of the bases would produce an arbitrary result, or unless the taxpayer has obtained such tax benefits by reason of the basis determined under the first paragraph of this section that it would be inequitable to change his basis. Thus, the allocation will not be allowed if it would give the taxpayer an unadjusted basis with respect to any property which is less than the amount of the adjustments in reduction of the basis of such property which are allowable after its recovery. For example, when property A is recovered it has an unadjusted basis of $100. After $70 depreciation has been allowed on A, an allocation is sought which would give A an unadjusted basis of $60. Since this is less than the depreciation which is an adjustment against such basis, the allocation will not be permitted.

The amount of any adjustments to the unadjusted basis determined under the first paragraph of this section shall, upon the allocation of the bases, be taken as an adjustment to the allocated unadjusted basis. Thus, if $30 depreciation was allowed upon a $100 basis determined under the first paragraph of this section, and if the unadjusted basis upon allocation is $75, such $30 depreciation is allowed against such allocated unadjusted basis, so that the adjusted basis of the property is then $45.

The taxpayer may choose any group of recovered properties for allocation, except that if any such recovered properties form one economic unit, such properties may not be separated but all or none must be included in the group. For example, a building may not be separated from the land on which it stands if both are recovered property, nor may one block of stock in a corporation be separated from other stock in such corporation or from bonds in such corporation which are also treated as a recovery. If the taxpayer has once been permitted to allocate the bases of any group of properties, he may obtain another allocation with respect to such properties only if all the properties in the original group are included together with other recovered properties not included in the original group. For example, if the bases of properties A and B are allocated, a second allocation will be made for properties A, B and C, but not for A and C or B and C.

SEC. 156. WAR LOSSES. (Revenue Act of 1942, Title I.)

(a) Losses from war, taxation of property recovered, and basis of property. The Internal Revenue Code is amended by inserting after section 126 the following new section:

SEC. 127. WAR LOSSES.

* * * * *

(e) Partial worthlessness of certain investments in destroyed or seized property.

(1) Destruction or seizure of investment. If a taxpayer owns not less than 50 per centum of each class of stock of a corporation, if such corporation has property described in subsection (a) (1) or (2) deemed to be destroyed or seized, the adjusted basis for determining loss of which is at least 75 per centum of the adjusted basis for determining loss of all such corporation's property, and if such corporation completely liquidates (by distributing all the assets which it is able to distribute and all its rights to assets which it is not able to distribute, including the right to the recovery of the property described in subsection (a) (1) and (2)) within one year after such property is deemed to be destroyed or seized, or within six months after the date of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1942, which ever is the later, then that part of the loss by the taxpayer on such liquidation which would be attributable to the destruction or seizure of such property, as established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, shall be treated for the purposes of this chapter as a loss by the taxpayer upon the destruction or seizure of the part of the stock or other interest of the taxpayer to which such loss is allocable. Such part of the stock or other interest of the taxpayer shall be treated for the purposes of subsections (b), (c), and (d) as property described in subsection (a) (3).

(2) Application of paragraph (1). For the purposes of paragraph (1)—

(A) In determining the adjusted basis of all the property of the corporation, there shall be excluded money in the United States, bank deposits, the right to receive money from any person not situated in a country at war with the United States or in a territory under the control of such a country, and obligations issued or guaranteed as to principal or interest by the United States, except that there shall not be excluded any such property which is destroyed or seized as described in subsection (a) within or before the taxable period.

(B) The adjusted basis of property of such corporation shall be determined as of the date immediately preceding the first date on which any property was destroyed or seized, as described in subsection (a), or as of any later date falling within or before the taxable period on the basis of which such determination will produce a greater amount.

* * * * *

(b) Taxable years to which amendments applicable. The amendments made by this section shall be applicable to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1940.

§ 19.127 (e)–1 Cases in which liquidation of corporation causes war loss. Section 127 (e) provides that in a limited class of cases a portion of the loss by a taxpayer upon the liquidation of a corporation will be treated as a war loss resulting from the destruction or seizure of an allocable part of the interest of the taxpayer in the corporation. The war loss is sustained at the time the loss upon the liquidation is sustained. The taxpayer sustains a war loss only if section 127 (e) applies to the loss sustained by him upon the liquidation of the corporation, and only in the amount determined under that section. The provisions of section 127 (b), (c), and (d), and the regulations thereunder, which apply to a war loss determined under section 127 (a) (3) also apply to a war loss determined under section 127 (e).

(a) Application of section 127 (e). Section 127 (e) applies only if all of the following provisions are met:

(1) The taxpayer must own not less than 50 percent of each class of stock of the corporation at the time of the liquidation described below and at all times when any property of the corporation described in section 127 (a) is deemed destroyed or seized.

(2) Property of the corporation representing at least 75 percent of the adjusted basis for determining loss of all the property of the corporation must be deemed destroyed or seized under the provisions of section 127 (a) (1) or (2), relating to property actually destroyed or seized during military or naval operations or located in an enemy country or in an area under the control of such country. For the purposes of this provision:

(i) The adjusted basis for determining loss of all the property of the corporation is determined as of the date immediately preceding the first date on which any property of the corporation is deemed destroyed or seized under the provisions of section 127 (a) (1), (2), or (3), except that if such determination would produce a greater amount if made as of any later date falling within or before the taxable year in which the loss is sustained, it is made as of such later date on which it produces the greatest amount. If any property of the corporation which is at no time treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) is money in the United States, bank deposits, the right to receive money from any person not situated in a country at war with the United States or in a territory under the control of such a country, or obligations issued or guaranteed as to principal or interest by the United States, then the adjusted basis of such property shall not be taken into account in determining the adjusted basis of all the property of the corporation.

(ii) The property of the corporation described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2) deemed to be destroyed or seized represents at least 75 percent of the amount determined under (i) above as the adjusted basis for determining loss of all the property of the corporation if the aggregate of the adjusted bases for determining loss of all such property described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2) (determined for each such property as of the date prescribed under (i), except that the date immediately preceding the date it is deemed destroyed or seized shall be used if the property was not held by the corporation on the date prescribed in (i) or was deemed destroyed or seized on or before such date) is not less than 75 percent of the amount so determined under (i). The property described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2) which is included in determining such 75 percent amount is property owned by the corporation, for the destruction or seizure of which it could claim a war loss under section 127 (a) (1) or (2). Property of the corporation deemed destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (3) is not included in determining such 75 percent amount even though such property may be an interest in property described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2).

(3) The corporation must completely liquidate within one year after the last property of the corporation described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2) is deemed destroyed or seized under such section, except that if such year expires before April 21, 1943 (the date falling within six months after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1942), the liquidation may be completed on or before that date. The corporation has completely liquidated if it has distributed to its shareholders all the assets which it is able to distribute and all its rights to assets, such as assets treated as war losses under section 127 (a) (1) or (2), which it is not able to distribute. Dissolution of the corporation is not necessary if the distribution otherwise results in a complete liquidation. In some cases the corporation may not be able to comply with certain formalities required by the law applicable in the case of a liquidation. For example, a corporation chartered by a foreign government not at war with the United States may be required to hold its shareholders' meetings, at which any liquidation must be approved, in a city occupied by the forces of a country at war with such government and with the United States; due to the occupation of that city by the enemy country the shareholders' meeting, approving the liquidation, is held at some other place. In such cases, the validity of the liquidation will be determined on the basis of whether the corporation in good faith has complied as fully as possible with all provisions of law applicable to such liquidation. The liquidation will not be considered invalid because of the absence of any formalities incident to such liquidation with which the corporation was not able to comply, unless such liquidation is actually declared invalid by any appropriate authority. If a war loss upon any such liquidation has been allowed upon audit by the Commissioner, if the taxpayer attached a statement to the return in which such loss was claimed, as a part thereof, to the effect that he had determined to consider the liquidation valid for all purposes, including the treatment as a recovery by him for the purposes of section 127 (c) of any recovery with respect to the assets and rights to assets distributed to him, and if the taxpayer in such statement waived the benefits of any period of limitations which would prevent the adjustment of his tax liability on account of the invalidity of the liquidation at any time at which he should contend that the liquidation was invalid and the Commissioner should agree to permit him so to change his position, then (in the absence of such change of position with the permission of the Commissioner) the war loss will not be subsequently disallowed even though the liquidation may be declared invalid by some appropriate authority.

(b) Determination of amount of war loss. If the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section are met, the loss sustained by the taxpayer upon the liquidation described in such paragraph is considered a war loss to the extent it is attributable to the property of the corporation described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2) which is deemed destroyed or seized. The loss sustained by the taxpayer upon the liquidation of the corporation is attributable to property of the corporation described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2), which is deemed destroyed or seized, to the extent that such loss would be decreased (but not decreased below zero) if the corporation at the time of the liquidation owned additional assets, which it could distribute, having a fair market value equal to that of the property described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2), determined for each such property as of the date immediately preceding the date it is deemed destroyed or seized. The amount of the war loss sustained by the taxpayer is the amount of such decrease. For example, a taxpayer described in paragraph (a) of this section sustained a loss of $1,000 upon a liquidation described in such paragraph. If the corporation owned additional distributable assets at the time of the liquidation having a fair market value equal to that of its property described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2) (determined as of the date immediately preceding the date such property is deemed destroyed or seized), it would have distributed $800 of such assets to the taxpayer, and his loss upon the liquidation would accordingly have been reduced by this amount. Therefore, $800 of the $1,000 loss sustained by the taxpayer is attributable to the property of the corporation described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2), and the taxpayer has a war loss of $800. The remaining $200 loss sustained on the liquidation has the same character it would have had if section 127 (e) had not applied to any portion of such loss.

If the taxpayer has more than one kind of stock or other interest in the corporation, the determination of the war loss by reference to the decrease in the loss on the liquidation must be made for each such interest, since to the extent the loss on any such interest would be reduced below zero (by the distribution of the assets equal in value to the property described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2)) no war loss is sustained by the taxpayer. For example, the taxpayer owns stock A and stock B in the corporation, and upon its liquidation he sustains a loss of $1,000 with respect to A and of $2,000 with respect to B, or $3,000 in all. Upon a distribution of assets equal in value to the property of the corporation described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2), the taxpayer would receive $1,800, reducing his loss on the liquidation by that amount. However, of this $1,800, $1,200 would be received with respect to the A stock, for which the loss on the liquidation was only $1,000. Therefore, only $1,000 of the amount received with respect to the A stock is a war loss. $600 would be received with respect to the B stock, and all of this amount is a war loss since it would not reduce the $2,000 loss on B below zero. Therefore, the war loss of the taxpayer on the liquidation is $1,600 ($1,000 plus $600) and not the $1,800 computed on the basis of the taxpayer's total interest in the corporation.

For the purposes of the preceding paragraphs of this paragraph, the loss sustained by the taxpayer upon the liquidation described in paragraph (a) of this section is determined under sections 111 and 115. Such loss is determined without regard to the provisions of section 112, relating to the nonrecognition of gains and losses upon certain exchanges, but such provisions apply to that part of the loss which is not treated as a war loss. In determining the loss of the taxpayer upon the liquidation, no value shall be ascribed to the possibility of a recovery of the property of the corporation described in section 127, deemed destroyed or seized, the rights to which are distributed to him, or of compensation (other than insurance or similar indemnity) on account of its destruction or seizure. Any recovery in the taxable year with respect to such rights is taken into account under section 127 (b) in determining the amount deductible on account of the war loss.

The war loss described in this section is deemed to result from the destruction or seizure of the taxpayer's interest in the corporation to which it is allocable. Therefore, this war loss, in the amount determined under section 127 (b) (see § 19.127 (b)-1), is deductible as an ordinary loss by casualty unless under section 117 (j), relating to losses on the involuntary conversion of certain property, it is treated as a loss on the sale or exchange of a capital asset. If part of the taxpayer's stock or other interests in the corporation is property described in section 117 (j), and part is not, then for the purposes of section 117 (j) the war loss must be allocated to the various interests in the corporation. The portion of any interest in the corporation to which any part of the war loss is allocable is deemed destroyed or seized under section 127 (e), and the part of the war loss allocated to such interest is deemed to result from such destruction or seizure. The allocation of the war loss among the stock and other interests of the taxpayer in the corporation is made as follows:

The war loss is apportioned among the stock and other interests of the taxpayer in the corporation in the amounts by which the losses with respect to such interests, sustained upon the liquidation, would be decreased if the corporation had distributed, as described above for the determination of the amount of the war loss, assets equal in value to its property described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2). The war loss is allocable to that part of the stock or other interest of the taxpayer which is the same portion of such interest as the war loss apportioned to such interest is of the loss with respect to such interest sustained upon the liquidation. For example, the taxpayer owns stock of class A and stock of class B in a corporation. Upon the liquidation described in paragraph (a) of this section it sustains a loss of $1,000 on the A stock and $2,000 on the B stock, a total loss of $3,000. If the corporation had distributed assets equal in value to its property described in section 127 (a) (1) or (2), the taxpayer would have received $1,400, $1,000 with respect to A and $400 with respect to B, reducing his loss on each by such amount.

Therefore, of his $1,400 war loss, $1,000 is apportioned to A and $400 to B. The war loss is allocable to all of the A stock $\left(\frac{$1,000 \text{ war loss}}{$1,000 \text{ liquidation loss}} \text{ times A}\right)$, and the $1,000 war loss apportioned to the A stock is deemed to result from its destruction or seizure. Similarly, the war loss is allocable to 20 percent of the B stock $\left(\frac{$400 \text{ war loss}}{$2,000 \text{ liquidation loss}} \text{ times B}\right)$, and the $400 war loss apportioned to B is deemed to result from the destruction or seizure of a 20 percent interest in the B stock owned by the taxpayer.

PAR. 2. Section 19.22 (a)-1 is amended by inserting at the end of the next to the last paragraph thereof the following sentence:

As to income upon a recovery in respect of war losses, see section 127 (c).

PAR. 3. Section 19.22 (b)-1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5194, approved December 8, 1942, is further amended by changing "sections 22 (k), 112, 119, and 171" in the fifth sentence thereof to read "sections 22 (k), 112, 119, 127 (c), and 171".

PAR. 4. Section 19.23 (e)-1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5086, approved October 10, 1941, is further amended by inserting at the end of the second paragraph the following sentence:

For special provisions with respect to war losses, see section 127.

PAR. 5. Section 19.23 (f)-1 is amended by inserting at the end thereof the following sentence:

For special provisions with respect to war losses, see section 127.

PAR. 6. Section 19.23 (g)-1 is amended by inserting at the end of the first paragraph the following sentence:

Section 23 (g) does not apply to securities which are deemed destroyed or seized under section 127, relating to war losses.

PAR. 7. Section 19.23 (k)-4, as amended by Treasury Decision 5234, approved March 1, 1943, is further amended by inserting at the end of the first paragraph the following sentence:

Section 23 (k) (2) does not apply to securities which are deemed destroyed or seized under section 127, relating to war losses.

PAR. 8. Section 19.113 (a)-1 is amended by inserting at the end thereof the following sentence:

For special rules for determining the unadjusted basis of property recovered in respect of war losses, see section 127 (d).

(2) Any transaction involving an enemy national (see Public Circular No. 18).

In addition to the foregoing, the Treasury Department or any United States Mission in the other American Republics at any time may stipulate that any particular transaction or class of transactions requires a specific license. Any such stipulation shall be binding upon all persons having notice thereof.

(d) Filing of applications. Applications for specific licenses to engage in any transaction may be filed with any United States diplomatic and consular officer in the other American Republics or with a Federal Reserve Bank in the United States.

PART 1071—INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL REFRIGERATING AND AIR CONDITIONING MACHINERY AND EQUIPMENT

[General Limitation Order L-38 as Amended April 14 1943]

The fulfillment of requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply of steel, copper, and other materials for defense, for private account and for export; and the following order is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense:

§ 1071.1 General Limitation Order L-38—(a) Definitions. For the purpose of this order:

(1) "System" means any refrigerating or air conditioning system, consisting of an assembly or combination of machinery, equipment, or other apparatus designed primarily to lower the temperature of, or remove water vapor from gaseous, liquid, or solid matter, directly or indirectly, by mechanical, chemical, or physical means. The term shall not include a domestic mechanical refrigerator as defined in paragraph (a) (10), a domestic ice refrigerator as defined in paragraph (a) (11), or a farm milk cooler as defined in paragraph (a) (12) of this order.

(2) "Parts" means any parts, materials, insulated enclosures, implements, or devices, designed for incorporation in a system or for use therewith in causing it to perform its functions.

(3) "New", when applied to any system or part, means a system or part that has never been sold and delivered to any person acquiring it for use. "Used", when so applied, means any system or part which has been so sold and delivered, regardless of whether or not it has subsequently been reconditioned or redesigned.

(4) "Authorized order" means any order for the delivery of a system or parts, which the War Production Board has authorized on Form PD-830 or PD-831 pursuant to paragraph (c) of this order. The term shall also include any order for such a system or parts which has been placed with and accepted by a dealer, producer or other person prior to April 6, 1943, if such order bears a preference rating of A-1-c or higher (or if the acceptance and delivery of such order was specifically authorized or directed by the War Production Board without any preference rating having been assigned thereto, prior to April 6, 1943): Provided, That the system or parts can be and are produced and delivered in accordance with the provisions of Orders M-9-c and M-126 applicable thereto immediately prior to April 6, 1943.

(5) "Person" means any individual, partnership, association, business trust, corporation, governmental corporation or agency, or any organized group of persons, whether incorporated or not.

(6) "Producer" means any person to the extent that he is engaged in the manufacture, fabrication, or assembly of systems or parts. The term shall not include any sales or distribution outlet of a producer.

(7) "Dealer" means any person, other than a producer, engaged in the business of selling or distributing new, used, or reconditioned systems or parts, whether at wholesale, retail, or otherwise. The term includes any sales or distribution outlet of a producer.

(8) "Emergency repair service" means the repair of any installed system when, subsequent to its installation and operation, a breakdown occurs therein, or is immediately threatened. The term shall not include replacement of the high (pressure) side or condensing unit (with or without motor or condenser) except in sealed unit types, the low (pressure) side, or the insulated enclosure, or any change of the type of refrigerant, design, or capacity of the system; but shall include necessary replacement of any component part of the high side, low side, or insulated enclosure, if such part cannot be repaired and if the part installed is not of greater capacity than the part replaced, and shall also include the shop repair of the replaced component part.

(9) "Deliver" means to transfer physical possession, title, or ownership to another person, to install, or to place in the hands of any carrier or otherwise in transit for transfer of possession to another person, regardless of whether such transfer, installation, or shipment is for the purpose of sale, trade, loan, lease, or some other type of transaction.

(10) "Domestic mechanical refrigerator" means any refrigerator for household use which operates either by compression or absorption and which has a net capacity of 16 cubic feet or less (National Electric Manufacturing Association rating), but does not include any low temperature mechanical refrigerator designed for the storage of frozen foods or for the quick freezing of food where the low temperature compartment customarily operates at a temperature of not higher than 15 degrees above zero Fahrenheit and contains 75% or more of the total refrigerating space in the refrigerator.

(11) "Domestic ice refrigerator" means any non-mechanical ice chest or ice box for home use.

(12) "Farm milk cooler" means any immersion (drop-in) type or surface (tubular) type milk cooler for use on a farm, and includes any system or parts which have been installed in any such cooler, or acquired pursuant to an "authorized order" (as defined in paragraph (a) (4)) by a manufacturer of farm milk coolers for installation in such coolers. The term shall not include any (refrigerating) system or parts (except the cabinets and insulated enclosures of farm milk coolers) prior to actual acquisition thereof by such a manufacturer.

(13) "Industrial type extended surface heating equipment" means any apparatus employing a heat transfer element and designed primarily to increase the temperature of gaseous matter in connection with the operation of any refrigerating or air conditioning system.

(14) "Industrial type humidifying equipment" means any apparatus designed primarily to add water vapor to gaseous matter, in connection with the operation of any industrial or commercial refrigerating or air conditioning system, or for any purpose other than the health or comfort of persons.

(15) "Comfort cooling system" means any system described as such on List F (made a part of this order) as amended from time to time.

(16) "Owned," when applied to any materials means such materials as were in the possession or control of the designated person, or in transit to him on the date indicated.

(17) "Any person acquiring the same for use" shall include any person who purchases or otherwise acquires any systems, parts, or other equipment, except a dealer or producer acquiring systems, parts, or other equipment for resale, and reselling the same.

(b) Restrictions on deliveries—(1) Parts for repair service. (i) No dealer or producer shall deliver any new or used parts to the owner, lessee, or user of any used system, and no person shall accept delivery of any such parts, unless such parts are delivered either (a) for use in "emergency repair service" and to fill a purchase order bearing a preference rating of AA-4 or higher, or (b) to fill an "authorized order," or (c) for direct use by the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission, or War Shipping Administration, including orders for any Army or Marine Corps Post Exchange or any Navy Ships Service Department; and the parts replaced shall be disposed of in accordance with paragraph (e) of this order, if made of metal; and

(ii) No dealer or producer shall deliver any new or used parts to the owner, lessee, or user of a "comfort cooling system" for the repair of such system, except pursuant to an "authorized order," or pursuant to a purchase order bearing a preference rating of AA-4 or higher where all the parts necessary for the "emergency repair service" for such system do not have an aggregate sales value in excess of the following: (a) $25 where the aggregate installed capacity is not over 20 h. p. or tons of refrigeration (ASRE specifications), (b) $50 where such capacity is over 20 h. p. or tons but not over 100 h. p. or tons, or (c) $100 where such capacity is over 100 h. p. or tons. (If the parts required are to be obtained under several purchase orders placed either with the same supplier, or with different suppliers, so that the value of the parts furnished under each or any of such orders is less than the amounts specified above, such division shall not avoid the restriction of this subdivision (ii)). No such order for parts (having a value in excess of the applicable amount specified above) will be authorized unless it is demonstrated to the satisfaction of the War Production Board that the continued operation of such "comfort cooling system" is essential to avoid air conditions which would be intolerable or dangerous to health, and that such conditions cannot be avoided by the use of that portion of the system designed for the circulation of air, electric fans, or other power driven equipment possessed by the owner, lessee, or user of the system and/or by opening of windows or doors. No person shall accept delivery of any parts for the repair of a "comfort cooling system," except in accordance with the provisions of this subparagraph (1).

(2) Other equipment—(i) List A items. Any dealer, producer, or other person may deliver (unrestricted by this order) and any person may accept delivery of, any new or used item of equipment of any kind or type included on List A (made a part of this order as amended from time to time), or any new or used parts acquired by such dealer, producer, or other person prior to May 15, 1942 for use in any such equipment owned by him on May 15, 1942, except a new refrigeration condensing unit rated at more than ½ h. p. and designed for remote installation.

(ii) List B, Part I, items. No dealer or producer shall deliver any new item of equipment of any kinds included on List B, Part I, (made a part of this order as amended from time to time) to any person acquiring the same for use, except pursuant to an "authorized order" to any agency or other person designated on said list; and no person shall accept delivery of any such item of equipment, except such an agency or other person receiving delivery pursuant to an "authorized order."

(iii) List B, Part II, items. No dealer or producer shall deliver any new item of equipment of any kinds included on List B, Part II (made a part of this order as amended from time to time) to any person acquiring the same for use, except pursuant to an agency designated on said list; and no person shall accept delivery of any such item of equipment except such an agency.

(iv) Items for farm milk coolers. No dealer or producer shall deliver any new (refrigerating) systems for use in farm milk coolers or parts for such systems other than the cabinets or insulated enclosures, to a manufacturer of such coolers or any other person, except pursuant to an "authorized order." The subsequent delivery of any such systems or parts acquired pursuant to an "authorized order" by such a manufacturer, or owned by him on April 6, 1943, or of any farm milk coolers in which any such systems or parts have been installed, shall not be restricted by the terms of this order.

(v) Items exclusive of List A and List B items and farm milk coolers. No dealer or producer shall deliver any new system of any kind or type, not referred to under the preceding subdivisions (i), (ii), (iii), or (iv), to any person acquiring the same for use, except pursuant to an "authorized order," or for direct use by the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission, or War Shipping Administration.

(vi) Parts not for emergency repair service. No dealer or producer shall deliver any new parts of any kind or size, or any used high side, compressor, turbo blower, condenser, low side, or evaporator, designed for use with a system rated at three horse power or more or having a rated capacity of three tons or more (American Society of Refrigerating Engineers' Specifications) to any person acquiring the same for use other than for emergency repair service, except pursuant to an "authorized order," or for direct use by the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission, or War Shipping Administration.

(vii) Heating or humidifying equipment. No dealer or producer shall deliver any new "industrial type extended surface heating equipment" or any "industrial type humidifying equipment" to any person acquiring the same for use, except pursuant to an "authorized order" or for direct use by the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission, or War Shipping Administration.

(viii) List C. No purchase order for any equipment referred to under subdivisions (v), (vi), or (vii) above will be authorized if such equipment is not to be used for a purpose described on List C (made a part of this order) as amended from time to time.

(ix) Report of orders placed under (iii), (v), (vi), and (vii) for Army, etc. On or before the 10th day of April, 1943, and the 10th day of each succeeding calendar month, each producer shall file with the War Production Board a letter, in triplicate, showing all orders accepted by him during the preceding calendar month for any new system referred to under subdivision (iii) above, or any new equipment referred to under subdivision (v) above, or any new major part (high side, compressor, turbo blower, condenser, insulated enclosure, low side, or evaporator, of any size) referred to under subdivision (vi) above, or any new equipment referred to under subdivision (vii) above, and delivered, or to be delivered, to or for the account of (and for direct use by) the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission, or War Shipping Administration. Such letter shall also state the name of the purchasing agency, the name and address of the purchasing officer, the date of acceptance of such order, the required delivery date, and a brief description of the quantity, type, and size of the equipment ordered and the purchaser's order number. Copies of such purchase orders may be filed with such letter to furnish such detailed information, in lieu of incorporating the same therein. (This reporting requirement approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with Federal Reports Act of 1942).

(x) As used in this paragraph (b) (2), the words "Army" and "Navy", shall not include any Army or Marine Corps Post Exchange or any Navy Ships Service Department.

(c) Method of securing authorization for an "authorized order." (1) (i) Application for the authorization required to make any purchase order an "authorized order" shall be made to the War Production Board by the person seeking to place such order, on Form PD-830 if the system or parts to be purchased are required for use in any cold storage warehouse, industrial or commercial ice plant, frozen food locker plant, food processing plant (except a dairy or ice cream plant requiring equipment having a capacity of five (5) horsepower or five (5) tons (ASRE specifications) or less), industrial processing of products other than food, refrigerated railroad car, truck, or ship, or any air conditioning installation of any size; and on Form PD-831, if for any other purpose.

(ii) The filing of such application shall relieve the applicant from the necessity of filing the application form required to obtain authorization for the placing or acceptance of a purchase order for any component part subject to Orders L-100, L-163, or L-172, to be included in the system covered by said application, and the inclusion of such component part in the production or delivery schedule of the manufacturer thereof.

(iii) If the system, parts, or other equipment required are for use in construction work subject to the terms of Conservation Order L-41, as amended from time to time, the application on Form PD-830 or PD-831 shall include only such materials as are necessary for installation of the system, parts, or other equipment covered thereby.

(2) The War Production Board may authorize any such order on Form PD-830 or PD-831 upon such conditions, if any, as it shall specify (except as to dates of production and delivery), and may assign a preference rating thereto or rerate any such order. Such authorization will be issued to the applicant upon one of said forms, and will be accompanied by separate authorizations for each of the component parts included therein if required under Orders L–100, L–163, and L–172 of the War Production Board for the purposes specified, which shall be transmitted by the purchaser to his supplier, and by the latter to his suppliers of component parts when necessary for delivery of such component parts.

Nothing in this order, however, shall relieve any manufacturer from filing any periodical reports of production or delivery schedules or other operations, or from complying with any requirement or direction which may be issued by the War Production Board, as to scheduling or rescheduling of production or deliveries of any such component parts, as required by any other order of the War Production Board including Orders L–100, L–163, and L–172, or any specific directions from the War Production Board.

(3) Deliveries of any component parts covered by any such accompanying authorizations shall be made in accordance with the terms of such authorizations and the War Production Board orders pursuant to which they are respectively issued.

(d) Restrictions on production—(1) Types and uses prohibited altogether—(i) List D items. No producer shall manufacture any new system or equipment of any kind named or described on List D (made a part of this order) as amended from time to time, for delivery to any person or for any purpose.

(ii) List E items. No producer shall manufacture any new system or equipment of any kind named or described on List E (made a part of this order) as amended from time to time, except for direct use by an agency or person designated on said List and for a purpose (if any) designated thereon.

(iii) Reach-in refrigerators and walk-in coolers. No producer of reach-in refrigerators or prefabricated sectional walk-in coolers shall manufacture any such refrigerators or coolers for any purpose other than for direct use by the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission or War Shipping Administration, unless manufactured entirely from parts or materials owned by such producer on April 6, 1943; except, however, that any such producer may acquire from another such producer any such parts or materials owned by the latter on such date, and may use such acquired parts or materials in such manufacture. As used in this subdivision (iii), the words "Army" and "Navy" shall not include any Army or Marine Corps Post Exchange or any Navy Ships Service Departments.

(2) Production for permitted types or uses. (i) No producer shall commence the manufacture of any compressor or turbo blower for use in any high (compression) side rated at fifty (50) horse power or fifty (50) tons (ASRE specifications) or over, unless and until such producer shall have received an "authorized order" for which compressor, turbo blower or high side or for a system in which the same is to be used or an order for such a compressor, turbo blower, or high side to be used directly by the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission, or War Shipping Administration, which has been reported by such manufacturer in accordance with paragraph (b) (2) (ix) above; and

(ii) No producer shall manufacture a greater quantity of any type of system or parts for assembly into new systems (exclusive of compressors and blowers of the sizes described under (d) (2) (i) above, and exclusive also of replacement parts described under (3) below), production of which is permitted under the terms of this order, than the following:

During the calendar quarter beginning April 1, 1943, or during any succeeding calendar quarter, no producer shall manufacture a quantity of any system or part in excess of the greater of the two quantities of such system or part determined as indicated in (a) and (b) below:

(a) The number of such new item for which the producer has on hand unfilled orders bearing a rating of AA–4 or higher; or

(b) The number of such new item delivered on order bearing a rating of A–1–J or higher during the next preceding calendar quarter.

(3) Replacement parts; protection of production schedules. (i) No producer shall manufacture replacement parts (for the repair or maintenance of systems) in such quantities that his production thereof will result in his acquiring an inventory of such parts in excess of his average monthly inventory of similar parts during the months of January, February, and March, 1941.

(ii) Producers of replacement parts under the terms of this order may, notwithstanding the provisions of the Priorities Regulation No. 1 (Part 944), schedule their production of replacement parts as if the orders therefor bore a rating of AA–1, but subject to any specific directions which may be issued by the War Production Board as to the scheduling of production or deliveries of any such parts as required by any other order of the War Production Board, or by any specific direction from the War Production Board.

(4) Restrictions on deliveries to producers. No person engaged in the production or sale of component parts or sub-assemblies designed for incorporation in any larger assembly or system shall knowingly deliver any such parts or sub-assemblies to any producer for further fabrication or assembly into larger assemblies or systems if such fabrication or assembly by such producer is prohibited by the terms of this order; and no producer shall accept delivery of any such parts ordered for a use which has been prohibited by the terms of this order unless such parts or sub-assemblies are to be used for a purpose which is not prohibited.

(e) Required utilization of replaced parts. (1) In replacing any parts permitted under paragraph (b) (1) of this order, no dealer or producer shall deliver any part made of metal to the owner of the system to be repaired, unless such owner agrees that he will deliver the old part to the dealer or producer if directed to do so by the latter, and if not so directed, that he will dispose of the old part to a scrap dealer, within 30 days after installation of the newly installed part. Any person making such an agreement with a dealer or producer shall deliver or dispose of the old part accordingly; and all such old parts obtained by a dealer or producer during any calendar quarter shall either be repaired or replaced in his inventory, or returned to his supplier of new parts, or disposed of to a scrap dealer, during or within 30 days after the end of such quarter. Provided, however, That no block tin pipe shall be replaced unless an equal quantity thereof is returned to the fabricator; but

(2) The provisions of the preceding subparagraph (1) shall not apply:

(i) Where parts are delivered for installation in any system located outside of the United States at the time of such delivery; or

Such symbol shall constitute an "allotment number or symbol" for the purpose of CMP Regulation No. 3.

(c) Controlled materials. (1) Subject to the restrictions of this order, any operator requiring delivery after April 5, 1943, of any controlled material, except aluminum, for a use authorized by paragraph (d) hereof, may obtain such controlled material (to the extent authorized pursuant to application made upon Form PD–844 in accordance with paragraph (g) (3) hereof) by placing on his delivery order substantially the following certification, signed manually or as provided in Priorities Regulation No. 7:

CMP allotment symbol MRO—P–142. No. ---- (Show serial No.). The undersigned certifies, subject to the criminal penalties for misrepresentation contained in section 35 (A) of the United States Criminal Code, that the controlled material covered by this order is required for an essential use authorized by paragraph (d) of Preference Rating Order P–142, and that delivery thereof has been duly authorized on the applicable Form PD–844 returned to the undersigned

However, in lieu of the above certification, the certification specified in CMP Regulation No. 7 may be used. Provided, That the designation P–142 and appropriate serial number is included therein.

(2) An order for controlled material for a use authorized by paragraph (d) hereof, and bearing the CMP allotment symbol MRO–P–142, No. — and the certification required in this paragraph (c), shall constitute an authorized controlled material order under all applicable CMP regulations.

(2) No operator shall make withdrawals of any material from inventory for construction except to the extent specifically permitted by Conservation Order L–41, as amended from time to time; Provided, That any new materials (in excess of $500 for any one project) so used from inventory shall be replaced only pursuant to the provisions of an approved order in the P–19 series.

(e) Conservation of materials. (1) Every operator shall, whenever possible, use conservation measures such as substitution, redesign and respecification to eliminate scarce materials normally used; and shall plan his operation, maintenance and repair schedules in accordance with the relative urgency and national need for transportation, subject to the provisions of this order. The War Production Board may from time to time issue supplementary orders or schedules requiring the elimination or diminution of the use of any material with or without the substitution of other materials, and may specify the use to which specific types of materials can be put.

(f) Inventory control. Notwithstanding any provision of this order, and unless otherwise specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board, no operator shall accept delivery of any item of material (except fuel) if his storehouse inventory of such item is, or will by virtue of such acceptance become, greater than the quantity of such item he will be required by his current practices to put into a use authorized by this order during the succeeding 60-day period. Nothing in this paragraph (f) shall be deemed to prevent any operator from maintaining minimum stocks of material for emergency use, nor from acquiring reasonable stocks of ties and lumber for seasoning. Shipment of material from the storehouse in advance of its actual need shall be deemed contrary to the intent of this paragraph.

(g) Procedure—(1) No operator shall be entitled to any assistance under the provisions of this order (except as provided under paragraph (m) hereof), until he has been assigned an authorized serial number, which may be obtained upon application by letter to the War Production Board, stating that the applicant will be unable to obtain all of his controlled material requirements at retail or under the provisions of CMP Regulation No. 4. In addition, any person who can obtain all such requirements at retail or under that regulation may elect to apply as above for an authorized serial number. When such serial number is assigned to him, he shall be deemed an operator under all the provisions of this Order P–142.

(2) An operator, in order to secure authorization or exemption under paragraphs (b) (1) (i), (c) (3), (d) (1) (v), (f) or (h) (2) hereof, must communicate with the War Production Board, describing the nature of the emergency or the reason why specific authorization is necessary, and the amount and type of material involved. The War Production Board will thereupon notify such operator in writing whether, and to what extent, his application is approved.

(3) An operator, in order to secure authorization for delivery of material under paragraphs (b) (1) (ii) and (c) (1) hereof, must forward to the War Production Board, 60 days prior to the beginning of each calendar quarter, an application on Form PD–844 filled out in accordance with instructions thereon, and in accordance with any supplemental instructions covering all or any one or more operators, or specific classes of operators, under the provisions of this Order P–142. A supplemental application on Form PD–844 may be filed as the need arises. The War Production Board will in each case return such Form, notifying the operator whether, and to what extent, his application is approved.

(h) Resale of materials. (1) An operator may resell material (whether or not obtained with the assistance of this order):

(i) To any other operator,

(ii) To another person when such material is to be physically incorporated in repairs of equipment that is used in the maintenance, repair, or operations of the operator's own property: Provided, That such material could have been used by the operator itself in making its own repairs without violation of any of the provisions of this order.

(iii) To the operator's own transportation system subsidiaries, or for the maintenance of track or equipment not owned but customarily maintained by the operator or its subsidiaries, or

and any such sale shall be expressly permitted within the provisions of paragraph (c) (3) of Priorities Regulation No. 11: Provided, That nothing in this paragraph (h) (1) shall be deemed to authorize receipt or use of any material by any person in violation of any inventory or use restriction imposed by this order or any other order or regulation of the War Production Board, and no operator shall make any sale of material authorized above if he knows or has reason to believe that receipt or use thereof by the buyer will be in violation of any such restriction.

(2) In addition, an operator may resell such material when specifically authorized in writing by the War Production Board.

(i) Appeal. Any appeal from the provisions of this order shall be made by filing a letter in triplicate, referring to the particular provision appealed from and stating fully the grounds of the appeal.

(j) Records, audits and reports. Each operator shall keep and preserve for a period of not less than two years accurate and complete records of all transactions affected by this order and shall submit from time to time to audit and inspection by duly authorized representatives of the War Production Board. Each operator shall execute and file with the War Production Board or other designated agency such reports and questionnaires as the War Production Board shall from time to time require, subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget pursuant to the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

(k) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order, or who, in connection with this order, wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, material under priority control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(l) Applicability of regulations. (1) This order and all transactions affected hereby, except as herein otherwise provided, are subject to all applicable regulations of the War Production Board, as amended from time to time.

(2) None of the provisions of CMP Regulations No. 5 or No. 5A shall apply to operators as defined in paragraph (a) (3) of this order, and no such operator shall obtain any material under the provisions of either of those regulations; except that operators of common carrier passenger motor bus systems may obtain material for delivery in the second quarter of 1943 under the provisions of CMP Regulation No. 5.

(m) Applicability of Order P–88. This order shall supersede Preference Rating Order P–88 as of April 5, 1943, and all ratings assigned or issued thereunder are revoked as of that date; except that ratings assigned on Form PD–351 (or supplements thereto) for the second quarter of 1943, and authorizations for deliveries of material in the quantities, and on the terms and conditions specified on said Form PD–351 (or supplements thereto) for that quarter, shall be valid just as if they were ratings and authorizations specified on Form PD–844, pursuant to the provisions of this Order P–142. Until an operator has received his authorized serial number pursuant to paragraph (g) (1) of this order, he may use on any certification required herein, "CMP allotment symbol MRO–P–88, Serial No. ------", (inserting his P–88 serial number), and, to that extent, any reference in this order to P–142 and serial number shall be deemed to include reference to P–88 and serial number. Likewise, to the extent that an operator continues to receive ratings and authorizations on Form PD–351 for the second quarter of 1943, any reference herein or on any such certification to PD–844 shall be deemed to include reference to PD–351.

(n) Communications. All communications concerning this order, unless otherwise directed, shall be addressed to: War Production Board, Transportation Equipment Division, Washington, D. C.; Ref.: P–142.

Issued this 14th day of April 1943.

PART 3228—CASEIN

[General Preference Order M–307]

The fulfillment of requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply of casein for defense, for private account and for export; and the following order is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense:

§ 3228.1 General Preference Order M–307—(a) Definitions. (1) "Casein" means the protein components of skimmed milk which have been precipitated by the action of rennet, acid or sweet or sour whey and which have been washed, dried and ground. Precipitated components which have been washed and or dried, but not ground, are not "casein" within the terms hereof, but "casein" does include "casein" as above defined where blended with other precipitated components, whether or not such other components are washed, dried or ground.

(2) "Producer" means any person who produces or imports casein and includes any person who produces casein for use in the manufacture by him of other products.

(3) "Distributor" means any person who purchases casein for the purpose of resale.

(4) "Supplier" means a producer or a distributor.

(b) Restrictions on production. War Production Board may at any time issue authorizations or directions to a producer respecting the grades or types of casein which he may produce.

(c) Restrictions on deliveries and use. (1) On and after May 1, 1943, no person shall deliver, accept delivery of, or use casein, except as specifically authorized or directed by War Production Board.

(2) Authorizations or directions with respect to deliveries or use in the two month period May 1, to June 30, 1943, and in each calendar quarter commencing with the third quarter of 1943, will so far as practicable be issued by War Production Board prior to the commencement of such period or quarter, but War Production Board may at any time in its discretion issue directions with respect to deliveries to be made or accepted, or with respect to use or uses which may or may not be made of casein to be delivered or then on hand. Such authorizations or directions may be made by War Production Board without regard to preference ratings applicable to particular orders.

(3) Each person specifically authorized to accept delivery of or use casein shall use such material for the purpose authorized, and only for such purpose, except as otherwise specifically directed by the War Production Board. Casein allocated for inventory shall not be used except as specifically directed by War Production Board.

(4) Casein allocated to fill a specified order or class of orders shall, where and to the extent that such order or class of orders is not for any reason filled, revert to inventory as though allocated therefor.

(d) Exceptions to requirement for specific authorization. (1) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (c) (1) hereof, specific authorization of War Production Board shall not be required for:

(i) The delivery of casein by any supplier to any person in the period May 1 to June 30, 1943, or in any calendar quarter commencing with the third quarter of 1943, of not more than 1,000 lbs. of casein for each month of such period or quarter.

(ii) Acceptance of delivery by any person from any supplier in the period May 1 to June 30, 1943, or in any calendar quarter commencing with the third quarter of 1943, of not more than 1,000 lbs. of casein for each month of such period or quarter.

(iii) The use by any person in the period May 1 to June 30, 1943, or in any calendar quarter commencing with the third quarter of 1943, of not more than 1,000 lbs. of casein for each month of such period or quarter.

(2) No producer shall in any such period or calendar quarter deliver pursuant to paragraph (d) (1) an aggregate amount of casein in excess of 3% of the amount of casein which he is specifically authorized to deliver during such period or quarter.

(3) No supplier shall make any delivery during any such period or calendar quarter pursuant to paragraph (d) (1) if such delivery will prevent the completion of any delivery which has been specifically authorized for such period or quarter.

(e) Applications and reports. (1) Each person requiring authorization to accept delivery of casein in any calendar quarter commencing with the third quarter of 1943, whether for his own consumption or for resale (and every person requiring authorization to use casein in such quarter) shall file application therefor on or before the 15th day of the month preceding the commencement of such quarter. Applications respecting acceptance of delivery or use in the period May 1 to June 30, 1943 shall be filed as many days as possible in advance of May 1, 1943. In any case, applications shall be made on Form PD–600 in the manner prescribed therein, subject to the following special instructions:

(i) Copies of Form PD–600 may be obtained at local field offices of the War Production Board.

(ii) Five copies shall be prepared, of which three shall be forwarded to War Production Board, Chemicals Division, Washington, D. C., Ref: M–307, one forwarded to the supplier with whom applicant's order is placed, and the fifth retained for applicant's file. At least one of the copies filed with War Production Board shall be signed by applicant by a duly authorized official. Where the application is solely for authorization to use, no copy shall be sent to the supplier.

(iii) In the heading, under "Name of chemical", specify "Casein"; under "WPB Order No.", specify "M–307"; under "Indicate unit of measure", specify "pounds".

(iv) In heading at top of Table I and Table III, specify "Period May 1 to June 30, 1943" or "_____ quarter of 194__" (inserting "third", "fourth", etc.).

(v) In Columns 1, 11 and 19, specify grade, for example, "rennet", "acid".

(vi) In Columns 3, 20 and 22 (Primary Product), applicant will specify, in terms of the following, the product or products in the manufacture or preparation of which he will use casein:

Adhesives	Rubber
Coated paper (except wallpaper)	Wallpaper
Gypsum	Other products (specify)
Insecticides	Resale (as casein)
Leather finishes	Inventory (as casein)
Paint
Plastics

(vii) In Column 4 (Product End Use), applicant will specify with respect to each primary product the ultimate use to which such primary product will be put. For example, if the "primary product" called for in Column 3 is "adhesives", the ultimate use might be "furniture plywood". Applicant will also specify in each case whether his customer is Army, Navy, other government agency, Lend-Lease, or commercial customer. If application is for casein for resale or for inventory, leave Column 4 blank.

(viii) In Tables II and IV, applicant will substitute "quarter" for "month", wherever "month" appears, except that in any application relating to acceptance of delivery or use in period May 1 to June 30, 1943, applicant will leave blank Columns 15a, 15b, 15c and 16, and in Columns 13, 14 and 15 will give figures for first quarter of 1943.

(2) Each supplier seeking authorization to make delivery of casein in any calendar quarter commencing with the third quarter of 1943, shall file application therefor on or before the 20th day of the month preceding the commencement of such quarter. Applications respecting delivery in the period May 1 to June 30, 1943 shall be filed as many days as possible in advance of May 1, 1943. In any case, applications shall be made on Form PD–601 in the manner prescribed therein, subject to the following special instructions:

(i) Copies of Form PD–601 may be obtained at local field offices of the War Production Board.

(ii) Four copies shall be prepared, of which three shall be forwarded to War Production Board, Chemicals Division, Washington, D. C., Ref: M–307, the fourth to be retained by the supplier.

(iii) Each producer who has filed application on Form PD–600 specifying himself as his supplier, shall list his own name as customer on Form PD–601 and shall list his request for allocation in the manner prescribed for other customers.

(iv) In the heading under "Name of chemical", specify "Casein"; under "WPB Order No.", specify "M–307"; under "This schedule is for deliveries to be made during the month of _____", specify "Period May 1 to June 30, 1943", or "_____ quarter of 194__" (indicating "third", "fourth", etc.); under "Indicate unit of measure", specify "pounds".

(v) In Column 1, list customers and if it is necessary to use more than one sheet, number each sheet in order and show grand totals for all sheets on the last sheet, which is the only one that need be certified. Supplier need not, however, specify names of customers to whom small order deliveries are to be made during the period or quarter pursuant to paragraph (d) (1), but he will insert in Column 1 "Total small order deliveries (estimated)", and in Column 4 will state the estimated quantity.

(vi) In Columns 3 and 8, supplier will specify grades, for example, "rennet", "acid".

(vii) The supplier may, if he wishes, leave Column 5 blank.

(viii) In Table II, supplier will substitute "quarter" for "month" wherever word "month" appears, except that in any application relating to deliveries in the period May 1 to June 30, 1943, the word "month" in Columns 11, 12 and 13 shall be left unchanged and that in Column 14, supplier will list estimated production for period May 1 to June 30, 1943.

(3) War Production Board may require each person affected by this order to file such other reports as may be prescribed, subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget pursuant to the Federal Reports Act of 1942, and may issue special directions to any such person with respect to preparing and filing Forms PD–600 and PD–601.

(f) Miscellaneous provisions—(1) Applicability of regulations. This order and all transactions affected thereby are subject to all applicable regulations of the War Production Board, as amended from time to time, except Priorities Regulation No. 13, which shall be subject to this order to the extent that it is inconsistent therewith.

(2) Notification of customers. Each supplier shall, as soon as practicable, notify each of his regular customers of the requirements of this order, but failure to give notice shall not excuse any such person from complying with the terms hereof.

(3) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order, or who, in connection with this order wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using material under priority control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

(4) Communications to War Production Board. All reports required to be filed hereunder, and all communications concerning this order, shall, unless otherwise directed, be addressed to: War Production Board, Chemicals Division, Washington, D. C. Ref: M–307.

Issued this 14th day of April 1943.

[MPR 131,[1] Amendment 2]

CAMELBACK

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.*

Maximum Price Regulation 131 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1315.1303 is amended to read as follows:

§ 1315.1303 Adjustable pricing. No person subject to this regulation shall enter into any agreement permitting the adjustment of the prices of camelback to prices which may be higher than the maximum prices, except in the following cases. Any person may offer or agree to adjust or fix prices to or at prices not in excess of the maximum prices in effect at the time of delivery. Any person may offer or agree to sell or buy camelback at prices in excess of the maximum prices in effect at the time the offer is made, in order to reflect the increase in the price of crude rubber occurring after March 31, 1943: Provided, That no person shall pay or receive prices for camelback which are in excess of the maximum prices in effect at the time of delivery. In an appropriate situation, where a petition for amendment requires extended consideration, the Price Administrator may, upon application, grant permission to agree to adjust prices upon deliveries made during the pendency of the petition in accordance with the disposition of the petition.

PART 1389—APPAREL

[MPR 208,[1] Amendment 3]

STAPLE WORK CLOTHING

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.*

Maximum Price Regulation 208 is amended in the following respects:

1. A sentence is added at the end of § 1389.202, to read as follows:

However, sales of "war models" of staple work clothing are governed by Appendices D to K, inclusive.

2. That portion of § 1389.203 preceding paragraph (a)[2] is amended to read as follows:

§ 1389.203 Maximum prices of sellers other than at retail. Except as otherwise provided in this Maximum Price Regulation 208, the maximum price of a seller other than at retail for staple work clothing shall be the base price, determined under paragraph (a), (b) or (c), less the deduction indicated in paragraph (c), or the maximum price determined under paragraph (f). However, sales of "war models" of staple work clothing are governed by Appendices D to K, inclusive.

3. Section 1389.203 (c) (3) is added to read as follows:

(3) Any seller whose "last issued written price list", in accordance with paragraph (a), was issued and circulated prior to January 1, 1942, shall omit the entire deduction.

4. Paragraphs (a) and (b) of § 1389.207 are amended to read as follows:

(a) General Maximum Price Regulation. This regulation supersedes the provisions of the General Maximum Price Regulation with respect to sales of staple work clothing otherwise than at retail. models" of staple work clothing. Retail sales of other staple work clothing continue to be governed by the General Maximum Price Regulation, as modified by Appendix C of this regulation.

(b) Sales to war procurement agencies. This regulation does not apply to sales of clothing made to military specifications, when such sales are made directly or indirectly to war procurement agencies. These sales are defined in § 1378.1 (a) of Maximum Price Regulation 157 [3]—Sales and Fabrication of Textiles, Apparel and Related Articles for Military Purposes, and are governed by the provisions of that regulation.

5. Section 1389.210 (b) (2) is revoked.

6. A sentence is added at the end of § 1389.210 (e) to read as follows:

This paragraph does not apply to "war models" of staple work clothing.

7. Section 1389.214 is amended to read as follows:

(b) Adjustable pricing pending amendments. Any person may offer or agree to adjust or fix prices to or at prices not in excess of the maximum prices in effect at the time of delivery. In an appropriate situation, where a petition for amendment requires extended consideration, the Price Administrator may, upon application, grant permission to agree to adjust prices upon deliveries made during the pendency of the petition in accordance with the disposition of the petition.

8. Section 1389.217 (a) (4) is amended to read as follows:

(4) Work shirts (except shirts made of napped fabrics).

9. Section 1389.218 (a) (1) (v) is amended to read as follows:

(v) Elimination of fasteners in excess of one button on each side opening, two bib suspender buttons, one button or snap fastener on bib, two buttons on fly through size 38 and three buttons on fly on size 40 and up.

10. Subpart A—War models—comprising Appendices D to K, inclusive, is added to read as follows:

SUBPART A—WAR MODELS

§ 1389.220 Appendix D: War models of staple work clothing; definitions—(a) What is a war model. A "war model" of staple work clothing is any garment which the manufacturer voluntarily designates as such by identifying or labeling it as required by Appendix I, and which conforms to the specifications for a first or second quality war model in Appendix K. Ceiling prices for the sale of war models are set forth in Appendices E, F and G.

(b) Kinds of sales. This section covers sales at retail, sales at wholesale and sales at source.

(1) Sales at retail. A sale at retail is a sale to an ultimate consumer other than an industrial or commercial user.

(2) Sales at wholesale. A sale at wholesale is a sale, otherwise than at retail, of a garment which the seller received in substantially the form in which he resells it.

(3) Sales at source. A sale at source is a sale, otherwise than at retail, of a garment which the seller has fabricated or which has been fabricated for him by an agent or by a contractor as defined in § 1389.52 of Maximum Price Regulation 172.[5]

(4) East and Central. "East and Central" refer to sales in which the seller's place of business is in a state east of New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

(5) Mountain and Pacific. "Mountain and Pacific" refer to sales in which the seller's place of business is in New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana, or farther west.

(c) Classes of purchasers. In order to fix the price levels at which different kinds of dealers in war models are permitted to buy and sell, this section divides dealers into two "classes" of purchasers.

(1) Class I purchaser. Any one who deals in work clothing is a "Class I purchaser" if he is described by any one of the following subdivisions:

(i) More than half his current sales of apparel are made otherwise than at retail. For example, a dealer who sells 60% to stores and factories, and 40% to individual users, is a "Class I purchaser".

(ii) In either 1941 or 1942, he made annual sales of staple work clothing totaling $250,000.00 or more. For example, a hardware company which sold $50,000.00 worth of work clothing in 1940, $150,000.00 in 1941 and $300,000.00 in 1942, is now a "Class I purchaser".

(iii) In either 1941 or 1942, he bought a majority of his supply of staple work clothing from manufacturers who regularly supplied wholesalers (whether or not they also supplied other classes of trade), and paid prices no higher than those manufacturers' prevailing prices to wholesalers. For example, a mail order house would be a "Class I purchaser" if in 1941 it bought 80% of its work clothing from a manufacturer who had regular wholesale and mail order customers, and charged mail order houses no more than the wholesalers. In comparing prices, allowance is to be made for differences in specifications.

(iv) In either 1941 or 1942, he purchased more than one fourth of the total production of staple work clothing of a single manufacturer or contractor. For example, a chain of stores might have purchased its work clothing from a manufacturer who did not regularly deal with wholesalers, so that subdivision (iii) would not apply. Yet, if the chain bought more than one fourth of the manufacturer's entire production, it would be a "Class I purchaser."

(2) Class II purchasers. Every person who deals in staple work clothing, and who is not a "Class I purchaser" as defined above, is a "Class II purchaser". This class includes most small, independent retailers. For example, a retailer with one store, who sold approximately $5,000.00 worth of staple work clothing in 1941 and 1942, and bought most of his supplies from jobbers, would be a "Class II purchaser".

(3) Meaning of purchaser. A "purchaser" includes all the departments or selling establishments in a group which is under common ownership and control. For example, if a large wholesaler owns and operates a small retail outlet, this outlet is a "Class I purchaser" together with the wholesale establishment.

§ 1389.221 Appendix E: Retail ceiling prices for war models—(a) What this section covers. This section gives the ceiling prices for "war models" of staple work clothing when sold at retail. A retailer should also pay particular attention to Appendix D (definitions), Appendix H (additions and deductions) and Appendix I (identification of war models).

(b) How to find your ceiling price. The ceiling prices stated in this section apply only if the garment you are selling is designated by the manufacturer as a "war model". If it is, you must find the weight and finish of the material which will be shown by the label or given to you by the manufacturer), and then find the line in the table at the end of this section which gives the ceiling price for a garment of that weight and finish.

Next, you must know what class of purchaser you belong to. This depends on the kind of business you operate and on how you bought your goods in 1941 and 1942. The rules are given in paragraph (c) of the preceding section. If you are a "Class I purchaser", your ceiling price is given in the first column of prices. If you are a "Class II purchaser", your ceiling price depends on whether you bought the garment at wholesale, or bought it at source. If you bought it "at source"—that is, from the company that made it—your ceiling price is in the second column of prices. If you bought it "at wholesale"—from a company that bought the garment to be made—your ceiling is in the third column. If you are retailing a garment which you yourself fabricated or had fabricated for you by an agent or contractor, your ceiling price is the price shown for sales by "Class I purchasers".

Although the manufacturer will supply you with a label containing the retail ceiling price, you must determine for yourself what price is correct in your case.

(c) Tables of ceiling prices. All prices given in the following tables are for a single garment at the seller's place of business, cash or credit.

(1) East and Central. The following tables apply to sales in "East and Central" states, which include the states of New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

(b) Mountain and Pacific. In order to determine the ceiling price for sale of a war model at source, where the seller's place of business is in the Mountain and Pacific area, the seller must take the ceiling price for sale in the East and Central area, and add 50 cents per dozen for bib overalls and overall jackets, or 35 cents per dozen for waistband overalls or dungarees.

§ 1389.224 Appendix H: Addition to and deductions from ceiling prices of war models—(a) When taxes may be added to the ceiling price. When there is a tax on a particular sale, which may be a sales tax, an excise tax, a gross receipts or gross proceeds tax, or a compensating use tax, and may be federal, state or municipal, then the seller may charge or collect the amount of that tax in addition to the ceiling price. But he may do so only if he states the tax separately, and is permitted by the tax statute or ordinance to state it separately. A seller must never charge or collect a tax paid on account of a prior sale or delivery.

(b) Deduction for seconds. The ceiling price of a war model "second" is found by taking the maximum price of a first quality war model, and deducting 10%.

§ 1389.225 Appendix I: Identification of war models.—(a) What labeling is required. Every "war model" of staple work clothing must be marked as required by this section. This marking must be made on one or more labels or tickets which are firmly and visibly attached to the garment, except in cases where the garment was put into process before May 6, 1943. In those cases, a seller at wholesale or at source may omit to attach the labels or tickets to the garments, on condition that he furnishes the proper labels or tickets to the buyer, notifies the buyer that the garments are "war models", and informs him of the fabric weight and finish of each model when he forwards the bill or invoice. A war model must never be sold at retail without the required label or ticket attached.

(b) What must be on the label. The labels or tickets must contain the following information:

(1) The weight of the principal fabric, in yards per pound, or in ounces per yard, by market designation, prorated to a width basis of 28 to 29 inches.

(2) The shrinkage treatment or lack of any, as follows:

(i) If the fabric is shrunk, the word "shrunk" or "pre-shrunk" or any other words of like effect. These terms must be accompanied by the qualifying statements required by the Trade Practice Rules for the Shrinkage of Woven Cotton Yard Goods (7 F.R. 1583), issued by the Federal Trade Commission.

(ii) If the fabric is unshrunk, the words "unshrunk" or "allow for shrinkage".

(3) The retail ceiling price which applies to the kind of retail sale at which the garment is to be resold. If a person selling at source does not know which retail ceiling price applies, he may request a written statement from the purchaser, and may rely on this statement unless he has reason to believe it is erroneous. Anyone who sells or offers to sell at retail must have the garment marked with the correct ceiling price for the particular transaction. The higher ceiling price for Mountain and Pacific sales may be indicated as an addition to the East and Central price (see example below).

(4) If the required information is not obscured, it may be contained in more than one label, and may be combined with other information. At the manufacturer's option, the garment may also be marked with the words "war model". Here are two examples of possible labels:

(On a bib overall to be nationally distributed through jobbers and independent retailers)
8 oz. sanforized
Residual Shrinkage Less Than 1%
Ceiling, $2.00
Plus 5¢ Denver West

War Model—2 20 yd. wt.
No. 907
Waist 34—Inseam 32
Allow for Shrinkage
Ceiling, $1.04

(c) Other markings.

(1) Source. Each war model of staple work clothing must be marked by the manufacturer with his name, or with the name of the wholesaler or retailer who distributes it, or with a trademark of the manufacturer or distributor which has been registered with the United States Patent Office, or with an identification number which will be assigned upon request by the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C.

(2) Quality. Any war model of work clothing which is not of first quality must be clearly marked with the word "second".

§ 1389.226 Appendix J: Disclosure. Every person who buys or offers to buy war models of staple work clothing for resale may be requested by the seller to furnish a signed statement showing the class of purchaser to which he belongs, and if a Class I purchaser, whether he expects to sell the garments purchased at wholesale or at retail. Within ten days after receiving such a request in writing, the buyer must supply the seller with this statement. If the seller has no reason to believe that the buyer's statements are erroneous, he may rely upon them in charging the buyer and in labeling the garments.

§ 1389.227 Appendix K: Specifications for war models—(a) Effect of specifications. This section gives minimum specifications for war models. Any seller may, of course, supply as a war model a garment which more than meets the specifications (for example, having stronger thread, or larger dimensions than are required). War models are either first quality, or "seconds".

(1) First quality. A first quality war model must not be defective when graded by the standards which the manufacturer followed in 1941, and must conform to the specifications in this section, except for the following tolerances:

(i) If a garment is patterned to conform to these specifications, a deviation of $\frac{1}{4}$ inch in the finished garment by reason of error in cutting or sewing will not disqualify it as a "first quality" war model.

(ii) A bib or waistband overall with a substandard front or back "rise" is sold a "first" if the total of its front and back rises is equal to the total of the rises shown in the table.

(2) Seconds. A garment is a war model "second" if it was designed to conform to specifications for a first quality war model, but deviates in excess of the tolerance, or is defective by the standards of grading followed by the manufacturer in 1941.

(b) Fabric standards—(1) Weight. Weight of cloth is expressed in yard per pound, by market designation, or in the corresponding number of ounces per yard, to the nearest quarter ounce. The width basis for denim is 28 to 29 inches. Any garment of heavier weight fabric may be sold at the maximum price fixed for a garment containing a lighter weight of the same fabric construction and finish. For example, an 8½-oz. sanforized overall meeting all other specifications could be sold at the price fixed for an 8-ounce shrunk overall.

2) Shrinkage. A fabric is called "shrunk" if it has been so treated that the residual shrinkage does not exceed 2 percent. This is to be measured by the test for shrinkage of cotton fabrics described in Commercial Standards CS 59-41, issued by the National Bureau of Standards. All other fabrics are called "unshrunk".

(c) Construction standards for all overalls. War models of bib overalls, waistband overalls and overall jackets must be constructed with the following minimum standards:

(1) Stitches. 8 stitches per inch on hems at bottoms of pant legs; 10 stitches per inch on all other hems and joinings. 42 stitches to a bar tack.

(2) Thread. On all joinings and hems, thread not finer than 40 3 cord in needle and 50 2 cord in looper. On bar tacks, not finer than 40 3 cord.

(3) Buttons. All buttons to be metal open top or closed top, attached with single or double prong tack.

(d) Specifications for particular garments (minimum requirements)—(1) Bib overalls—(i) Bar tacks or rivets. 13 if hip pockets are sewn into side seams. 15 in all other cases.

(ii) Buttons. 1 on each side opening, 2 on fly through size 38, 3 on fly for size 40 and over.

(iii) Banding. Denim on denim that may be lighter than body material.
